56,000 THRONG TO LIVE STOCK SHOW IN DAY

Total Hits 256,000, Far Above Last Year.

Fifty-six thousand persons jammed the International amphitheater yesterday to bring to 256,000 the total attendance for the first five days of the International Live Stock exposiion. The day's attendance has been topped only once-on last year's clos ing day-and the present total is 0,000 above last year's for the period. The grand champion steer of 1941, Purdue university's Loyal Alumnus VI., goes on the auction block today. Some stockmen predicted that the great public interest in the show plus the high prices being paid for beef may produce a record amount paid for the steer.

Record Set in 1929. The highest price ever given for a grand champion was $8.25 a pound, paid in 1929 for Lucky Strike, a calf shown by a 4-H club boy.

Other breeders said that the fact that the 1941 champion is a university steer would keep the price down. Most buyers, they said, prefer to pay for animals raised by 4-H club boys and girls. Only once in the exposition's 42 year history has the grand champion steer escaped the butcher. That was the 1936 grand champion, G. Page, an Aberdeen-Angus. This steer still lives happily on the farm of Mrs. Charles R. Walgreen near Dixon. Mrs. Walgreen bought him to prevent his being killed after she noticed him in a parade of prize animals.

Bull Sold for $4,000.

Divide Grand Duke, a 12 month old Shorthorn bull, brought $4,000 yesterday in spirited bidding at the auction ring. The price topped last year's high by $2,500. The animal was raised by the Allen Cattle company, Colorado Springs, Colo., and placed second in the senior bull calf Shorthorn class. Its new owner is E. Arthur Ball, a member of the glass TESTIFY BROKER jar manufacturing family of Muncie, Ball also paid the highest price for a Shorthorn female, $1,500 for Winifred of Helfred III., exhibited by F. W. Hubbell of Des Moines, Ia. The 24 Shorthorn bulls sold brought an average of $667. the famous herd of Fred C. Deberard day.

$23,300, an average price of $728. In the polled Shorthorn auction, held earlier, the 26 sales brought an average of $317 for the 14 bulls and $364 for 12 females, with both the top bull and top female bringing $750. B. H. Heide, exposition manager said the prices being paid were the highest in 20 years, and that exhibitors might realize as much as $2,000,000 by Saturday, when the show ends, as compared with about

$1,000,000 last year. A young central Illinois farmer, William Woods of Bellflower, won the 1941 state 10 acre corn yield con-test with a new record of 174.3 bushels per acre. Woods, 33 year old operator of 340 acres of McLean county farmland, produced almost 18 bushels an acre more than the previous high

FAIL TO DISCOVER CAUSE OF B. & O. WRECK AT BRIDGE

Railroad officials said last night they were unable to discover a reason for the wreck Tuesday night of the Baltimore & Ohio's crack streamliner, Shenandoah, except for possible failure on the part of Engineer Jack O'Connor, 68 years old.

O'Connor was killed when the first section of the Diesel locomotive plunged thru an open drawbridge into the Indiana Harbor ship canal, but his efforts to halt the train saved the lives of scores of passengers. H. B. Voorhees, vice president of the line, said all signals apparently were working, and suggested O'Connor may have suffered a heart attack. An autopsy will be requested.

Crews worked all day yesterday with two railroad derricks and a river derrick in a vain attempt to lift the locomotive from the 20 feet of water. The combined power of the derricks was insufficient to budge the 160 ton steel monster, and steel cables and grappling hooks snapped as tho made of paper. The crews planned to resume their efforts early
