Grease Your Car

THOROUGHLY AND EASILY WITH THE
ALEMITE LUBRICATOR

It is a modern method which enables one to lubricate thoroughly all bearings in 10 to 15 minutes; whereas an hour and a half to two hours are required to fill and turn down ordinary grease cups—and then lubrication is imperfect.

THE ALEMITE LUBRICATOR consists of a Compressor, Ultra-fine steel cable with serf power, fitted with a 15-inch flexible steel cable with bayonet coupling. This outfit loaded with grease is ready for instant use, and by attaching to nipples furnished for every make of car, all bearings are lubricated thoroughly and quickly, pushing out old stiff grease and pushing in new.

LET US SHOW YOU THIS MODERN METHOD. YOU CANNOT AFFORD TO HAVE ANY BUT THE BEST LUBRICATION FOR YOUR CAR.

STORIES from Here and There

"One of the Ridgelys of Springfield"

SPRINGFIELD, Ill.—It will be many a day before the old-timers of this city stop talking over "the Ridgely case."

A strange story of hidden identity was told in the court of Judge Denis E. Sullivan in Chicago when the judge entered a decree which made it possible for Robert Edwards to become Robert Edwards Ridgely and legally assume his place as one of the Ridgelys of Springfield, a leading family in the Illinois capital.

Attorney David B. Woodworth, representing the young man, told the story.

"Young Ridgely is a son of Edward R. Ridgely, a national bank examiner, who died a few years ago," the attorney said. "He is also a nephew of the late William Barrett Ridgely, comptroller of the currency in 1908, and a nephew of Mrs. William A. Vincent, widow of the late judge."

Attorney to the petition for a change of the name was a certified copy of a marriage license issued to Little Rock, Ark., in October, 1883, to Edward Ridgely and Miss Fannie Clark. According to the young man's petition, he is a son of that union.

"After the civil marriage in Arkansas," said Attorney Woodworth, "there was a fashionable church wedding in Springfield, after the birth of the boy Robert."

"With his birth his parents strangely hid his existence from friends of the family in Springfield. The boy himself, through the years of his childhood and education, was told by his father that he was the son of a very dear friend or the father's named, Edwards."

"It was not until Robert's presence was necessary in a contest over the will of his grandfather, Charles Ridgely, that the son learned his real identity. Then his father and Judge Vincent produced him in court as one of the heirs of the elder Ridgely's $5,000,000 estate."

Sorrows of a "Poor Little Rich Boy"

UROPKA, Ill.—Daniel Voltinine, a Aurora's "poor little rich boy," who was left $1,000,000 when he was 14 and found himself an unwilling husband at 18, is at last free to marry the sweetheart of his school days, Miss Mildred Wessner.

Judge Adam A. C. Cliffe in the Kane county circuit court at Geneva granted his plea for an annulment of his marriage to Nora Udestad Voltinine. The latter is said to have withdrawn her opposition following a settlement of approximately $10,000.

Voltinine, who is now 23 years old, told Judge Cliffe he was attending the Northwestern Military academy at Lake Geneva, Wis., when on Oct. 27, 1915, J. Bruce Amell, now assistant state's attorney of Kane county, and Dr. Eugene Prichard, the Voltinine family physician, appeared at the school and told him he would have to marry Miss Udestad.

He said he was brought to Chicago in an automobile, and that Miss Udestad joined the party here. They then drove to Crown Point, Ind., where, he says, Amell told him he would have to swear he was 21 years old in obtaining a license. The marriage was performed and young Voltinine went back to school.

Four months later a baby girl was born to Mrs. Nora Voltinine. Young

Who Got the Drop on These Diamonds?

NEW YORK.—A bullet which shattered several diamonds in a $100,000 diamond necklace is causing a controversy between Mrs. Gunner Munn, daughter of Rodman Wanamaker, and the American Express company.

Mrs. Munn purchased the necklace and sent it to his wife in Radnor, Pa., but before she received it a bullet had been fired into the package causing several thousand dollars' damage. Mr. Munn claimed damages from the express company, but the latter, setting forth that a receipt from the Munn housekeeper shows the package was delivered in good order, has refused to accept responsibility.

Both sides have called in experts to decide whether the shot might have been fired into the package before or after the outer wrappings had been removed. The company's theory is that somebody, after removing the wrapping, fired at the box, fearing it might be a bomb.

Anyway, the Wanamakers are bomb-shy. A bomb was delivered at the Wanamaker home, at Tuxedo in an innocent-looking wrapping, Albert Gustav Kurth, a former butler in the home, who had been discharged, was arrested and sent to prison.

After the Fashion Set by Fannie Hurst

CHICAGO.—The domestic schedule of a Fannie Hurst can't for his band and wife to breakfast together, twice a week. Every Sunday has been the rule with Mrs. Irene Hatfield ever since the monotony of home drove her into the whirl of commerce.

