KNOW YOUR OWN COWS

College Experts Now Stand Ready to Teach You at Your Farm Free of Cost.

The state and county agriculturalists are making it easier for small farmers as well as large ones, to know where they are at in every phase of the farming industry. Last year experts taught farmers how to tell whether a hen was laying eggs enough to pay for her feed, and many other things about the poultry business. There is no doubt their efforts and the attention farmers and their wives have paid to it, has saved them money, besides increasing the production of eggs. Now experts are holding meetings and going from farm to farm instructing farmers about cattle, showing them how to improve their herds, what and how to feed and care for cows. These experts from the agricultural college are not "silk hat" fellows, but practical men, such men as the small farmer needs to get acquainted with, and the big farmer, too, for that matter. They all like "home baking," pork and beans, and sauerkraut once or twice a week, so don't be afraid to invite them in to a dinner. With a full stomach they are apt to let loose some information that will help a lot. Get in touch with Oster and he will "put you on."

Saturday afternoon the village was visited by the tornado that is said to have started at the foot of the Rocky Mountains and swept north-eastward. The damage done here was small, however, and our citizens feel thankful. A window on the west side of John Wuerthner's residence was blown in also one at Will Lindbergh's, and others. A shed on John Bowler's place, north of town, was leveled and a chimney at the creamery and Mr. Sortor's windmill were blown down. Limbs were wrenched off trees and more or less damage done about town. A large stack of cornstalks at Hiram Parr's was scattered over the field.

The Enterprise was favored with a call Tuesday morning from Fred Wolf, a former Manchester boy, but for many years a successful clothing merchant of Ellensburg, Washington. Accompanied by his wife, he had been to New York and Boston on business and stopped off here to visit relatives and friends. Fred is past master of the masonic lodge in his city, is a member of the chapter and commandery and says that the society is flourishing in the west.

STATE PAYS AT LAST

John G. Bohner, Once Manchester Cobbler, First to Get Civil War Bounty.

When the Civil War broke out John G. Bohner lived in Ann Arbor. He enlisted, but as he was only 16 years of age the officers would not muster him. But he went just the same and cooked for the officers for six months, then he returned to Michigan and worked at cobbling here for awhile. In 1865 he enlisted in Company C, 28th Michigan, and was mustered out at Raleigh, N. C., in 1866. Thos. J. Farrell of this village, who was in the same regiment with him, knows him well. The last legislature made provision for payment of promised bounties and Bohner receives $150 bounty and simple interest for 54 years and nine months amounting to $492.75, or a total of $642.75.

JACKSON COUNTY
The boys who went from Brooklyn to shoot deer in the north woods were lucky and are back home.
Two men sold their farms in North Dakota and came to Michigan, buying farms near Brooklyn.
John Herman Wesch of Brooklyn saw a wild animal in a field, threw a stone and killed it. It was a badger.

BOOST FOR GOOD ROADS
Help Michigan Get in Front Rank For Roads, As Well as Other Things.

We believe that congress should favor the passage of a bill for the construction of good roads throughout the United States. If we had better roads there would be less fear of freezing to death because of a scarcity of coal. One trouble of the miners has been that they could not work as much as they wanted to, because the railroads did not haul away the coal as fast as the miners dug it. If our roads were better tons upon tons of coal would be handled by truck. Good roads would be an advantage to village merchants, as goods could be hauled between here and Detroit, Toledo and Jackson by trucks, thus relieving the railroads of congestion in the yards of those cities caused by lack of help. We ought to have trucks carrying goods to and from cities every day in the year.

What is true of this section is true of every other section of the country. See how much more convenient a truck traffic system can be made than a railroad system. Every-

BALL TEAM DEFEATED

Local Team Fall Victims to Adrian in Last Game of Season—First Time Scored Against.

The Manchester independents saw the close of a very successful season last Thursday afternoon, though their defeat in this last game of the season robbed them of the cherished distinction of passing through the year's series of games without a score being registered against them.

The Thanksgiving day game was played on a very slippery field, there being just enough snow to cover the ground, and the locals faced Adrian with a somewhat crippled team, the result of a hard-fought game at Tecumseh the Sunday preceding in which several players received injuries that prevented them from playing their usually good game. Adrian advanced the ball by way of the air and the only score made was due to a pass in which the locals were unable to break up. According to witnesses of the game the only thing that prevented Manchester from scoring was a penalty imposed on them by Adrian's referee when the locals were advanced the ball toward their goal at a pace that Adrian was unable to check. It was a hard battle all the way, "worth the money" to those who stood on the side lines and tried to keep feet and hands warm while cheering on their respective favorites.

Government Demonstration Agents Give Advice Concerning Property and Convenient Dwellings.
