

AUTO PLATES NOW COME FROM PRISON

State Making Auto Plates With Up-To-Date Machinery—Expect Cost to Be Lower.

At the Jackson state prison the 1921 auto license plates are now being manufactured by the thousands in a new plant, recently installed and in addition new work is being planned for the immense presses.

Four machines are required for the operation—One cuts the outline of each plate from large sheets of steel. The next machine stamps out the four holes and four slots. The press embosses the figures from dies which are necessarily changed for each set of plates by the operator, an assistant arranging them in pairs and checking the rotation. Still another press stamps the state character. The machines exert a pressure of 70 tons upon the sheet-steel and a safety device is provided to make it impossible for the men to have their hands mangled while working. This device consists of two levers which must be operated at the same time in order to bring pressure upon the metal. This requires the use of both hands at a safe distance while the pressure is exerted.

After coming from the last press the plates are given an anti-rust bath and afterward dipped in the background color and carried by endless chain to a huge oven where they are baked in a temperature of 235 degrees for two hours and 40 minutes.

COMES HOME FROM SOUTH-WEST AFRICA

After Long Service in Southern Land, Reg. John Schabale Returns Here With His Family.

Rev. and Mrs. John Schabale and their five children arrived at the home of his father, Michael Schabale and sister Lena, Monday, after a trip of seven weeks from their former home, Walfish Bay, West Africa.

John is well known to many residents of the village, but not by the younger ones as he left here 23 years ago for theological studies in Germany and has visited home but twice since, both visits being during his seven years of study abroad. Eighteen years ago, at the conclusion of his college course he was sent to Walfish Bay, German West Africa, where he remained continuously.

Mrs. Schabale is the daughter of a missionary in the same country. Their children have been educated at home, and the two older ones went to Cape Town, about one thousand miles to the south.

John intended to bring his family home some time ago, but the coming of the world war made it impossible to obtain passports and they were forced to remain and undergo harrowing experiences and witness much trouble in that land far removed from the real seat of war. Starting on their long trip here it was necessary for them to journey to Cape Town to catch a boat bound for Northampton, where they transhipped for this country.

The family intend remaining in this country in order to give the children advantage of higher education. John himself is in need of a change from the hard and continuous labor among the natives these many years.

A public reception in honor of Rev. Schabale and his family is planned by the congregation of Emanuel's church, at the church next Monday evening.

POPULATION OF SCOTLAND MADE UP OF SIX RACES.

Scotti Tribe, Originally Irish, Gave Their Name to the Country, According to the Historian.

The Scotch reached Scotland from Ireland and are not the descendants of Gaelic Celts who had been pushed north by a later (British) invasion of Britain. The first authentic information on Scotland dates from the time of the Romans. 79 A. D. Roman rule in Britain came to an end in 410, and Britain then ceased to be part of the Roman empire.

The population of Scotland is made up of Pictish, Irish, British, Saxon, Danish and Norman elements, all of them Indo-Celtic, the three first Celtic, the three last, Germanic peoples. The Picts contributed the bulk of the population, but were overcome by the Scotti (Irish), who had settled in Dalriada, a part of the present county of Argyre. The Scotti then became the dominant people.

Brythonic Celts dwelt in Strathclyde; their chief city was Dumbarton (Dun Brethan) "Fort of the Britons". Toward the close of the Eighth century the Danes appeared and ravaged the coast settlements and the isles. The Saxons first appeared in 423 in Britain. In the Eleventh century Norman refugees first crossed the border into Scotland.

The first Irish colonization in Scotland took place toward the end of the second century, but the kingdom of Dalriada was not effected until the close of the fifth. It is these Scotti who have given their name to Scotland. The relations between the two countries were very close and lasted 1,000 years, or at least up to the Reformation, and the early literature and civilization of Scotland belong to Ireland.

According to legend, the name Scotch is derived from Scotia, a daughter of one of the Pharaohs. The word is probably related etymologically to the German Schatz, and means "masters, owners". Originally, and therefore in all medieval Latin texts down to the end of the Eleventh century, it meant only Ireland. Since that date it means specifically Scotland. The Scotch Gael never calls himself Scotch, but Gael, or to indicate his country, Albanach. English-speaking Highlanders, even though Scotchmen, are Saxons in the mind of a Gael. In the Fifteenth century when English became the predominant speech in the Lowlands, the English and non-Gaelic Scotch called Gaelic "Erse". Since the Sixteenth century the name Scotch has been applied to the English spoken in the Lowlands. So, by a strange freak of fortune, Scotch, originally applied to a variety of Celtic, has come to mean Broad Scotch or Quaint English, a language of Germanic origin.

