FERRIS DOES NOT OBJECT TO VISIT

NO FRICTION BETWEEN STATE AND ATTORNEY OF LABOR DEPARTMENT.

DENSMORE'S MISSION IS ONE OF PEACE.

Governor Announces After Conference That Instructions to Attorney Do Not Interfere With State's Prerogative.

Big Rapids, Mich.—After a long conference with John B. Densmore, solicitor of the department of labor, Gov. Ferris announced that he would have no objection to the federal attorney's continuing his trip to the copper country.

"He was not sent to investigate any strike conditions," said the governor. "His journey is purely one of conciliation. I am certain of this because he showed me his instructions. He is going there in the hope of uniting the two factions.

"Of course, I would make no objections to any attempt at bringing peace to the copper country, whether through federal agents or otherwise, but I would resent any intrusion of the government into the strike situation. This is a matter for Michigan to attend to, and all we ask is that we be allowed to handle our own legal affairs. So long as Mr. Densmore confines his attention to conciliation, there can be no objection."

Port Huron To Lose Eight Saloons.

Port Huron, Mich.—As a result of mandamus proceedings started by the heirs of Stephen Allen for the re-issuance of his liquor license to his relatives, Judges Law and Tappan rendered a decision Saturday that will ouster eight saloons from the city.

There are 45 saloons operating where only 37 should be permitted under the Warner-Cramton law, and the new city commission, which took office Jan. 1, will be called upon to refuse licenses to eight saloon men next April. Just which saloons are illegally operating was not decided by the court, but the law was made plain to the new commission in order that proper action will be taken when the new licenses are issued.

Planning Boys' Conference for U. P.

Ishpeming, Mich.—The committee having in charge the general arrangements for the upper peninsula boys' conference to be held in Escanaba next spring met here to discuss plans and means for entertaining the 300 delegates who are expected to attend. Last year's conference was held here and attracted 250 boys and leaders from 23 communities in this section of the state. Because of the recent state boys' conference in Saginaw, with 1,048 boys present, new enthusiasm was awakened among upper peninsula boys, it is said, and a much bigger conference than last year will be the result. The committee will also set the date for the meeting.

Ludington Churches May Unite.

Ludington, Mich.—Shortly after the first of the year there will be started in Ludington a movement that may result in the merging of the four English-speaking churches—the Methodist, Presbyterian, Congregational and Baptist. At the union Thanksgiving service of these churches, Rev. R. S. McGregor, pastor of the Methodist church, gave a powerful address on this subject, and he has announced that he will continue his work along this line by a series of lectures, beginning some time in January.

It is claimed by those back of the movement that these four churches joined into one would make one of the most influential organizations in the state.

Adrian Case Again Appealed.

Adrian, Mich.—By a decision of the board of arbitration, under the direction of Mr. Reeves, a state board member, the insurance companies of the Peerless Fence Co. must pay $4,731 for the death of an employee, A. D. Hamlin, who was killed at the Peerless plant in August last. At the time an appeal was made to have the judgment contested.

Because of the disagreement over the rate of wages that should be claimed by the heirs under the compensation law, the lawyers for the defendant have again appealed the case, basing their claims on the fact that no decision has been handed down by the courts on the question involved.

Merchants of Caro are expecting to get a canning factory to locate here. Samples of meat from the beds in the vicinity of Dalton have been taken by Michigan Agricultural College experts for examination. It is their belief that the meat may be used in preserving acid soils.

The Standard Condensed Co. of Detroit, a co-operative concern, has confessed its inability to pay its creditors and will consent to satisfaction of a bankruptcy. It will be up to the stockholders at the annual meeting, January 15, to decide whether to reorganize or to permit the plant to be sold for the debts.

BODIES OF FIFTY-NINE ARE BURIED

GREAT FUNERAL OF FIRE PANIC VICTIMS AT CALUMET SUNDAY.

MANY THOUSAND MARCH IN THE PARADE.

All Factions Are United For a Time By the Great Grief Which Hangs Over the Strike Cursed Region.

Calumet, Mich.—In inexpressible sadness, Calumet Sunday buried 59 bodies of children, men and women who, Christmas eve, found death in the panic-ridden Italian hall building during the Christmas tree entertainment for the little ones.

Shuddering still from the stunning blow of the catastrophe, the people of the entire copper country and many from outside points paid deep tribute to the dead.

