Inspector Gordo's Minute Mystery

THE CASE OF THE

Parked car

The sleek foreign convertible was like many others in the Midcity garage except for the dead man's brown shoes and socks protruding from the opened driver's door.

"He was S. Bill Clancy, New York's top expert on men's fashions," Police chief Stewards told Inspector Gordo. "I sent for you because something is odd about this case."

"Here's what we've got," continued the chief. "Clancy had a date for 6:30 p.m. with Michelle Richards, a model, two nights ago. When he didn't show up, she telephoned his roommate, Kurt Tagner. Tagner checked on Clancy's movements."

"Tagner turned up nothing and called us. After backchecking, we found Clancy's body. It looks like Clancy was about to take out his car for the date with Miss Richards when another car hit him and kept going. Clancy dragged himself to the telephone in his car, but died before he could use it."

Gordo bent over the body. He carefully studied the blood which had flowed from a corner of the dead man's mouth and dried upon his striped shirt and brown suitcoat lapel.

"Notice his watch," said Stewards. "It's smashed - the hands stopped at 6:15. The medical examiner says he died about 48 hours ago. That ties in - 48 hours ago Clancy was headed for his 6:30 p.m. date with Miss Richards."

"Quite wrong, chief," said Gordo. "The smashed watch is an inept attempt to misrepresent the time of death. Unquestionably Clancy died at least two hours earlier."

Gordo straightened and stepped from the body. "The clumsy cover-up indicates Clancy was murdered!"

How did Gordo know?

OBSERVATIONS BY THE PUBLISHER AND OTHERS

MOONLIGHT SUCCESS - Wow. It rained Thursday and Saturday here in the Thumb, but Friday night was warm and clear, perfect weather for a really excellent Moonlight Madness Sale Friday night in Pigeon.

Stores were crowded, bargains were plentiful and Pigeon Chamber of Commerce sponsors should be congratulated for organizing a really good event. The famous paper-plate toss was changed slightly, so kids had their own chance at grabbing the free "paper coupons."

The Pigeon Rotary Club's first attempt at a Pork Burger Dinner was quite successful, too. Nearly all 500 sandwiches were sold out before 7 p.m., and provisions are being made to add more sandwiches next year.

ADS CERTAINLY DO WORK - The Progress-Advance is proof again that advertising really works. We offered a $2.99 price to new subscribers during Moonlight Madness - and nearly 80 local families signed up. We welcome these smart shoppers to our pages - and our paid circulation is hovering just under 3000 right now! That's the most ever, in our 85-year history!

SOUND OFF IDEA - As you may have read in last week's SOUND-OFF, a reader had a good idea which we're adapting. We plan to publish a weekly recipe in our new feature "Someone's in the Kitchen" - and we're looking for your favorites right now!

We're asking people to provide us with a handwritten or typed (or photo-copied from a cookbook, if you wish) family favorite. Give exact measurements and mixing information, please. And - also important - give us no more than three recipes at a time, please.

We're looking for June recipes featuring dairy products (during National Dairy Month) and summertime favorites for the months after. Let us have 'em, please! People with chosen recipes will be called and their pictures will appear with their favorite foods!

"Someone's in the Kitchen" actually begins next week, but watch for the special, first-time featured recipe on the Pigeon Co-op "Out in the Field" section, pages six and seven this week. Send your favorites in today!

WATCHING AND LISTENING - American families are setting new records, according to USA TODAY. Our average TV sets are on six hours and 48 minutes a day, for the longest time ever, according to a new Nielsen report. That's four minutes longer than last year - and more than an hour longer than we watched on a typical mid-1960s day.

But that doesn't mean we're all watching network shows. More people are playing video games and watching cable TV (which had a viewership increase of 42% from 1981 to '82). A total of 89% of U.S. homes have a color TV set, and 55% own more than one TV. TV viewing is highest at night and during the winter months, peaking in February.

The biggest viewing night? Sundays, when an average of 100 million people are staring at the box. Monday is second and Friday is the lowest. Our most popular shows are feature movies, followed by suspense, mystery and dramatic programs.

SPEAKING OF LISTENING - Anybody who likes old, rock-and-roll music will especially enjoy Dick Bartley's "Sold Gold Saturday Night" program every Saturday night (obviously), live via satellite from Chicago. The program airs from 7 p.m. to midnight on WHNN FM-96 and it's really well done.

Proof again some of the older music was better than today's!

WISH I'D SAID THAT - Want to recapture your youth? Cut off his allowance!

Olympics deserve more U.S. support

Olympic games have long captured the fancy of sports lovers all over the world. There's hardly anything more thrilling for armchair sports men and women than seeing a good, clean, "all-American" team easily defeat a Russian or other "bad guy" group of athletes. It really starts the ole adrenalin flowing!

We've commented here on several occasions on the need -- or at least the desire -- to establish a formal Olympic headquarters site for the games. Perhaps such a location would best be arranged in Greece, where the first games were held hundreds of years ago.

