SAN - JAK

is the Greatest Rectifier for the Blood and Skin-yet known. Greasy Skin with Pimples, Blotches, Eruptions or Scrofula easily cleaned away. Its use leaves the Blood and Skin as pure as the lillies.

Man Should Die of Old Age, Not From Disease or Diseased Tissue. SAN - JAK-The Old Age Germ Killer.

Tuberculosis May Occur in Tissue

of the body. The chief seats of the disease are the lungs, Larynx, Liver, Kidneys, Intestines and Brain. To prevent a clogging of the blood and body fluids in the intestines (a disease called Stasis, clogged and wrinkled intestines) and allow the germ of Tuberculosis to pass off there is no preparation yet known so effective aa San-Jak.

PREVENTS =

Auto Intoxication, it serves to equalize the blood and body fluids, prevents the escaped products from one or more diseased organs of the body reaching the brain and deadening the nerve centers, causing the man to weaken and totter as in advanced years. The quick use of San-Jak for pain in the abdomen greatly lessens the danger of appendicitis.

ing manifested in all Jewish circles about the future of Palestine. The decision of Nathan Straus of New York to devote the remainder of his life to the uplift of Palestine has stimulated interest among the class of Jews who have, until now, kept aloof from any work in connection with the Holy Land.

Again, the conflict that is proceed ing in Palestine between the advocates of the use of Hebrew as the medium of instruction in the schools and the representatives of the "Hilfs verein der Deutches Juden." who favor the German language, has created a desire to acquire an accurate knowledge of what is going on in the Holy Traveler Revisits Holy City. A famous traveler, who has just re turned from a visit which he paid to Jerusalem, after an absence from that city of 19 years, writes as follows:

"Slow is the progress of the train from Jaffa to Jerusalem. The distance between the two cities is but 55 miles, but it takes three and a half hours to cover it. One who is accustomed to express trains in Europe, or even to 'fast trains' in Turkey, is likely to forget he is in a train at all. Nevertheless, the journey is not monotonous: there are compensations in panoramic views that meet

"It was one of those afternoon: that is encountered only in Palestine Over hill and dale, over the wide and far-extended fields studded with multifarious flowers and aromatic herbage, transparent blue sky, illuminated by a majestic sun, shedding its warm and brilliant rays. As I looked through the open window my thoughts were carried to the city where I was born and where I lived the happiest years of my life.

"Nineteen years had elapsed since I left the sacred city. How would it appear after that period? In Con-stantinople and in Egypt I had met with many a Jerusalemite. All had the one story for me. 'You will not recognize the city; it is a new Jerusalem, new in every respect, new internally and externally.' I did not give much credence to this statement. I am not unacquainted with Oriental ion. What interested me most was not the appearance of the place but the life within.

'Had the life changed? Had the old fanaticism died out? What was the character of the new generation that had grown up within those years? What were the present prospects of a livelihood?

Jerusalem. In an hour it would be dark, and, not to lose time, I took a cab and hastened to see that part the city situated without the ancient walls. I did not recognize it. During my 19 years' absence it had complete ly changed. There is no empty space, and it is all built up. In place of the old dilapidated hovels that disfigured the approach to the Jaffa gate, I found on both sides of the road large modern stores and magnificent European hotels. A little farther on there was a fenced space with a number of as the 'park' and adjacent to the fa- will hold millions of gallons of water. mous enclosure containing the Rus sian Hospice, more beautiful than "Slowly the sun sank in the west turned and beheld the new Jerusalem bathed in a glory of gold, show ered upon it by the setting sun. The spectacle was entrancing. Is this the poverty-stricken city that lives on the bounty of the world? Who built innumerable and magnificent these houses? Whence came the millions the wealth that lies buried in the stones of all these buildings." From the top of David's Tower built on the highest part of Mount Zion, which overlooks Jerusalem, there is a splendid view of the country on all sides. Within the walls the buildings look like a mass of stone boxes piled one upon another in all sorts of irregular shapes, just as boxes are piled up in back of any large store The houses have no chimneys an their stone roofs are flat. Out of the roofs jut little domes like old-fash bee hives. The material of the buildings is a yellow limestone, quar ried from under the city. It is the same material that Solomon used, and of the quarries are still known as Solomon's quarries. There is prac tically no wood, and the framing and doors have to be carried up from the

Among the common houses are many churches of one kind or other Right beneath the tower is the great building of the Holy Sepulcher, which stands over the spot where it is said our Saviour was crucified. -Farther over is a church recently erected by the Germans, and here and there many great hospitals, convents and monasteries built of white limestone.

