

SHREWD IDEA IN POLITICS

Pictures of Presidential Candidates on Letter Heads Was a Popular Thing in 1840.

Back in the early days of the republic it was considered a fine idea to decorate paper with the portraits of presidential candidates. In this way the letter writer showed not only his preference, but tried to influence his correspondents for his candidate, remarks the New York Sun. A fine example of this sort of political propaganda was unearthed recently in New York. It dates back to 1840, when William Henry Harrison was running for president on the Whig ticket against Martin Van Buren, Democrat. The letterhead shows the two sides of the gold medal awarded by congress to General Harrison for his services in the War of 1812. The picture to the left shows a medallion portrait of General Harrison, while the one to the right depicts the Goddess of Liberty, armed with a spear, placing a wreath of laurel on an Indian's head. This latter was intended as a compliment to the general for his success in fighting against the British and Indians.

Under the pictures of the two sides of the medal is a copy of the resolution of congress conferring the medals on General Harrison and Isaac Shelby, "late governor of Kentucky."

Improved Gun Has Kick

The Burma government forbids the natives to have guns in their possession, and prohibits trading in arms and ammunition. But the natives ingeniously enable him to get around this. He will find a piece of gaspise some where, fit a rude stock to it and a crude primer and hammer, and will use safety matches in lieu of powder. He cuts off the heads of about two boxes of matches and puts them into the improvised barrel. He then rams his shot home and is ready for business.

And let me tell you, if you never tried to shoot with such a gun, don't ever do so. Why, an express rifle is about as kickless as a .22 caliber Flinbert compared with this improvised shotgun. I tried shooting one once upon a time and the thing almost kicked my shoulder off.—National Geographic Bulletin.

Getting Rid of a Knot

It is often a difficult business to get rid of knots, especially if these are of long standing. By following the plan indicated it is a simple matter to free the hardest knots, whether these be in straps, harness, rope, cord or anything of a similar nature. As a first step place the knot on some hard surface and give it a good hammering on all sides with a mallet or a thick piece of wood. Now boil up a little water with soap in it sufficient to make a rather cloudy solution. Then soak the knot for two or three minutes in the liquid. At the end of this time it will be found that it can be quite easily untied, often in such a way that the loosening can be done with some sharp implement

TEXT OF AMENDMENT

Voters Should Understand Important Matter to Be Voted on This Fall.

The proposed amendment to Article XI of the Constitution to be submitted to the electors at the election held on Tuesday, Nov. 2, 1920, is as follows:

"Section 16. All residents of the State of Michigan, between the ages of five years and sixteen years shall attend the public school in their respective districts until they have graduated from the eighth grade, provided, that in districts where the grades do not reach the eighth, then all persons herein described in such district shall complete the course taught therein."

Improvised Gun Has Kick

The Burma government forbids the natives to have guns in their possession, and prohibits trading in arms and ammunition. But the natives ingeniously enable him to get around this. He will find a piece of gaspise some where, fit a rude stock to it and a crude primer and hammer, and will use safety matches in lieu of powder. He cuts off the heads of about two boxes of matches and puts them into the improvised barrel. He then rams his shot home and is ready for business.

"GHEE" MUCH USED IN EAST

Concentrated Form of Butter Fat Employed in Preparation of All Most All Dishes.

Ghee is briefly described as clarified butter. Cow's or buffalo's milk is submitted to a process of churning and boiling which yields a concentrated form of butter fat considered to be entirely free from curd, whey or water. This product keeps better than ordinary butter, but has a taste not usually appreciated by Europeans. Although commonly associated with the diet of the British Indian, ghee is used as well throughout the Red sea district by the Arabs, Somalis, British Indians, and other native elements of the population. In a minor way ghee is used medicinally and ceremonially, but its principal use is in the preparation of food, and no native meal in this part of the world is truly relished unless ghee is generously used in some form or other. It is worked into the dough for native bread, and the bread is fried in ghee—or if ordinary bread is used the pieces broken-off to be eaten are first dipped into a cup of vessel of hot ghee. It is used in the

WHOLESALE TO COME

Grand Rapids Business Men to Be Here Friday Morning, Oct. 8.

Everything is "all set" for the coming of a large party of Grand Rapids wholesale merchants, bankers and other prominent men of the city, Friday morning, Oct. 8, in their special de luxe train. They are making this 14th annual trade extension tour, accompanied by a boys Zouave band, and are scheduled to arrive from the south at 9:04 p. m. and will remain 45 minutes. The wholesalers and the band will parade up town and then disperse. The wholesalers calling on the retailers and the band and others of the party drifting back to the train so as to be there at leaving time, 45 minutes later.

The Beard in History

The beard, considered a sign of manhood, was stroked for the first time in Paradise by Adam, if tradition is to be believed, and has had a strange part in the world's history of vanity and fashion ever since. History says the kings of Persia platted their beards with gold thread, and that the rugged Indians of Assya had beards—Satan's son, Turkish historians say, went for years when he saw the shaven envoys of the Crusaders.

Pearl Poachers

To see the pearl fisher at work there is no need to go to the South seas. In the first fine bars of June he may be found by burn or loch in a dozen parts of Scotland, says a correspondent. He is usually of the tinker class, and his outfit is of the simplest—a water telescope made of wood and a bit of common glass, and a cleft stick to pull up the mussels, in any one of which he may find a small fortune. These mussel pearls from the Ythan and Teth and other Scottish streams fetch good prices; one was sold not long ago for fully $250. Pearls are found in Canada, also, and some of them of considerable value. But in Canada there is little or no private ownership of waters, so that our pearl fishers run no risk, as do the Scots, of being arrested for poaching.—Montreal Herald.