All factions were united for the time by the common sorrow and bereavement and gathered about the long rows of graves as the caskets were lowered into the earth, a great multitude breathed a prayer for the dead and a petition for lasting peace, in the district strike-ridden nearly half the year of 1913.

It was more than an hour and a half from the time the caskets were taken from the hearse until the end of the procession reached the cemetery gates. It is estimated that between 10,000 and 15,000 persons marched in the parade.

The dead were buried, most of them in trenches, 25 on the Catholic side and the remainder in the Protestant. Following the interment and the brief services at the gravesides, conducted by the priests and ministers of churches formerly attended by the deceased, a public service eulogy was conducted at a stand near the entrance to the cemetery. Then, with darkness coming on, the great multitude broke up and departed for their homes.

Cars Knock Down Wall.

Hillsdale, Mich.—R. J. Corlett believes he is the victim of a jinx. Last summer fire starting in his lumber yard caused a loss of $40,000. He has just completed one of the finest lumber yards in the state and Friday his building was damaged to the extent of $1,000.

Lake Shore engine was switching coal to the yards of Aldrich & Co., adjoining and the cars were pushed into the two story brick building erected by Mr. Corlett, causing 40 feet of the wall to collapse. Three men and two horses had close calls when the wall fell in.

Mayor Upheld in Police Scrap.

Benton Harbor, Mich.—The city council can't fire policemen-at-will, according to a decision by Judge Willis Perkins, of Grand Rapids, in a local case brought before him. The case grew out of the council's act in dismissing the city's police force and Mayor Miller keeping officers at work despite a vote of the council. Six aldermen sought a mandamus to compel the mayor to suspend the officers.

Judge Perkins holds that the power of removal lies with the mayor, as it is he who appoints, and not the council, the latter merely confirming appointments.

Michigan Man to Fly Over Sea.

St. Joseph, Mich.—William Bastar, of this city, announced that he and Jack Vilas, aviator, would early in the spring attempt a flight across the Atlantic from New York to Liverpool. Bastar is associated with Vilas in the building of a $50,000 aeroplane especially constructed for this flight. They will attempt to capture the London Daily Mail's offer of $50,000 for the first successful flight across the Atlantic. Vilas and Bastar last summer flew across Lake Michigan to Chicago.

To Electricity N. C. Division.

Hastings, Mich.—The work of laying the third rail on the former Allegan division of the M. C. R. R., purchased by the M. T. U. system last summer, is progressing in the southwestern part of Barry county, where the railway crosses Prairieville township.

The road will be electrified between Battle Creek and Monteth, where the line will join the electric railway now being constructed between Kalamazoo and Grand Rapids.

A chapter of sons of the American Revolution will be organized in St. Clair county.

Sergeant Edward H. Brown, Co. E, Third Infantry, U. S. A., stationed at Fort Leavenworth, has been detailed in duty as instructor of the Michigan National Guard.

That all M. A. C. students will be wearing the regulation army uniform most of the time is possible if Lieut. DeLaney, of the military science department, can get the captains of the different companies to agree to his plan. He maintains it would be cheaper for the students and more conservative and add to the spirit de corps of the student cadet squad.

Washington.—Nine federal appointments, aggregating annual salaries of $13,600, are due for Michigan soon, under the allowance of $900,000 for collection of the income tax.

The Michigan appointments will be made by the commissioner of internal revenue on recommendations by Congressman Boreman, Congressman Stewart, National Committeeman, Edwin O. Wood and Assistant Secretary of Commerce Edwin F. Sweet, former congressman from the Grand Rapids district.

The nine positions follow:
For the First Michigan district: One office deputy at $1,600; four office deputies at $1,200 each; one field deputy at $1,600, with $800 expenses.
For the Fourth Michigan district: Two office deputies at $1,200 each; one field deputy at $1,600, with $800 expenses. There may be, in addition, an agent and an inspector appointed in Michigan, but Commissioner Osborne has not decided on this.

Flint Suffers Two Fires.

Flint, Mich.—Two fires, one resulting in $100,000 damage and the other causing $30,000 damage, in the hardware store of George W. Hubbard & Co., and the United States Brass and Iron Foundry Co. foundry building early Saturday morning.

The Hubbard fire, which resulted in the largest loss, broke out at 11:30 o'clock Friday night and before it was extinguished and while practically the whole fire department was fighting the flames the alarm for the second fire was sounded.