The streets are narrow and winding and some are built over, so that going through them is like passing through tunnels or subterranean caves. Indeed. Jerusalem is a city of cave dwellers. Many of the stores and houses are little more than holes in the rocks, writes Frank G. erecting new buildings. There are many caves outside Jerusalem. The tombs of the kings on the edge of the city have been cut from the solid rock, and some of them are so large that a city house could be dropped into one and not touch the walls. An exeavation of the Pool of Bethesda has shown that it is 80 feet deep, and that it covers nearly an acre. Right under the temple platform are enormous caverns known as Solomon's stables and near there is a space -very much neglected-known honeycombed with vast tanks, which

The first important work in building is the excavation for the foundation walls. All complete plans specify that trenches shall be left with natural bot toms, level and smooth for the recep tion of walls, piers, etc.

Not long ago a workman in digging a trench for a center wall in a large city block misread the directions and got the excavation a foot deeper than the specifications called for tractor called the owner's attention to it, as an honest man should, and offered to build the wall from the bottom up if the owner would pay the this the owner refused to do. Efficiency Expert

In these days, when the efficiency fetish is so rampant, everything in the shape of a record-breaking production of some useful thing is of popu lar as well as scientific interest. This particular record-breaker is a British short-horn cow of the name of Model Maid, in the neighborhood of Bristo ne has given 2,334 gallons of milk during a period of twelve months. This is equivalent to something over twenty-five quarts a day, including Sundays and holidays. Obviously, if our local milkmen would take up a collection and import a couple Model Maid's female offspring, a little very amateur eugenics would, in another decade or two, solve the city's milk problem. A herd of but four Maids would supply 106 families with their morning quart of milk through winter as well as summer.— New York Evening Post.

SELF-SEEKING EVIL

Idea of "Every Man for Himself" Denies Great Truth of Brotherhood of Man.

There are two spirits pervading human life, the self-seeking and the self-

There is a very old and very plausible maxim which says: "Every man for himself." This expresses very forcibly the religion, if we may so use the term, of the self-seeking spirit.

It is bad enough when this spirit: manifests itself in the social and business affairs of life, but worse when it: manifests itself in the church. It denies the great truth of the brotherhood. of man.

It assumes that man is not him brother's keeper. The practical out-working of "every man for himself" would make every man a pirate or a highwayman.

The rights of others have no significance or influence to the man whoapplies the rule of "every man for himself."

His conception of the relationship he bears to others is defined in the thought that it does not matter what evil happens so it does not happen to Self-Seeking Spirit Evil.

Unhappily the self-seeking spirit is not confined to the social and business life. It often manifests itself in the church. Men seek prominent places in church organizations for selfish ends; they strive for high places and positions of honor on the principle of 'every man for himself." The good of the church or the good of other men is not the actuating motive of all who attain high office in the temporal kingdom of God. Judas was one of the twelve. He stands as marked representative of the self-seeking spirit in the church. His thought was for no man other than himself. All the boundless grace and love of his master had no weight against the desires for self.

The saddest of all the sins and weakness of human nature is the selfseeking spirit in the church. It comes from carrying the theory of "every man for himself" from the things of the flesh to the things of the spirit.

If the self-seeking spirit gain positions of power and influence in the church militant why not extend the principle into the church triumphinto the world beyond. If it is good here it is good there. If "every man for himself" is right anywhere it is right everywhere. So if the selfseeking spirit is right in the social and business life it is right in the church, and the question of success would depend upon the shrewdness and artfuless of management and maneuvering in the one as it does in the other.