Now her 2-year-old daughter has been allotted by her physician a very short time to live, and Irene's husband, U. C. Hatfield, who manages a printing establishment at 6157 Wentworth avenue, cannot find her. About a month ago his wife announced she wanted to work. He had taught her how to operate a typewriter.

"She started out one Thursday and found herself a job and a furnished room," said Hatfield. "She would not tell me where they were. If I ever wanted to reach her, she said, I need only address a letter 'General Delivery, Chicago.'"

"There was no trouble between us, I used to see her home every Sunday. The last Sunday she was melancholy—cried all day long. She had spells of that kind ever since our first baby died."

When the baby became sick, Hatfield hurried it to the home of his mother-in-law, Mrs. Emma Anderson of 4061 North Mobile avenue. Then he began to search for his wife.

A general delivery letter was dispatched. No reply. Hatfield procured classified newspaper sections of the date when his wife left home. He checked up over 200 addresses appearing in the "turnished rooms" column, judging from the name to place in a day. The last Sunday she was melancholy—cried all day long. She had a trace of his "lost" Irene.

Odds and Ends—and Out of the Ordinary

HAGERSTOWN, Md.—Twenty lashes on the bare back with a whip—twelve months in jail—was the sentence meted out to Winfield Scott Knight by Justice Reinhold J. Halm for beating his wife. She is a frail, crippled woman, weighing about 75 pounds, whom he pulled off an invalid's couch and chastised with a measuring stick.

SANTA ANA, Cal.—Guy Skidmore of Laguna Beach, laid his revolver beside him on the seat of his automobile. The sun, shining through the windshield, discharged the weapon. Skidmore was wounded slightly in both legs. Of course, The California "Boosters" say this defective revolver is an eastern product.

CHICAGO.—What is believed to be a record in the granting of divorce decrees was established by Judge Frank Johnston, Jr., of the circuit court. After being "divorced" for two weeks he signed his own judgment and fifty-third decree. Chief Justice Morrison assigned Judge Johnston to "clean up the calendar."

NEW YORK.—There are 7,522 alleged slackers in this district to be rounded up by officers of the department of Justice.

AS WORN IN PARIS

New Frocks, Hats and Shoes Are Most Attractive.

Costumes Featured by Simplicity, Defy Reproach; Represent Best Kind of Dressing.

The old gaities are gradually coming back to Paris, and every day some new model of the latter is announced. As we formerly knew it, it is announced, written a Paris correspondent in the London Times.

In the Bols for ten and ten's most attractive frocks and hats are worn. Navy blue allied to white, to cherry color, and to copper color, is more than popular. Occasionally it is worn with vivid emerald. Numbers of smart women keep rigorously to tailor-made frocks for all ordinary occasions. These costumes are simplicity itself, and defy the reproach of finance, ministers and moralists, but they represent the best and most expensive kind of dressing. They exact the most perfect details, and a hat, which is the last thing in smartness, as well as a dress. Fine navy blue serge, embroidered lightly in jet or dull silver, in white, or in some color, is much worn. Open to the waist, where it fastens with one button, the coat discloses some striking color note in the blouse of the jumper, or short tunic pattern, low at the throat or quite high, with draped collar band. The hats vary greatly from the ribbon toque, with a chin strap, to the wide-brimmed lace-covered frame trimmed with flowers or feathers.

Black and white are as popular as blue. Foulard, plisse silks and crepes, offer a wide choice. Lace plays an important part in gowns, and employed longer. A woman dressed in black and white foulard, gracefully draped on the hips, and softened round the shoulders by a fine grandie fibu, looks extremely well. Her hat is in the grandie also, embroidered in black silk, and she carries a sunshade to match. Her shoes are strapped patent leather, and the heels are not high. The sleeves of her dress are short, and she wears long white suede gloves.

Of quite a different aspect is the toilette of a vivid brunette. She wears navy taffetas, with a full tunic-skirt, of tartan muslin in brighter colors than any Highland chieftain could imagine. Her hat is in black lace, and the tartan is repeated in her sunshade, which shows a navy blue foundation, with a deep plisse tartan hem.

Stripes in summer modes. Dresses and Millinery With Lines of Various Widths Among the Popular Styles.

Stripes are one of the features in this summer's fashions, says a writer in the London Times. Whole dresses are to be seen in silk with colored stripes varying in width. The material is used in both ways. The skirt may have two deep plisse doupces with the stripes perpendicular, and the bodice may show them horizontally. A skirt in cloth may be plain and have a striped coat, or the other way round, and again, there are some smart little dresses all in striped material, silk or voile, with which plain cloth coats, handsomely braided, may be worn. Striped ribbon is much used in millinery, and when ribbons of two colors and widths are used, together they are made to look as if they were striped. Black and white and black and royal blue are the most favored.

