Who's hiding behind those paper bags?

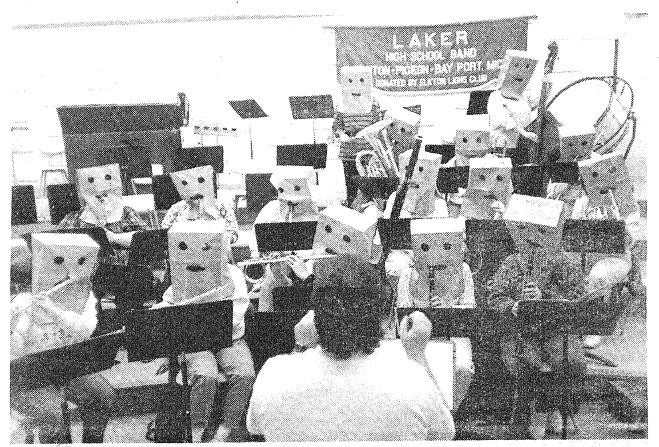

To find out, you'll have to come Sunday afternoon and see the Laker Alumni Band in action, when they perform as part of the Laker Vaudeville Variety Show on March 1 at 2 p.m. at the Laker Auditorium.

The Laker Alumni Band is only one of more than a dozen special acts planned for the show, which is being sponsored by the Laker Band Boosters to help fund music camp scholarships and to purchase instruments and supplies.

"It's not a talent show," explain organizers from the Band Boosters. There are professional groups coming in like the precision tap offered by the Tri City Hoofers of Bay City, as well as groups performing gospel numbers, dixieland, comedy and Mark Rummel of Pigeon will emcee the afternoon event and tickets will be for sale at the door.

Will farm property auctions stabilize land values?

By MARK RUMMEL

"Buy land," the old saying goes, "because they ain't makin'

That old adage may be true, but there's plenty of quality farm land for sale in the Western Thumb right now - 4033 acres, to be exact.

The largest local collection of agricultural parcels ever assembled at one time is on the farm auction block, as two major auction sales in the next month should help set and stabilize farm land prices into the 21st century.

How much interest is shown by potential bidders — and how many bids will be entered at what prices — is the big question still to be answered.

On Tuesday, March 24, 2570 acres of farm land in dozens of tracts from 20- to 120-acre sizes are being offered by Farm Credit Services through Herb Albrecht & Associates, Auctioneers of Vassar. These include 1220 acres in Huron County and 250 acres in Tuscola.

Most of these have been seized by Farm Credit Services for non-payment of debt in recent years. The 11 a.m. auction will be conducted at the Colony House near Cass City. Sale flyers have been prepared for the offering, which is the culmination of several years of repossessions. On Thursday, March 26, 1463 acres of farm land in 23 parcels ranging from one acre (usually also including homes or farm buildings) to 120 acres will be sold by auction at the Pigeon VFW Hall through Schrader Real Estate and Auction Company of Columbia, Ind., and Westchester Group, Inc., of Champaign, Ill. The 11 a.m. auction is being preceded by information days this past Tuesday and on Thursday, March 12, from 1 to 5 p.m. at Greenfields Restaurant, Pigeon.

Large-scale farm owners Vernon and June Kretzschmer of Pigeon are offering 744 acres of that total in 13 tracts located "around Pigeon, southeast of Elkton and southwest of Bad Axe," according to the full-color auction flyer describing the lands. The Kretzschmers are scaling back their farming operations through the sale.

The other 10 tracts total 719 acres and are being sold by Thumb National Bank & Trust Company of Pigeon. They too are located in Western Huron County, plus one tract in Tuscola, one mile south of the county line. Most of these properties have been returned to the bank for non-payment of debt. Some also include residences or out-farm buildings.

Why such a massive farm land sale? There isn't one simple answer, although experts familiar with the situation say soaring land prices in the 1980s led to today's massive sell-off. Traditionally, quality tiled farm land in this area would sell for $1500 to $2200 per acre and many farmers owned no more than 200 to 300 acres. Even that was a far cry from the times 50 years ago when a family could live comfortably on an 80-acre farm for decades.

Steady farm commodity prices - and over-optimistic buyers — led to steep jumps in land values in the mid-1980s, when some top-quality parcels sold for $3200 and more, experts say. Then, ever-higher prices for fertilizer, fuel, machinery and seed reduced net farm income drastically.

To purchase more land, some farmers secured their purchases with long-owned parcels, which in theory also had risen dramatically in value. Since land was selling at these higher prices, it appeared the value was there, one observer says today. "Some farmers didn't realize it could come down as fast as it had gone up."