TURN BACK TO THE BIBLE Where Comfort Still is Found in Plenty, as in the Days

Long Past

Certain of our wise men of today have shaded away sin till it becomes an expression of temperament, says Collier's. They tell us that we sin because our grandfather sinned and because our home is situated in the wrong block. These are clever words of clever comforters, and surely they ought to wipe away forever the tears from our eyes. But they do speak to human need. They They leave the life blighted and the heart ashamed. They leave the sinning one to continue in despair. He does not ask that his sin shall be explained away. He wishes forgiveness and a fresh start. In the book, which is not read as once it was, there are no soft words about sin. But the way comfort in plenty. These writers knew the human heart. They saw man broken by his toil and his grief. And for this too, they had the answer They told of a Being of love, hidden inst back of this rude and temporar universe. This love, they said, is conscious of how the littlest child and the old man are sick at heart for one to come close to their loneliness. When again will any company of writers say the things they know in such tellfing words, such pictures of human life—the boy far away from the faces of his home and far gone to shame such true stories of lowly devotion breaking through into beauty? Much is swent away between us and them. lost to us and still the "Turn seein it breached through the alien corn Vhat richer consolation are we gry for that we turn from Judea? Has the human heart changed under the wear of the centuries, so that sin no longer seeks forgiveness and grief has no need of a comforter? Have our ships sailed so far that they have revealed to us a braver continent than the fields where pain once reigned? Is our science so scute that it.

has banished failure from man's life?

Can a busy man be devout? That depends upon whether our religion is something that lives in us, or is some-thing added on. We live by breathing. If the presecupations of our busy lives have stopped our spirit's breath. then the church must spend its the hody of a half-drowned man, seeking to get his lungs at work again.
Then it becomes an anxious question whether we are alive. But the health of the lungs is in deep breathing. The call of holy days is to a deeper breath of the divine air, that we may be strong and true in crowded hours.-The Congregationalists.

To Demonstrate Abunda The way to make the ideal the real is persistently to hold the thought of their identity. The way to demonstrate abandance is to hold it constantly in the mind, frequently to say to your-self: "All that my Father bath is mine." The Lord is my shepherd: shell not want." Hand Embroidery on Lingerie Frocks Will Also Be a Feature-Graceful Example is Shown in the Sketch Here.

Hand embroidery will figure conspicuously in the lingerie frocks of the coming aummer. Intimations of this fact are quickly established in looking over the assortment designed for the southern trip, and surely it takes but little convincing to reach the conclusion that there is nothing in the trimming lists quite so nice as

Especially is this true in the case of the all white summer gowns, and, though it may seem superfluous to say it here, all indications point to a seeson"-that is white is promised unprecedented popularity. A graceful frock is depicted in the sketch, with hand embroidery to give it added charm. White cotton mar-quisette and ratine are combined in he model, the former being used for the skirt and guimpe, and the latter for the coatlike blouse and tunic. The guimpe is softly draped and surpliced over the bust with a turned back fold of itself forming a little collar around the V-neck. The sleeves are long and gathered into a narrow wristband, then finished with a ruffle of scalloped embroidery.

The skirt is in two deep flounces fulled in at the waist with tiny pin folds instead of gathers. The second may be similarly fulled onto a kneelength'smooth fitting foundation. Bot

The words of Jesus are the greates authority the believer has upon which to found his belief in the Second Coming. Some refuse to have much to do with this important theme because others have perverted it or else "overly emphasized it" yet in the 260 chapters in the New Testament there are 31 distinct references to this theme, a far greater proportion than is placed upon some of the doctrines upon which whole denominations have been found-

