NEWS FROM THE STATE CAPITOL

SOME FEATURES OF THE COMING SESSION ARE VERY INTEREST. ING TO THE PEOPLE OF THE STATE.

THE UNITED STATES SENATOR AND THE CONTESTED ELECTIONS.

Latest Facts and Goscip Gathered at the Seat of Law Making Which Show That the Opening Will. Be Lively.

[By Gurd M. Hayes.]

There will be thirty-four democrats in the house during the 1913 session unless some of the prospective states men lose their seats as a result of the contests that are to be filed when the solons get down to business, and it is apparent that there are several demas party leaders. This conclusion is reached from the fact that there will be a contest in the democratic caucus over the nomination for a speaker. Rep. Blasner, of Barry county, was among the first to toss his hat into the ring as the democratic candidate for the speakership. Rep. Farmer, of Livingston county, who of the democratic veterans in the lower house is in a receptive mood and Rep. Thomas Fralick, of Manistee county, says that he will not support Glasner and that he is a candidate himself. It looks as for a fine little scrap at the very outset, but some of the leaders declare that all of the differences will be ironed out and that the members of the most time minority party will work togethr to enact some desirable leg-Islation and assist in making the administration of Woodbridge N. Ferris a success. Contests and U. S. Senator. Owing to the fact that there will be several contests to be decided in each house the exact personnel of the legislature may not be determined before Jan. 14, the day on which the joint session will be held and a United States senator will be elected. In some of the districts it will be necessary to recount all the ballots but in the meantime the candidates to whom certificates of election have been issued will be seated, and they will continue in office unless adverse decisions are returned through the recounts. It is to decide all of the contests before the election of the United tSates senator takes place, and there is some ques-tion as to whether the men occupying contested seats will be allowed to participate. The statute requires the election of a United States senator to be held the second Tuesday of the session and there is apparently no way of getting around this provision. Must Have Clear Title. Auditor General Fuller has announced that he will pay neither saling examiners ary nor mileage to any member of per annum. the legislature whose title to a seat is not clear. This will mean that some of the solons will receive no money after the onenfor at least two weeks ing-of the session and it will be necessary for them to bring along a liberal supply of cash to tide them over until everything is settled. The Progressive Plans.

It is evident that the national progressives in the house and senate inend to be recokened with this session. One of the leaders declared that they would demand recognition in the way of committee appointments and that they would get it or a fine little row m'ght result.

There will be a state wide conference of the national progressives in Lansing, Jan. 7, followed by a banquet in the evening at which time a legislative program will be mapped out and an effort made to frame a slate of candidates to be nominated at the spring convention. Some of the most important propositions to be considered this session will be fostered by progressive members of the house and senate unless the republicans and democrats slip in shead by introducing similar bills before the members of the new party get into action. Some of the progressive leaders have made it plain that they will support any measures that are possessed of merit, but will fight any partisan bills prepared by the republicans and democrats for political purposes only.

Governor Osborn's Declaration Governor Osborn's declaration that he is still a member of the republican party and that he intends to fight its battles when he considers the cause just, and go after it hammer and tongs when he thinks that it is in the wrong, is being viewed from various angles by the habitues of the state capitol. Regardless of the fact that Governor Osborn carried on an active campaign in behalf of Col. Roosevelt during the nostilities last fall, many of the state officials declare that the chief executive is just as good a republican as thousands of others in the state who they are apparently willing to bury the hatchet. Convention and Banquets.

The next republican state convintion will be held in Lansing Feb. 11. In the evening following the deliberations of the delegates the annual banquet of $10,000 is worth considering.

the Ingham County Zach Chandles Republican club will be held and party leaders are planning to make the event one of the biggest pow wows of the season. Governor Hadley, of Missouri, is to be one of the speakers and with the legislature in sesion it is expected that the coming spring convention will be the largest in years.

The Pure Fod Laws.

