Joe Jahames was awarded $325 by circuit court jury Priday afternoon or a team killed by the Ann Arbon CERTAIN RECESS APPOINTEES railroad. Eaton Rapids ministers have decid ed to abandon Sunday evening services at the churches for a couple of mouths and to hold union services at G. A. R. park. This is the result of the extreme hot weather of the past. The last of the three superintendents of the Saginaw county poor farm, which was under investigation last fall, left the employment of the county when F. C. Beuthin voluntarily presented his resignation to the su pervisors and it was accepted.

John Crook, 60, a farmer living near Cadillac, was killed by a G. R. & I. flyer, when he mistook the signal to stop for the one to go shead. He was thrown 50 feet from the place where the train struck him, and his back, arms and ribs were broken.

Prostrated by the terrific heat while marching in the parade in Muskegon, Peter Peterson, a band musician, lies in a serious condition at his home in Muskegon. Many cases of heat prostrations have been reported, but Peterson's case is the only one believed to be dangerous.

The council of Flint at a recent meeting again refused to ratify the appointments of John Menton, the Socialist mayor. The mayor and three members of the council who are also Socialists, being in the minority, are unable to accomplish the legislation suggested by the advisory board, which is also socialistic.

At a meeting of the board of pub-lic works in Saginaw it was decided to erect a lift bridge over the Sagi-naw river at Johnson street. This bridge is to cost $85,000, and is voted in accordance with the bond issue which was passed last spring. According to the city engineer, bridge will be completed in 1912. FAST TRAIN IS HELD UP OUTSIDE OF ERIE, PA.

Three Trainmen Hurt-Express Car and Mail Sacks Rifled-Passengers Shot At.

Erie, Pa., July 1.-A fast mail and passenger train on the Philadelphia & Erie railroad was held up five miles from this city by a band of a dozen masked men. The mail and express cars were rifled and two of the crew C. H. Block of Erie, mail clerk; C. F. Bemis, brakeman, and H. D. Rooney, Erie, conductor, were injured. Bloc was shot in the right side, and was taken to a hospital in a dying condition. Bemis was shot in the arm and Rooney received serious injuries when he was hit with a stone thrown by one of the robbers.

A few minutes before ten o'clock, when the train was making a large curve, the engineer saw an obstruction within a few seconds by one of similar ahead. He stopped the train with all intensity, each lasting about five sec possible speed, but not before it rashed into ties and telegraph poles that had been placed across the track.
As the train came to standstill several of the passengers alighted to ascertain the trouble. Their presence drew the fire of the band of masked men and there was a stampede to reenter the cars.

An unknown passenger who, braver than the rest, caught hold of one of the robbers, was picked up bodily and thrown over a 300-foot embankment. His condition is serious. The man's head, face and body were badly cut and his clothing torn from his back.

Thus the suit appears as a further, earnest of the government's determination to deal rigorously with restrictive trade agreements. There is no indication, however, that evidence gathered by the bureau of corporations in its investigation of the Steel corporation played any part in the indictments. Only two subsidiary companies of the U. S. Steel corporation are mentioned, the American Steel & Wire Co. and the Trenton

Few things we can do in this world are so well, worth doing as the making of a beautiful and happy home. Far more than we know do the strength and beautiful and possible of our lives depend upon the homes in which we dwell. It is the true wife's kingdom there first of all places. She must be strong and beautiful, she may touch life outside in many ways if she can do it without slighting the duties are here within her own doors.

in Holland where mother and her daughters may be seen on the towpath dragging a barge or canal boat along means of a heavy rope while the hefty head of the household sits comfortably at the tiller

It must be admitted however that few of the European women who work in the fields appear in the least discontented with their lot. To be sure the explanation in many cases may be found in the fact that they know no other life and seemingly give nary a thought to the possibilities of an easier existence. Their mothers and their grandmothers before them went into the fields in this wise and with a proverbial adherance to precedent and custom they accept the responsibilities as a matter of course. At the same time there are some of these women who have given thought to the subject without having the nonder ing make any difference in their mental attitude. On the contrary some of them grow actually as gressive in their contention that it is the duty of a wife to be her lusband's life partner and co worker in fact as well as in name and that if the husband's occupation is tilling the soil she should lend a hand in the field work just as she would expect to stand for hours daily behind the counter if her helpmate were a small shopkeeper.

Field work by women in the United States is occurrence as it is on the other side of the Atlantic, but neither is it sufficiently unusual to cause much comment and it has increased greatly both in volume and va-riety in recent years. There is the difference though that work in the field as performed by such American women as engage in it does no savor of drudgery as does much of that abroad and furthermore it is engaged in, for the most part, purely because of personal preference. That is there is no masculine compulsion figuring in the matter nor is American farmer's wife or daughter misled by the fallacy that she is not doing her share if she does not perform manual labor in the fields under cultivation.

About the only circumstances in which we find the women of our farming communities going into the fields not exactly through a choice of their own is at harvest season when there is a scarcity of labor. It sometimes happens that farmers, particularly those in the more isolated sections of the west and middle west, find-it im possible to secure, for love or money, the needed harvest hands and rather than see the ripened grain lost for lack of harvesters their wives, sisters and daughters have,-all credit to them for it,-come to the rescue and performed the work of men in the harvest field. In not a few instances women volunteers have under such circumstances donned men's clothing and the almost unanimous verdict is that the advantage from the standpoint of utility more than counterbalance any detriment in appearances.