Relative Value. I. The exhortation to watch, vv. 35

This is the beginning of a new paragraph. Jesus has been showing the relative value of material posse sions and the Kingdom of God and epitomizes his teaching in v. 34. He now sets before his disciplines what shall their attitude towards him during his absence (II. Pet. 3:11, 12 R. V., Titne 2:13: II Tim 4:8). Thus to be watchful seems to contradict his suggestions about anxiety. We need to emember, however, that the child of the Kingdom is in entirely relationship with the world. His desire is not for self enrichment but rather to be in such relations with God as his rights demand and thus to bring to others their highest good. This parable epitomizes opportunity. Rightly to make use of none's opportunities spells happiness for the disciple when he the king shall appear. The evidence that we are watching for his appearing consists of the readiness of the individual who is or is not watching. v. 35; I. Pet. 1:13. Jesus knocks at the individual heart (Rev. 3:20) but when he comes 'twill be to be present at a feast, v. 36. We cannot contract this time and there is no call to service tomorrow. Lions girt, ready for the battle or for the race, and lamps burning, (light is always the result of something being consumed), are today's vis-

Peter's Question. II. The explanation to Peter, vv. 41-48. Between this parable and the one which follows, Peter interrupts by asking the question, "Lord, speakes thou this parable unto us, or even unto all?" That which follows is his an swer to that question but it is also a continuance of the teaching just given In this part Jesus refers to stewards (bond-servants) that it is their supreme business to seek the Kingdon by selling in order to give. The one work of a servant is to give to the members of an household, each in due season his portion of the father's 5:2: Jer. 3:15. There are many deceitful servants who first feed themselves, or feed only a portion of the household, or who feed chaff rather than bread, even the true bread of life. I. Pet. 2:2; 4:10, 11. Jesus teaches us that each bond-servant shall likewise he indged and that suddenly.

III. The exhortation. Jesus Christ here presents to us the fact that we shall all be judged of our reward or of our punishment is dependent upon the measure of our knowledge and of our opportunity James 4:17. To him to whom much is given, of him shall much be required. Our present responsibility is that of being ready for the coming of the King and of his Kingdom. The expression of that readiness is evidenced by our lives of service. There are of course many other phases of service not included in this parable, but our Lord is emphasizing opportunity, stew ardship, service, watchfulness. In or der to fulfill our service we must enter reign, and those who enter into that fellowship, who are faithful, he will reward vv. 37, 43. The measure of our punishment is conditioned upon the neasure of our knowledge (v. 48) and our knowledge can be enlarged as we use our opportunities. IV. The Golden Text. (v. 37). Is acts of our Lord when he shall return. It seems astonishing that he shall com pel those whom he finds watching to seat themselves that he may gird him zelf and serve them. Here we gird ourselves that we may serve him by erving others (Matt. 25:40). But in that tomorrow the day of his victory. who have been watchfulness and obe dient servants. This is a suggestion of the exceeding grace mentioned by the Apostle Paul, Rom. 11:33.

The Temperance Lesson is sug gested by the conduct of those who are not watching for the King's appearing (v. 45). They were indulging in the animal pleasures of the momen The Kingdom of God is not in eating and drinking but consists of righteous ness and peace and joy in the Holy Spirit, Rom. 14:17. The effect of intemperance on the death rates, on the next generation, from an economic standpoint or viewed from any angle is only the result of the most criminal shortsightedness. A clear apprehe sion of the fact of the imminence of his return would change all lives.

How to Help Inquirers— The Fearful

By REV, HOWARD W. POPE

met in Christian

'I am afraid In dealing with any case it is well to demonstrate first the cause and then look for a cure. There may be many causes, but what ever they are there is always sure cure in the Word of God. In this case it is evident that the cause of the man's fear is this: He is think ing of saving himself, instead of com mitting the case to Christ. He means to try a little harder than ever before to do good, but he has failed so often in the past that he has little con-fidence that he will succeed any better in the future. And the man is right. He certainly will fail if he relies upon his own efforts to lead a

A very common

The remedy in this case is to take the man's attention away from himself, and fix it upon the Lord Jesus who alone can save him. Say to him, "My dear friend, the question is not whether you can hold out, but whether or not God is able to save you. Let us see what he says about it." Opening your Bible ask him to read aloud He brews 7:25. "Wherefore he is able also to save them to the uttermost that come unto God by him, seeing he ever liveth to make intercession for them." After he has read it, say to him, "If God is able to save to the uttermost, there is certainly some hope for you. With an 'uttermost salvation such as Christ offers, there are no hopeless cases, do you see?

