EUROPE'S SMALLEST ARMY, the Hungarian, also is the least modern in its equipment. As it played at war near Budapest it presented an antiquated appearance. Neither tanks nor airplanes were to be found. In the foreground you see a machine gun mounted on an ordinary peasant carriage. (Photograph from International.)

IN THE GIANT'S CABIN—Jacob Gould Schurman, American ambassador to Germany, paid a call on the Dornier airplane works at Altenrhein and inspected the DO-X, the new monster of the air. The view of him in the pilot's cabin gives an apt comparison of the size of man and machinery. (Photograph copyright by Pacific and Atlantic.)