Foulard Frocks Favorites. Foulard dresses are favorites this summer. Graceful trailing, draped frocks are a feature of the new foulard frocks. Many gossies are used, their long ends more often than not trailing below the edge of the skirt. Touches of red on foulards that are navy or black in their major tones are featured by some of the best designers, and the effect is decidedly pleasing.

Roses on Most Summer Frocks

Roses bloom on most every summer frock and enhance its loveliness. All those little organdies, for instance, would look their best if you scattered over the skirt. These same roses can add a good many dollars to the frock, too, and so it might be a good plan to learn how to make them at home.

One of the prettiest frocks of the season had its roses made from accordion-plaited organdie, in strips a little over an inch wide, says a writer in the Philadelphia Record. The edges had first been plaited, and the material was then plaited and wound round and round from the center out, the center being filled with knotted ends of yellow soutache braid to look like stamens.

A button mold covered with organdie and beaded with crystal beads made the center of some very little wild roses from deep pink organdie which framed the girdle of a paler pink organdie frock. These were five-petaled roses, the petals made in the simplest way in the world from a bias strip of organdie bunched and shirred in a zigzag fashion so that when the shirring was pulled up, it shaped the band into little puffed and rounded petals.

On a very stunning frock of dotted Swiss large white organdie roses were applied. The bias material had been folded again so as to leave no rough edges, pulled into petal shape, and held to the material with long unbroken stitches of black silk.

Even the glitziest dress cannot escape the rose trimming. The current glitziest rose can be made from plain chambray to match the glitziest color, using the bias band and organie and the folded edge whipped over and over with a coarse white meringue and cotton. This rose is rolled in a fashion, rather tight in the center and looser toward the outside.

teens probably find it quite a task to keep letting out their skirts to keep pace with the young misses' amazing growth. In lengthening skirts the hardest part of the job is to rip out the machine stitching. This work can be lightened considerably by sewing the hem as follows when the skirt is being made. The coarse thread above (No. 30) and the finer thread below (No. 80). Then set the upper tension slightly tighter than the lower. This will draw the under thread away through the goods. Then when ripping out the thread on the wrong side of the hem, the coarser thread can be easily withdrawn.

Feather on Hat Underbrim

Feathers on the underbrims make up one of the popular new trimmings of women's hats for summer. Little clumps of ostrich are tacked on the underbrim over the ears of the wearer.

In the case of an attractive copper-colored hat, a bandeau raised it slightly from the base, thereby giving more depth to the brim in order that a long ostrich quill of the same color could be laid on the underside and be finished off with a curly little tip.

Another novel hat, of fine black Neapolitan straw, is made with the brim partly curved under at the edge.

A fluffy ostrich band follows the under-verse material and uses satin for its line of the trim and a second band of ostrich is similarly placed above it.

Dresses Easily Lengthened. Most mothers with daughters in their WAYS WITH FRUIT.

Before the cherries are all gone you may provide a tasty relish by canning: Cherry Olives.—Fill a jar with well washed, firm, ripe, large, good flavored cherries, without removing the stems. Half fill the jar with cold-water and fill to running over with good vinegar; add one teaspoonful of salt to every pint, seal as usual. These cherries are especially good with meats.

Raspberry and Currant Preserve.—Take six pounds each of currants and sugar with eight quarts of raspberries. Pick over, wash and drain the currants. Put them into a preserving kettle, adding a few at a time, and mash. Cook one hour, strain through a double thickness of cheese cloth. Return to the kettle, add sugar, heat to boiling point, and cook slowly twenty minutes. Add one quart of raspberries when the sirup again reaches the boiling point; skim out the raspberries, put in a jar and repeat until all the raspberries are used. Fill the jars to overflowing with the boiling sirup and screw on the tops.

Preserved Peaches.—Peel and cut in halves, sufficient peaches. Fill the cans, packing as full as possible; then add granulated sugar to fill every crevice; seal and put into a hay lined hole, deep enough in the ground to escape frost. In the spring when the frost is gone, dig them up and you will find the most deliciously flavored peaches. A pint or two left in the peaches adds to the flavor. Be sure to mark the spot where they are buried, or the whole garden may have to be spaded to find them.

Green Apples and Onions Fried.—Slice two or three medium sized onions very thin; put to cook with a tablespoonful of any sweet fat. When softened add a pint of sliced green apples unpeeled. Add a little water, sugar and salt and cook until the mixture is well browned. Serve as a vegetable with steak.

A dinner for a hot day.