Three particularly poor farming years, starting with the worst flooding in a century in 1986, brought a halt to skyrocketing land values. Plus, the fields which were to produce the revenues to make principle and interest payments were yielding below-average crops in those 1986-89 years. making repayment of debt difficult... or impossible.

Some land devaluations fell 66% in a year. Some land purchased five years earlier for $3000 per acre fell to $1000 "an amazing roller-coaster ride," one expert says. "It's remarkable things aren't worse. In retrospect, we farmers wanted too much. We never thought prices would stop

"If the stock market, now in the 3200-range, would fall 500 points, that would be a big story in the news. But that's only 20%, compared to what farm land has done here."

"Everybody in the past 10 years probably paid more than they should have - but no one knew that. Some had enough equity to survive, while others didn't," another expert says. Some over-leveraged themselves, or fell victim to poor combinations of weather/crop mix and production slumps. For instance, dairy farmers and sugar beet growers basically have done well in the past decade; others such as feeder cattle operations haven't.

Some people are good managers but made the wrong choices, or hit a bad cycle," an observer says. "The old saying is that every bad farm year requires three good years to

"Well, we had three bad years straight. Maybe we don't need a full nine years for recovery, but we certainly need five or six. We're half-way through that right now," he adds, although the just-past 1991 crop year was basically dismal with poor bean market and dairy prices, smaller-tonnage yields on sugar beets and flat numbers of corn and wheat.

No one also knows what prices the auctions will draw and who will be bidders. Some stories say out-of-area farming companies are looking over many of the properties, while some local farmers — who resisted $3000 prices a decade ago - may be willing to purchase land today. Some non-farm investors may want to acquire land on speculation, another rumor says.

Some recent small sales have found good land selling for $1800 and higher, but will a massive sale depress per-acre prices? No one knows with certainty.

And these are not typical auctions, either. A sophisticated system using computers to keep track of bids will be employed. Buyers from throughout the Midwest - and perhaps further away — are expected.

After all, land is for sale, and they aren't making any more

Twenty years ago, Walt and Carol Forster built a new home on Ewald Road near Elkton, next to Century Oak Golf Course. And on Thursday night, they watched as that home and its attached garage were destroyed by a fire that, fueled by south winds, raced through the structure.

According to Elkton-Oliver Fire Department officials, the fire started in an electric clothes dryer and spread to a nearby closet.

The couple was at home when the fire started, and Carol Forster discovered the small blaze. Walt Forster tried to extinguish the flame with a fire extinguisher, but when his wife opened the closet door, the rush of fresh air caused the fire to erupt again and fill the house with

CASEVILLE RAPE TRIAL MARCH 10

Two Huron County men will go to trial at 9:30 a.m. on Tuesday, March 10 before Huron County Circuit Judge M. Richard Knoblock on criminal sexual conduct charges.

Patrick Michael Kelly, 18 of Caseville, and Eddie Calvin Taylor, Jr., 25 of Pigeon, allegedly abducted a woman about 11 p.m. in Saginaw on Oct. 2, and took her to a Caseville Township residence where she was sexually assulted several times. The victim managed to escape and called police from a neighbor's house.

Kelly is charged with one count of first-degree criminal sexual conduct and Taylor is charged with six counts of first-degree criminal sexual conduct.

A count of first-degree criminal sexual conduct carries a maximum sentence of life in prison, said Huron County Prosecutor Leslie A. Hagen.

DEAN DRUG CHARGE EXAM SET

A 41-year-old Bad Axe man will face preliminary examination at 1:30 p.m. this Thursday Feb. 27 on drug charges, in one of the biggest busts ever made by area police and the Thumb Narcotics Unit.

Paul Douglas Dean is charged with possession with intent to deliver 225 grams or more but less than 650 grams of cocaine, possession with intent to deliver marijuana and commission of a felony while using a firearm.

In the search of Dean's residence last month, police seized approximately 296 grams of cocaine with an estimated street value of more than $36,000; about 40 pounds of marijuana with an estimated value of $60,000; about $28,000 in cash, and numerous weapons, including three handguns and one machine gun, plus drug paraphernalia.

If found guilty, the cocaine charge carries a maximum sentence of 20 to 30 years in prison, the marijuana charge carries a maximum sentence of four years in prison. The felony firearm charge carries a mandatory two-year prison term, officials say.

OSTERHOUT RETRIAL SET IN GAYLORD

A Sebewaing man who was sentenced at age 17 to life in prison for the 1988 murder of a Cheboygan man will get a retrial, following the overturn of his conviction by the Michigan Court of Appeals.

