20th CENTURY CLUB HAS MERRY TIME

Literary Matters Had No Place in Program Planned for Evening Of Amusement.

Fifteen members of the Twentieth Century club were delightfully entertained at the home of Mrs. E. A. Lowery Monday evening, the occasion being the Christmas meeting of the club. A three-course 6 o'clock dinner was served, interspersed with the reading of humorous clippings. A beatifully trimmed Christmas tree graced the center of the table. The favors were in keeping.

After the dinner a short business session was held, followed by stunts and merry making. These were entered into with such enthusiasm as to testify that all are children at Christmas time.

"America through an opera glass" proved to be the stunt of walking string stretched on the floor while looking at the track through an opera glass, and proved a more difficult feat than it sounded. The win-ner, Mrs. Frank Lowery, who walked farthest without stepping off, was presented a candy cane to steady he movements

A dismembered Santa Claus contest followed. The hostess com-pleted the first Santa Claus out of the scattered pieces and was given a jolly-looking old saint as a prize. Dropping red Christmas candies no easy task, but was won by the

The sceme for drawing the gifts was going round the wheel of fortune to the rhyme of "Hickory-dickory-dock," and where the pencil pointed at the close decided the fate. After all gifts were drawn they were opened, examined and compared, which made a pleasant diversion.

TORTURE APPLIED TO FEET

Modern Pedal Coverings, According to Physician, Among the Greatest of Physical Sins.

In a long range of what Herbert Spencer called physical sins, foot sins loonrup as the stupidest and least excusable of which man is guilty. If men and women were born with the wretched appliances they call shoes they would have a right to raise their voices in lamentation over the cruelty of Nature in afflicting them with such a burden. Is it not a strange paradox that we should glory in our scientific ingenuity that has enabled us to con struct the flying machine while we have lost the art of walking correctly and making our feet and legs really tion? asks Eugene Lyman Fisk, M. D. in the Health Builder. If we were simply aspiring to fly and ultimately abandon the use of our lower limbs, that would be a consistent program But why insist upon encasing our feet in deforming appliances? Why not use reasonable intelligence in walking when in the rare intervals of flying or whizzing around on wheels in various types of conveyances we actually cend to come into contact with

SMILE ALWAYS WORTH WHILE

London Writer Undoubtedly is Correct When He Declares There is Magic In It.

The anonymous writer who supplies A Woman's Causerie" to the Saturday Review in London, pays this trib ute to the woman who smiles:

"Wherever she goes she is met by welcoming faces and gracious acts even a head waiter will leave the pompous politician to find her a pleas ant table, and will dally in suggesting food that may tempt her.

"In shops she waves aside the tired girl, 'Don't worry about me, I have plenty of time,' with a look that makes the girl scramble to serve her other customers to be quickly ready to attend to her.

"For her there is always a seat in in omnibus or a train, and porters never grumble at the weight of her boxes, for being as she is, she takes care that they are not of a back-breaking size.

"Her path in life, in spite of sorrows and difficulties, is, on the whole an easy one, because she radiates hap-plness wherever she goes and the reflection of it is in everything around

Concerning Moonlight.

It is probable that few persons are aware of the fact that the full moon gives several times more than twice the light of the balf moon. They may be still more surprised to tearn tun-the ratio is approximately as nine to one!

Stebbins and Brown, taking advan age of the extrem ight of a selenium cell, measured the amount of light coming from the moon at different phases, with the result above mentioned. The reason for the emarkable difference shown is to be found in the varying angles of reflecfaces of our satellite to the sun. The moon is brighter between first quarter and full than between full and last quarter. The cause of this is evident in the more highly reflective character of that part of the moon that lies west of its meridian.

YOUNG MEN'S CLUB HAS ANNUAL MEET

Live Organization Elects Most Old Officers and Enjoys Banquet At Club Rooms.

Sunday marked the ending of the year 1922 and the beginning of the new year in affairs of the Young Men's club, and with it came the annual meeting and election of officers The business session was held at the club rooms in the afternoon, the following officers being elected: President-G. W. Kramer.

