A FARMERS' MEETING

State Agricultural College Planning Big and Important Day Early Next Month.

A big summer meeting of farmers will be held at the Michigan Agricultural College early in August, according to plans just announced. The meeting will be a general one, including a visit to the farm crops and soils exhibits, and an expansion of plans for a special Soils day inaugurated earlier in the summer.

Speakers of national reputation on both crops and soils matters will address the general meeting of the day. Included among these will be Brother Leo Wagner, of the farm at Notre Dame University, who has a wide reputation as a farm manager, and who is a specialist in the improvement of depleted soils. Inspection of test plots of crops at the college, of which there are more than 100 acres, will be one of the features of the day. Results of field work over the state will also be presented to the meeting. It is estimated that 100 to 150 delegates will be on hand from all over the state, and a larger number of farmers from the widespread work will be given.

Farmers will get help along their special problems in both soil and crops matters at the meeting. Deficient fertility is a serious problem in different soil areas of the state will be one of the features presented by the speaker.

Special arrangements for entertainment of the hundreds of farmers attending the big gathering are being made by the college.

MADE HIT WITH RECITATION

Prince's Speech Consisted of Verses From the Koran, and Audience Greeted Him

It is interesting to recall that Prince Faisal, who recited the Koran in memory of his father, in London, at the end of the war, and who was the guest of honor, and who knew little French and less English, was a native of Manchester. He was the son of the late Mr. F. G. Houck, of this city, and his father, Mr. F. G. Houck, was a native of Manchester, and his mother, Mrs. F. G. Houck, was a native of Manchester. Prince Faisal's recitation of the Koran was a great success, and he was greeted with a great ovation.

When the guest of honor returned to Manchester, he was greeted with a great ovation. He was greeted with a great ovation. He was greeted with a great ovation. He was greeted with a great ovation.