The distinction made between the Highlands and Lowlands of Scotland is correct merely so far as the physical configuration of the country is concerned, but incorrect if a racial significance is read into it. There is a mistaken notion that Scotland is a country of two races, Celtic in the North and Teutonic in the South, and that the latter element has displaced the former. No doubt the Lowland Scotchman is a person of very composite blood, but he is above all a Celt—From a Paper by Dr. Joseph Dunn before Anthropological Society of Washington in the Scientific American Supplement.

BROOKLYN MAN DIES SUDDENLY

Was Well Known in Southwest Part of Manchester and in Masonic and G. A. R. Circles.

We were greatly shocked Wednesday forenoon when Mrs. Ella Rushon-Clark of Brooklyn informed us by telephone that our life-long friend E. D. Main of that village had dropped dead of heart trouble that morning. We knew that he had been in poor health for some time and drove up two weeks ago to call on him when he hinted to us that he was even worse than we thought. But alas, we are never prepared for such a shock.

E. D. Main was a veteran of the Civil war, a mere boy when he enlisted, but he served his country loyally and has always been a good citizen. He had been a member of the G. A. R. for many years and was well known by comrades of Comstock Post of this village, some of whom will honor his memory by attending the funeral, Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

He was also a member of the Masonic fraternity, and Brooklyn lodge will have charge of the burial services.

Mr. Main owned a farm near Wampler lake, where he resided from boyhood. After the death of his wife he went to Brooklyn to live with his daughter, Mrs. John Cruse, and husband, and later went with them to Benzle county, where they resided several years, but returned to Brooklyn a few years ago. Mr. Cruse passing away soon after their return, since which time Mr. Main and Mrs. Cruse and her daughter Amelia continued to live there.

He was not a church member, but was an exemplary man, a true friend and an accommodating neighbor. He would have been 77 years old in July.

HILLIEST OF WORLD'S CITIES

San Francisco, With Its Many Elevations, Outranks Any of the Centers of Population.

As to the question of the seven seas, perhaps it is contributing a little to similar geographical information to say that the seven hills of Rome and to say that many descriptions of San Francisco incorrectly speak of "San Francisco on her seven hills."

As a matter of accuracy, says the writer of a letter to the editor of the New York Herald, San Francisco is the hilliest of the world's large cities. Occupying the end of a fifty-mile-long peninsula, which is flanked on the ocean side by the Pacific and on the inland side by the southern arm of San Francisco bay, the city itself covers a crumpled, hilly area of approximately 20,000 acres, as compared with the 14,000 acres of Manhattan island.

The city contains not just seven hills but a total of forty-four. The highest of them, Mount Davidson, is 937 feet. Two at the apparent end of the main business street, under which the thoroughfares pass by long tunnel, are 728 and 732 feet high, and are called Twin Peaks, to the summit of which there is a scenic automobile drive. Strawberry hill, in the middle of Golden Gate park, which is a third larger in area than New York's Central park, is a colossal hill 420 feet high, and it is girdled half way up by a pleasure lake, while Lone mountain, famed these last eighty years as the site of a massive sixty-foot cross upon its summit, also is 420 feet high.

Practically all of the forty-four hills of San Francisco are almost twice as high as any hill in Rome and nearly all of them are about twice as high as the Acropolis hill in Athens or Washington Heights in New York or the river bluffs of Hoboken or West New York on the New Jersey side of the Hudson.

Except for that fourth of San Francisco's hills which have been completely built upon or changed by man, this interesting fact I have observed on the summits of some thirty of them—wild California yellow violets growing and a bloom in spring, lingering suggestions perhaps of the floral abundance that may have characterized the least favored parts of the peninsula in the old days before the grizzly came or before the world learned that a magnificent landlocked and hill-sheltered harbor nearly 100 miles long and from three to six miles wide lay snugly behind that narrow slit in the hills, but a mile and an eighth in width, forming the picturesque western ocean portal known as the Golden Gate.

Would You Like a New Name? How many of us, if we had the chance, would change our Christian names?