Three firemen nearly lost their lives in the Hubbard fire when a floor loaded with many stoves fell on them and the watchman in the foundry was nearly suffocated while raising the fire department in the offices. The fire, however, were Charles Norget, Fred Richards and Sylvester Root. They were inside of the building on the ground floor when suddenly the floor above caved in. Luckily it arched above them and they were able to crawl from beneath the debris into the street.

Richard was the farthest in and for a few moments was caught by the heavy timbers, but Norget, who was directly behind him, went to his aid.

Boys Drown at Grand Ledge.

Grand Ledge, Mich.—Elmer McDaniels, 12, lost his life Friday while trying to save Harold Sackett, 11, through the ice in Grand river. Sackett also perished.

George Ward, 16, and McDaniels, in attempting to rescue Sackett, broke through the ice, which was less than an inch thick. Ward succeeded in climbing out, but Sackett had disappeared, and McDaniels clung to the ice. Others were attracted by Ward's cries for help, but McDaniels went down before assistance reached him. The accident occurred in a depth of about 12 feet of water.

McDaniels is a son of Mr. and Mrs. William McDaniels of this city, and one of a family of ten children, and Sackett is a son of Mrs. Jester Sackett, who came here with her children from Reno, Nevada, about two months ago. She had gone to Durand on the morning train to see another son.

Opera House Is Burned.

Hastings, Mich.—Reed's opera house was destroyed by fire early Saturday morning with a loss of between $4,000 and $7,000. Insurance, $2,000. J. L. Reed, owner, believes the building was set on fire.

The city is now without a public hall. Mr. Reed will rebuild in the spring.

Governor Ferris has announced the appointment of Dr. Claud H. Hildreth of Manchester as a member of the state board of dental examiners. Dr. John H. Hill, of Detroit, was Hildreth's principal opponent for the appointment.

FEDERAL ARMY BADLY ROUTED

MEXICAN FEDERAL ARMY IS HALTED AT OJINAGA, JUST OPPOSITE PRESIDIO, TEXAS.

FEDERALS FLEE ACROSS BORDER BUT ARE SENT BACK.

The Rebels Began Like a Maddened Horde to Swarm Toward the Federals With Cries of "Mexico Libre."

Presidio, Tex.—The northern division of the Mexican army apparently was utterly demoralized Monday night.

With its dead and wounded stretched over the hills and some of its soldiers fleeing in a panic across the United States border, only to be pushed back again, the 4,000 federals who had made a dramatic retreat from Chihuahua to Ojinaga, the little Mexican village opposite here, were scattered in all directions as a result of their first battle with the rebels.

Forty-two hundred rebels sent by General Villa from Chihuahua literally sent terror throughout the federal ranks. It was preceded by a three hours' battle begun after dark in which the rebels, marching through the deep canyons south of Ojinaga, completely wiped out the federal outposts. The news of the defeat at La Mula-Pass and La Mplato, giving the rebels an unobstructed pass to within firing distance of Ojinaga itself, caused a frenzied retreat among the federals.

Forced to Re-Cross River.
About 400 of them plunged into the river to seek safety on the American side. They were forced back again by Major McNames, commander of the American forces.

A mutiny also developed in the Ojinaga forts. General Salazar and General Orozco believing their men were about to desert, stood with drawn revolvers threatening to shoot those who did not obey. A number of the federals fell at the feet of their generals.

The badly wounded only were allowed to remain on this side and these were cared for by Dr. Burnside, of the United States army. The killed on both sides was small, but many were reported wounded.

In their rear after killing the outposts, the rebels were said to have left behind a field strewn with disabled federals who had fallen, face downward, from exhaustion in their efforts to gain the fort.

Moyer Will Probably Recover.

Chicago.—With a federal investigation into the facts surrounding the strike in the Calumet copper regions demanded, Charles H. Moyer, president of the Western Federation of Miners, is fighting a battle with death at St. Luke's hospital. Reports from the hospital are that Moyer has a good chance for recovery, barring complications.

In spite of denials sent out from Calumet that Moyer was molested, he and his co-worker, Charles H. Tanner, deported with him, charge that the miners' president was shot, clubbed and dragged through the streets of Hancock and forcibly put aboard the train.

To Establish Information Bureaus.

Washington.—As a further move to carry out his plans for the development of American trade with foreign countries by a reorganization of the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce, Secretary Redfield, of the department of commerce, let it be known that a series of information bureaus are to be established in the principal cities of the country. The purpose of these bureaus will be to bring American business men in closer touch with markets abroad.