Now, more people are taking up the Olympic flame, to be exact. Some sports boosters think our amateur athletic programs leading to the Olympics should be publicly financed by a "check-off" system on everyone's federal income tax form. The $1 would come from your tax refund, if you get one -- or you could donate $1 or more by including it in your payment check, if you owe taxes.

The U.S. Olympic Committee hopes to raise $25 million through the plan, to channel money into improving all levels of amateur athletics. Regional Olympic training centers could be built, so hopefuls could develop their needed world-class skills near their homes. After all, the USOC says, it costs about $3000 a year to train a top-level competitive swimmer, $10,000 to train a gymnast and $20,000 to train a figure skater.

Many other nations, of course, have government-subsidized training programs. The Soviet squads work together for years, developing basketball, hockey or other skills. U.S. amateur teams may more accurately reflect the true spirit of non-professional Olympic competition, but they're outmatched against the reality of paid professionals from other lands.

Only U.S. athletes have no government subsidies, of the 150 countries which compete in the world games. Since many don't have adequate amounts of money to spend in training, U.S. athletes may never reach their full potential.

A checkoff system makes good sense to us. At present, a majority of U.S. Representatives and at least 29 U.S. Senators approve the idea, but some wonder if this checkoff may lead to others. Those same elected leaders should easily be able to differentiate between something of national interest -- such as the Olympics -- and something of more localized or specialty interests. We don't need dozens of checkoffs, just a few important ones.

We first heard about Sugar Ray Leonard's boxing skills in an Olympic ring. Mark Spitz first became a swimming hero collecting seven gold medals. And what American wasn't excited when a young American hockey team defeated the veteran Russian squad for the Olympic gold medal in 1980?

We already can check off a $1 for presidential hopefuls every year. Americans should be allowed to give a buck to our Olympic athletes, too. We hope Congress sees this wisdom within the coming year, to make the 1988 games more fair to all participants, including our own U.S. amateurs.

Letters to My Cousin Gus

By GEORGE KEIM

RECOLLECTIONS

of by-gone days

Dear Editor:

On April 24, when we had to turn our clocks ahead one hour, I woke up and was still sleepy but I did get to church on time and heard a good sermon on Christian Stewardship.

After church I went to the Dutch Kettle and ate dinner with Hugh Leipprandt. We were joined by Otto Schulze and had real good chat. Otto told us some things he did before he came from Germany. Hugh told us some things that happened in the early 1900's. I told a few things about some of my experiences on several of my trips.

At 2 p.m. Art Ebert came and took me and Hugh to Bad Axe to the opening of the Historical Society Museum. It's not so big but very good. I saw a lot of things I hadn't seen for a long time and had a good visit with a lot of people.

The museum is on the upper floor of the city hall where back in the early 1930's we went to register for jobs on the AVPA. The place was so full you had to stand and wait. There was no line and you just pushed until you got to the door. You had to give them your life's history. It was the same then as now, if you knew somebody that knew somebody else you got a job. They said we'd all get a job but you had to belong to the right party.

On the way home we stopped at a Bad Axe restaurant for coffee and pie. We visited for a long time and talked about steam engines and the early tractors. We met Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Schweitzer and his sister Mrs. Fred Beers. I went to school with them and we have a good chat about our teacher Ella Schmidt.

Driving home we passed the place where I had lived in the early 1940's. The buildings are all gone but the land is still there. There are a lot of memories of the hard work we put in there. In Prov. 10:7 it says the memory of the just is blessed but the name of the wicked shall rot. I don't think I am so just but I remember some things about people that are gone that I wish I wouldn't.

George Keim
Correction in Last's Week Article: It should have read you walked 10 miles to harrow 10 acres, because until you walked to the field and back and around the headlands you had a good 10 miles in so if you harrowed 10 acres twice in a day you had in 20 miles that day.

Last week one day my tractor stopped and I had to walk 1 1/2 miles home. I was so tired I could hardly make my shoes go any further so I guess I'm not used to it anymore but I think it's because I'm a little older than I was back in 1943.

Dear Cousin Gus:

April 15 -- a date which is becoming as infamous as the Ides of March -- and some random thoughts concerning income taxes. One of these days some zealous candidate will stimulate a few laughs by calling them "outgo" taxes. This last 38 percent jolt puts Michigan on top as the most outgoing state, a matter of being damned with faint praise.

Enough of cynical pessimism -- think positively of where your dollar goes and what it does. "Cast thy bread upon the waters and it shall return in many days." Think that's Scripture -- at least it sounds a lot like the verses that George Yackie made us learn in Sunday School some 65 years ago.

Our dollars find their way to the Big House where they are computerized, analyzed and organized for 1,001 purposes and causes. We are assured that a portion is returned to its source for local use. What portion? Oh, sweet mystery of Life.

How is it handled when it gets back home? Did you read this morning's media about the black grant battle in Detroit? The city gets a federal grant of $58 million and the mayor wants to spend 20 percent of the money for administration and staff costs.

There are some vehement objectors. Of course, you who live the good life of a small town may have difficulty in seeing all the problems of the big city, but the story points out the perils of the dollar as it slowly returns to its place of origin. Comparatively, Pauline had few problems.

