SHOOT GAME WITH BOW AND ARROW

Archery Has Become Quite Popular Sport Up and Down Pacific Coats

The early settlers in America found the Indians very proficient in the use of bow and arrow, which was the usual weapon for killing birds as well as animals. The Indians were proficient in throwing spears, hatch ets and knives, but the bow and ar row was their chief weapon. Almost every farmhouse contains some ar-ow heads picked up by members of the family, which speaks for the im-mense number in use in previous

In California and Washington many professional and sporting men have recently taken a great interest in and have become adepts in the in and have become adepts in the use of bow and arrow, with which they have kilied bear, deer, wildcats, wolves, mountain lions, and other wild animals, as well as ducks and other wildfowl. Dr. S. T. Pope, a San Franciso surgeon, is an enthusiast in field archery and declares that "it gives the game a chance to pit its native ingenuits against the natural cunning of man. DON'T OVERLOAD THE MOTOR TRUCK

Road Commissioners Tell What Law Allows on Our Good Roads In Michigan.

Believing there are many who do not understand the law regarding the loading of trucks on highways, the board of county road commissioners of Washtenaw county has compiled information regarding the matter that it believes will be of assistance to those interested in the proper use of the county roads. The tarpayers have constructed these roads and are paying a large percentage of the cost of maintain percentage of the cost of maintain ing, the board points out, and when they have to be reconstructed it will be necessary to finance the cost in some other way than from a tax on the owners of lands.

The information is in the form of a table which shows the maximum gross loads for motor trucks, con-sidering the size of tires, the size of wheels and the rate of speed.

For example, the maximum gross load for a truck with two-inch tifes and 32-inch wheels traveling at the rate of 20 miles per hour is 1,867 pounds. For a truck with the same size tire and a 34-inch wheel traveling at the same rate of grounds. eling at the same rate of speed, the gross load is 2,053 pounds: The table is arranged in conven-

Detailed information regarding this table may be obtained at the office of the county road engineer in the county building.

The engineer's office is anxious to have truck drivers become familiar with lawful weights so that overloading may be cut down.

INSTRUCTIONS.—In all cases mark a cross (X) in the circle (O) under the name of the party at the head of your ballot. If you desire to vote a straight ticket, nothing further need be done. When only one candidate is to be elected to any office and you desire to vote for a candidate not on you party ticket; make a cross (X) in the square [] before the name of the candidate for whom you desire to vote on the other ticket. When two or more candidates are to be elected to the same office and you desire to vote for candidates on different tickets for such office, make a cross (X) in the square [] before the name of the candidate for whom you desire to vote on the other ticket; also erase an equal number of names of candidates on your party ticket for the same office for whom you do not desire to vote. If you wish to vote for a candidate not on any ticket, write or place the name of such candidate on your ticket opposite the name of the office.

Before leaving the booth, fold the ballot so that the initials of the inspector may be seen on the outside

EXT MONDAY is Village Election day and every qualified citizen should exercise the right of franchise—not as a matter of politics, for no politics is concerned but that he and she may have their full share to say as to what aggregation of individuals shall constitute the governing or executive body of the village for the coming year. Every man and woman should assume a responsibility in affairs of the village by expressing a choice as to who shall serve them.

Instructions for properly marking the ballot are found on each ballot and should be carefully studied, especially by new voters, both male and female—so that your vote may intelligently express your wish and not be thrown out by the election board because it is not marked according to instructions and in conformity to law.

It has been called to the attention of the Enterprise that one situation on the above bal-It has been called to the attention of the Enterprise that one situation on the control of the Enterprise that one situation on the control of the Enterprise that one situation on the control of the same office—such as trustees. Many voters, it seems, cling to the idea that the trustees are running against each other individually, which is not the idea that the trustees are running against each other individually, which is not the idea that the trustees are running against each other individually, which is not adall were attacked by rust which had been attacked by rus the fact. For instance the first trustee named on the Citizens Ticket is not running against the first named trustee on the Progressive Ticket. The three trustees receiving the largest number of votes will be declared elected—whether they be all on one ticket or part on one learn about Fred Wennou heard about Fred Hack's experience were and part on the other. The first named trustee on the Citizens Ticket may receive more votes than the first named on the Progressive Ticket—but he may be defeated because three other candidates have received larger votes than he.

So in marking the ballot-if you place a cross before the name of a trustee not on your party ticket, it is necessary to draw a line over-the name of a trustee on your party ticketnot necessarily the one set opposite the one for whom you vote.

The idea of trustees individually running against each other should be forgotten—there is no such condition.

