

WASHTENAW COUNTY

During the past year there have been 282 fires in Ann Arbor and a loss of $17,745.32.

The attempt to re-establish the homeopathic school of medicine at the U. of M. seems a dead issue.

Deeds and documents keep pouring in to prove Ypsilanti's age, but no one has been able definitely to say how old is Ann.

County Drain Commissioner Deake and wife have returned home from Florida and Mr. Deake is busy attending to the duties of his office. New drains are being petitioned for throughout the county.

MJJA American Legion, backed by the business men, will have a big celebration on the 4th of July. Parade of decorated cars, business floats in the morning, baseball in the afternoon and fireworks, etc., in the evening are the attractions.

The Legislature has perhaps now found a way to authorize the U. of M. to go ahead with construction work and complete the first two units of the library building from the $1,327,000 remaining unexpended from the 1922 appropriation.

Jurors for the May term of circuit court, which begins on the 7th, were drawn as follows: Ernest M. Wurster, Geo. Kapp, Geo. Clark, John F. Barnett, John Kranich, Geo. Langford, Geo. Hall, Ann Arbor city; Robert Wodden, Ann Arbor township; E. M. Hamilton, Augusta; Roy Feldkamp, Bridgewater; Perry Noah Feldkamp, Chas. Widmayer, Freedom; J. M. Bradbury, Lima; Herman M. Grosshans, Lodi; and James Clark and Earl Beeman, Lyndon; Myron Ingraham, Manchester; Fred Hannewald, Northfield; Harold Levander, Pittsburg; Ed. Smith, Salem; J. W. Hull, Saline; George F. Vogel, Scioto; Purl Cooper, Sharon; Ralph Kimmel, Superior; Fred Artz, Sylvan; John Hoey, Webster; E. E. Shank, York; Mrs. Joanna Knight, William Tuttle, Ypsilanti city; Alice F. Darling, Ypsilanti township.

The roads in every direction are said to be in fine condition for this season of the year.

TOOK TURNS BEING SERPENT

Boys Had Alternated in Character That Had Most Desirable Part in the Entertainment.

Mrs. Gaites had the barrel of russet apples placed in the attic because they were not quite ripe enough to eat, and she warned her three boys, whose ages range from five to eleven years, not to touch them. Then one rainy day, when she sought the attic to get something from a trunk, she came full upon her sons, surrounded by apple cores. At her approach two of the boys drew closer together; but the third, a little distance off, who lay on his stomach, contentedly munching an apple, apparently paid no attention to his mother's entrance. "John! Henry! William!" she exclaimed reproachfully. "Didn't I tell you not to touch them?" "Yes, mother," replied "John, the oldest, "but we're not really eating them. We're acting the Garden of Eden. Willie and I are Adam and Eve, and Henry, over there, is the serpent, trying to lead us to our downfall by showing us how good the apples are." "That," began the mother, as sternly as she was able, "you two must have been eating apples; Henry hasn't done it all. I see as many as ten cores around you.

"Oh, yeth," returned Willie, the youngest, "we've all been taking turns being the serpent."—Exchange.

CAN BE CARRIED TOO FAR

Indianapolis Man Satisfied That There Should Be a Limit Placed on Publicity.

A wife, a husband, a lawyer and a young man who had something to do with a publicity stunt have kept a telephone line leading into an Indianapolis theater busy in the last twenty-four hours. Questions put with more than ordinary vigor from a telephone receiver in the northern part of Indianapolis were met at the other end of the telephone with many and devious explanations, and without appeasing the aroused persons until finally the attorney arrived personally on the scene. The cause of the commotion started when the wife read a note, written in feminine hand, dated Chicago, which began, "My Dear" and ended, "With love, Mary." The note told of a photograph "Mary" had seen in Chicago. It urged her friend "My Dear" not to fall to see it, as she had been told it was on view in Indianapolis this week. The wife could not believe it was a publicity stunt. The husband failed in convincing her that "Mary" was not someone whom he had met in Chicago, and the lawyer was pressed into service. Eventually he carried a report back to the wife that convinced her that it was only publicity. The young man at the theater end of the stunt is of the opinion that publicity may be too real.—Indianapolis News.

PULLED COMRADE TO SAFETY

Amazing Act of Alredale Who Rescued His Playmate From Wheels of Speeding Train.