Some money is put to good use. Recent issues of The Progress-Advance contained township reports of road improvement programs provided by federal funds. The grants varied from $10,000 to $22,000. In these days of two-bit dollars, those grants seem reasonable. But the total -- can you imagine how many townships there are in 50 states?

Of course, even where prudent stewardship of public funds prevails there arises an occasional question. Should such funds be used to build an airport for a village where the deer and the antelope play? Is it foresighted wisdom or a delusion of grandeur? Well, there is always a chance that someday the raccoons will be caught.

So much for random thoughts. One not so random -- there is one circumstance worse than paying an income tax, not having enough income to pay one.

O.W. Baur

Mother's Day

We've had Volunteer Week and Secretary's Week, it is Older American Month. Hospital Week and Transportation Week are approaching. And, of course, there is Mother's Day.

It seems as if everything else gets a Week or a Month, but Mother gets a Day. That's all right though because most Mothers get included in all the other designations, too. Have you ever tried to figure out just what a Mother does?

In last week's edition there was a fine salute to the secretaries of the community. Looking at that, I realized that many of those women are Mothers too. Do they take their mothering skills into the work world? Do they combine their job skills with their mothering? I would guess that there is a lot of carry-over from one to the other.

Whatever the outside occupation of a Mother, her main career seems to be mothering.

She feeds and nurtures her family. The physical aspect of the meal is important. But in most homes more than just eating goes on at the dining room table. She teaches her youngsters the value of sharing the work as they set the table while she prepares the food. Conversation is shared as each family member reports on his or her activities of the day. Mother tries to help as someone searches for the answer to a puzzling problem.

Many times Mother assumes the role of teacher at that same dining room table after the meal is finished. When the dishes are cleared away and books brought out, it is Mother who gets to direct the homework.

When a child gets a splinter who gets asked to remove it? You know who! Nurse Mother gets to change the bed in the middle of the night for a sick one. She is an expert, an artist with meurochrome. No one else can apply a band-aid so it will stick.

Mother is the banker in some families. Children receive allowances from her. (Not just monetary allowances, either). She writes the checks to pay the bills. She manages to operate the family savings account so there is money available when it is needed for something special.

What else does a Mother do? She teaches her children about God and His love, how to pray and how to trust.

She is baker, chef and salad lady in the kitchen of her own restaurant. She even can be busboy and dishwasher there if everyone else has a ballgame, band practice or Scout meeting.

She is chauffeur until the youngsters get their driver licenses. Then she becomes chief worrier when they are out with the car.

Whatever else Mother is, most of all, she is love!

Be sure to honor Mother on her designated Day. She probably is too busy to take more than a Day for recognition anyhow.

Happy Mother's Day!

Dear Mom and Dad

By KAMI BUCHHOLZ

Now that there's only a couple of weeks until final exams, I realize that ever-popular college course has plagued me, too. The procrastination bug has hit me, and all the caffeine in the world hasn't snapped me from my deep trance.

Of course, the put-off bug is nothing like having a bad case of the chicken pox, but at least professors accept chicken pox as a reason for not having your homework done.

Like all deadly ailments, the procrastination bug can strike any college student any time -- provided the college student has enough term papers, tests and homework to fill 25 hours in a daylight savings day! As of yet, there is no known cure. Diagnosing the bug is easy. The sufferer repeatedly chants, "I'll do it tomorrow." Once D-Day strikes and everything is due, the sufferer miraculously offers a number of half-baked excuses for not having a thing ready to turn in.

Some cases of the procrastination bug have been known to last continuously for weeks. In other cases, once the D-Day has passed, so has the no-work syndrome. The bug is highly contagious, as well.

Just being in the mere presence of someone who has the bug is enough to contract the ailment. Those known to have recovered from the bug suggest the following treatment for the sufferer: Live with it. It will pass in time.

Be sure to have a super week!

State Farm policy holders to benefit

Owners of State Farm Life Insurance Company policies will benefit from a $60 million companywide increase in policy dividends beginning July 1, according to State Farm Agent David J. Anderson of 7525 Pigeon Road, Pigeon.

Anderson says the more than 30 percent increase in dividend scale is the company's largest ever, surpassing the $45 million increase of 1981.

With the $60 million increase, State Farm Life will pay close to $255 million to all policy holders in the U.S. and Canada during the 12-month period beginning July 1.

Anderson says the amount of dividend increase on an individual policy will vary, depending on three factors: 1) the person's age at the time the policy was issued 2)

U.S. fish consumption is up, which is good news for fish farmers and many rural towns. Billie Hougart of the U.S. Agriculture Department says domestic fish production should reach 375 million pounds by the end of the year - nearly double that of 1976. "And we expect to double again this decade," he adds.

The home-grown fish crop is worth $375 million annually, even though other nations still lead the U.S. in the field of aquaculture - the controlled raising and harvesting of fish. Annual worldwide production is 21 billion pounds, "but we're moving right to the cutting edge," Hougart says.

