LIC AS I See It.

From our prehistoric ancestors C. wn man has always had a friendly feeling for trees, regarding them as almost sentient beings,

Great writers have not disdained to express this feeling, Robert Louis Stevenson says: "He inquired his way of every tree." And again, after an unpleasant en counter with a boor: "A tree would not have spoken to me like that."-

The name "aurora borealis" was first used by Cassendi, who in 1621 bserved one in France and wrote a description of it. The "aurora" periodic in its manifestations, the finest displays being at intervals of 60 years and less marked ones at intervals of 10 or 11 years.

It is asserted that the greater and lesser displays correspond with the increase and decrease of spots on the sún. This phenomenon is generally manifested in the following way: A dim light appears on the horizon shortly after twilight and gradually assumes the shape of an arch having a pale vellow color with its concave life turned carthward. From this side turned arch streams of light shoot forth, pas ing from yellow to green and then to dilani vicie The name, "aurora borealls," while generally referring to the northern lights, is applied to a similar phe vicinity o South pole.
