Throughout both these than the recent conclusion of the new reigns eminent Indian statesmen have treaty between the government of India and the maharaja of Mysore, writes a correspondent of the London For the convention, by greatly raising the status of an Indian prince who rules over a territory more than three times the size of Wales, effectively demonstrates that the notion that the British wish to ride roughshod over the rights of Indians a notion which has spread over Hindustan in the last ten years, and has given rise to "unrest" and terrorismis not justified.

Old Restrictions Removed. To grasp the full significance of this change it is necessary to strip the new treaty of all its technicalities. and note just how it has bettered the position of the maharaja of Mysore. To begin with, the document perpetthe title of his highness's dynasty to rule over the state, shereas hitherto the ruling prince or his successors could hold possession of and administer the principality only so long as they fulfilled the conditions prescribed by the suzerain power. In the second place, the old restrictions been removed which obliged the maharaja of Mysore to conform strictly, at all times, to the advice offered him by the government of inin regard to "the management of his finances, the settlement and collection of his revenues, the imposi-tion of taxes, the administration of the extension of commerce. the encouragement of trade, agriculture and industry"-and, in fact, in any matter concerning the advance ent of his own interests, the welfare of his subjects, or his relations paid for all such land.

These improvements in the status of the maharaja of Mysore form the crowning feature of the magnanimity which Great Britain has displayed to ward his dynasty, beginning as far back as 1799. The British, after defeating the Moslem usurpers in a sanguinary struggle, found the Hindu heir to the throne wasting away in a deen dungeon held in durance vile. They set him free, and installed him as ruler over the land which they had taken by the sword, and which, by the right of the conqueror, they might have claimed as their own. A genera tion later however, the principality became plunged into such misrule tha the British were forced to depose its maharaja and take its administration into their own hands. For 50 years it formed a province of British India In 1881 it was handed back to the descendants of its old Hindu rulers who promised to be true to the trust that was reposed in them. HUSKY TASKS, THAT CONFRONT AMBITIOUS YOUNGSTERS

George Gibson of Pittsburgh Worked in 140 Consecutive Games During Season of 1909-Other Interesting Figures.

Each season ball players individual ly and as a team start out with the determination of smashing some of the old records and establishing new ones for themselves. Here are of the records-taken from Spalding's 1914 Guide-which show the rather husky task that confronts the play ers of this era who have recordbreaking ambitions.

In 1909 George Gibson, the Pirate catcher, worked in 140 consecutive games: In July, 1908, Roger Bresnahan, then with the Giants, did no have an assist or put out in a ten-in ning game. An average of .990 for the eason was turned in in 1904 by Joe Suggen of the Browns, in 1906 by Jack O'Connor of the Browns, in 1907 by Frank Bowerman of New York, in 1909 by Forrest Cady of the Red Son and also by George Gibson of Pittsburgh.

In the pitching line, Charles Radbourne, with Providence, in 1883 worked in 37 consecutive games and won 28. In 1884 he pitched 72 games in one season—a record that was du-plicated in 1889 by John Clarkson, then with Boston. Keefe, pitching then with Boston. Keefe, pitching for the Giants in 1889 and Marquard, pitching for the same team in 1912 are tied with 19 consecutive victories in one season.

Charles Sweeney, pitching for Prov idence against Boston in 1883, struck out 21 batsmen. Amos Rusie, in 1892, gave 261 bases on balls in one season In 1875, Al G. Spalding pitched 63 games and got an average of .899 for the season. In 1904 "Rube" Waddell. then with the Athletics, struck out 343 batsmen in one season.

Frank Chance, in 1910, while first basing for the Cubs. took unto himself the remarkable average of .996 for the season. Jiggs Donahue, for mer first baseman of the White Sox holds the other three records in the first-basing line. In 1907 he accepted the highest number of chances-1,986. in 1905 he had 23 chances in one game. while in 1906 he has but one chance in the game-an assist.