The reason: per capita consumption of fish and shellfish rose from 10 pounds in 1960 to 15.5 pounds in 1980. Every percentage point means another 230 million pounds of fish is required. And since domestic fishermen can't catch much more, he says, we can either import more - or farm our own. Catfish are the biggest money-makers for home-growing, at 200 million pounds grown in the U.S. Crawfish at 55 million pounds are next, followed by trout at 48 million pounds. Bait fish come next at 33 million pounds, followed by oysters at 25 million. About 8 million pounds of salmon are farmed annually. Rounding out the U.S.-produced list are shrimp, prawn, tilapia and others, at about 6 million pounds.

An estimated 4000 fish farmers operate an estimated four million fish farms, from one-acre ponds to commercial farms with 20 to 30 acres each.

The Michigan Bean Commission has announced it will be working with Bush Brothers Cannery, Inc., and the Kroger Company on a major consumer trade show in Nashville this summer. An estimated 30,000 persons are expected to attend the two-day show, sponsored by Kroger. Bush's asked the Bean Commission to participate.

Other shows which will feature promotional programs by the Commission include the Great Lakes Food Service Show in Detroit (held last week), the National Restaurant Show at the end of May, and at the American School Food Service Association's show, the National Home Economists' Association event and the National Education Association Convention.

Objectives of all these trade shows is to create increased awareness of dry and canned beans and their usage in the markets represented by show attendees, according to Commission Executive Secretary Jim Byrum.

In addition, the USDA has announced it will purchase an additional 250,000 cases of white beans in tomato sauce for use in school lunch programs. With the additional purchase, the USDA will be buying 750,000 cases of beans this year. That's up 100,000 cases from 1980's figure and 200,000 cases more than those bought in 1981.

Dark, rich stuff not necessary

Trees, shrubs also like sandy soil

Homeowners do not have to have dark, rich soil throughout the yard to grow attractive trees and shrubs.

"It is not uncommon to find coarse, sandy soils in garden areas that lack nutrition and water-holding abilities," says Harold Davidson, MSU horticulture specialist. "Many plants thrive in this type of soil environment."

Junipers, for instance, do outstandingly well on sandy, gravelly soils. The common juniper is a hardy shrub or a tall, upright tree growing to 10 feet in height. All junipers are relatively slow growing and require full sun.

Northern bayberry is an upright, rounded shrub of about six to eight feet that needs full sun or partial shade. No serious diseases or insect problems strike this sandy-area plant.

For a different color effect, Russian olive can be used on sandy sites. The three inch leaves of this 14-foot, shrubby tree are silver-green. Russian olive prefers open sun.

Staghorn sumac is a large, open shrub. This fast grower can reach a height of 15 to 25 feet with an equal spread. Its upright clusters of fuzzy red berries and its red-orange fall foliage are very showy in late summer and fall.

Some birch and pine trees will grow on sandy soils. Davidson says, but they must be fertilized and watered well when they are young. Good care during the first few years is crucial for their survival.

Paper birch and European white birch need moist, well-drained soils. These birches all take full sun and are medium to fast growers.

Scotch pine is unique for its twisted form and orange, peeling upper branches. Jack pine is very hardy but is slower growing. Red pine does well in gravelly soils. For stabilizing sand dunes, Japanese black pine can be used.

All of these pines require full sun. In a shoreline area, Davidson says, landscape with those plants seen growing naturally nearby.

Farmers can earn jobs tax credit

Farmers who hire an economically disadvantaged youth this summer can get a tax credit under a new federal program. The Targeted Jobs Tax Credit applies to the hiring of youths who are 16 or 17 years old on the hiring after April 30.

According to Ron Gaskill, labor specialist for the Michigan Farm Bureau, "the tax credit is equal to 85% of the first $3,000 of wages paid to each of these eligible youth during any 90 day period. Primarily that 90 day period is between May 1 and Sept. 15, 1983. It must be a 90-day period within that range."

The tax credit applies only to wages paid to youths who have not previously worked for the employer.

Farmers may get more information by contracting their nearest Michigan Employment Security Commission Job Service office.

The Garden CORNER

As usual, I waited too long to have my garden soil tested. Now it's almost time to plant and I don't know what kind of fertilizer to use.

Plan to get your soil tested this fall or next spring. For this year, here are some general recommendations for fertilizing vegetable gardening.

Before doing your final rototilling or plowing, apply 16.5 pounds of 6-24-24 blend per 1000 square feet of garden. Spread it evenly across the garden and then till it into the soil. It's best to wait a few days before planting, to avoid fertilizer burning the seeds.

Plan now to apply a side-dressing of nitrogen at the rate of two pounds per 1000 sq. ft. about the Fourth of July. The most common product for this use is 46-0-0 urea.

A side dressing is simply a band of fertilizer placed about four inches from the row, or a ring around each plant, four inches away.

Laker FFA told to 'believe in yourselves'

Michigan Future Farmers of America State President Gerald Gondor said he wanted to leave the 300 members and guests of the Laker FFA Chapter with something.