For a beginning to the warm weather dinner, there is nothing more refreshing than the simple and delicious "Bayer" fruit cup. With fresh berries, cherries, melons or citrus fruits one has a great variety from which to choose. A most dainty fruit cup may be prepared as follows: Cut the edible centers of mushrooms into balls with a French potato cutter; arrange them in the glasses, have both fruit and glasses chilled. Pour over a sauce made from Canton ginger, using some of the sirup and a tablespoonful or a half dozen glasses. For those who do not enjoy the ginger flavor, make a mint sirup and garnish the glass with a sprig of fresh mint. An orange sauce with mint is another good combination. In fact one may use any sauce at hand. The pink heart of watermelon cut in balls and served with the best dressed sauce is another attractive dish.

Chard in White Sauce.—Cook the midribs of chard until tender then serve in a white sauce with a dravy butter sauce as if it were celery or asparagus. This makes another vegetable dish and one which is very wholesome.

Chicken With Asparagus.—Cut up a chicken and stew until tender, saving the broth. Cut up the chicken and keep hot over hot water, not to lose its moisture. Cook a bunch or two of asparagus in the chicken broth, saving the broth and later cooking noodles in the same broth. In the way the seasoning of chicken and asparagus with season the noodles. Prepare noodles by adding flour to beaten egg until thick enough to roll out, then cut in strips and after standing a few minutes to dry, cook them in the broth. Have all hot, put a layer of noodles on the serving plate, over this a layer of cooked asparagus, then a layer of seasoned chicken; serve hot. Celery salt, pepper and salt are used for seasoning. Celery is used in place of the asparagus in a dish called warmen, which is most savory when prepared according to directions, using at least three bunches of celery to one fair-sized chicken.

Nettie Maxwell. Dentist's Memorial. It is a far cry from the powdered hen-hane seeds, the incantations and pain, the gold rings and ox teeth of the forgotten past to the work of a modern dental surgeon, but like his predecessors, the profession, the modern operator leaves behind him his monument. It may be a cross of gold, which he erects to his memory as a product of his mechanical skill, or maybe he has taught the children of the world the secrets of health or the esthetic value of a pleasing smile.—Exchange.

Waterpouts and Cloudbursts. A cloudburst is simply a sudden copious rainfall, as if the whole cloud had been precipitated at once. Waterpouts are bursting rain-clouds, accompanied by whirlwind, which whip the rain into dense, whirling columns of water.

Nervous Spells—Near Heart Failure E tonic Stopped It

Mr. C. E. Loats, writing from his home at Lay, Md., says, "I had been taking medicine from four specialists, but believe me, friends, one box of E tonic has done me more good than all the remedies I have ever tried. I was in awfully bad shape, about half an hour before meals, I got nervous, trembling and heart pressure so bad I could hardly walk or talk. One box of E tonic stopped it."

E tonic quickly produces these truly marvelous results, because it takes up the poisons and gases and carries them right out of the body. Of course, when the cause is removed, the sufferer gets well.

Everyone that wants better health is told to have just a little faith—enough to try one box of E tonic from your own druggist. The cost is a trifle, which he will hand back to you if you are not pleased. Why should you suffer another day, when quick, sure relief is waiting for you? Adv.

KNOW WHERE HE WAS GOING

Owner Had His Ideas of Further Usefulness of Horse Which Had Seen Better Days.

The most conspicuous part of the horse was his prominent ribs. It was certainly an odd-looking animal, judging by the usual standards of horses, it was not the pride of any one's stables. But the gypsy who led it evidently had hopes of its doing something for he appeared anxious to make it move.

"Say, gypsy," shouted an interested spectator, "you're taking that horse the wrong way. The ribs keep him in the other direction."

"I know my business best," was the retort, "so don't you talk to me. I'm right for the steam laundry, aren't I?"

"Yes, gypsy."

"Well, I'm taking 'im there, where he'll prove useful as a scrubbing board."

He Didn't Have to Lie. Dick had been spending the day with a little playmate, had when his playmate called for him he hopped in the machine and settled himself comfortably, saying: "Thank heavens that's over. I didn't have to tell a lie."

His mother asked what he meant, and he said: "Well, you see Mke's mother wasn't home, so I didn't have to say I had a good time, 'cause I didn't."

MU'T STRIVE FOR IDEALS

Highest Type of Citizen is He Who is Always Able to See Better Things Ahead.

No citizen will ever come fully into his own until he strives to reach a high ideal. The boy who is satisfied to immerse himself in the hope of reaching the top by magic is doomed to failure. The exceptional happens sometimes. Usually the man who rises is the fellow who dares work and wait and strive against odds. He must not be satisfied with attainment; however complimentary it may be. There are always better things ahead if he is willing to strive for them. He will rise as he adds intelligence to vision, sympathy to character and self-mastery to both. Then he will crown the ideals with faith in God and its resultant faith in his fellow men. He will believe in himself enough to dare the limit and try a dozen times to relieve former failures. He is a citizen who looks upon failures as opportunities and makes them stepping stones in power. The biggest business in the world today is the making of citizens. And the nation with the best citizens will rule the world.