In 1905 Lajole of the Naps turn work mines and factories, and light in the record fielding percentage for special efforts have been made to in- having acquired .976 in 1912. Turner

George Gibson, Veteran Pirate Catcher third in 1899 and Allen, the Phillies shortstop, accepted 955 chances in 1892.

In the outfielding line, Frank Schulte of the Cubs hung up a record of 992 in 1908 in right. Patsey Dougherty of the White Sox (1906) and Fred Clarke, Pirates (1907), are tied with .987 at left fielding, while Harry Bay, Cleveland (1904); Amos Strunk, Athletics (1912), and Tommy Leach, Cubs (1913), are tied with .990 at center fielding.

Clarke of the Pirates made four assists from the outfield in one game in 1910 and had ten putouts in one nineinning same in 1911, both being record performances. George McBride, the Washington shortstop, enjoys the distinction of being the only infielder the ever went through a game without having had one chance to clutch

In the clubbing line, Hugh Duffy's record of .438 for one season, made in 1894, is the mark the star batters must shoot at. Ty Cobb of the Tigers made 248 hits in 1911. Brown, playing with Louisville in 1892, was at bat 658 times in one season. The Phillies, back in the late '90's, made 36 hits in one nine-inning game off John Wadsworth of Louisville.

Clarence Beaumont of the Pirates got six hits in six times up in 1899. while Ed Delehanty of the Phillies got four home runs and a single in five times up off Terry, the Chicago pitcher, in 1896. "Buck" Freeman, the old Washington player, hammered out 25 home runs in one season, the next youngster, Jimmy McAvoy, a Rochbest achievement in this line having ester semi-professional with but one been by Frank Schulte of the Cubs, who annexed 21 circuit swats in 1911.

The Athletics and Red Sox battled in a 24-inning game in 1906 that ended 4 to 1 in favor of the Athletics. Barrett of Detroit played in 162 games in 1904. The Providence team in 1884 won 20 consecutive games. The White Sox in 1906 won 19 in a row. Chicago scored 18 runs in one inning against Detroit in 1883. Ty Cobb scored 147 runs in one season—1911. Harry Stovey of the Athletics stole 156 bases

The well-to-do suburban builder is getting rather particular about the kind of a house he puts up. It is not enough for all; but the general style and appearance of the house has to be given due thought so that it will be given due to the g be given due thought so that it will fireplace. Attention is called to the work in well with its surroundings and conform in sise and style to what his friends and neighbors consider sary for his home. Something of spaciousness, dignity and hospital ity has to be embodied in such a structure. The exact order of archi tecture to be used may not be pre scribed-some of those details are left to the home builder himself and to his architect-but nevertheless, custom prescribes the quality and general character of the building.

One of the features that public opinion is coming more and more to require is that suburban dwellings should be as nearly fireproof or fire resisting as possible. Fire protection in small towns and suburba is very seldom all that it should be Common business sense directs that in such locations extra precautions should be taken, especially for resi dences, to make them as nearly fire proof as possible. This carries with it the obligation to build substantially well, at the same time using as artistic a design as may be, so that the building which is to last for three or four generations will throughout all that time be a source of pride to the owner and an improvement to the neighborhood.

The design illustrated on this page will be found to fulfill all these con ditions and to recommend itself as being at once dignified and attractive in appearance, substantial in construc tion and, using permanent materials is as near fireproof as a residence can

The landlord, it developed, hated the small birds, and had improvised these "scarecrows" with the idea of frightening them away.

China's Great Wall Intact. Few people realize what an almost perfect condition prevails along a large part of the great wall of China. The bricks of the parapet are as firm as ever, and their edges have stood the severe climatic conditions of north China with scarcely a break. The paving along the top of the wall is smooth that one may ride over it with a bisycle, and the great granite blocks with which it is faced are smooth and as closely fitted as when put in place more than 2,000 years ago. The entire length of this wall is 1,400 miles, it is 22 feet high, and 20 feet in thickness. At intervals of 100 yards or so there are towers some 40 feet in height.—Popular Mechinica.