"It's my one-point plan of success," the 1982-83 president said at last Wednesday's annual Laker FFA Banquet. "Believe in yourself. Success comes only to those who reach for it."

He said achievement is often just a step away. For people having difficulty finding a solution to a frustration, he said, "A simple little push may solve their problem. Luck is when preparedness meets opportunity," Gondor said.

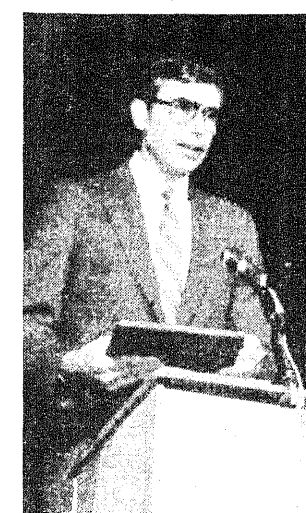

Laker FFA Chapter President Larry Engelhardt presided at the meeting. He introduced the three local business grant providers, who presented achievement scholarships.

They are: Ted Leipprandt of Co-op Elevator Company of Pigeon, whose scholarship goes to Barry Albrecht; Clarence Gettel of Gettel's Implement, whose scholarship goes to Larry Engelhardt, and Paul Clabuesch of Thumb National Bank and Trust, whose scholarship goes to Benjamin Maust.

New officers named for the coming year include President Dan Bouck, Vice President Steve Tait, Secretary Dawn Schuette, Treasurer Eric Bushey, Reporter Jim Gilbert, Sentinel Bernadette Voelker and Parliamentarian Mary McArdle.

The Laker Chapter earned State and National Gold Outstanding Chapter Awards, and a Silver in BOAC. The Chapter earned first in the nation ranking for its CROP Drive.

Grant Fluegge received the AIC award from the Pigeon and Elkton Co-ops, to attend the national cooperative convention in Ohio later this year. Mr. and Mrs. Durward "Butch" Miller were cited as "Mr. and Mrs. Laker High" and were given the BOAC award. Honorary Chapter Farmer awards were presented to nine local people, including Mr. and Mrs. Don Gemmell, Mr. and Mrs. Otto Fluegge, Henry Trost, Mr. and Mrs. Orin Engelhardt and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lange.

A total of 54 crop projects in classroom and field work were reported in this year's Big Acre Project, and Ben Maust, Scott Rosenthal, Steve Tait and Lori Hazard earned Big Acre jackets, in the 27th year of the program now sponsored by Pillsbury. Mike Voelker was named Star Greenhand (ninth grader), Lonnie Schulz was named Star.

State FFA President Gerald Gondor

Agribusinessman (10th grader) and Dan Lutz was chosen Star Chapter Farmer (11th grader).

Lori Hazard was named the DeKalb winner, as the outstanding senior.

Four students are among just 34 in Michigan who were named to Alfa Gamma Rho, as outstanding juniors. They are Mary McArdle, Mike Licht, Steve Tait and Grant Fluegge.

This year's cream of the crop - the top 5% of state total FFA students - chosen as State Farmers are Bob Gemmel (silver award), Barry Albrecht, Dan Drabek, Larry Engelhardt, Ben Maust, Phil Bechler, Colleen Reilly, Sue Sowden, Don Schulz, Les Schaper and Leo McArdle. Bob Gemmel also serves as a Regional Officer, as Reporter.

CASEVILLE BOYS VICTORIOUS

Caseville was just too much for the visiting Peck Pirates as they captured a fine pair of victories by 1-0 and 5-2 scores.

In the first game, Brian Gembarski fired a no-hitter (his first of the young season). He also received help from the hitters. Shawn Sarka had a triple and scored on a single from Brian Siegfried; Mike Duffy, Wayne Simmons and Gembarski all added base hits.

In Game Two, senior Mike Duffy pitched a six hitter in pacing CHS to a 5-2 victory. Daniel Murdoch had two singles followed by Brian Gembarski and Fred Crane with one single each. "It was nice to get back on the winning track," was one comment.

Peck was just too much for the Caseville girls to handle as Peck went home with a pair of victories by a 10-5 and 19-16 scores.

Kathy Briesmesiter was the losing pitcher in both contests.

"It was a crucial game to lose," remarked head coach Cheryl Wascher of the contests with now unbeaten Peck.

"We hit well and played aggressively but made a lot of errors in the field and on base running," added Wascher.

OUTDOOR Report

By DUANE GUENTHER

The warm weather experienced throughout the last week has triggered the perch and trout fishing. Perch appeared in good numbers just offshore, and those anglers who took to their boats were rewarded with some nice catches. Fishermen also scored well off the break in Caseville and at Harbor Beach. Some reports filtered in from the Grindstone City area, where big perch were beginning to congregate near the shore.

Trout and salmon have moved close to shore, and boats were scoring both at Caseville and Harbor Beach. Those trolling in the shallow water, picked up Kings, Cohos and Lake Trout.