"Yes, it does look a little more hope ful. I must confess, but I am afraid I should fail, if I started in the Christian life. My bump of persistence is not very prominent, and I am easily "That may be true, but do you know this 'uttermost' Savior has made pro vision also to keep you from falling? Read what he says in Jude 24." "Nor unto him that is able to keep you from falling, and to present you faultless before the presence of his glory with exceeding joy."

"Isn't that splendid? 'Able to keep you from falling, and to present you fauitless. Blameless would mean a great deal, but without fault means much more. And that is the condition in which Christ promises that you shall be when he presents you befor the Father. (And the loy referred to in that verse is not the joy of the sinner, though that will be unspeakable, but the joy of the Savior as he looks with actual pride upon his finish ed work. It doesn't seem possible does it, that you can be saved so com-pletely, and made so perfect and beau tiful that the Lord Jesus will put you on exhibition as a sample of his handi work, with actual pride and joy? And yet that is precisely what he says he can do, and he certainly ought to Now does not your case see hopeful, looking at it from God's stand-

"Yes, I must admit that it does, but you see my case is peculiar. I had a I have inherited from him an appetite for liquor. Occasionally an awful craving for strong drink comes upon me with irresistible power, and down I go efore it. That is the real cause of my apprehension. If it were not for that I think I could be saved, but you see my case is peculiar."

"Yes, I see your case is peculiar, but do you know we have a peculiar Savior? In the first place, he was acquainted with that grandfather yours, and he knows all about that appetite. In the second place, he has made ample provision for it in the Book. Indeed, he has provided a cial promise for just such cases. Read if you will 1 Corinthians 10:13, God is faithful, who will not suffer you to be tempted above that ye are able; but will with the temptation also make a way to escape that ye may be able to bear it."

"Now let us sum it all up. Jesus ing of your soul to him, he is able to saye you to the uttermost, and able to keep you from falling. Further more, knowing just how weak you are he guarantees that no temptation shall be allowed to come nigh you which you are not able to bear, and that when temptation does comes, as come it must to all, he will provide door of escape. But this is not all. He promises that he will present you before God so faultless and perfect that he himself will be proud of you. Now what will you do? Will you keen on trying to save yourself, and fail as you always have, or will you commit your soul to this 'uttermost' Savior, who is able to save, and keep, and pro teet von from every foe?"

If these verses do not lead a person to a decision I have sometimes tried this method: "You are lost now, anyway, are you not?" Well, if you should try the Christian life and fail, you could not be any worse off than you are now. "No." "But if you should succeed you would be a great-deal bet ter off, would you not?" "Certainly."
"Then it looks to me as if you had everything to win and nothing to by starting, is that not so?" but I never thought of that before. Will you then kneel right down here and commit the keeping of your sou to Christ?" "I will."

I have seldom found a person who could not be convinced by such simple reasoning, if they honestly desired to

WHAT AN OHIOAN

HAS TO SAY ABOUT CONDITIONS IN WESTERN CANADA.

W. E. Lewis formerly lived near Dayton, Ohio. He went to Saskatche wan seven years ago with $1,800 in and farm implements, including four horses and three cows. Of course, the first year he only got feed from the crops, but the second year had 160 cres in wheat which made over 2,300 bushels. He has not had a failure in crop, and at present has 23 head of hornes, 15 head of cattle and 85 hours. der cultivation. He has been offered $35 an acre for his land, and should he care to dispose of his holdings he could pay all his debts and have $30. 000 to the good; but, as he says, "Where could I go to invest my money and get as good returns." He continues in his letter to the immigration department, August, 1912:

We have equally as good if not better prospects for crops this year as we had three years ago, when our wheat ranged from 30 to 45 bushels per acre. I never believed such crops could be raised until I saw them my self. I had 15 acres that year that made 50 bushels to the acre. Our harvest will be ready by the 12th. We have this season in crop 400 acres of wheat, 125 of oats, 90 of flax and run three binders with four mea to do the stooking. At fourteen she had taken the keys and the responsibilities of the house, and now. at sixteen, she was in reality the head of the whole great plantation. But the young longing for romanc which was in her in spite of the choking sober business of her life, rebelled at this. She would not give perself as well as all her thought and effort for Rosnoke. She wanted to love somebody, and be loved for herself as other girls were; she would not marry Harry because he and her father considered it a good arrange ment. So strongly had this determination seized her that, looking entire ly down that way of thought, she failed to see that Harry might not be classed with the colonel in his view fully?" she finished in English: of the plan. She failed to see that if she had not been heiress to Roanoke House, or to anything at all, Harry Hampton would still have been in love with his cousin Lucy. For Harry saw how the young life had been pressed too hard for it almost from babyhood: Harry saw how unselfish she was and trustworthy; how broad-minded and warm-hearted; how she would like to be care free and irresponsible like other girls of her age only that the colonel and the estate were always there, always demanding her time and her attention. He could do little to help her as yet, but he longed to lift the weight and carry it with her, not away from her, for the fairy of a person was not the sort to lean on others or to be happy without her share of the burden. Yet, Harry thought, "If I might only help her, and make it all a delight instead of a labor!'

But Lucy, going about her busy days, never guessed this. She thought of Harry as the boy whom she had grown up with, to be cared for tenderly always because of his misfortune, to be helped and planned for and loved indeed, because he was lame and her cousin, and because he was were no capable teachers of French in a dear boy and her best friend. But as the hero of her own romance to girl command of the language was come, she refused to think of him at all. More firmly she refused such an idea, of course, because her father to be lost—this saga of regret being had hinted that it would complete both Harry's and his happiness.

Francois, with quick insight, saw as much as this, and was anxious for the boy who had been his warm and steady friend. On an evening when winter was wearing away to cold spring, Francois waited in the dining-room of Roanoke House for his scholar. The room had a sweet and stately beauty, a graceful stiffness like the manners of the women who first lived in it, a hundred years before. The carved white wood work over the doors was yellowed to ivory; the mantelpiece, brought from France in 1732, framed in its fluted pillars, its garlands and chiseled nymphs and shepherds as if under protest, the rollicking orange of the fire. Over a mahogany sofa covered with slippery horsehair, hung a portrait of the first lady of the manor and Francois, sitting soldierly erect in a straight chair, smiled as his gaze fell on it-it was so like yet so unlike a face which he knew. There was the delicate oval chin and straight nose, and fair. loose hair. For you must know, Mademoiselle, that the others grow up to be farmers or tradesmen." He her itated, and then in a few words told her of General Gourgaud, the seigneur of Vicques, and how he had given the peasant boy all the opportunities which his own son could have had. And as he talked he remembered how. after his father's ruin, he had stood inside the bare, little, new cottage and watched through the window his mother standing at the gate and talking to the seigneur, who held Lisette's bridle. It seemed to him he could see the dark braided hair of La Claire coiled around her head, and the deep point of her white neck-handkerchief as she stood with her back to him, and the big bow of the apron tied about her waist. The picture came vividly. And it opened his heart so that he talked on, and told this strang-er in a strange land many things that had lain close and silent in his heart. He told her about the general's gruffness, which could not hide his goodness; and how he had come to be the child of the castle as well as of the cottage; something of Pietro also he told her; but he did not mention Alixe "You spoke of three children, Monsieur; who was the third?" asked