THINGS WORTH REMEMBERING.

When cooking vegetables, a change from the regular methods is to bake them. Baked turnips are really quite an appetizing dish when large and of good juicy variety. When serving, peel back the outer skin from the top and serve as baked potato.

Baked beets are a change from the nsual way of boiling them. Wash and prepare them as for boiling, then put into a hot oven and bake until tender. They are so much sweeter and better flavored and may be served then chopped with butter and lemon juice for seasoning, or sliced for Pompon is Again in Favor. Many people will welcome the return of the pompon as a millinery novelty. It is simple, quaint and very suggestive of youth, three strong points that are bound to give it popularity. It is very large and is made in a variety of materials, but clipped ostrich feathers and tulle are the most the pompon is to poise one in front and one at the back of a small hat, not directly in front.

A new substitute for aigrettes in the spring will be built up of wheat heads. Wheat trimming has been used for a long time on hats, of course, but to replace the aigrette it is to be subjected to some new treatment. Artificial flowers for hats are to be more used than ever before, say the milliners in the know.

A hostess who is noted for her conweek end parties, which are given all through the summer at a island, makes a practice of picking up er guestroom soaps while in Paris on shopping bent early in May. There is something about the delicate, elusive fragrance of a French soap which no American made soap seems to emulate, and though, of course, the French varieties cost a good deal more, the distinction imparted to a guestroom in this manner is incontestable.

End of Doubt and Gloom. Language cannot portray the in effable glory of the dawn. But the sunrise of the Easter morn in the garden paled before the splendor of the soul's more effulgent day. What a sunrise was that; what a universal emancipation; yea, what a resplen-dent noonday, when Christ, the conqueror of death, brought life and im mortality to light. To the early disciples this hour was the end of doubt and gloom and dark forebodings. They now understood words that had previously had no The Father's "house of many mansions" became to them real The life to come was no longer a fancy, but a fact. The light of that first Easter morn has never grown dim. Nay, more, the its rising splendor farther up the sky The dawn has expanded into the fulness of noonday. In other words, the thought of immortality has wrought its vitality into the very fiber of this modern age. It is the motive power of all our progress, the refiner and purifier of the world's best life Back of our hope, of our ardor, of our passion for continued existence, of our conscious worth, of our eternal outlook, of all our happy anticipations of the life to come is the radiant light of the first Easter morn. The Voice that said "Fear not!" to the astonished and bewildered disciples in the garden has ever since been banishing the world's fear. Into believing hearts everywhere have come a great certainty and an abiding joy In spite of controversy and doubt and wonder, and incapacity to fathom the mysteries of the supernatural, the heart of mankind has come more and more to rest upon and rejoice in the miracles of Christ's physical resurrection, with its consequent proof of the soul's immortality. Means Spiritual Invigoration.

-Easter has become the most spiritually invigorating day in the calendar of the church. It brings into clear light the grounds of its faith and the certainties of its risen and regenerate life. In all its best representatives ture. It looks up and on and off and far away beyond all material horizons. Far more than we realize we live in the World Unseen. The greater includes the less. "Otherworldliness" is not the peril of the present age. Were it not for the spiritual realities of Easter we would forget our true inheritance. Eternity has always been the inspiration of time. The fuure beckens us with larger incentives than can be found within the narrow compass of the present. Our truest hearts and hopes are there. And this why we sing, and press forward so eagerly and so confidently in our onard way. Every hero and prophet and saint, every victorious soul, whether apostle or martyr, who has fought the good fight, and finished nis course and kept the faith, has done so in happy anticipations of the comeland. FIRST SHOT AT GETTYSBURG etter From Brigadier-General Cutler to the Governor of Pennsylvania -Praise for Officer.

Apropos of the opening of the battle of Gettysburg, the National Tribune publishes the following from Gen. Lyander Cutler: Headquarters, First Division, First Corps, Nov. 15, 1863.