Value of California's Minerals.

Sacramento.—The mineral output of California for 1913 will total $95,000, 300, according to a report made public by F. McNutt Hamilton, state mineralogist. This is an increase of $4,000,000 over 1912.

The petroleum yield, which has strengthened its hold on first place, will show a production of 92,000,000 barrels; valued at $43,500,000, an increase of $1,500,000 over last year. The value of gold mined this year will aggregate $20,000,000.

A fire on the roof of the D. & M. passenger station at Cheboygan, was extinguished by the boys throwing snowballs at it. By the time the department arrived the fire was out.

Louis Steiner, of Saginaw, 35 years old and married, a laundry wagon driver, is seriously injured in St. Mary's hospital as the result of being run into by a street car when he drove his wagon into the car to avoid running over a baby.

More than 6,000 acres of sugar beet land has been contracted for by the Selawing plant of the Michigan Sugar Co. for next year. The company has just completed the most successful campaign in its history, having worked 44,855 tons of beets into sugar.

NOT A SENTIMENTAL SPEECH

Lieut. John H. Towers of the United States navy is the man who intrinsically escaped death last summer when he fell 1,600 feet with an aeroplane into the waters of Chesapeake bay. He is also the man who played the part of ardent young lover in the moving pictures produced by the navy department some time ago—pictures for which $20,000 worth of powder was used and seven warships employed in a great battle scene.

In the picture, the young hero, the naval officer, comes upon the scene to bid a tragic farewell to his lovely sweetheart. His lips move slowly and with effort. The girl looks up at him in sadness. It is easy to imagine the tender words from his lips.

According to those who saw the pictures made, what he actually did say at this juncture was:

NEW LANGUAGE for NORWEGIANS

WHEN 50 years ago Henrik Ibsen in "Peer Gynt"—that most remarkable of all his metrical works—held up to ridicule in the person of "Huhu" the language reformers of Norway, he little thought that the movement, then in its infancy, would develop into a national issue of such importance as to have brought about the downfall of a powerful administration, and in the accession to office of a liberal cabinet under the premiership of General Brandt. Indeed, the last general election in Norway was fought mainly on this issue of language, and resulted in an overwhelming victory of the left party, which is committed to the reform of the vernacular.

Perhaps the word reform, used in Christiania, is misleading. For the measure now in process of adoption is not the revision of the existing language, namely, Danish, but the adoption of an entirely different one, known as the Landsmaal. It was invented toward 1850 by the eminent Norwegian philologist, Ivar Aasen, who, in its construction, embodied much of the ancient Norse of the Sagas, as well as some of the dialects of the remoter regions of the kingdom, where the peasantry have clung through the four centuries of Danish domination to the tongue spoken by their forebears in the days of the Vikings.

Employing these and other materials, adapting them to modern requirements, Ivar Aasen succeeded in evolving so melodious and so poetic a language that the vast majority of his countrymen, commencing with the rural population, have accepted it for their songs, their plays, their sermons, their schools, and their vernacular. It has caught their fancy; it appeals to their pride in the romantic past when the way of the Norse Vikings extended over Scandinavia, northern Germany, Russia, and the greater portion of the British Isles; and it has become identified in their eyes with Norwegian nationalism.

The spurious Danish, which Ibsen wrote and which has been the official language of the Norwegians for more than 400 years—recalls to them those centuries of Danish oppression and persecution, when, robbed of her independence, Norway was ruled from Copenhagen, not even as a province, but as a colony, fit only for spoliation, taxation, and tyranny. Everything that serves to recall Danish domination is hateful in Norway. Indeed, his Danish birth is the only real cause of the unpopularity of King Haakon's sagacious and conscientious rule.

Early this year Norway will celebrate the centennial anniversary of her emancipation from Denmark, of the recovery of her independence as a separate kingdom with a constitution of her own, though united by dynastic ties with Sweden until 1905. It is proposed to signalize the national rejoicing in honor of the occasion by the legislative adoption of Ivar Aasen's Landsmaal as the official and national language of Norway. The government, an overwhelming majority of the Storting, the press, and the bulk of the people have all determined upon the change, and a royal commission appointed jointly by crown, cabinet and parliament is now engaged in completing the necessary arrangements for the execution of the proclamation decreeing the new vernacular, which is to inaugurate the centennial.