The Alredale who saved the life of his mate, a large setter, by snatching him off the railway tracks near Cincinnati only an instant before a B. & O. train whizzed over the spot, performed a very remarkable and heroic act. There can be no question about this, says Our Dumb Animals. There were at least two reliable witnesses of the rescue who reported the facts, which were substantially as follows: Both dogs belonged to one owner. They had been inseparable companions. The setter was subject to fits, and when the locomotive gave its warning whistle he was suddenly stricken and dropped between the rails paralyzed. The Alredale was a smaller dog, but quick and wiry. All of his breed are fast workers. The Alredale grasped the situation instinctively, if you must have it so, but with every indication of rapid reasoning. His mental processes prompted him to act instantly and desperately. He achieved his purpose and dragged him over the rail, not a second too soon, and then down the declivity to a safe place; there to revive him from coma by licking him with his tongue. The account of this rescue at once stirred up the old controversy of instinct versus reason in the dog among psychologists and dog fanciers. It is our opinion that one need not be either of these to discern and determine intelligence and reason in the animal that has associated himself closest with man.

Fresh Air Cures Colds. If you have a stuffy head cold, lie down in a room with windows open—covers enough to keep you warm—and consciously breathe deeply for ten to fifteen minutes. Try to fill your lungs from the bottom up, as it were—then force the air all out, and start again. You will find the stuffy feeling vastly relieved. Headaches, that "tired feeling," indigestion, melancholia, constipation, and countless other disorders, may be benefited or entirely relieved—if you will but make a real effort to help yourself!

Without sufficient oxygen we stagnate and become swamped in our own waste products. If you would be well and alert and capable of doing your best day after day—learn to clean your own blood stream by the daily use of air—it's free, too! Just try it.—C. Richmond, D. O., in the Health Bulletin.

Doing the Impossible. The mothers looked upon Alexander and saw that he was good. He had money, power and position, so they added their love of bygone days to the almost complete knowledge of their debutante daughters and the campaign was launched.

Athletic girls, domestic girls, beautiful women, soul affiliates and working girls tried their wiles, but he was invulnerable.

Then he went to the town where he was born to eat his Thanksgiving dinner with his old-fashioned mother. The teacher of the village school boarded with his mother, partly to keep her company. The little teacher did not know Alexander could not be caught.

So they were married on Christmas Eve.—Judge.

FORD'S BID FOR MUSCLE SHOALS

Congressman Michener Says Nation Cannot Afford to Turn It Down—Reasons Given.

"Henry Ford put value into junk when he made an offer—the only offer made—for Muscle Shoals," said Congressman Earl C. Michener, Friday in his address before the Jackson Kiwanis club, writes J. Eugene Barry in the News.

"Muscle Shoals must be developed for the benefit of agriculture, and as a source of nitrates for ammunition, ready for use in case of another war. The only question is whether Henry Ford should be permitted to operate this property on a lease, under a plan which he will turn out 2,000,000 tons of fertilizer every year, being limited to eight per cent on his investment, the government to audit his books, or whether the government in its extensive, wasteful way should put in the $55,000,000 necessary and then attempt to operate the industry, probably in a way that would make the fertilizer costly and leave a deficit every year that the taxpayers would have to dig up out of their pockets. Any profit in excess of eight per cent, according to Ford's offer, would go to the reduction of fertilizer prices.

"I am no advocate for Henry Ford himself. He belongs to a different political party and I do not vote for him for president but neither do I vote in favor of government ownership and operation. It would be expensive and a losing venture for the government. Better have Ford operate it. He would have to make it pay under his contract. He cannot dig into the treasury of the United States every year for a deficit, as we would have to do.

"No nation is greater than the fertility of its soil. One thing necessary is nitrogen. We must have nitrogen. We must stimulate the soil if we are to endure as a nation.

"Since the year 1827, the congress of the United States has had before it the development of Muscle Shoals. There is a stretch of the Tennessee river in Alabama that tumbles down five miles right in the garden spot of the world. The Muscle Shoals project ever resulted from the discussion in congress for years, then the war came. We never had realized that we had no nitrates in this country. Germany had a process for making nitrates out of the air, and while she was providing herself with all she required for high explosives, the rest of the world had to depend on South America, and Germany sent a portion of her fleet to keep other nations away from that only source of natural nitrates.

"The stress of war, congress took up the Muscle Shoals project and we spent millions in development. Much money was wasted, but regardless of party, members of congress saw the urgent necessity and money was appropriated. There was the thought of tomorrow. We had to win the war. We had to have nitrates. It was the duty of every man, whether Republican or Democrat, to get behind the government. We spent millions uselessly, as is always the case in government operations. We built a great steam plant at a cost of $5,000,000. We constructed a high tension line 88 miles long. We bought the Waquo quarry to obtain limestone. We spent $107,000,000. Much of the money was providing heat for the plant. We did not complete the great dam and two or three other dams will be required. We spent millions in experiments on the German process—millions that were thrown away.

When the war closed we had 2,500 men at that hot. Congress was asked to appropriate $7,000,000 to continue the work. I was one of several Republicans who voted for it. The appropriation was not made. The work stopped.