But, as has been said, most of the American women who are today working in the fields are doing so purely because they prefer it to some other means of making livelihood. This is true of the berry pickers who if they chose could earn nearly as much as seamstresses or clerks in stores and it is true likewise of the increasing of women who are engaging in truck gardening and fruit raising and like occupations. However, perhaps the most interesting phase of the whole situation is the vast increase among the women in the fields of those who are not only there on their own initiative but who are also proprietors as it were rather than hired laborers or even co-workers who subscribe to the policy of family co-operation.

The present "back to the soil" movement is no doubt responsible in great measure for the in-crease in this class of women in the fields, and influence has likewise been exerted by the growing realization that a woman can woo health quite as effectually by farm work close to nature forovided, of course, she does not overtax her strength) as she can by sitting all day on a hotel portico at the most famous of health resorts. We varied manifestations of this new fever of American women to get into the fields for pleasure as well as profit. On the one hand we have women, who must needs be selfthe spectacle of supporting buying and working often without any male help whatever,-small truck and poultry farms located sufficiently near some large to insure a good market for the produce of the farm at first hand and mayhap without the payment of a slice to the commission merchant, providing the woman farmer can cultivate her own circle of customers. To go to the other extreme we see at every government "land open-ing." unmarried women in increasing numbers

THINGS GO

The ability to rest is an art. Most women either rush and tear at things all day long and never give their overstrained nerves a rest or they are indolent and indulge in an afternoon sleep, which makes them dull. A cat nap of a quarter of an hour after luncheon is the best beauty preservative possible. But sleeping is not always resting Neither is doing nothing. A change of view or of cupation is often the greatest rest and, if the art of relaxation has been mastered, sitting with the hands limply in the lap, with the head resting footstool will remove the strain from tired nerves.

Many women find going to the theater a rest, and others make a habit of keeping a little knitting or crochet work handy and can quite dismiss the cares of the day as soon as the fingers start is she who can sit down in the midst of dirt and confusion to finish a good book. There is a housekeeping horror who cannot see any brightness in the piano. mind for the average farmer to allow to his wife the "buttet and egg money" but of late years when both these commodities have mounted on more than one occasion to fancy prices the income has swelled so remarkably as to prove a revelation to the farm mistresses. Women who had only spending money heretofore from this source suddenly found themselves with indepen-

The to-be-expected sequel was the result. women of the farms receiving such object lessons of the profits that might be theirs if they took up these "side lines" in real earnest have lost no time in exploring the possibilities of the situation. Many a rural housewife who formerly kept a dozen chickens now has hundreds with an equipment of incubators and all the other aids to such activities. Bee keeping has likewise had a boom and so has the raising of pigeons, the cultivation of early and late vegetables under glass and numerous other kindred activities which, though making no undue strain upon a woman's strength and materially to the bulk of her pocketbook. Not a few of the "abandoned farms" of New England which have lately been rejuvenated owe the transformation to women who have worked out their solveties through a sort of intensive farming in which more often than not the fair sex have had little assisfor, be it known, hired help is as scarce in some of the farming sections of New England as it is many hundreds of miles farther west.

An interesting side light on the situation is that up to date agricultural colleges are now fitting girls for work in the fields or anywhere else on the farms. In these institutions the young women are studying side by side with their brothers way through and gaining a clearer insight than has heretofore been possible into the practical side of farm husbandry. It is a decided innovation, this plan of teaching the young women, from a scientific basis, all that can be put to use on a farm,-inside or outside the farm house. Under this scheme the farm girl acquires knowledge relative to the soil. plant growth and animal life. In short she learns (from practical demonstration as well as out of books) all that can be taught about field agriculture, dairy practice, etc., as well as the mysteries of cookery and dressmaking and home manage-Incidentally it may be noted that much attention is being devoted to fruit raising, an occupation which seems to be proving attractive to a great number of the feminine recruits who have lately taken to tilling the soil as a means of liveli-

Make yourself comfortable and everybody around you—that is a good password for this life. There is altogether too much said in encourgement of "temperament" and "nerves." It is well to have them; just as it is well to have teeth and eyes and feet, but they are to serve and not dominate us. Learn to rest your tired nerver and years and the chief knows that another ten years relax from housekeeping cares.

STRANGE ADAPTATIONS HAVE BEEN NOTED.

Friendly Relations Often Formed Be tween Cats and Dogs-Story of French Chicks That Had a Feline Foster Mother.

The cases in which cats and dogs have formed close relations are, of course too numerous to mention. It really seems as if there were no animal friendship so strong and lasting as that between cats and dogs when once it is formed. It is well known that mother cats when deprived of their new born progeny will adopt puppies, rabbits, monkeys or almost any other tender young creatures that may be handy. But there recently came to light a case for which there is no such apparent explanation.

A cat and a female fox terrier, which had brought into the world their progeny at about the same time, cat taking the pupples to bring up and the dog the kittens. The exchange was satisfactory, and both litters were brought in good health to the weahable stage. Nobody knows what led to such abnormal conduct. A somewhat similar case is reported from Halle, Germany. A householder there having a female cat and a female dog with families of young, felt that his house was in danger of becoming a sort of Noah's ark, and took away and drowned all the kittens. The pupples found favor in his eyes. Deprived of her little ones, the cat began to "spell" the female dog in taking care of the pupples.