It will be a remarkable and unique event. For, while there are plenty of instances of a government forcing its language upon provinces and dependencies acquired by conquest or statecraft against the wishes of their population, there has been no case until now, to my knowledge, of a people compelling its rulers to abandon the national language for an entirely new tongue. Ivar Aasen, its creator, already celebrated as a philologist, will from henceforth enjoy new and more lasting fame, and will occupy an isolated place in history, as the one man who invented and constructed a language, which so pleased and fascinated his countrymen that they relinquished the tongue that had been theirs for hundreds of years, to adopt his for official and national use.

Ivar Aasen, who was the son of a small peasant farmer, was born just a hundred years ago in the district of Sandmore, and was honored on his death, in 1896, with a great public funeral at Christiania, where a national memorial is about to be erected over his tomb.

There are but two things more to be mentioned in connection with this remarkable linguistic change in Norway. The first is that Landsmaal is phonetic in its spelling. The second is that its adoption as the national vernacular will present no difficulty. For, as I have mentioned above, it has been taught in schools for 20 and 30 years past—and in Norway everybody attends school, popular education being of an extremely high order. Moreover, the people have become so accustomed to it, and have developed such a liking for it, that it is they who forced its adoption by the state.

While this question of language has thus ceased to be a subject of political strife in Norway, it remains a fertile source of trouble almost everywhere else in the world. It has been so ever since the time, when, in the words of the Old Testament, the Almighty "confounded the language" of the builders of the Tower of Babel, so that they might not understand one another's speech; thereby creating so much discord among them that they were compelled to abandon their impious undertaking. Here in the United States the trouble has been largely confined to the Roman Catholic church, the hierarchy, of which has patriotically refused to countenance proposals of any ecclesiastical or educational character calculated to interfere with the Americanization of the immigrants and of their children. In Europe, however, the language problem continues nearly everywhere to constitute an important and disturbing political issue.

Particularly is this the case in Germany and in the Austro-Hungarian empire. The latter comprises some 16 or more distinct races, each at daggers drawn with the others, and with a language of its own, the preservation of which it regards as necessary to protect it from absorption by its neighbors, and from disappearance as a national entity. To such an extent is this question of language identified with that of nationalism in the dominions of Francis Joseph that his Hiegas are convinced that they cannot fight for the one without combating for the other.

Austria and Hungary have repeatedly, during the last decade, come almost to blows about this question of language, which has created more ill-feeling between these two moieties of the dual empire than anything else since the sanguinary Magyar insurrection of 1849. The Hungarians, who defray one-half of the expenses of the imperial army, demand that their language shall be used in lieu of German for the commands given those troops stationed in the Magyar kingdom. To this, neither the monarch, nor the Austrian government, has been willing to consent, realizing that any concession in the matter would lead to similar pretensions on the part of the Greeks in Bohemia, of the Croats, of the Slovaks, of the Rumanians in Transylvania, of the Italians in the southern provinces, of the Poles in Galicia, and so along the whole gamut.

Each of the races external to the same nationalist aspirations as the Hungarians, and the quarrels which have taken place about this question of language during the last quarter of a century have done more than anything else to discredit parliamentary institutions in the dual empire and to render legislative government well nigh impossible.

Now is this strife on the subject of languages confined within the limits of Austria-Hungary? It affects very seriously the foreign relations of the latter. Formerly the Finns were renowned for their unimpeachable loyalty to the Russian crown, and it used to be a boast that no citizens of this northern grand duchy were ever to be found in revolutionary or nihilist ranks. This condition of affairs has been radically changed during the last 15 years or so by the endeavors of the St. Petersburg government to Russiasize the language of the population, compelling the use of Russian instead of Finnish not only in official, administrative, legislative, and judicial procedure and communications, but even in the schools, in the churches, and in the everyday life of the people. A similar process of Russiasization has been carried on in the German-speaking provinces of the west, and in Russian Poland, the idea being to gradually crush out of existence nationalist particularism and to weld the various non-Muscovite races of the czar's empire into a wholly Russian homogeneous unit. Thus far the experiment has proved a failure, and has only served, as also in Finland, to develop a greater hostility toward everything Russian and a more passionate attachment to their own language.

ONE GOOD TURN EVERY DAY
The Boy Scout is pledged to that for the Honor of the Organization He Belongs To.