Michigan's general trout season opened on a high note. While the Thumb was being hit by a very hard rain storm. The region around the Manistee and AuSable Rivers were basking in sunshine. The water temperature was at 49° and each afternoon produced good catches of local insects. For those of you who are fly fishermen, the match had to be close to the stonefly, and the Baetis which were the prevalent species that dotted the river surface.

Some local hunters have reported good success in the Spring Turkey Season. The mild winter, with its lack of snow, pointed to what could be the best season on record, and these early reports seem to be holding up that theory. The bow and arrow fishing season for Carp, gar and bowfin opened this Sunday in Michigan's inland waters. More hunters should be getting ready. The warm

'Delicious' is winning word!

 RICH SWARTZENDRUBER

The longest words aren't always the most difficult to spell, as was evidenced at the third annual Laker Spelling Bee last Thursday evening. Words such as "result, depot and decide" tripped up some contestants, while longer words like "manufacture, necessary and population" presented few problems to the spellers.

Spencer Hamilton, a student in Mike Gehrs' sixth grade class in Pigeon, won the spelling bee by correctly spelling the word "delicious. He won a trophy and a watch as the spelling champion.

Jeff Rosenthal from Bill Love's sixth grade class in Elkton was presented a calculator as the runner-up.

A thesaurus was given to each of the last contestants in each grade after the champion and runner-up had been named.

The last fourth grader was Amy Jeffers from Mike Lang's class in Elkton.

The final fifth grader was Stephanie Pawlowski from Susan Portmann's class in Elkton.

Scott Clark from Bill Love's class was the last sixth grader after the top two finishers.

Many parents and friends encouraged the spellers with their presence at the event hosted by organizer Mike Lang.

One humorous moment in the event occurred when a contestant asked the judges to repeat the word "repeat."

ASK DR. SHEETS

By Darrell M. Sheets, D.M.D.

Sometime ago, while preparing for a Sunday School Bible verse game, I came across an interesting verse in Song of Solomon 4:2 repeated in 6:6. "Thy teeth are like a flock of sheep that are even shorn which came up from the washing; whereof everyone bear twins and none is barren among them." The story behind this is that while King Solomon was visiting a rural village he saw a beautiful young girl that he desired very much. He repeatedly tried to woo her but eventually failed because she loved a young man back home. Now when Solomon was wooing her he had many other women back in Jerusalem, queens and concubines. But it is interesting to me, and I hope to you, that this wise king in extolling the beauty of this young woman's features was awed by her teeth, white like smooth shorn sheep, with none missing.

On the other side we have the very beautiful - by two accounts, Solomon's and her young man's - young woman that not only inherited beautiful physical traits but took good care of herself. She looked good and smelled good and have very nice teeth. Needless to say, they were beautiful not because the hygienist had just cleaned them or because the dentist had just given her all new porcelain caps. She didn't have floss or stimulants or an oral-B 40 or even triple action Aquafresh, but she kept her teeth beautiful and clean, a pleasure for even the wise king to look upon.

It is a pleasure to think about this beautiful girl who lived thousands of years ago. But everyday I see some young people her age, women and men, that are blessed with intelligence and a pleasing appearance, not to mention all of the self care products available today, who not only don't maintain themselves but some actually even smell and/or are ill because of their self neglect.

In conclusion, let me ask two things: 1) read the short little book of Song of Solomon - it's beautiful poetry, and 2) look at yourself. The maintained beauty of those young people can be yours - even the teeth radiantly white like newly shorn and washed sheep - if you take pride in yourself as a creation of God and give yourself all due respect and care.

M A P (MONOAMMONIUM PHOSPHATE)

The Elkton Co-op. Farm Produce Company introduced M A P (MONOAMMONIUM) last year into this area.

There are good reasons for its surge in popularity. Here are a few:

(a) MAP triggers improved, faster phosphorus uptake - particularly in cold soils. This is an important plus for early-planted spring crops.

(b) There's less chance of free ammonia with MAP, since it is a combination of 1 part ammonia with 1 part phosphoric acid. This reduces the possibility of retarded germination, or damaged seedlings, due to the escape of free ammonia.

(c) When MAP goes into solution, a strongly acid environment is created (about pH4). With DAP (diammonium phosphate) the resulting environment is alkaline (about pH 9). Because of this difference, there is less reversion to water-insoluble phosphorus with MAP in high calcium soils. Also, an acid condition around the fertilizer particle often improves the uptake of other elements. Specially manganese and zinc which are important and necessary to sugar beets and corn.

Attend the Church of Your Choice This Sunday and Every Sunday

MOTHERS COME IN MANY FORMS;
THEIR LOVE IN ONLY ONE

"Her children arise up and call her blessed."
—Proverbs 31:28

Who ran to help me
when I fell...
would kiss the place
to make it well?
My mother.

— Ann Taylor

They come in every shape and size,
And some are youthful, some mature;
But mothers in whatever guise
Have trials that they must endure.
Your mother showed her loving care
Whenever you stayed out all day;
Those anxious moments turned her hair
A shade called prematurely gray.
She understood each childhood phase,
And she was there to dry your tears.
You'll never know how many ways
She helped you in your growing years.
So pay her homage every day;
Though mothers can be short or tall,
Your faith declares in every way
Their love to be "one size fits all".

