FIND RELIC OF OLD LONDON. Arch-Bridge Church Must Have Been Built Where It Now Stands. A very interesting relic of old London has been found and will be on display at the London Times, an arch of old London bridge, which was demolished during the American revolution. The relic was discovered by the second from the north of the arch, and is close to St. Magnus church. It was discovered during some building operations now in progress. The first stone in 1716, over the Thames was built in 1716, but the bridge was constantly repaired and restored, so that there is no evidence of the exact date of this particular arch. It was apparently erected and built of Regiate stone with a very flat trajectory. At the beginning of the eighteenth century, however, the flat wrought-iron supporting ribs were put in, and the middle one of these is the relic now on display. It was recently uncovered, but a splinter at each end is just being disclosed, and the relic is expected to be 50 feet long. The under surface of the arch is considerably waterworn between the additional ribs. It is one of the arches to which the water enters, the waterworn surface of the stone being a good deal above the level of the water. This arch stood in the river, and is, therefore, an evidence of the limits which the river has now on, but has been lifted on the Thames, the river being now much narrower than it was in medieval times. It is understood that this relic of old London is to be carefully preserved.

Seelig Without Eyes. The blind can perceive light and darkness as perceived by Dr. A. Cantomet in Medicine (Paris). Doctor Cantomet tested eyes using machinery by bandaging his eyes tight proof and concentrating his attention for 50 hours on perception of light. He found that he could then perceive not merely light and darkness but feeling, many blind persons, he found the same ability. He attributes this vision without eyes to Rayner's sensory cells, which have a nerve sensation with the brain centers.

WAR OFFICE FEARSOME PLACE. According to Captain Bairnwater, British Institution is Designed to Be an Annoyance. I have not been to the British war office very often, writes Capt. Bruce Bairnwater in "From Mud to Mud," but I have never felt the odd sensation that it gives rise to. You enter the building after it has been a long time a mere war veteran, you find a guidebook to "follow the line." The guidebook is a long, narrow strip of paper, and it is a very interesting one. It is a guidebook to the war office, and it is a very interesting one. It is a guidebook to the war office, and it is a very interesting one.

Japanese Judicial Regalia. Speaking of robes that worn by the judges of the Japanese Supreme Court is a work of art and as heavy with embroidery as the vestments of the papacy. The robes are of a rich, dark color, and are adorned with intricate patterns. They are worn by the judges in the Supreme Court, and they are a symbol of their authority.

Mohammedan Law. In the Mohammedan law, the laws of the empire rest in principle on the basis of the Koran, the Hadith, or traditions of Mohammed, and the reported sayings of his successors, all of which are binding upon the sovereign. Each successive sultan, however, has enacted statutes as suited to his individual purpose, by the authority of his absolute authority, his laws have stood until there have been Mohammedan law, the laws of the empire rest in principle on the basis of the Koran, the Hadith, or traditions of Mohammed, and the reported sayings of his successors, all of which are binding upon the sovereign.

WASHTENAW COUNTY. Mr. Luke Reilly of Chelsea threw oil on a slow fire and received burns that caused his death. Let this be a warning. A meeting was held in Chelsea to organize a Board of Commerce in which the following gentlemen were named as public spirited residents of the community who were willing to accept the honor of Manchester, Wallace Association.

Auto Trip Down Pacific Coast. We left Seattle accompanied by friends in their car with our first objective point as Olympia, the state capital, where we arrived in time for dinner at 6:30 and after spending the evening here our good friends returned home, leaving us with what looked like the best trip all before us. In the morning we started for Portland. After running through some very hard showers and over bad slippery roads we reached Klama where we put the car on the ferry for the crossing of the Columbia River, from which point we had 40 miles of wonderful paved roads to Inland Falls. We remained in Portland that night and next day drove through the Pacific highlands as far as Multnomah Falls, about 40 miles. The falls are wonderful, being about 650 feet high. As far as we went in this direction the roads were of the paved road as we ever saw and for many miles farther they are just as good. We did not attempt to describe, but I'll not attempt to describe, but I'll not attempt to describe, but I'll not attempt to describe.

HOG CHOLERA IN LENAWEE. Farm Agent C. S. Suggs Reports Report Sick Hogs at Once. Nearly fifty different swine herds were under quarantine in this county because of hog cholera. It was announced Friday by Ralph J. Carr county farm agent, and Dr. P. M. Kammann, district representative of the federal bureau of animal industry. The situation generally is most discouraging, for it has now spread to two weeks ago and the county and federal experts place the odds of the swine, Mr. Spaulding found it difficult in making a likeness of the forms and physical characteristics of the hogs. The Head of the Family Isn't always the one who sits at the head of the table and carves Sunday chicken. Many times it's Mother whose clever headwork makes the family income travel just twice as far as it otherwise might. Mother usually sees to it that the Savings Account is "paid" just as regularly as the grocery bill, so that as long as there is a family there it'll be Sunday chicken to carve. An account here ably assists the head of the family.

Announce a Great Big

ROUSING GOODBYE SALE

To go into the new store, which will soon be ready, with all fresh, brand new goods is our big aim. To do this, present stocks must be greatly reduced and in order to accomplish that, present prices, which are already lower than they have been for years, have been further reduced.

The fact that this is all first class merchandise of the same high standard so long identified with this store, and not special merchandise bought for a sale is something not to be lost sight of. The need for taking immediate advantage of the special offerings in this big sale is apparent. Only a small portion of the sale items appear in this advertisement, and many good lots are too small to advertise.