The Boy Scout of today must be adventurous, manly and gentlemanly. When he gets up in the morning he may tie a knot in his necktie and leave the necktie outside his vest until he has done a good turn. Another way to remind himself is to wear his scout badge reversed until he has done his good turn. The good turn may not be a very big thing—help an old woman across the street; remove a banana skin from the pavement so that people may not fall; remove from streets or roads broken glass, dangerous to motor car or bicycle tires; give water to a thirsty horse, or deeds similar to these.

The scout also ought to know how to save life. He ought to be able to make a stretcher; to throw a rope to a drowning person; to drag an unconscious person from a burning building;

The Emperor of Russia King George of Great Britain

Emperor William of Germany King Haakon of Norway

King Albert of Belgium Emperor Franz Joseph of Austria

It is the same in Germany, where the imperial government has for decades past been striving its utmost to substitute the German language for Polish in the province of Posen, of German for Danish in the duchies of Schleswig and of Holstein, and of German in lieu of French in Alsace and Lorraine. The agents of the government intrusted with this work, rendered impatient by opposition and resistance, resort, as in Russia, to all sorts of harsh measures to attain their ends. Measures that must appear to the people of this country as partaking of the most intolerable tyranny and cruel oppression, especially when young children are punished for declining to repeat in school their prayers and their catechism in any other language than that in which they learned them at their mother's knee.

Belgium is literally torn asunder by the rival claims of the Flemish and the French speaking provinces for the official supremacy of their respective languages. Of the population of near 8,000,000, 52 per cent. speak Flemish and the remaining 48 per cent. French, and each moiety insists that its language should be the national tongue. So bitter has the fight become that the king has even been called upon in parliament at Brussels to consent to the partition of the country into two separate and independent states, the one embracing the Walloon, or French-speaking provinces, and the other the Flemish provinces, each having its own autonomous form of government, and united only by dynastic ties, in the person of the sovereign. This fight about the languages in Belgium is a perpetual source of political discussion, invading every form and walk in life, and has contributed more than anything else to obstruct legislation, and to interfere with the progress of this amazingly rich little kingdom.

In Greece a few years ago there were sanguinary riots throughout the country, notably between those who favored the modern Greek version of the Scrip language, where the Bible was concerned. Even Great Britain has had her troubles in connection with the question of language. A short time before Joseph Chamberlain retired from the secretaryship of state for the colonies, he stirred up such a hornet's nest at Malta, by some unpopular decrees concerning the language to be used in official matters on the island, that he was forced to rescind it, this being the only instance in his long and masterful career at the colonial department of his having to beat a retreat. Moreover, to this day the rival claims of the Tamil, or Dutch patois, spoken in South Africa, and of English, to official and administrative supremacy, remain a source of dissensions, which are not without bitterness. They every now and then become acute, and seriously interfere with the reconciliation of the Boer element to British rule.

While it is impossible to refrain from admiring the liberal policy which the British government has adopted in South Africa in relation to this problem of languages, it should be a source of amazement that Germany, Russia, and other European powers should be so blind to the lessons of history in this particular connection.

FUNNY TALES

"Hang it!" said Oppman to his daughter. "You made a great selection at the public library! Of the three books you brought me one is about an orphan asylum, another about an old folks' home and the third concerns a pesthouse."

"But they're good books," insisted Julia Oppman. "I don't want to read about a pesthouse, and I have all I can do keeping out of the poorhouse myself, so I don't care to read about it," growled her father. "Can't you get me a cheerful sort of book?"

"Now, papa," objected Violet Oppman, "you always read the books first and then tell us about them before we have a chance to read them ourselves."

"That spoils the book," assented Mrs. Oppman. "He tears the book all to pieces and destroys our appetite for it by telling us that both the hero and heroine are fools."

"Well, they mostly are," said Oppman. "That pesthouse story that you are growling about is really a funny story. It—"

"A what?" demanded Oppman. "Yes, I suppose it is. So is the story about the two old folks walking hand in hand to the poorhouse."

"Well, there are quite little things in it, and the orphan story is so fascinating," said Mrs. Oppman. "The little girl reconciles an unhappy pair, and it all turns out well."

"Well," explained Oppman, "I didn't read as far as that. I can't stand to read about orphan children getting abused. I suppose that was a funny yarn about the girl who moved to town to get work, and there was an elm tree that—" she fell in love with, and when it was cut down she died. Where was the joke in that?"

"Oh," said Violet, "that was a sweetly sad story. But the pest house story is uproariously funny all the way through."

