DON'T NEED SCENT

Why Perfumes Are Not Over-Popular in America.

Writer Sees Cause for Congratulation in the Fact That Heavy Artificial Odors Are Not Needed Here, as in Europe.

That the sense of smell is sadly neglected is an opinion expressed every once in a while by those who pride themselves on a highly cultivated factory faculty.

Well, for our own part, we are glad that Americans are lacking in the cultivation of this most neglected of the senses.

The perfume who is making the complaint points out the fact that while we cultivate the sense of sound, touch, taste, to a certain degree, and the sense of sight, we leave that of smelling practically uncultivated.

Can't you recall how often your pleasure at the theater and your powers of concentration at church or the lecture have been well nigh destroyed simply because of a nearby perfume?

As a matter of fact one reason why we Americans go in so little for perfumes is because we are of all nations the most free from unpleasant odors.

Our cities, our houses, our theaters are sweet to the nostrils compared to the cities and public places of Europe.

In the Orient, where the faculty of smelling is developed to a fine art, the impression of the city odors is something that the occidental traveler never forgets.

For our own part we like the American way best. The most desirable
