Spray area includes Caseville parts

Certain areas in Caseville Township have been designated to receive aerial application of the insecticide Bt (Bacillus thuringiensis) for the suppression of gypsy moth larvae.

Maps of these areas are available for viewing at the Caseville Township/Village Hall, 6767 Main Street.

The spraying will be done by fixed wing aircraft in mid-May to mid-June when weather conditions are suitable, according to Velja Cullen, a member of the Caseville Township Gypsy Moth Suppression Committee.

The insecticide Bt is derived from a naturally occurring bacteria and is know only to affect leaf eating caterpillars and insects by destroying their stomachs as a result of digesting the material.

It does not affect honey bees or other non-leaf eating insects, birds, fish or mammals. The effectiveness of the insecticide on the gypsy moth caterpillar varies with weather and timing of the application.

Eradication is not possible and should not be expected, Cullen said.

Caseville FHA's attend leadership convo

Six members of the Caseville chapter of the Future Homemakers of America traveled to Western Michigan University in Kalamazoo recently to participate in the 1992 state leadership conference.

The theme of this year's conference was "Before the Reality Comes the Dream." The members attended events such as a talent show, a banquet, dance, Team Building and Connection Team workshops and competed in skill events.

Conference delegates from Caseville High included Erica Jones as outgoing State Secretary/Treasurer, Jill Miller, participating in Volunteer Action, Stacey Meisner, participating in Public Speaking and Janet Ufford, participating in the talent show and in the Illustrated Talk event.

Also participating and receiving a "one" rating were Kim Pittenger and Mandie Fritz for their Team Demonstration, senior division. Advisor Debra Fritz was also awarded a plaque for fifteen years of service as advisor to the Caseville chapter.

Future Homemakers of America is a national vocational student organization that helps today's young men and women prepare themselves for the multiple roles as wage earners, community leaders and caring family members.

Participating in activities helps members develop skills for life such as planning, goal setting, problem solving, decision making, and interpersonal communication, all necessary both in the home and in the workplace.