"I never noticed it. They were in the pesthouse and that institution overlooked the graveyard. The idea of being separated from your family and put there to contemplate the graveyard strikes me as anything but funny!"

"Well, if you had just read a little further you would have come to the fun. The smallpox patients organized a baseball team and played every afternoon. They called themselves 'The Pesthouse Pippins.' They challenged all comers, and there wasn't a team in the state that dared to take them!"

"Here, gimme that book!" cried Oppman, and to resuscitate a person overcome by gas fumes. He ought also to know the method of stopping runaway horses, and he should have the presence of mind and the skill to calm a panic and deal with street and other accidents.

This means that the Boy Scout must always be in the pink of condition. A boy cannot do things like these unless he is healthy and strong. Therefore, he must be systematically taking exercise, playing games, running and walking. It means that he must sleep enough hours to give him the necessary strength, and, if possible, to sleep very much in the open, or at least with the windows open.

It means also that he should take a cold bath often, rubbing dry with a rough towel. He should breathe through the nose and not through the mouth. He should at all times train himself to endure hardships. From "Boy Scouts of America."

Housework is a Burden

The daily cares of keeping house and bringing up a family are hard enough for a healthy woman. The tired, weak mother who struggles from morn to night with a lame aching back is carrying a heavy burden.

Many women believe that urinary disorders and backache are "female troubles" and must be endured. But men suffer the same aches and troubles when the kidneys are sick.

Women are especially subject to kidney disease. Tight clothing, indoor work, the ordeals of childbirth, the worry, and the stooping, straining and striving of housework all help to bring it on. At first the trouble may be only backache, sick headache, dizziness and a drowsy, dull languid feeling, but this condition is dangerous to neglect, for dropsy, gravel and deadly Bright's disease start in some such small way.

Don't be discouraged. When backache, nervousness and irregular or painful passages of the kidney secretions begin to bother you, use Doan's Kidney Pills, the remedy that has brought new life and strength to thousands of suffering women. There are no poisonous nor narcotic drugs in

The following case is typical of the cure effected by Doan's Kidney Pills. Careful testimony is the best evidence.

UNCONSCIOUS FOR HOURS

Michigan Woman Told of Awful Suffering

Mrs. George Helsen, Inkster, Mich., says: "Following the birth of my third child, I began to notice signs of kidney trouble. I had terrible, bearing-down pains through the small of my back and my blood was filled with uric acid. My limbs, ankles and feet swelled twice their natural size and a finger pressed left a dent for hours. My sight was affected, my head dizzy and I would be for hours unconscious. I got so thin that no one would have recognized me. The kidney secretions contained white, fatty substances and it allowed to stand became thick. I had a doctor and he said my kidneys weren't filtering the impurities from my system. Nothing had the least effect. In fact, I was getting worse. My sister brought me a box of Doan's Kidney Pills and when I found they were helping me, I kept on taking them. I got stronger, my kidneys began to act right and the swelling went down. The headaches and dizzy spells disappeared. I was able to take care of my household, feeling like a different woman. Doan's Kidney Pills deserve every bit of credit for curing me."

SAVED BY PRESENCE OF MIND
Jew Outwitted Russian Guard by Imitation That Must Have Been Remarkable.

Aaron Seidentaft is a clever fellow, as you may understand when you learn how his quick wit recently brought him safely out of a situation of the utmost peril. Aaron desired to visit Russia, but he had no passport. He said to his friend Mendel:

"You have a passport; I'll get into a big bag and you shall carry me across the border. If the frontier guard asks you to put the bag down, you'll say you can't because there's glass in it and it will break."

Mendel was obliging. He shouldered the bag with Seidentaft in it and approached the boundary. The frontier guard asked what was in the bag and Mendel answered, "Glass." Thereupon the soldier drew his sword and ran it through the bag. It might easily have gone very hard with Seidentaft if he had forgotten his role and cried out. But he didn't. Instead he made a noise like this: "Kling, klang." And so he got alive into Russia.

He often relates his adventure and he always adds: "When one is labeled glass, one must behave like glass."—New York Evening Post.

ECZEMA ITCHED AND BURNED

R. F. D. No. 2, Seymour, Mo.—"My scalp broke out with fine pimples at the start. They itched and burned so much that I was compelled to scratch them and they would fester and come to a head and break out again. The trouble was attended by such burning and itching I could not sleep, also when I sweat it burned the same. My hair fell out gradually and the scalp kept rough and dry with itching and burning. After about two years the pimples broke out between my shoulders. My clothing irritated them. I was troubled with that eczema five or six years."

