On account of the tremendously heavy vote cast, the great number of offices voted on, and the fact that there were three parties in the field, result Lindquist is a winner in the eleventh, but in the twelfth there is the Beet Joe" has pulled through victor in another thugh battle.
 The early returns are as a rule only on president and governor, though fragmentary returns on the suffrage amendment indicate that the vote on that proposition is very evenly divided. The returns on congressmen are very scattering. For congressman at-large what figures are at hand show Kelley and Frensdorf running neck and neck, with Hill, the Bull Moose candidate, third. In the second district Beakes, Dem., leads Wedemeyer, the present Re publican incumbent. In the third the election of Carney, Dem., over J. M. C. Smith is indicated. In the fiifth Edwin F. Sweet, present Democratic congressman, is being given a hard race by Carl E. Mapes, Republicar. There is a possibility that Sam W. Smith, Rep., has been defeated in the sixth by Alva M. Cummins, Democrat, and in the seventh Cramton, Bell Mississippi's Majority 105 COC. and Sherman are all closely bunched. The Deriverate majority in Missis In the eighth, as was anticipated "Chandler, the Progressive, pulled enough votes away from Fordney to bring Purcell, Democrat, close up and it will take the full returns of the district to show whether or not "Sigar Bee Joe" has pulled hrough victor in another tough battle. Sears, Progressive, failed to make the snowing expected of him in the ninth, and McLaughlin has probably won. Too few returns are in from the tenth, the biggest district in the state.