Antonio Canova, famous Venetian culptor, first attracted attention by modeling a kon in butter. When nine years old he was placed in the household of a nobleman. His grandfather a stonecutter, had taught him the rudiments of carving.

One day the nobleman was giving state dinner. The chief ornament for the table failed to arrive. The host was in despair. The boy set to work on a huge piece of butter and when the nobleman beheld a molded lion he was well pleased. The result was that Antonio was sent to take lessons in sculpture.

For four years he worked at his art in a cell underneath a monastery. A last he produced a statue which sen the art critics wondering. The Vene tian senate sent him to Rome to study

"During his dictatorship in Naples, in 1860, he spent, in trying to remedy the condition of the cab-horses, much time which others thought he should have given to tasks of government in time of crisis; and in the following year, when he was the most famous man in Europe, he thought it natural to go out at night in the rain to seek a strayed lamb among the rocks and brushwood of Caprera."

Dampness Harms a Piano. Most people know that a piano should never stand in a draught; but it is not always possible to place the instrument in an ideal position. A plano is frequently regarded as a piece of furniture, instead of a somewhat delicate arrangement of fine wire and hammers which are very susceptible to changes of temperature. Damp is the greatest enemy that confronts the piano, but if the lid is raised frequently and allowed to remain open for a time a current of air can circulate inside. Damp also causes the hammers to swell, which, in turn, makes the keys hard to depress. It is never advisable to have a valuable piano in a cold room in winter for more than a day or two at a time; and if possible a small oil stove should be placed near to it for an hour or so each day, if it is not desirable to light a fire occasionally.

Some Farmers Through Ignorance Or Carelessness Fail to Destroy The Pretty Bush.

Several years ago a pretty thor-ough search was made in this vicin-ity for the ornamental Barberry bushes which adorned many places, and when people were told that the bush caused rust in wheat they gladly dug up and burned them. No doubt an occasional bush was over-tooked and every person who reads this story and has one or knows where the is growing they should see that it is destroyed at once. In 1921 Fred Hack of Lodi desroyed one of those bushes in his yard and last season—for the first time in several years he harvested a

No declaration of intentions was made by members, but it seemed to be the cusensus of opinion that all made by members, but it seemed to be the cusensus of opinion that all lakes in this vicinity need stocking and a move will be made at once to procure from the state hatcheries various species of fish for distribution. An attempt will also be made to secure a member of the state's conservation department to come here soon and give an illustrated lecture on the game fish, fowl and animals of the state. This lecture was given before a club at Clinton recently and is reported as highly interesting and instructive. This is planned for the community in general, to be given at a public hall.

Most of the talk during the meeting was regarding fish and fishing, but doubtless later the preservation of birds, etc., will be taken up.

Since the meeting, a number of village citizens and farmers have signed the voll of membership and it looks as though there is a strong sentiment in favor of such an organ.

Miss Pauline Einkorn of the postoffice force, took a Kodak picture of the five rural mail carriers and the stacks of mail at the side of their stacks of mail at the side of their automobileis this morning. Some bystanders remarked that one would not believe that such a quantity of mail is distributed in the surrounding country every day; but seeing is believing. And at the same time the observer is made acquainted with the amount of labor involved in the transaction. Of course a carrier makes a mistake once in a while, everyne does; that they do not make more mistakes proves their efficiency. Another bystander remarked jokingly that the mail could be better seen had not Postmasser Koebba stood in front.

Spiders Mostly Deaf and Dumb. Whether insects can hear is a disputed question. Early writers say this would seem to be highly developed in spiders and certain other inbecause some species not only make musical sounds but also are great lovers of music. However, no truth can be accredited to those old romantic stories in which the hero, confined in a dungeon, charmed spiders with sweet music and prognosticated eather by observing their behavior. Recent experiments show that spiders are not only deaf, but most of them are dumb, only a few being able to make sounds. Much has been written about the sense of nearing in insects, but critics still contend that it has never been demonstrated beyond doubt that any insect can really hear.

Live Longer in the South. The climate of the sunny South, newspaper article says, is more favorto longevity than are the rigors

Our venerable townsman Sylvester Green, who lived alone at "Podunk," was found snuggled up in bed with his clothes on last week and unable to take care of himself. Wm. Gadd and Wilbur Hogan feared that something might happen to him if left in that condition, so they secured the services of Alf. Jaynes of Manchester who took charge of the case and the first thing he did was to get the shack warm, feed the old man until he gained strength, give him a bath and comb his hair and whiskers. In few days Alf had him fed up and few days Alf had him fed up and in clean clothing. When the sympa-thetic neighbors called again they found "Vet" enjoying a smoke and feeling chipper, so they bundled him up and took him to Clinton to board until able to return home and care for himself again.