WASHTENAW COUNTY

A factory will be started in Chelsea to manufacture from craft, brown and white paper, a cord that is used in the making of fiber furniture, and in the upholstering of automobiles, and in the manufacture of electrical equipment.

LIKE RAINBOW IN THE SEA

Gloriously Tinted Water That Washes Bermuda's Shores is an Even Fascinating Marvel.

Hundreds of miles from any coast, surrounded on every side by the restless surges of the great Atlantic, a mere speck in a waste of sea lies Bermuda. While not strictly one of the West Indies, yet its fauna and flora, its products and its formation, are so similar to many of the Antilles that we may well consider it as a

GIVE CREDIT TO PHOENICIANS

Scientists Believe That Race Erected the Immense Monoliths Found in Various Places.

Giant monoliths standing strangely alone in many places on the globe when discovered by intrepid explorers and adventurers during the recent centuries, are being referred to as the greatest mystery of human history by archeologists, who are now trying to determine what race built them. They are scattered in far-off places. They are monstrous pieces of rude sculpture. They are built of terrifying stone blocks, some weighing as much as 250 tons.

In many districts where the great memorials stand there are no stones of such size to be found, and consequently they must have been transported from places far away. The most famous of them are the columns in England. Others are found in western France, northern Germany, in Denmark, Africa, Madagascar, Asia, from Mt. Sinai and the Caucasus to India; and among the most wonderful and mysterious of all are those found on lonely Easter Island in the Pacific ocean. M. Levestre, a French archeologist, believes they were erected by the Phoenicians, as most of them have been found near rivers. Some students are inclined to believe the Phoenicians reached America by the lost Atlantis, a legendary continent that now is spoken somewhere in the Atlantic. A footprint, the Phoenician mark of death, has been found carried in many, while a coiled snake, another mark of these navigators also is found.

Housewives will find reading of

Stop Buying Gas and Start Buying Mileage

EATS UP MILEAGE BUT HAS A POOR APPETITE FOR GAS!

Buying a car that travels more than it travels is like hiring a cook who eats more than she earns.

And there are far too many cooks and cars that answer to that description.

What you want is a car that doesn't have to stop at every gasoline tank for refreshment.

And that is the achievement of the Overland with its Suspension Triplex Spring and light alloy steels.

It has solved one of the most perplexing riddles of automobile design.

It has lengthened the mileage of a gallon of gas by burning up distance instead of burning up money.

It has reconciled light alloy steels with unalloyed comfort and set luxury and economy on the road together.

And yet, great as it is, the Suspension Triplex Spring is only one of many Overland advantages.

The world regards it as a new epoch in automobile construction, and it is. But enthusiasm for this marvelous mechanism should not obscure the solid claims of Overland quality.

Light alloy steels and the Suspension Triplex Spring are the mainspring of Overland economy.

But quality still plays the role of Hamlet in the drama of Overland production.

Quality in the steels, selected at the source, checked in the rolling, and inspected at the plant.

Quality in the various parts, built by Overland themselves, and not billed to Overland by others!

Quality in every process of manufacture and assembling, done by Overland and not by proxy.

Quality animating the labors of the entire Overland organization and producing—

A LIGHT-WEIGHT, LOW-PRICED, EASY-RIDING, SLOW-BURNING, MILE-EATING PIECE OF MECHANISM, COSTING LITTLE TO BUY, AND MIGHTY LITTLE TO RUN!

In winning the Los Angeles-Yosemite Valley Test, the Overland Touring Car gave 35 miles per gallon—The Overland Sedan gave 27 miles per gallon.

WE WILL BE PLEASED TO DEMONSTRATE.

Consider the Workmanship

You know the fashions of the day; you know textile quality and you know workmanship.

Compare the Coats we have here gathered for you from any angle of judgment—they'll measure up to your most exacting standards.

Examine the craftsmanship especially. It's not all surface—much is beneath the linings, much hidden in the scissoring, much in the needlework, much in the pressing. Ordinarily you may not look into these details, but we do most thoroughly. If there were any frailty in material, lining, trimming or workmanship—and we wish to emphasize workmanship—that coat did not find its way here. Our inflexible rule that every coat must give long and satisfactory service.

The assortment is here, come in and look them over.

WASHTENAW COUNTY FOR IRISH HILL PARK

Washtenaw county's road fund will receive $2,785 from the state as this county's share of the loss collected from automobile owners of the grade during the past three months.

Invitation was received to attend the educational conference at Ann Arbor, Thursday and Friday of this week, in connection with the inauguration of president Burton of the U. of M. Many prominent educators are attending the conference.

Fred C. Fiegel of Selo, who was nominated county treasurer on the Democratic ticket, has filed his affidavit of withdrawal from the contest. His reason for so doing is that he does not feel that he could spare the time to go into the race, or to attend to the duties of the office.

The fact that a woman, Mrs. Mabel Blum, was nominated by the Republicans, has said that she will influence him in teaching his decision.

According to a proclamation of Governor Sleeper, the state will observe Central time—one hour slower than Eastern time—on all official state and county business on Saturday and Sunday.

Henry Rounse had his wrist badly sprained last week while working on the road.

Mrs. Josephine Beckwith and Mrs. F. Clyde Beckwith spent the week with relatives in Clinton.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Sadler went to their home in Williamstown Wednesday for the month of September in the district No. 2, Miss Jennie Martin, teacher, and Miss Anna Wiedmayer, teacher.
