MAN DEVELOP HEALTHIER BODIES AND STRONGER MINDS.

MUCH MONEY IS SPENT

Prof. C. S. Berry of the U. of M. in a lecture before the Ann Arbor School of Religion came out broadly for athletics.

It is not merely the development of the mind regarded as an independent entity, but the education of the mind and body together, said "Toward this end athletic associations have been established, and the amount of money spent each year for athletics has been estimated at $10,000,000 in the United States.

There were 708 deaths of children under one year of age, 137 of which occurred during the month of July. This number corresponds to an annual death rate of 137 per 1,000 estimated population. An increase of 41 deaths is shown as the monthly estimated preceding.

As compared with the month immediately preceding, a decrease is noted in the number of deaths from consumption, diphtheria and croup, scarlet fever, measles, whooping cough, pneumonia, influenza and cancer. An increase is noted in the number of deaths returned from tuberculosis, typhoid fever, meningitis and violence. Included in the deaths from violence are 47 from gunshot wounds, 17 from lightning, 17 from drowning, 17 from falls, 17 from suffocation, 17 from strangulation, 17 from poisoning, 17 from other causes.

There were 4,984 certificates of death issued during the month of July. This corresponds to an annual rate of 137 per 1,000 estimated population. The number returned was an increase of 270 over June.

Ask Teddy to State Fair. Will Roosevelt attend the coming state fair? This is the question paramount around state fair headquarters in the State capital.

How is building up has been extended and this has been backed by a monster petition which, when completed, will be presented to the legislature.

Silas Carter's Romance

By Carl Jenkins

There was nothing wrong about the romance of Silas Carter. He was a young man who worked in a sawmill and ate three square meals a day. When evening came he sat down to read a book of promise, but he didn't read. He had heard about the American history, and in consequence he had borrowed romance. They were not early dime novels. They related mostly to knights and chivalry and rescue of distressed damsels.

After reading for two or three years Silas got the idea that he was a chivalry knight. He had read that a damsel would sooner or later have to be rescued. He didn't say anything about it, but he was waiting for a damsel, and it might be that the distressed damsel would be detained by a villain. He was waiting for a damsel, and it might be that the distressed damsel would be detained by a villain.

One night when he was calling on Miss Eunice Bebe, the daughter of a miller, he saw a damsel in distress. She was sitting on the ground, and she was crying. He went to her, and he saw that she was a damsel in distress. He was waiting for a damsel, and it might be that the distressed damsel would be detained by a villain.

He began and ended right there. If the distressed damsel appeared he would be rescued. He was waiting for a damsel, and it might be that the distressed damsel would be detained by a villain.

Nature of Divine Forgiveness

By Rev. Chas. A. Riley, Detroit, Mich.

"I have blotted out, as a thick cloud, thy iniquities, and as a cloud thy sins."—1st John 1:9.

His best approach to this subject is the way of inquiry into the results of sin. There are two penalties attached to sin—the outward and the inward. One looks to the outward consequences; the other to the inward feelings and affections. One refers to the visible punishment; the other to the suffering that is felt; the other has to do with the guilty conscience, the closed heart of God and the separation from him. External penalty embraces all the evil consequences that are left behind and make themselves felt in the life; internal or subjective penalty is the alienation of God's affection, a disturbance of the peace and harmony of the soul and man. God is grieved and rightly so, and he withdraws his love and forgiveness from the sinner. The restoration of this broken personal relation.

One often fails to fall into mistaken notions regarding the consequences of sin and to grieve more over the punishment of sin than over the sin itself. The restoration of this broken personal relation.

MANCHESTER

THE POPULATION OF MICHIGAN

STATE HAS 2,816,173; AN INCREASE OF 16.1 PER CENT DURING PAST DECADE.

CENSUS FIGURES SHOW INCREASE OF 289,192 IN COUNTY POPULATION SINCE 1900.

Manufacturing Cities Gained at Expense of Agricultural Communities—Means One More Member of Congress.

Despite the fact that the census returns from 60 counties in the state of Michigan show a decrease during the last decade, the total population of 2,816,173 in 1910 as compared with 2,426,981 in 1900 and 2,347,789 in 1890, shows an increase of 16.1 per cent, or 372,692.

Of the 60 counties which show a decrease in population, 25 are agricultural counties, and 35 are manufacturing cities. The increase in population during the past ten years is not dependent upon more thickly populated counties, all show decreases.