UNPLEASANT MODE OF TRAVEL

amel Litter Probably Most Uncom fortable Conveyance That It is Possible to Imagine.

"All of the passengers across the Syrian desert save only ourselves made the journey in camel litters, than of transport could possibly be devised, relates Alexander Powell in the Century Magazine.

"A litter-consists of a pair of shall low wooden boxes, slung one on each side of the camel like panniers, and held in place by a network of stout cords. On each pannier are a thick mattress and a number of bolsters and cushions, on which you half sit, half recline, hanging on for dear life to the cord network or anything else that of When the camel kneels or rises unless you have tight hold of some thing, the chances are that you will be thrown violently to the ground.

"The litters used by the women are covered with slatted sides, and look like chicken coops. These litters ne cessitate a very eramped position on the part of their occupants, whose legs, incased in gaudily striped stockings held up by pink or yellow garters frequently protrude unblushingly; for the only part of her person that a Moslem woman is particular about concealing is her face."

It has been suggested that in all probability the bears were the first to lo cate and patronize trees that furnish sugar, the animals breaking down great branches to obtain the sweet material. The Indians were also in the secret that a rare kind of sugar might be had for the gathering from the Douglas fir in the dry belt of British Columbia and eastern part of the state of Washington.

The sugar output from this source varies. That it develops at all seems to be the result of atmospheric conditions. Firs growing on the northern and eastern slopes have proved to be the best sugar producers.

Certain qualities possessed by this tree sugar proclaim it a valuable article in chemistry and in medicine. It is hardly likely, however, that the white man will ever eat fir sugar to any extent since the supply is limited. and every Douglas fir in the dry belt has more orders than it can fill.

One day prosperous-looking old- gentleman stepped up into the shine stand. He eyed Johnny with a friendly interest "Young man, you look like a bright, intelligent young fellow," he remarked. Johnny looked up at him unim-

"Say, mister," he retorted, "I've had that line pulled on me before. What I want to know before we go any further, is this a cash shine or when I get through will you pat me on the head and tell me Fil be governor some day?"-Kansas City Star.

Well-Named Club for Girls.-A group of high school girls recently intered the office of the father of one of their number, a well-k and a prominent lawyer.

"Well, young ladies," said the legal gentleman in an affable tone, "what can I do for you today?" Thereupon the elected spokesman told him that they wanted him to help them select a name for their crub. "It is for the building of character, she said earnestly. "No men are to be admitted at any time. We have no use for men," she added with emphasis.

en why not call it the Building and Lone Association?

Etiquette.

Mr. Tomkyn-Brown was very shor in his manner to everybedy tonight! Mrs. Tomkyn-Yes, but we must forgive him, as I hear he's just had some lieavy business losses.

Mr. Tomkyn—My dear, a real gentleman does not give vent to that sort of thing till he gets home to his wife.

ODD NICKNAME FOR SENATOR

Oliver Morton Was Long Known ong Colleagues as the "Devil on Two Sticks."

"The Devil on Two Sticks" was a nickname given to Oliver P. Morton, American senator. For many years he was affected by a dangerous and probably incurable disease. He visited Paris for the best medical advice, and submitted to the moxa treatment. relieved him considerably, and doubtless prolonged his life, but did not restore the paralyzed legs. He was compelled to use a walking-stick in each hand. In the ordinary course of debate in the senate for the last few years he generally read and snoke in a sitting posture, the courtesy of his brother senators admitting that position. When dealing with questions of national importance he spoke standing, supporting himself against his desk and on one of his canes, but sometimes against a standing support. consisting of an iron standard surmounted by a small wooden reading

During the fierce partisan debate in the senate near the close of the Civil war, and especially while the reconstruction measures were being dissively numerious fighter on the Republican side, and earned the appella tion of "The Devil on Two Sticks."

Is Eczema Same As Ivy Poison

In Many Sections Both Disappear When Whitmarsh Blood Elixir Is Used

Where they treat ivy poison and eczema internally with Whitmarsh Blood Elixir, these aggravating tortures disappear as if by magic. It is more than likely that many cases of eccema are nothing but the poison of iv, oak or sumach breaking out every now and then. At any rate these troubles clear up to any rate these troubles clear up to stay cleared and at the same time other forms of blood trouble disappear. It is extended in the same time other forms of blood rouble disappear. It is extended is absolutely guaranteed to come poisons in two or three days or it costs you nothing. On there days or it costs you nothing extended to the state of the state