To the Governor of Pennsylvania:

In noticing in the papers today an account of the proposition for a national cemetery at Gettysburg for the men that fell there in July last, I am reminded that I have neglected a duty which I owe to one of your regiments, the Fifty-sixth, and its brave com-mander, Col. J. William Hofmann. That regiment is in the Second brigade of this division, and was at that time under my command. It was my fortune to be in the advance on the morning of July 1. When we came upon the ground in front of the enemy Colonel Hofmann's regiment (being the econd in the column) got into a position a moment sooner than the others, the enemy advancing in line of battles within easy musket range. The atmosphere being a little thick, I took out my glass to examine the enemy, being a few paces in rear of Colonel Hofmann. He turned to me and in-My required, "Is that the enemy?" ply was, "Yes." Turning to his mencommanded: "Ready! Right oblique! Aim-fire!" and the battle of Gettysburg was opened. The fire was followed by other regiments instantly. Still, that battle on the soil of Pennsylvania was opened by her own sons. and it is just that it should become a matter of history. When Colonel Hofmann gave the command doubted whether the enemy was near enough to have the fire effective, and asked him if he was within range. Not hearing my question, he fired, and I received my reply in a shower of rebel builets, by which many of the colonel's men were killed and wounded. My own horse and those of two of my staff were wounded at the same time. "I desire to say to your excellency that the Fifty-sixth is one of the very ts in the serv Colonel Hofmann is, without qualification, one of the best officers, brave, faithful and prompt, and a most excellent disciplinarian. A G. A. R. man who drummed through the Civil war made the drum he carried, and has it still. The head of the drum was made from the skin of a sheep which was given to himby his father when it was a sickly lamb. He cured the skin himself, stretching it on pegs, and while it was drying, he went into the woods, cut down a rock maple of the proper size, and from the trunk cut the hoops, which he carefully seasoned and adjusted. The drumsticks were made of hickory, polished to a satin smoothness by means of sandpaper and oil. No anbeloved instrument with greater care and pride than the backwoods boy did

But before he was ready to go to the front he found that the deadly "borer" had attacked the hoops and honeycombed them, and his work had to be done all over again. This time he selected sound hickory with better lnck and the rattle of the home-made drum was heard in many of the big battles and is still heard when the aged drummer boy turns out with his few remaining comrades

Prince Louis Bonaparte, who had chartered her, and the handful of his followers who had sailed with him on her from England had disembarked quietly at twilight. and in small companies had succeeded in entering the town and the quarters tempt. In the rooms of Lieutenant Aladenize, the host of the Prince, a short council had been held to go over once more the plans which had been discussed and settled by letter for weeks already. The work was carefully arranged; there was almost nothing to be changed, and the little company of men who were trying so large a fate, scattered, with grave faces,

He sat erect and listened. Thelin was brushing clothes with energy in the bedroom, and through another door there came a light sound of a paper turned, of a gay song sung softly. And a glow suddenly warmed the Prince's neart; here was some one who had known his mother, who had been, indeed, for a few days her son; here was some one who cared for him, he believed it, with a half-consuming flame of devotion. New Yorker Might Say Goodby to Watch and the $50 He Had Confidingly Given Up.

In a subway crowd not long ago a New York man was "touched" for his watch. The watch was not valuable, but the New York man wanted it back for sentimental reasons, and inserted divers advertisements in the pa pers, offering $50 for the return of the watch and "no questions asked."

who had "lifted" the watch saw the advertisement and concluded to take the $50. He called on the New York man, handed him the timepiece and demanded the reward.

The owner of the watch was only too happy to give it to him. After examining the watch he returned it to his pocket and handed over five $10 bills. The "dip" pocketed the money and departed. There was little said A few minutes later the New York man reached for his watch. It was gone.