— Gloria Nowak

Church news

LWML of KILMANAGH

The Lutheran Women's Missionary League of St.
John's Lutheran Church,
Kilmanagh, met Thursday
at the home of Mrs. Lydia Gaeth, with 11 members and one guest, Mrs. Bonnie Gaeth, present.

The meeting was opened with a prayer by President
Mrs. Dawn Roemer. Roll call was taken by answering from the quarterly. The secretary's and treasurer's reports were read and approved. The Book Nook report and Hospice report
were given and discussion took place regarding the Jeddo retreat and the convention.

The ladies dedicated their
mites with the LWML pledge. The Christian Growth Chairman spoke on
"To Be a Christian Woman"
from the Gospel of Luke.
Valerie Scherzer was presented with a farewell gift and this meeting was to be her last with the group.
Members closed with "The Lord's Prayer" and lunch was served by the hostess.

Manager in God's household
Read I Peter 4:7-11

As you did it to one of the least of these My brethren, you did it to Me. Matthew 25:40.

We are inclined to associate the word "stewardship" with money, especially with our response to requests for contributions.

Stewardship covers far more than that. It applies to the use and sharing of all we are and have.

In worshipping God at church we give of our time, our money, our energy. We use our ears to listen to God's Word, our voices to sing His praise, our hands to greet others. We share our hope and joy with fellow Christians.

It may have occurred to us that apart from God there is no finer example of sharing than what a mother does for her child — a fitting thought for Mother's Day.

In its most beautiful meaning, stewardship speaks first, not of how we use what we have, but of how God uses us, how we serve and glorify Him.

In the casual meaning of the term, a steward manages what belongs to someone else. A Christian steward is a manager in God's household.

Before Christian stewards can serve, they must recognize that everything they have in trust from God, and they must accept and appreciate God's love in Jesus Christ.

The art of receiving is basic to the art of giving.
Direct us, O God, gratefully to receive Your gifts, that we may generously share them. Amen.

Spring is natural bait time

A couple of weeks ago as I was making my final preparations for the opening of trout season, I decided to clean out my tackle box and fly fishing vest. Sprawling the contents on the kitchen table, I was methodically checking off each individual item to make sure that I would be prepared for this wonderful rite of spring. I became so engrossed in what I was doing that I failed to notice my wife peering over my shoulder with a puzzled look on her face.

"Sure seems like a lot of money to spend for the few fish that you bring home," she said somewhat kiddingly.

"You know what they say," I answered, "Fishing lures catch more fishermen than they do fish."

As she went about her business, I looked back at the laden table and could not help thinking how difficult and complicated we have made our fishing over the last 30 years. Yankee ingenuity, coupled with Madison Avenue commercialism, has produced thousands of products bent on accomplishing two things: the first, supposedly, is to catch more fish and the second, is to make lots of money.

My wife was right. I do have too much tackle. Lures and flies that I haven't used in years and probably will never use still occupy their sacred place in my tackle box, waiting for that special moment when they will be called upon to produce, where all others have failed. However, I'm sure that when that critical time presents itself, I, like most fishermen, will turn my nose up at the magical fish-catching apparatuses, and rely on the old favorite - natural bait.

Live, or natural bait, was a way of life when I was a young boy. Growing up in a rural area, but not on a farm, vacation time found me with little or nothing to do. So I wandered the local woods and creek beds in search of any kind of adventure. Since fishing was always a possibility in any of the numerous streams, ditches and dredge-cuts, I learned at a very early age to carry my fishing tackle with me at all times.

My tackle box was a Prince Albert tobacco tin. In it, I would coil about 10 feet of braided dacron line, half dozen snelled hooks, some split shot, and a small bobber. Fishing rods grew all along the banks in the form of willow clumps, and when a fishing opportunity rose, I would simply cut a rod-sized chunk of willow, tie on the line, affix the hook, split shot and bobber and I was ready for fishing. That is, almost ready. There was one item still needed - bait.

Usually, the stream banks were alive with crickets and grasshoppers, and if you kicked in the dirt long enough, you could come up with an angleworm or two. Using your handkerchief or t-shirt as a seine, it was also possible to dip out a few of the thousands of minnows that were abundant in the water. Searching the rocks on the bottom of the stream would produce crawfish, wigglers and an occasional mudpuppy. Armed with all of the fish's natural food, you only had to find a likely-looking spot and toss your offering in.

Fishermen would do well to pay attention to the live, or natural bait tactics when fishing early in the season. Run-off from the numerous spring rains have made most waters high and swift. This high, fast, cloudy or muddy water is a baitfisherman's dream. The fish can't see you, your shadow, or the splash of your bait. Therefore, they must rely heavily on their sense of smell to find food. Forget about finding the right lure or pater, and offer the fish something that smells like food.

A smorgasbord of baits will take trout and other fish early in the season. The menu includes a lightly-hooked nightcrawler, angleworm or several redworms impaled through their middles on one hook. Cheese molded in a small teardrop around a hook, as well as kernels of corn.

