CONVICTS AID THE RED CROSS

"Doing their bit" while "doing time," might be the motto of the convicts of the Eastern penitentiary, Philadelphia. Some of the prisoners are set at the task of rolling bandages for the Red Cross. The men in the picture, along with others, roll 1,000 bandages a day. Three hundred bandages are placed in each bag. The work is done under the most sanitary conditions and under the supervision of a trained Red Cross nurse.

Transferring Photos to Wood.

A method of transferring pictures to wood is given in the Electrical Experimenter by V. C. McIlvaine, as follows: Dissolve salt in soft water; float your photo print on the surface, picture side up; let it remain an hour. The wood should be of bird's-eye maple or other light-colored hardwood. Varnish with the best copal or transfer varnish.

Take the picture from the water, dry a little between linen rags; then put the engraving, picture side down, on the varnished wood, and smooth it nicely. If the picture entirely covers the wood after the margin is cut off, so that no varnish is exposed; lay over it a thin board and heavy weight; leave it thus over night. If you wish but a small picture in the center of the wood apply the varnish only to a space the size of the picture. Dip your forefinger in salt and water, and commence rubbing off the paper; the nearer you come to the picture the more careful you must be, as a hole would spoil your work.

POULTRY

CARE OF DUCKS.

The requirements of ducks are so few that anyone can raise them. They are less bother than chickens, not requiring such varied feeding, and a fence two feet high will keep them where you wish them to stay, says one writer. They will not dig up the garden, never fly up onto anything, and are never troubled with lice or bowel troubles as are chickens.

You can feed them the same kind of food from the fifth day after they hatch until they are full grown, which they will be in 10 or 12 weeks.

Do not feed the young ducklings until they are 86 hours old, taking particular pains to see that they are kept dry and warm. It is not desirable to try to raise them with hens, as they step on so many of them and the ducks are even worse than the hens in this respect.

For the first five days feed bread crumbled and moistened with milk, adding a heaping tablespoonful of sharp, sifted sand. After the fifth day feed one and a half pounds of middlings, one and a half pounds of chop, three pounds of bran and one and a half pounds of sifted sharp sand, well mixed, and a small amount at a time wet up into a crumbly mash. Never feed only what they will clean up in ten minutes, three times a day, always giving fresh water when you feed them, and be very sure that none of the feed is dry or they will choke to death.

CREMATE DEAD FOWLS.

The average amateur poultry raiser has a handy spot in some corner of his yard for burying dead chicks and fowls. Their ailment may be roup, cholera, gapes, or any other contagious disease, yet when the bodies are buried or thrown into the compost heap the poultryman considers his duty well done.

The careless burial of victims of any contagious disease is a crime against the living. In the poultry yard it is well to remember that earthworms work unceasingly, disintegrating the soil and bringing disease germs to the surface. Cremation of all fowls that die is the best plan. Fire is called "the great destroyer," for there is no chance for contagion from ashes.

Fowls may be cremated in any kind of a furnace or stove. Simply wrap the body in paper saturated with coal oil, and it will burn fiercely and sometimes not leave even a bone. There is no odor or unpleasantness about such a process, and surely it is less labor than digging holes for burial. In the summer one may make a small outdoor crematory with a few bricks and an old, burned-out grate.

On Foot.

Sir Gold goes by in his motor car,
I tramp the road and take his dust;
But a friendly wind from the hills afar
Sweeps it away with a laughing gust.
Sir Gold may ride, if he wills it so,
But let me follow the winding way,
That leads to the hills and the streams
I know,
Where the birches bend and the fishes play.

He has not seen in the sheltered nook
The windflower swing on the threadlike stalk.
He never knows how the fern fronds talk,
Nor listens to jack-in-the-pulpit's talk,
And where the oriole's nest is swung,
A web of dreams against the sky—
Precious and sweet with her eager young,
Blind and stupid he rushes by.

Well, let him go if he likes the pace,
So long as he leaves the road behind.
In spite of his speed he has lost the race.
The tingling zest the foot-wise find.
Ho! Ho! I laugh at his sorry flight,
A speeding slave, when he might be free
In God's green weather of sweet delight,
On the good brown road, at tramp with me.

—George Edward Day.

Voile Is Popular.

Voile is, if possible, more used than ever this summer, and one of the most striking voile frocks is made with a deep border around the overskirts of a sort of cutwork, edged and embroidered with dull white glass beads.

No Complaint.

"What are we going to do about the scarcity of meat?"
"Don't say nuffin 'bout it," said Mr. Erastus Pinkley. "Ef we can't git ordinary meat, we'll be jes' naturally obliged to eat fried chicken."

Not His Fault.

The Sire—No, I won't let you marry my daughter. You can't earn your salt.

The Suitor—And yet you also complain of my being too fresh.

Home Exhibition.

"Wouldn't you love to see those tanks in France wobbling along?"
"I don't have to go to France. I can see one every time the old man comes home late."