PIMPLES'ON FACE AND ARMS

411 Howard St., Dayton, Ohio,-"About a year ago my face, neck, arms and back were beginning to become afflicted with pimples and blackheads My pimples would get very large and appear to come to a head. If I tried to open them the pain would be terrible, but nothing could be taken from them. They itched very badly; I suffered terribly from itching. After scratching, the pimples would swell and after the swelling was gone my face would become very red and remain so for some time. My clothing caused the itching to be worse. When it was warm it was utterly impossible to sleep.

"I used a cream and the more I used the worse they got. Shortly after, I read the advertisement of Cuticura Soap and Ointment and determined to ise them. The itching stopped almost immediately. > Peeling Onions for a Living. The profession of onion peeling is not one that obtains much notice, yet there are at least five hundred wor in the East end of London earning their living by removing the skins of onions. With practice, they can make four or ive shillings per day. Very often they have been peeling since childhood daughters succeeding mothers.

It is not a profession you can learn in one lesson, for the onion "juices" are of no use for pickling. The onions are always peeled in water. This is not to save the eyes of the peeler, but is done to keep the onion white. Wonder what would hannen if the ord were to follow all the advice that is handed to him in prayer?

"About a year ago," writes a N. Y. man, "I was bothered by indigestion, especially during the forenoon. I tried several remedies without any perma-

President Tells What Office Means to Him.

SIZE OF TASK TREMENDOUS

Chief Executive Finds Pose of Dignity Irksome and Declares When Term la Over He Will Visit Washington on Sightseeing Tour.

Washington, March 23.-Woodrow Wilson unbosomed himself to the members of the National Press club of Washington Friday, telling them in a frank, conversational way how he felt as president of the United States: how difficult it was for him to imagine himself as the chief executive with the formal amenities of the position, and how he had struggled to be as free as the ordinary individual without the restraints of his office. It was an intimate picture of Woodrow Wilson-the man-drawn by himself, on the occasion of the "house warming" at the Press club's new quarters.

The president did not intend to have his remarks reported, but later, at the request of the club, the speech was made public.

Wilson, as He Sees Himself. "I was just thinking of my sense of confusion of identity sometimes when I read articles about myself," the president said. "I have never read an article about myself in which l recognized myself, and I have come to have the impression that I must be some kind of a fraud, because I think a great many of these articles are written in absolute good faith.

"I tremble to think of the variety and falseness in the Impressions -and it is being borne in on me so that it may change my very disposition—that I am a cold and removed person who has a thinking machine inside which he adjusts to the circumstances—which he does not allow to be moved by any winds of affection or emotion of any kind—but turns like a cold searchlight on anything that is presented to his attention and makes it work.

Feels Responsibility Keenly. "I am not aware of having any de tachable apparatus inside of me. the contrary, if I were to interpret my self. I would say that my constant embarrassment is to retain the emo tions that are inside of me. "You may not believe it, but I somefimes feel like a fire from a far from extinct volcano, and if the lava does not seem to spill over it is because you are not high enough to see into the basin and see the caldron boil. Be cause, truly, gentlemen, in the position which I occupy there is a sort of

I do not know how else to express it than to say-passionate sense of being connected with my fellow men in a peculiar relationship of responsibility of office, but God knows there are enough things in this world that need to be corrected.

Fear He'll Disappoint People "I have mixed first and last with all sorts and conditions of men-there are mighty few kinds of men that have to be described to me, and there are mighty few kinds of experiences "Success, in sculpture as in other that have to be described to me—and ings, is very pleasant. But even fail—when I think of the number of men who are looking to me as the repre sentative of a party, with the hone for all varieties of salvation from the his pepper-and-salt hair, said in my things they are struggling in the midst of, it makes me tremble.

"It makes me tremble not only with sense of my own in weakness, but as if I were shaken by the very things that are shaking them, and if I seem circumspect it is pecause I am so diligently trying not o make any colossal blunders.

"If you just calculated the number of blunders a fellow can make in 24 hours if he is not careful and if he does not listen more than he talks, you would see something of the feellng that I have.

Always Eager to Get Advice. "I was amused the other day at a emark that Senator Newlands made I had read him the trust message that was to deliver to congress some ten days before I delivered it, and I never stop 'doctoring' things of that kind antil the day I have to deliver them.