The Prince Comes. The glittering morning sunlight of late March flooded the eastern diningroom of Roanoke house. A fire blaz ed on the hearth: hot dishes steamed on the table; the girl's face, the crack ling fire, the polished silver reflected from polished mahogany; the soft shod, solicitous service of a whiteaproned negro; all this made the room fragrant with homeliness splte of the fact that one could see one's breath in the air. were used to it—the hardy Virginians of those days of open fires and no furnaces, of many luxuries and few comforts, and in happy ignorance of world progress, they suffered cheerfully and were strong. Colonel Henry Hampton faced a portrait of the first Hampton of Roanoke, stately with brass buttons and silver lace, set in the panels seventy-five years before. Lucy had concluded her broiled chicken and bacon and hot bread, and now as he, late for breakfast always, followed in her wake he read the Norfolk and Portsmouth Herald with which a colored boy had that morning ridden out from Norfolk. eight miles away. It was before the time of daily papers, except in a large city or two, and this of once a week was an event; a boy was sent to Norfolk the day before its publication that the colonel might have it at the earliest moment

"How would you like to see a live prince, Lucy?" he inquired. "The Hereld states that we have one with us, not ten miles from Rosnoke Prince Louis Napoleon was landed from the Andromede, in Norfolk, only yester-day. Poor young man," he went on condescendingly, "he has no money, I understand, and here he is stranded in a strange country with his fortune to make and no assets but a title It's-little that will help him in the states!'

Colonel Hampton glanced over to see if she were listening to his words of wisdom; he liked an attentive audience. He was enchanted with her expression. She had dropped knife and fork and, with her blue eyes stretched wide, her white teeth shining, was drinking in his sentences.

'Father! Is Prince Louis in Norfolk? How can it be? Beaupre was talking to me about him last night, and he did not dream of his coming here. Surely he would have known if the prince were expected. Colonel Hampton smiled say ly. "You will find that your father,

The prince was not expected by any one, not even by the great Chevalier Beaupre. ## TO SICK WOMEN

Thousands Have Been Helped By Common Sense Suggestions.

Women suffering from any form of female ills are invited to cor strict confidence. A woman can freely talk of her private illness to a woman; thus has been established a confidential correspondence which has extended over many years and which has never be broken. Never have they published a testimonial or used a letter without the written consent of the writer, and never Company allowed th dential letters to get out of their pos-session, as the hundreds of thousands of them in their files will attest.

Out of the yest volume of experien which they have to draw from, it is more than possible that they possess the very knowledge needed in your case. Noth-ing is asked in return except your good will, and their advice has helped thousands. Surely any woman, rich or poor, should be glad to take advantage of this generous offer of assistance. Champion of All Wrestlers Tells of Bout With Russian Lion-Went After All Europeans to Defeat Them Quickly as Possible.

There are four requirements of great wrestler who can keep a title for years without having his shoulders pinned to the padded canvas: Strength, ed and skill. Probably no man in all the annals of wrestling has had these elements so mingled in him in the proper proportions as Frank Gotch

I have heard men of giant stature and seemingly unlimited strength as-sert they could do nothing with Gotch cause he was too strong for them. Others have pronounced the Humboldt Hercules the fastest big man in the world. His endurance was given the supreme test in his first encounter

"In the case of Hackenschmidt I the case of Hackenschmidt I have often been asked why the Russian was able to put up such a strong front in our first battle and yet seemed so inferior to me in our match at Comiskey baseball park.

The answer to this is simple. I had been told of the wonderful club in the National league and we strength of the Russian Lion. I was told that he would tear me limb from limb. I was coached to play a careful game. I was sure I could stand Hackenschmidt off and retain the strength to defeat him. I was disillusioned in that match and since that time I have gone after all those Europeans to de feat them as quickly as possible. The defeats of Mahmout, Zbyszko and Raicevitch are examples.

"I confess that I tore into Hackenschmidt in our second meeting in Bard-er fashion than I ever ripped into an opponent in my career. His mis-statements of facts concerning our first match, his treatment of our party when we toured England and his misrepresentations in America only served to make me wish to humiliate him the more. I didn't want him to have a leg to stand on. This talk about his having a bad knee is only an alibi at the most. It was I who had a bad knee. Hackenschmidt was injured in the heart. When he saw that he was a goner, he begged for mercy, and that showed his true colors." (Copyright, 1914, by Joseph B. Bowles.)