Had a Sufficiency.
A large, stouchy colored man went shuffling down the road whistling like a lark.

His clothes were ragged and his shoes were out at toes and heels, and he appeared to be in the depths of poverty for all his mirth.

As he passed a prosperous looking house a man stepped from the doorway and hailed him.

"Hey, Jim! I got a job for you. Do you want to make a quarter?"

"No, sah, said the ragged one. "I done got a quarter."

Important to Mothers

Getting Acclimatized.
Old Man Hardnut made his home in Havana after living many unregenerate years in the north.

"What ever brought you to Havana?" was the mutual query.

"Damfino," chuckled the chap who knew of his past performances. "Unless he realizes the sands are running out and wants to get acclimatized."—From the Times of Cuba.

Be thrifty on little things like bluing. Don't accept water for bluing. Ask for Red Cross Ball Blue, the extra good value blue. Adv.

An Obstinate Reformer.
"Jo Struthers is a reformer, isn't he?"

"Yes," replied Farmer Cornstossel, "but he's one of those reformers who dogk get anywhere. He'll stop a lot of 'em who are tryin' to fix a mudhole in the road and get 'em all worried over his suspicions about what's bein' done in Wall street."

Surplus of Stock.
"What do you think of this 'bride having 3,000 guests at her wedding?"

"I wouldn't invite so many. I wouldn't care to get three or four thousand pickle forks."

Staborn Throat troubles are easily relieved by Doan's Mentholated Cough Drops. They act like magic—so at all Druggists.

Where He Shone.
"He is in 'Who's Who,' I believe."

Was Back at the Back.
During study hour the youngest of four boys was poring over his primer lesson while the others were playing marbles.

"Mother," the youngster said, "I had as many lessons to get as those boys I would study all the time. If they don't mind they will be sent back."

"The mother immediately called the boys in to observe study hour and related to them what their youngest brother had said.

"The father answered his baby brother by saying: 'You'd better study your self. If you don't you'll be sent back.'"

"Why, I'm already a 'caboose,'" was the reply.

Testimonial from High Authority
Mrs. E. L. Wilson of Nashville, Tenn., is famed the world over for her wonderfully delicious cakes. They are shipped to all parts of the globe for special affairs where the best of cakes are demanded.

Mrs. Wilson has the distinction of baking Christmas cakes for the President, which she uses Calumet Baking Powder.

She states: "I have complete success, with no failures, care should be used in the selection of Baking Powder."

Calumet is complimented with the following testimonial from her: "Some little time ago I made a careful study and investigation of the baking powder subject and I feel fully repaid. I am firmly convinced from the results I have received that there is nothing powder to equal Calumet for wholesomeness and economy—and I also recommend Calumet Baking Powder for its never failing results."

Calumet also received the Highest Awards at the World's Pure Food Exposition, Chicago; Grand Prize and Gold Medal, Paris Exposition, 1911.

This will, without a doubt, prove interesting and very gratifying to the friends and customers of Calumet Baking Powder. It has always been found that Calumet is economical to use.—Adv.

Future John D.
Apropos of compulsory school attendance Superintendent Maxwell said in New York:

"A certain Yakubicka, a Bohemian urchin, rose suddenly the other afternoon in the midst of the lesson, piloted his books in an orderly heap and proceeded to clump out of the room."

"Yakubicka, where are you going?" the astonished teacher asked.

"Teacher," Yakubicka answered gravely, exactly 14 years ago at three o'clock in the afternoon I was born. So I am now entitled to quit school."

"From the doorway he waved his hand at his fellow students.

"So long, fellers," he said, "I'm off to learn pantmakin'."

Reasons for Opposing the "Pahson."
A negro church in a western city is now writhing in the throes of a lawsuit. The deacons have applied to the court for an injunction against the pahson, asking that he be barred from preaching or occupying the pulpit in that church henceforth. The deacons charge that the pahson gets drunk, appears at funerals and weddings in a state of inebriety and has otherwise brought reproach upon the congregation. The suit is now "pending."—Kansas City Star.

Hypocritical.

"It is sounded with the loud pedal on."

How to Utilize Left-Overs

There are many people who balk at the thought of eating left-over food. Their idea of a left-over is a cold, soggy, tasteless mass of food that is fit only for the dog. This is a mistake. Left-over food can be made into a delicious and nutritious meal.