"When he heard it read to congress he said: I think it was better than it was when you read it to me.' I said: 'Senator, there is one thing which I do not think you understand. I not only use all the brains I have, but all I can borrow, and I have borrowed a lot since I-read it to you first'

"That, I dare say, is what gives the impression of circumspects listening; I am diligently trying to collect all the brains that are borrowable in order that I may not make more blunders than it is inevitable that a man should make who has great limitations of knowledge and capacity. And the emotion of the thing is so great that I suppose I must be some an assortment of beards, rouge, color-

The color of the back and flanks is yellowish brown, and underneath it is almost pure white. The earliest English description of this mouse is contained in a letter of Gilbert White written in 1767 to Thomas Pennant, in which he says: "From the color, shape,

They breed as many as eight at a litter, in a little round nest, composed of the blades of grass In a later letter Gilbert White says: "Two of them, in a scale, weighed down just one copper halfpenny, which is about the third of an ounce advoirdupois; so that I suppose they are the smallest quadrupeds in this island." Formerly the nests harvest mice were commonly found in standing corn, but the close cutting reaping machines played havoc with them and they are seldom found in crops nowadays. The summer nest is about the size of an orange, made of grass, corn blades or split leaves of reeds cunningly woven together. The most usual situation of their nests is in the tangled herbage along the side of fields and in ditches, among the heads of thistles and sometimes in The winter nest is a more solid structure, it is made of mosses and is completely closed. Sometimes they enter hay ricks in the winter and keep warm in large companies together. The harvest mouse is fairly abundant in the southern counties of England, and is very rare in Scotland; in Wales and Ireland it is unknown The food consists of seeds and the tender shoots of young leaves and also insects. No doubt many harvest mice fall victims to hawks and weasels.

After some weeks of strenuous traveling in this way, Mr. J. F. Jensen made the overland trip from Jameson, Ne braska, and with his little family made the regular customs entry at North Portal, in the province of Saskatchewan. Their destination was Willow Bunch, a district that Mr. Jensen had selected as one in which it was possible for him to work out his fortune. He located on a good half sec-tion of land, and intended putting on it some cattle that would fatten on the wild prairie grass that grows so luxuriously in that district. In addition to this his purpose was to cultivate a portion of it and raise wheat, oats, barley or flax. In short, a life devoted to mixed farming was what he had in view and it is easy to understand that he will make a success of it, and in a year or so will attach some more land holdings. Although his beginning may small, it may safely be said that Mr. Jensen, like thousands of others who have begun life in western Canada on no more and with probably much less, will prosper. He will not be far from a line of railway. Schools will be close at hand and other social conditions so necessary in a new country are available.—Advertisement.

Those of Middle Age Especially.

When you have found no remedy for the horrors that oppress you during change of life, when through the long hours of the day it seems as though your pack would break, when your head aches constantly, you are nervous, de-pressed and suffer from those dreadful bearing down pains, don't forget that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the safest and surest remedy, and has carried hundreds of women safely through this critical period.

Read what these three women say:

From Mrs. Hornung, Buffalo, N. Y.

BUFFALO, N. Y.—"I am writing to let you know how much your medicine has done for me. I failed terribly during the last winter and summer and every one remarked about my appearance. I suffered from a female trouble and always had pains in my back, no appetite and at times was very weak.

"I was visiting at a friend's house one day and she thought I needed Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I took it and have gained eight pounds, have a good appetite and am feeling better every day. Everybody is asking me what I am doing and I recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. You may publish this letter if you wish and I hope others who have the same complaint will see it and get health from your medicine as I did."—Mrs. A. Hornune, 91 Stanton St., Buffalo, N. Y.

Was A Blessing To This Woman.

