

BEJEWELLED TOWERS, GOLD AND SILVER, light Chicago's marvelous skyline when darkness steals over the city. Glistening here in this extraordinary color-photograph are the lighted peaks of the Carbide and Carbon building; of 333 North Michigan Avenue; the Pure Oil building; the Chicago Temple; the amber crown of Tribune Tower dominating the picture; and back of Tribune Tower, the glistening white Wrigley building.

(Color-photo by Godfrey Lundberg.)