Grape Jelly.

Take a basket of perfectly ripe Concord grapes, six Duchess or other apples which cook quickly, and with a little water to keep them from scorching, cook until the juice is extracted. Then drain and to each cupful of juice add two cupfuls of sugar. Stir until every grain of sugar is dissolved and turn into glasses. This makes a jelly that tastes like fresh grape juice. Be sure to try it.

BOOK FOR FIGHTERS

President Wilson Urges Soldiers to Read Bible, Key to Own Heart.

Bibles for American soldiers and sailors, to be given by the Scripture Gift mission of Philadelphia, will carry a foreword by President Wilson urging the troops to read the Scriptures diligently. The president has written this inscription:

"The Bible is the word of life. I beg that you will read it and find this out for yourselves—read, not little snatches here and there, but long passages that will really be the road to the heart of it.

"You will find it full of real men and women not only, but also of things you have wondered about and been troubled about all your life, as men have been always; and the more you read the more it will become plain to you what things are worth while and what are not; what things make men happy—loyalty, right-dealings, speaking the truth, readiness to give everything for what they think their duty, and most of all, the wish that they may have the real approval of the Christ, who gave everything for them—and things that are guaranteed to make men unhappy—selfishness, covardice, greed, and everything that is low and mean.

"When you have read the Bible you will know that it is the word of God, because you will have found it the key to your own heart, your own happiness, and your own duty.

"Any policy of public regulation of railways that does not stimulate the production of transportation by attracting new capital savings is manifestly an uneconomic policy and opposed to the public interest."

Outlook, July 25, 1917

An Economic Necessity

THE country's business is growing faster than its railroads. It has been so for 15 years. This cannot continue without irreparable injury to commerce and industry.

The New York Central Lines

"America's Greatest Railway System"

are looking and planning ahead. Expenditures by these lines involving hundreds of millions of dollars will be necessary in the next few years to meet the demand for increased transportation facilities. The money may come partly from earnings; but most of it must come from public investment.

The public will invest only when assured a reasonable return. Governmental regulation must therefore be such as to attract new capital savings.

The railroads must be permitted to charge rates that will earn a return sufficient to cover the constantly mounting costs of operation, pay interest on bonds, reasonable dividends on stock and provide a surplus for equipment, improvements and extensions.

SCHOOL NOTES

"Your balance in the bank of health is not the result of a single big deposit, but the result of the little deposits that you have put in from day to day."

Tecumseh high school football team will come here Friday afternoon to play against our boys.

Mrs. Frank Higgins visited the first primary last Thursday and Mrs. Philip Henzie visited the ward school.

The freshmen organized and have elected Leroy Paul, president; Lawrence Dettling, vice-president; Vera Wurster, secretary; Herndon Hammel, treasurer.

The sophomore class organized last Wednesday and elected the following officers: Ruth Dietle, vice-president; Ruth Steingeweg, secretary; Herbert Widmayer, treasurer.

The athletic association of the M. H. S. met last Thursday and elected the following officers: Waldo Marx, president and manager; Lynn Burch, vice-president; Lowell Parr, secretary-treasurer.

The reception to the freshmen will take place Friday evening at the high school building. An interesting program is being planned. Members of the board of education and the teachers, together with the 90 high school pupils are invited and a pleasant time is anticipated.

Here is a peculiar incident which reflects the spirit of the times. Last year at Ann Arbor twice as many high school students elected beginning German as elected beginning French. This week in the first day of enrollment 30 students elected German and 60 elected French.

The high school was especially favored last Monday morning in having at its opening exercises one of its former students and a graduate, Julius Wuerthner, '09, who is now located at Great Falls, Montana. His remarks were splendid and his subject, "Vocational Guides," will not be forgotten.

Miss Kathryn Nisle, who has been staying at their cottage, has made rapid improvement the past month and was able to take an auto ride Saturday.

Although the law was off duck beginning last Sunday, we did not see a duck on the lake all day. Evidently even the "early birds" are not yet ready to move south.

The duck dinner at The Farm Hotel Sunday was enjoyed by about 35 persons. A sufficient number of chickens had been prepared to satisfy those who came but did not make reservation in advance for the duck dinner.

AT GREAT LAKES TRAINING STATION

Fathers and mothers, if your boys have the honor to be accepted by our Uncle Sam for his navy for four years, be assured that when the youngsters are discharged they will possess a very valuable industrial training that will help them get on prosperously in civil life. This picture shows a group of student seamen at Great Lakes Naval Training station, in Illinois, building a hydroaeroplane on the shore of Lake Michigan for use in training naval aviators. Learning to construct such a delicate and expensive machine, the boys will learn also the fundamentals of gas-engine building, electrical engineering, mathematics, wood-working, metal forging, aerodynamics, physics and chemistry. The youth accepted for Uncle Sam's navy is fortunate indeed!