NAMING THE NEW DEFENDER

Whatever Yacht May Be Galled Rest Entirely With Owners or Syndicates Good Suggestions.

Now that a series of races for the America's cup are assured for 1914 and work is under way on at least one deender, the problem of naming the yacht which will represent this country in the international event arises. Sir Thomas J. Lipton has clung tenaciously to the name Shamreck with numerals added, and this country's craft have had political and historical names, including the Puritan, the Mayflower and the Columbia, as well as such other characteristic names as the Volunteer, the Vigilant and the Reliance, not to mention some of the earlier defenders, the Sappho the Madeline, the Mischief, the America and the original Columbia.

While the question of a name for each of such defenders as may be built rests entirely with the individual owners or syndicates, the suggestion of a name or names for the American vessels built for the honor of uphold-ing American supremacy on the high seas is one which will soon attract the attention of the yachting fraternity.

There are many American Indian ames particularly suitable to be applied to America's cup defenders, and there are other branches in the sphere of yacht nomenclature which may be

The first requisites are that the ames suggested be easily pronousce-

Feel All Used Up?

Ever feel that you c ther—that you must have rest for that lame and aching back—relief from that constant, dead-tired feeling?

Have you suspected your kidneys? Kidney disease shows itself in backsche, nervous troubles and disorders of the kidney secretions. If tired, worried, lame, rheumatic, dizzy and nervous don't let a possible weakness of the kidneys escape attention until it turns into a case of gravel, dropsy or Bright's disease.

Sick kidneys go from bad to worse Their useful work of filtering the blood Their useful work of filtering the blood is only partly done. Poisons that should be passed out with the kidney secretions are held in the blood, circulating freely, attacking muscles, nerves and vital organs. The kidneys inflame, swell and throb, and that is the cause of sharp pains in the back, or that dull, constant heavy ache.

For quick help use Doan's Kidney Pills. No other kidney remedy is used and recommended so generally. Take them when you feel the first bad backache, or see the first disturbance of the kidney secretions. Doan's have Kingsville, Mo.-"My trouble began eighteen years ago. Nearly half of the time there were running sores d my ankle; sometimes it would be two years at a time before they were healed. There were many nights I did not sleep because of the great inffering. The sores were deep running ones and so sore that I could not bear for anything to touch them. They would burn all the time and sting like a lot of bees were confined around my ankle. I could not bear to scratch it, it was always so sensitive the touch. I could not let my clothes touch it. The skin was very red. I made what I called a cap out of white felt, blotting paper and soft white cloth to hold it in shape. This were night and day.

"I tried many remedies for most of the eighteen years with no effect. Last summer I sent for some Cuticura Soap and Ointment. The very first time I used Cuticura Soap and Ointment I gained relief; they relieved the pain right then. It was three months from the time I commenced using Cuticura Soap and Ointment until the sores were entirely healed. I have not been troubled since and my ankle seems perfectly well." (Signed) Mrs. Charles E. Brooke, Oct. 22, 1912. Cuticura Soap and Ointment sold throughout the world. Sample of each free, with 32-p. Skin Book, Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. L. Boston."—Adv.

One thing that we need is a commercial organization to boost for the village.

One could scarsely believe that with he cold wind blowing Sunday and Monday the snow would melt, yet on Tues day it was nearly all gone.

The American people are a pretty in dependent lot and want to do as they clease. This is true in regard to where hey buy their goods, but we will all admit that it would be better for the community in which we live if we estronized home merchants. Property alwaos more valuable when located in or near a good market town.

In our advertising column will be found an announcement of a school fair hich is to be held at the high school next week Friday, March 13. This fair will be something after the style of the church fairs as everybody interested may contribute any saleable article and whatver it brings will be used to purchase books for the libraries in the various ocms. There will be displayed many interesting articles, maps, etc., made by the scholars in the several department and the public is expected to attend this fair which will be free to all.