Stephen A. Osterhout, 20, was convicted of first-degree murder for the killing of Dean E. Lyons in Otsego County. In 1989, Osterhout was sentenced to life in prison without parole, following the trial.

The Michigan State Court of Appeals overturned the conviction in a ruling that some evidence used in the trial shouldn't have been admitted and because the judge, 46th Circuit Court Judge Alton T. Davis, gave improper instructions to the jury.

A retrial is slated to begin Tuesday, March 10 in Gaylord.

Say 'cheese' for the sake of your teeth...

If you think you've heard it all, this will probably prove you haven't. A recent study from the University of Alberta in Edmonton, Canada says eating cheese can help keep your teeth cavity-free.

The study was conducted by a professor of dentistry at the university, and worked on the premise that cheese can be one secret to maintaining a healthy, cavity-free smile.

John Hargreaves found that eating a piece of hard cheese the size of a sugar cube at the end of a meal can retard tooth decay. The calcium and phosphate present in the choose mix with saliva in your mouth and linger on the surface of the teeth for up to two hours — providing protection against acid attacks from sweet food or drink.

No doubt the hardness of the cheese helps move plaque and food particles off teeth surfaces. And, no doubt eating something more neutral than sugary foods will also help

This old tried and true church hymnal standard, written back in 1865 and revised in 1957, seems to speak more prophetically today of our spiritual - as well as physical responsibility to care for planet earth. It seems strange that these words - written in a time when little actual damage was being done to the earth - read more poignantly now than in the year they were penned.

What exactly does this "stewardship" entail? Well, stewardship means to oversee and care for, to manage and of larger breasts and the new rules state that we must have appropriate wisely. Let's pray to a merciful God that we are.

Still, we chip away at it thoughtlessly with no regard for the millions of children we bring into the world who may one day face the reality of living - who by all accounts will very likely find themselves living - on a planet where the out-of-doors is out-of-the-question. How will they feed themselves? How will the animals live? How can any kind of fulfilling or meaningful life be lived on such a planet? These are sad but serious questions - sad realities of the poor stewardship practices in these the latter days of the 20th Laker Junior High School youngster!

Fun with Campbell's Soup!

CAMPBELL KIDS TALK ABOUT NUTRITION: Caseville Public School students greeted special visitors last Wednesday — Campbell Soup Kids who visited kindergarten through sixth grade classroooms to teach kids about nutrition, as part of "February

The Campbell Soup Kids were invited to Caseville by Caseville business owner Colleen Poisson of the Bay Window Restaurant.

"Wellness Month" includes a number of special activities relating to health, including speakers on Drug Awareness, AIDS, Self-Esteem, morning exercise walks and a "Wellness Breakfast" on Friday, Feb. 28. Supt. Jim Stahl and school board members will SALLY RUMMEL PHOTO don aprons and flip pancakes for staff and students.

Many schools in the Thumb Area still collect Campbell Soup labels, while others have discontinued the practice due to lack of interest.

But the program is still going strong at Caseville Elementary, through collection points in each K-6 classroom and the Caseville IGA. Since 1983, the school has received such items has record players, tape recorders, dictionaries, sports ball, and other equipment. In 1990, the school or-

I could be like some of the night before opening day to patch waders, limber up the fly rod, and stop off at the local fly shop to pick up several dozen of the "what's hot" flies that are always in abundance. But I choose not to do this for several reasons.

First. I love trout fishing so much I want to extend the season as long as possible, and tying trout flies is one way to achieve that.

Second. someone once told me that tying your own flies of commercial tiers, I further would save money, and I was deduced, that other than dumb enough to believe their buggy eyes and trem-

I will never be flyless. For and hands......

Outdoor Report

Week of February 24, 1992

The elk survey just completed in January by the DNR. shows the Michigan herd to be in great condition. Although the Department would like to see the herd numbers between 800 and 900 animals, results of this year's survey have estimated the herd to be near 1,200 animals. Most of the herd is located near I-75 between Gaylord and Indian River. The DNR has used recreational hunting as a means of keeping the herd in balance with their food supply, and the added numbers may mean more permits when next year's elk season rolls around.

+++++++++ Fred Trost, the sometimes controversial host of "Michigan Outdoors", a popular TV show, has been found guilty of libel and slander in a Montcalm County Circuit Court. The Jury awarded Buck Stop Lure Co., $4 million in damages.

Buck Stop sued Trost, who made claims that the company's deer lure contained cow urine instead of deer urine as advertised. Trost dedicated several segments of his show to display the fact that all deer lures were pretty much ineffective in bringing deer within range of the hunter. He went so far as to use his own urine, and after-shave lotion, in making his Trost Indicated he will appeal the case and the upper courts will exonerate him.