"We were told that the United States had been pouring millions down a rat hole. It was said that what had been done was of no value at all. The war department was asked to make a study of the situation. It was said that the money spent had been wasted. The war department thought it would be best to call for bids on this property, said to be of no value. Henry Ford made the only bid received. He bid on what people said was a dead horse. All the learned men agreed that Muscle Shoals had no value.

"Henry Ford offered $55,000,000 immediately, many of these people said that we would be giving Ford for that amount what had cost us $80,000,000. Hearings were had and the Farm Bureau, the Grange and other farmers' organizations favored the acceptance of the Ford offer. The Harding administration last August appropriated $7,500,000 to resume work at Muscle Shoals, after refusal of the Republican congress near the end of the Wilson administration to make such an appropriation. The long delay had been costly and had resulted in the loss of millions. The government had and has no policy.

"Henry Ford made an offer for something the government couldn't handle. His offer would mean much for agricultural interests of the nation.

"Only 30 per cent of the work on the big dam has been done. Exclusive of that, we have spent $67,000,000 further down, also $18,000,000 on dams still further down. Ford did not propose to buy the big dam, nor the water power. He proposes to complete the big dam at a cost of $40,000,000. It would cost the government $50,000,000 to do it. That's the difference between work done by the government and by private industry. That shows you how the government handles your money.

contract provides that the government may audit the books as often as it desires and provides that Henry Ford shall pay us back all the money we have put in, with interest at four per cent. Each year $23,000 would be put aside for 100 years, which at the end of that time would amount to $49,000,000 to $59,000,000. No. It is true that he would pay us $5,000,000 in cash for what cost us $55,000,000 that is only a small part of the offer. Much of the money we spent was wasted. In the first place there was $13,000,000 we spent in experiments on the German process, which is of no value at all now. Really what he'd be getting is junk and he would have to put in $59,000,000 of his own money.

"Do the people want the government to put in $59,000,000 more? I believe we'd be putting money into a hole. Henry Ford would put up $10,000,000 in cash to secure us, besides other ample security. He would agree to operate the nitrate plant to its full capacity. He would turn out 2,000,000 tons of fertilizer each year. The country uses 7,000,000 tons. The contract limits him to eight per cent on investment. He would develop a great industrial center and he would make millions, but the question is, would the American people profit? Ford can make it pay. The government probably would have a high price for every even if a high price was charged for the fertilizer. Who objects? The fertilizer trust. This trust has put out propaganda against the acceptance of the Ford offer.

"Muscle Shoals must be developed. The American people will not permit a let-up. We lose millions by the delay when we suspended operations. We need a source of nitrates, to have ready in case of another war. God only knows when war might come. It's a war necessity.

"Henry Ford by his contract would stand ready on 30 days notice to turn over to the government the whole system complete ready to turn out nitrates required for high explosives. Apparently every element that might occur to prevent Henry Ford from carrying out his contract has been thought of. A catastrophe like the big dam going out would not overwhelm him. He would merely lease it, and if it should go out, then it would be up to the government to repair it. That situation couldn't be oppressive as to cause him to fail and for the same reason, viz., that the government would hold the bulk of the property.

"Henry Ford's proposition is too valuable to the American people to be turned down."

Naturally Affected Her. The magpie came home grinning and sat down in a cheerful frame of mind to carve a large roast.

"My private secretary," he announced, "told me today that he is engaged to be married. On his salary the girl will starve."

GLEE CLUB GIVES FINE OPERETTA

Music Department of Public Schools Makes Fine Showing Before Large Audience.

Before an audience that filled Arbetter hall last Friday evening the girls' glee club of the high school gave a splendid presentation of the operetta "The Wild Rose," under direction of Miss Jewel, instructor in music and drawing in the public schools. Lucy Whitlark sang the title role in a capable and graceful manner, being especially commended for her success in the first time in a leading part. Other solo parts were well taken and the ensemble singing was especially good. Genevieve Kress as Bobbie, the boy of the aggregation made a hit both in appearance and manner. The girls were all nicely gowned, the stage settings were good and the whole performance reflected the painstaking care and much work on the part of Miss Jewel. Instrumental music for the evening was by Miss Blanche Vocum at the piano.

Between acts the audience was entertained by a band of little tots from Miss Harer's kindergarten department and by high school boys who sang.

When the Detroit Shriners made arrangements for hotel accommodations at the convalescence in Washington, D. C., in June they were given a $4 a day rate per person, but when the contract came back it was $5 per person and six cots in a room, or $30 for the room. The Detroiters would not stand for the holdup and expect to sleep in their Pullmans. They will be sick of that, we know by experience. About 600 men and women were lined up for the trip.
