Rogers states that the law will be strictly enforced on state trunk lines. While that does not particularly interest property owners in this section, except on the turnpike south of town, yet others may read the warning and heed it.

Commisioner Rogers says: "Any person, including the owner of the abutting land, who destroys trees, or shrubs in the highway without a permit from the highway authorities is guilty of a misedmeanor, under this law, and is liable to a fine or imprisonment or both. If such per-son has not obtained the consent of the abutting property owner, in addition to a permit from the highway authorities, he is liable to the abut-

He has served as faithfully and long, and his only reward, aside from a lingering love and esteem, is a summer vacation spent in the attic, where it is probably not less than 100 degrees during the entire period.

But he drags himself out of his cache with a somewhat bedraggled sert of smile and promises to do the best he can for another term, if we will only send him to the shop for a bit of polishing.

A Magic Loan Office.

The village of Churt, on the Hamp-shire border, near Surrey, England, Mr. Lloyd George has recently built his new home, is the scene of a quaint legend. The name of the village means a rough common overrun with gorse, broom, and bracken, and on the common are three curious coni-cal -sandhilis called "The Devil's Jumps." The legend ran that if one of the inhabitants knocked on a great stone on one of these hills and asked for the loan of any utensil, he would be sure to find the thing he saked for waiting for him on reaching home. But it was a necessary condition of the loan that he must return whatever he had borrowed. One day a neglect-ful inhabitant borrowed a large kettle and did not return it, whereupon the supernatural loan office ceased to function. In Frensham church, two miles away from Churt, the "identical" copper kettle is exhibited.

Woman Candidate Wrote 50 Novels One of the most interesting of the woman candidates in the recent Brit-ish parliamentary elections was An-S. Swan, who stood for one of the Glasgow divisions. Mrs. Burnett Smith, which is the real name of this popular novelist, is the daughter of a farmer. She began writing for the papers at an early age. Since the opening of her career she has produced more than fifty novels, in addition to innumerable short stories and articles.—Exchange.

SEES THE BEAUTY OF ISLE ROYALE

Walter E. Campbell, Windsor Ferry Head, Says Proposed Michigan Park Is "Some Place."

Naturally there are people who pose Gov. Groesbeck's plan for e state to acquire Isle Royale in Lake Superior. There is a con-siderable amount of valuable stend-ing timber on the island and surely there are men who would like the chance of cutting it for commercial purposes, then they would probably let it go back to the state_rather than pay taxes on it.

There are ancient copper mines on the island, in fact the oldest own mines in the country, wher known mines in the country, where pre-historic people made implements of copper and tempered the metal so that a knife would hold an edge are found here. That art of tempering copper was lost and all attempts to recover it have since failed. Berecover it have since failed. Be sides the white people who reside on the island and make their living by mining or fishing and hunting, there are many Indians. Quite a colony of white people spend their summers there and all claim that it is an ideal place, healthful and wonderfully delightful as to scenery.

Walter Campbell, president of the Detroit & Windsor Ferry Co., says: "Personally, I am much in favor of the state acquiring this property at a fair price, and believe it would be munker of people would enjoy the beauties of it when opened as a park.

"The people of Detroit are very much in love with Belle Isle, and would not sell it for any price now that we have it. The people of Michigan would be equally pleased with Isle Royale, which is worth a thousand times more than Belle Isle.

FICTION WRITERS TO BLAME

Girl With Experience Is Disillusioned Concerning Qualities of the "Strong, Silent Man."

"Deliver me." said the girl with experience, from any more of these who knows the value of a pause or a moment in which no one says anything, but in which unutterable things are felt.