James W. Helme, who succeeds Gilman Dame as dairy and food commissioner proposes a number of important changes in the pure food laws of Michigan and he proposes to extend every effort to get his ideas enacted into law. Helme was deputy dairy and food commissioner for two years and he knows thoroughly the needs of the department. For several months he has been gathering statisics from other states and says tha Michigan's food laws do not compare favorably with Minnesota, New York,

Indiana, Kansas and several others. Helme intends to inaugurate a sys tem of civil service in the dairy and food department and has already announced that some of the present employes, who served under the republican administration will be retained. ocrats who would like to be recognized | Efficiency according to the new dairy and food commissioner, will count for more than political pull, as he says that the men who inspect our foods and analyze our drinks should be thoroughly competent to perform their duties.

Change in Banking Laws.

Many important changes in the banking laws of the state will be advocated during the present session by Banking Commissioner E. H. Doyle, and his efforts will be backed by the state and national bankers' associations of Michigan. Among the laws to though the democrats were planning be proposed will be an act to give the banking commission the authority to investigate the character, fitness and responsibility of people seeking to organize new banks. Other banking laws that will be proposed are as fololws:

Requiring all officers or employes o banks handling or having access to the cash, to furnish bonds.

Providing machinery whereby state bank may enforce its statutory lien on its own stock, and providing for the cancellation and sale of the same.

Providing that directors shall subscribe in their oath that at least ten shares of bank stock is not or will not be tarnsferred or hypothecated.

Providing that twice each year state banks will render a report of all loans or liens of credit exceding $5,000 and upwards.

Providing that any bank designated as a reserve depository shall cease to be such if it shall not conform to the pointed out that it may be impossible provisions of the banking law as to reserves, etc. Changing the law with reference to steamship bonds in the direction of requiring that a steamship must have at least a carrying capacity of 7,000 tons rather than 5,000 tons. Making it unlawful for any officer, director or employe of a bank, or any other person, to overdraw their account, and providing a penalty there-

Increasing the salary of the banking examiners from $2.000 to $2,500

Fixing the loan limit to directors, officers or employes of any bank to 10 per cent of capital and surplus, and then only upon approved collateral or endorsements.

Requiring the commissioner to examine into the conditions and affairs of bank receiverships before directing payment of any dividends, or accepting final report.

Providing that the commissioner shall take possession of all banks whose corporate existence expires where such bank's have failed to receive approval of extention of corporste existence on account of not remov- defendants that he would give those ing certain bad debts or doubtful as-

Providing for the publication of 700 anual reports of the state banking commission.

The Junkets

Under the disguise of business trips the old-time junkets are again to be feature of the legislature. At least this is the idea of some of the leaders in the house and senate, and unless those who are economically inclined succeed in nutting a damper on the am bitions of those who would visit the various state institutions before voting on the appropriation bills, there will be junkets.

The word "junket" has a distasteful sound to some of the legislators and they insist that the biennial trips shall be chistened "business trips" if the outings again become a part of the legislative procedure, but it is apparent that the title of the time-honored custom which was abolished while Herbert F. Baker was speaker, will not be so easily forgotten

Will Use Parcel Post. Secretary of State Frederick C. Martindale, is the first state official to utilize the parcels post in preference to the service offered by the express companies, and the innovation in the state department will result in an an flual saving of $10,000. All of the automobile licenses plates are handled in Secretary Martindale's department and hundreds of pairs of plates are shipped daily to various splift on the head of the ticket at the parts of the state. The express charge last election, and for the good of all on a single pair of plates average 30 cents, while the average rost of sending the number tags through the mail will not exceed 10 cents. This year it is expected that there will be more than 50,000 licensed automobiles and motor cycles in Michigan and a saving of Daniel Buckley, of Davenport, Ia., and Herman Seiffert, of Milwaukee, were declared not guilty and freed and the 38 other defendants in the dynamite conspiracy trial were found guilty on 52 counts of conspiracy and unlawfully transporting dynamite, in the verdict brought in in Indianapolis, Ind., at 9:50 o'chek Saturday morning.

The jury brought in a general verdict. The defendants sat with faces grim and set. A light of happiness was on Buckley's and Seiffert's faces.

Wachmeister, of Detroit, cried like a baby at the verdict.

Judge Anedrson dismissed the jury after thanking them profusely for their "good and faithful rook".

Court adjourned after receiving the verdict.

More than a half hundred deputies surrounded the defendants in a double line. When the verdict had been read, W. N. Harding for the defense, attempted to address the court, but he was told there was nothing to be said. The jurors departed immediately.

The verdict took only a moment to read.