My wife was right. I do have too much tackle. Lures and flies that I haven't used in years and probably will never use still occupy their sacred place in my tackle box, waiting for that special moment when they will be called upon to produce where all others have failed.

Other appealing baits might include salmon or sucker spawn. These can be used either tied in a spawn bag, or individually pierced on a light-wire, long shank hook. In the spring, a mayfly nymph is one of the more productive life baits to be found. Lightly hooked and presented on a light monofilament line, they become like fish dessert. Grasshoppers or crickets, hooked through the back and suspended from a small bobber will take all kinds of fish, as will the minnow.

However, once your bait has been selected and properly rigged, you have to make its movement appealing and natural for the fish to accept it. This is usually done by employing what is called a natural drift. Unless there is a surface-feedin spree, you can assume that the fish will be on the bottom. You also can assume that they will be behind some kind of obstruction, wedged down out of the current. The closer you can drift your bait to this waiting fish, the more likely he will be to pick it up.

The best method employed to get the needed results is the use of split shots. The type of split shots to use are those that have a beak in the rear, the kind that open as easily as they close. This is necessary, as you will be putting on and taking off weights until you have the right combination for the proper drift.

The test for the correct weighing system lies in the tap of the lead weight along the bottom. If your tackle moves at the same speed as the current, you will feel no bounce on the bottom, you're too light. If you bounce the bottom and hang up a lot, your bait is moving at half the current's speed and you are too heavy. But if you feel a regular tap-tap as the lead brushes the tops of the rocks and then drifts free, and if your tackle is moving at about three-quarters of the speed of the current, you've hit the right combination and you should have good results.

A couple of excellent ways of presenting live or natural bait is upstream casting or drop-back fishing. Upstream fishing can be very productive, especially if you keep a taut line. Cast your bait directly above a fishing looking spot, and then let it drift toward you. If your quarter the current too much, your bait will be dragged unnaturally. You must always keep mending your line.

On drop-back fishing, you let your properly weighted line play out in front of you. After presenting it into a likely-looking hole, you retrieve it by lifting your rod, and then lowering it to present your bait again. Good fishermen will stand at a hole for almost an hour, working their bait into every possible nook and cranny that may hold a fish.

Whatever method you use, or whichever bait you rigged on your tackle, this time of the year is an excellent one for fishing. The sun is warm on your back and the fish are hungry after a cold and dormant winter. As you sit on the dock or in your boat, or wade carefully in your favorite stream, you know in your heart that this is going to be one of those great springs.

Thanks to Butch and Nova Jean for always brightening special sales with your delicious popcorn. We'd even pay for it!

I'm sorry to have you leave this area, Rev. Hurley. I hope this doesn't mean we won't have "Do You Have a Minute?" in The Progress-Advance and the few choice words you have over WLEW at 7 a.m. Signed, a regular reader and listener.

I'm from Pigeon and I think Elkton has a very nice street, coming into town from the north. The people who live there on Main Street are proud of their town and property and you can tell it. This is not to knock any other town or neighborhood, don't get me wrong. I just think the people of that part of Elkton should be commended for their effort. They do a good job.

Happy birthday, Linda. Bye.

Happy Mother's Day to Mom B. and Mom D. Wish we could be with you. Signed, your kids in Coldwater and Kalamazoo.

EXTRA NITROGEN SOLUTION BENEFITS CAN MAKE IT YOUR BEST NITROGEN BUY.

It's true that nitrogen solution costs about 8¢ more per pound of N than anhydrous ammonia. But from this listing of ten extra benefits, you may find enough value to make N solution a better buy.

1. You may save a trip, because nitrogen solution and herbicides can be combined so effectively.

2. Herbicides often work better applied with nitrogen solution than with water.

3. You can plant earlier because soil needn't be "workably dry," and there's less chance of clodding from application.

4. Less exposure to plant loss or injury.

5. The nitrogen is more ideally placed for rapid residue decomposition.

6. There's no drastic pH change in the application zone to upset soil organisms or interfere with nutrient uptake.

7. You effect more gradual nitrogen release by combining the three forms of nitrogen (nitrate, ammoniacal and urea).

8. Nitrogen solution is safe to handle and apply.

9. Professional application saves you labor, time, money and fuel.

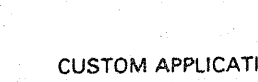

10. There's less chance of soil compaction.

Remember this: you're not just buying nitrogen; you're buying bushels of corn

There's a very good chance N solution may be your best buy.

GUIDE TO SUMMER FITNESS

Exercise is essential to achieving physical fitness and managing weight. The best way to burn calories is to exercise moving total body weight from one point to another. The above chart shows that the number of calories used is determined by the distance covered and the speed. Automobile Club of Michigan's MemberLife area recommends beginning with a moderate activity such as walking and working into more strenuous workouts. Before starting an exercise program, individuals over age 35 or those with medical problems should consult a physician or other health professional. When food calories equal calories expended through activity, weight should remain the same.