"A man who shatters a time like that, or doesn't even know when it comes along, is, as we say, 'impossi ble.' If there's anything worse a female chatterbox, it's a male chat terbox, but that's no reason why a man can't answer 'Yes' when you say, 'Isn't it a lovely day?' without thinking that he is violating a secret. "Writers are to blame I believe, for building up the fictionally perfect, but realistically terrible, type of man whose stock in trade is an enigmatica. whose stock in trade is an enignatical smile. Consequently, every man who is shy, bashful or stupid feels that he has an excellent allbi. A girl who is not versed in the ways of men, but mows her story books backward and forward, is led to believe that the mar who listens alike to her prattling, her small talk and her profoundest re marks with a mere quirk to the left side of his mouth, is a fiction here come to life. After a season or two, depending on her perspicacity, she knows, alas, that he is generally just a very dull man. Of course, if he is dull, it's much better that he should be dumb as well. The only pity is that he appears, at first, to be what he decidedly is not.'

Records Patient's Rest.

Recording continuously the slightest movements of a patient in bed, and thereby determining the hours of complete and untroubled rest he has had is an idea recently introduced. This result is obtained by first placing a sheet of rubber beneath one of the bed posts and attaching special apparatus to the post. The apparatus consists fastened to the bed post, the other having a recording pen affixed to it. Underneath the pen is located a clockwork drum containing a chart divided into 24 hours, so that a continuous curve of the sleeper's movements is kept and may be consulted if it is de sired to ascertain how he has rested. or to convince a patient that he has underrated his hours of rest.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Motortruck Used by Loggers. Nothing is more characteristic of logging as it was done from 1800 to 1900 than the sight of a huge truck, piled high with logs, and hauled through the muck and over the corduroy of the woods trails by four, six or even more husky horses. If there is one place in the world where s truck might be expected to fail, it is here. But with the right kind of equipment it seems just as easy to get the logs out by gas as by horse; and there need be no argument over the proposition that, if it can be done at all by gas, if can be done-more cheaply so. # DRIVER OF TRUCK

Young Man Whose Truck Killed Mrs. Ehrlingbush, Formerly of Manchester, Goes Free.

Harold Smith of Onsted, who wa charged with negligent homicide was found not guilty by a Lenawe county circuit jury last Thursday afternoon. The young man ha been almost prostrated by fright but when he learned of the decision he roused up and shook hands with the jury and attorneys.

October 26th last, Smith's freight ruck collided with a buggy in which Mrs. Bertha Ehrlingbush, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alden Blaisdell of this village, and another lady were riding, causing the death of Mrs. Ehrlingbush. The accident occurred where the road north of Onsted crosses the Monroe pike, and Smith claimed that it was a bad place, but he did not deny he was on the wrong side of the road. Prosecuting At-torney Henry Bournes and Assistant Attorney James Helme conducted the case for the people and Baldwin & Alexander were Smith's attorneys. Judge Hart instructed the jury that Smith was guilty of negligence if the evidence established beyond a reasonable doubt that he failed to a reasonable doubt that he failed to comply with the regulations for motor traffic as prescribed by state law when he turned the corner. These regulations the court continued made it obligatory upon Smith to pass the intersection of Monro pike and the county road north from Onsted before he turned to the left on the county road. If, however, the judge charged, the condition of the road made it impossible for the driver of a truck to make such a turn in the manner as fixed by law without backing up, he was supposed to do what the ordinary prudent man would do.

After heing out one hour the turn.

After being out one hour the jury asked for further instructions and were then out an hour more before deciding on a verdict.

It is stated that Attorney-General andrew B. Daugherty will start an action in the U.S. supreme court seeking an injunction against the state of Illinois and the sanitary district of Chicago, restraining excessve diversion of waters from Lake Michigan through the canal. It is claimed that the canal is using more water than was estimated and is using in excess for power purposes, and the Michigan ports and the fruit belt are injured thereby.

Sheriff Stoddard located a giant noonshine factory, in a dugout on the farm of Paul Lasonta, five miles south of Jackson, near Cranberry lake, Saturday. The cavern was 30 y 10 feet, with walls and floor of locate. The roof was of hewn logs covered with six inches of contrete. Over the concrete was about 18 inches of earth. Two entrances. 18 inches of earth. Two entrances ed into the place, one through a trap door in the chicken coop, the other hrough a steel cassion sunk in the ground and stopped just below the surface by a concrete plug covered with dirt. The sheriff had some difficulty in locating the plant and while he searched Lasota laughed, but he was excited when the find was made, and fearing destruction of it, consented to show the searchers the concealed entrances.