So Richmond, Va.—"I was troubled with a bearing down pain and a female weakness and could not stand long on my feet. Of all the medicines I took nothing helped in like Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetalian and am catting along fine I. table Compound. I am now regular and am getting along fine. I cannot praise the Compound too much. It has been a blessing to me and I hope it will be to other women."—Mrs. D. Tyler, 23 West Clopton St., South Richmond, Va.

Pains in Side, Could Hardly Stand.

Long, Wis "I was in a bad condition, suffering from a female trouble, and I had such pains in my sides I could hardly move. Before I had taken the whole of one bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I felt better, and now I am well and can do a good day's work. I tell everybody what your medicine has done for me."
—Mrs. John Thompson, Lodi, Wisconsin.

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkhau's Vegetable (Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No one sick with woman's allments does justice to herself if she does not try this famous medicine made from roots and herbs, it has restored so many suffering women to health. The Bushman, who was a long way from home, met a lion. The animal, sure that he had his victim completely in his power, began to sport with him with a feline playfulness that the little Bushman failed to appreciate. The lion would appear at a point in the road, and leap back again into the jungle, to reappear a little farther on.

The Bushman did not lose his presa way to outwit his foe. Aware that the beast was ahead of him, the Bushman dodged into the jungle to the right, and quietly awaited the next move. When the lion discovered that the man had suddenly disappeared from the path, he was perplexed. He roared. Then he espied the Bushman peering at him over the grass.

The Bushman at once changed his position; while the lion stood irresolute in the path, following with his eye the moving black man. The little man rustled the reeds, vanished, and appeared at another point.

The great brute was first confused, and then alarmed. It began to dawn on him that he was the hunted party. The Bushman did not let the lion collect his startled wits. He began to steal gradually toward the foe, who now, in a complete state of doubt and fear, turned tail, and ran ignominiously from the field.

FIRST DAWN OF CIVILIZATION

Workers of the "Stone Age" Brought Their Products to a High Degree of Perfection.

The earliest period of human industry is called the "Stone Age," beause in digging about among the remains of the past archeologists find relics made of stone always lower lown than relics made of metal.

The ancient savages were marvelous workers in stone. They knew in each region what stone was best for their material abounded under the best conditions to be worked. They planned apparatus for mining and quarrying it. They transported the material for long distances, half-shaped to reduce the weight, and made treaties with hostile tribes to secure the right to visit the coveted spot.

The prehistoric man could tell just how each kind of stone ought to be worked and how it would do its work after it was shaped. To such a state of perfection did they arrive that our most skillful flint workers, aided by the finest tools of today, are not able to reproduce some of the perfect "This isn't a hotel; it's the town specimens to be found in our mu-fail," said the voice.

It was heartily touching, but the supposed son was in honesty compelled to deny the relationship The senior argued the point-

The real son was in the hotel, how ever, and had arrived the night be fore like his namesake. Even the registration clerks had not imagined t necessary to anticipate a coincien they directed the father to the visitor's room.

Value of Talk.

Talk has the reputation of being the cheapest thing there is. As supply and demand have something if not all to do with values, doubtless the supply of talk is what gives it a bargain Things that are cheap lack enduring

If talk were confined to the thing done more than to the thing said, i would have a greater value. Some one asked Edison if he experi enced much inconvenience on account of his deafness. He replied that he thanked God for it every day, since i protected him from the distracting ef ect of other people's talk. He could thus live his own life, think his own thoughts, do his own work in his world of silence.

As there seems to be some misunder standing on the part of some voters in regard to the good roads proposition, these few words are offered with the hope that it will be the means of helping those who might vote different than

According to the election notices if we permit. Skylights will be placed in the good roads we must vote yes, and if we roof and the roof made water tight. The wish to continue the present plan we must vote no.

The part which seems to be confusing and misleading is where it reads, a ballot marked yes shall be counted in favor of the proposition and a ballot marked no. shall be counted against the proposition. This seems to give some the impression that in order to vote against the good roads they must vote no, but if the voterwill read carefully they will at once se that if they wish to rescind or in other words do away with the present system it is imperative that they vote yes.

Respectfully submitted F. E. RAWSON.