Lady Kitty Vincent, writing to the London Daily Express, declares that there should be a law that the name given by our godfathers and our godmothers in our baptism should not be considered binding. When we reach the years of discretion, she says, we might be allowed to change them. Her ladyship continues:

Remember the sad story of the parents who christened their daughter "Wide" because their name was Ross, and being artistic people, they thought it made a charming sound picture. But she married a man called Bull!

Mrs. Ross and Beebe, who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. J. C. Gordonier, and other relatives, went to Ann Arbor Tuesday where she will spend some time before going to her home in Bay View.

HOW RATS CARRY EGGS.
How do rats carry eggs? asks the Scientific American. Some time ago the question was put to the most famous of all American naturalists, John Burroughs. He admitted that he didn't know. He had heard an explanation current among farmers, but he couldn't say that it was a correct one.

The mystery of how rats carry eggs is unsolved "officially" after hundreds of years of conjecture. That eggs disappearing are borne off by rats is proved clearly enough by the discovery of whole, uncracked eggs beneath floors, in partitions and other hiding places. In farming communities various theories are advanced and every now and then someone actually claims to have seen the rats at work. These eye witnesses of a most unusual thing say that the rat holds the egg between chin and forefoot or huggs tightly between the forefeet; that he tumbles off elevations, deftly protecting the egg as he falls; that usually there is a crowd of rats about to drag the egg rat, lying on its back by the tail across the floor to the hole.

Others say the rat carries the egg held between folds of skin under the chin, without assistance. The general testimony, however, would explain such a conflict of opinion.

BONUS MUST NOW WAIT EXTRA SESSION

Senate and House Reach Decision to Quit Legislative Work April 20, Before Bonus is Reached.

Lansing, Mich., April 12.—Hope of Michigan's ex-soldiers, sailors, marines and war nurses that the enabling act would be passed at the present regular session of the legislature to place in operation distribution of the bonus payments authorized by the constitutional amendment voted at the general election recently vanished Monday when the senate in adjournment Friday, April 23. Under constitutional limitations, legislative action to put the bonus in effect could not be legally taken until May 4th, or 30 days after the amendment was approved at the polls. Ex-service men in all parts of the state had urged that the lawmakers stick to their task five days longer and had deluged legislative representatives with telegrams making this plea. Gov. Groesbeck pledges to call the legislature in extra session just as soon as acts can be legally passed.

Dr. A. W. Stalker of Ann Arbor will exchange pulpits with London and Birmingham, England, pastors during July and August. He and his wife will leave for England June 30th.

Mrs. Frank Sweetland of Chelsea died at her home Friday, April 9, aged 89 years. She was an active member of the Congregational church.

Mrs. Mary Schweiketh, who was born in Clinton, Sept. 2, 1857, died at Chelsea, April 7th.

USEFUL NOTES FOR GARDENERS

Horticultural Department of M. A. C. Gives Hints for Best Results.

Set small fruit plants now. They grow best during the cool moist weather of early spring.

Cuthbert (red), Cumberland and Plum Farmer (black) are dependable varieties of raspberries.

Perfection is the best variety of currant. London-Market and Fay's Prolific are good.

Downing and Pearl gooseberries are good varieties to grow in Michigan.

Don't wait until fall to set the new strawberry bed. Spring planting is best. Senator Dunlap is a good gardener.

Don't leave the plants in the packages in which they are shipped. If not ready to plant, remove them as soon as they are received and "heel them."

Most plants should be set a little deeper than they were in the nursery rows; all except strawberries. Don't set strawberry plants too deep. Place the crown so that it is just at the top of the soil.

All the roots should be spread out and the soil well firmed around them. This is a good time (with the possible exception of northern Michigan) to plant peas, radishes, lettuce, onions, spinach and other hardy vegetables.

My Car and the Night

While driving my car through the stormy night, my little boy's head fell against my shoulder. He slept and a great surge of emotion rises in me. When I saw him at play, when I heard his merry laughter, no such tender tenderness overtook my heart. Now, though I only feel the light pressure of his small body in the dark, how keenly I realize my fatherhood. It seems a gladness it is. I am glad strong by his weakness. Yes, I am strong. I am proud of my strength to struggle, and sometimes to win. But when, in my turn, I shall grow weary and fall asleep on the highway, I wonder, shall I, too, inspire the Great Tenderness?