The way to save the quail, which are recognized as a benefit to the farmer, is to feed and protect them and not shoot them. There is talk of a bill through the legislature puting the quail in the list of songlirds, to protect it from hunters.

Having discovered that their neighbor, Walter Parr, who resides east of the village, had a birthday on Monday, about 50 persons of both sexes with well filled baskets joyously wended their way thither to help him celebrate the occasion. It was a complete surprise they sprung on him, but he took it in good part when he saw the happy faces of friends instead of a party of K. K.'s., and he welcomed them and he and his good wife set about making them—comfortable. Music and friendly intercourse made the hours, pass very happily and the birthday dinner was all that one's heart could wish.

ALL INDIA BOWS TO CASTE

Life, Spiritual and Physical, Is Based Upon That One Idea, Without Possible Appeal.

'Caste" is the essence of Hinduism writes Harold Cox. The Hindus, who enormously outnumber all the rest of the population of India, are divided to a multitude of castes, re ligiously separated from one another Into whatever caste a man is born, in that caste he remains until he dies.

At the head of the whole system is e priestly caste of Brahmans. But the Brahmans themselves are divided into a number of sub-castes, all keeping their respective rank, which is de termined not by wealth but by birth.

One of our best pupils in India was very high-caste Brahman boy. So was his caste that he could not find any one in the neighborhood sufficiently sacred to be permitted to cook his food: He had to import an uncle who lived with him in a hut in the compound and prepared the meals while the boy was attending classes in mathematics and English litera-

Similar barriers run right through Hinduism. The lowest castes are in fact known as the "Untouchables" because merely to touch them pollutes a Hindu of higher caste. I have myself seen an Indian servant, when asked by his English mistress to fetch a shawl for the baby, toss the shawl to the baby's nurse instead of handing it to her, because she, being of a lower caste, would have polluted him if she had touched the shawl before he parted with-it-

In parts of southern India, where caste system is even more rigid than in the north, the Untouchable are forbidden to walk on certain roads merely by seeing them.

HAVE THEIR PECULIAR CHANT

Pile-Driver Coolies of China Retain Chorus That Has Been Theirs Through Centuries.

No visitor to China who once hears it will ever forget the chant of the pile-driver coolies. The lilting chorus that has come down through the ages and was sung by the toilers who built China's great wall, still is raised over brings into service this particular guild of workers. Ordinarily, contractors employ singing leaders with each gang of pile-driver coolies, and while it is the particular function of these leaders to speed the work, they also extemporize words for the ancient chant, often at the expense of the foreign on-From the hammer of the human pile driver, which may weigh several hundred pounds, as many as a score of ropes run to as many workers stationed above on a staging. As the coolies heave in unison, lifting the hammer, the chant is begun by all the workers, and with each line of the song a blow is delivered as the hamnier is dropped. Other coolies below control the movement of the hammer, which rises and falls more and more rapidly until a swelling climax is reached with a shrill outburst from the throats of the workers.

Gave Tweeds Their Name. a man in a tweed suit should ask another man in a tweed suit why tweeds are called "tweeds" It is ten to one that the second tweeded one would reply:

"After the River Tweed of course." And, as tweeds are a product of Section and the River Tweed is the Anglo-Scottish border stream made famous by the romances of Sir Walter Scott, the answer would be rather plausible. But it wouldn't be correct; declares the New York Sun.

For tweeds became tweeds by mistake. Prior to 1832 their name was twill, pronounced in Scotland "tweel" and also spelled thus. But the name, carelessly written, looked like "tweed" in an invoice with a consignment to a London merchant, and they became fashionable under that name.