Vice-Presient-Gust. Wuerthner. Sec'y-Treasurer-L. P. Wurster. Steward-Fred Filber.

This meeting was not the only ecognition of the passing of the old year, however, for the banquet followed in the evening—and it's always looked forward to because it's well known it will be a feast. This year was no exception and 60 or 70 members gathered round the festive board and ate heartily of baked chicken with dressing and "ever-thing," cooked to the "queen's taste". as goes the old saying but in this case we suspect it was to Fres. Bill's faste for he was white-surproped and taste, for he was white-aproned and were no queens about—and be it known the Young Men's club is strictly a stag affair and there will-probably not be even a "ladies' night" as long as the two evidently confirmed baseboors [81] and Caret confirmed bachelors, Bill and Gust and suggestive of the holidays, the remain at the head of the list—too diving room being especially invitbad, girls, but never say die.

WELL TO HEED INNER LIGHT

Most of Those Disappointed in Life Have Had False Alma, John Burroughs Though

I have done what I have most wanted to do in the world, what I was prob best fitted to do, not as the result of deliberate planning or calculation but by simply going with the current that is, following my natural bent, and refusing to run after false gods Riches and fame and power, when directly pursued, are false gods. If a men deliberately says to himself, "I will win these things," he has likely reckoned without his host. His host is the nature within and without him. and that may have something to say on the subject. But if he says, "I will in the worthy work that comes to my hand, the work that my character and my talent bring me, and I will do it the best I can," he will not reap a harren harvest.

So many persons are disappointed in life! They have had false aims.

They have wanted something for noth-They have listened to the call of ambition and have not heeded the inner light. They have tried short cuts to fame and fortune, and have not been willing to pay the price in selfdenial that all worthy success demands. We find our position in life according to the specific gravity of our moral and intellectual natures --From "The Last Harvest," by John Burroughs.

Botanists' Theory of the Origin Maize-Enormously Developed by Cultivation.

The Indians found teosinte covering our plains. It bore grains or small kernels something like small wheat grains, not connected together, but loose in a tiny husk. The ears were from two to four inches long, thinner than a lead pencil, with each grain incased in a separate shell-like covering or sheath.

Discovering that the kernels were good to eat, the Indians began to cultivate the plant. Since they always saved the best kernels for seed, teosinte ears gradually became longer and bigger round, so as to take care of extra rows of kernels. In time the chitinous sheaths disappeared.

Such, the botanists believe, was the history of our maize. Mr. Burbank made his experiment in order to test the theory. Starting in 1903, he gradually developed the tensinte plant with its miniature kernels into a much larof a few years he found an occasional kernel that had emerged from its juestions by lot is one of great extent and high antiquity, recommending itself as a sort of appeal to the Almighty, secure from all influence of passion or bias. It also is a sort of divination said to be employed even by the gods themselves. In the primitive method of casting lots stones were often used. These, marked in some way, were placed in the fold of a garment or more often an urn, helmet or a vessel of some sort. The shaking of the garment or vessel would throw a stone out on the ground according to which the decision was

The lot was used to determine such cases as the inheritance of the tribes hence each tribe's portion was called the lot of its inheritance."

The N. Y. Central railway seems well pleased with the work being done at their reconstructed shops at Adrian and it is announced that they ploy more men in them. Surely Adrian and the santy will construct more shops and they ploy more men in them. Surely Adrian people will be very happy to have that hive of industry restored. In the early days that city was headquarters and its growth and wealth may be credited to the support given by the railroad company.

Wouldn't it be jolly if Old Santa-Claus should use his old sleigh drawn by eight reindeers, as was his custom, before the advent of the automobile! Surely the auto has never been able to negotiate the high house-tops, as was shown when he used the sleigh. And perhaps that is the reason that he ceased coming down the chimney and getting his fur coat all ashes and soot. We have snow enough now to make an old fashloned visit and perhaps we will get more so the sleighing will be such that he may carry a big load and make all the little girls and boys happy as can be.
