A year ago when farmers were active in posting their lands, Mr. Waters, who by the way, is a great lover of sport with the gun and rod, decided to be different, so ereeted a sign reading "Hunters Welcome," flamingly lettered in red; in the bend of the road, where it could not be missed by anyone going north or south. came along and seeing the sign thought they had found a haven.

Their surprise led to a consultation

As much as they wanted to hunt, the longer they discussed the sign the more they were in doubt. At last one, thinking perhaps the let-tering was in blood, said he thought there must be a "nigger in the fence" somewhere, so they decided to look farther. Many people have wondered at the unusual sign invit-

CHICKS HATCHED IN A SNAKE BIG GRAVEL CONCERN MAKING TESTS HERE

Farm of John Gieske Scene of Ex tensive Tests to Ascertain the Quality of Gravel.

With the idea of establishing an extensive gravel business here, test holes are being dug on the farm of John Gieske, east of the village, by the Greenville Gravel Co. a large the right of Japanese to citizenship, concern operating extensive gravel pits at various points in the state. hen reported at feeding time, but refused to lay. An outhouse was cammined, where it was suffected the hen had a nest. The nest was found, but in it was colled a large blacksnake.

The snake was killed and or examination was found to have several large knots protruding along the highway, the farm reminds one of the west country where little mounds of carth on the hillsides are evidence that prospectors have been there in search of gold, silver, of other metal. Not all the test holes are easily seen, either, for many have had the cribbing remarks being the mount of the west country where little mounds of carth on the hillsides are easily seen, either, for many have had the cribbing remarks and the control of the west country where little mounds of carth on the hillsides are easily seen, either, for many have had the cribbing removed and the holes filled up.

The holes are dug nuch like an ordinary well in the old days, under direction of John Huber, whom we understand called the attention of the company to this farm as a likely spot for their operations. Good gravel has for years been taken from a pit in the woods south of the farmhouse. The test holes have been sunk from 20 to about 30 feet in depth. At each eight-foot level on the way down a bucketful is taken out and sent to laboratodies at Ann Arbor for tests. It is said the coarse gravel is the kind desired, and much of it has been found here, in fact both grades of gravel, also sand have been found and evidently each ridge and knoll on the 200-acre farm is a mine of the desired material for better roads in Mich

If final tests prove satisfactory If final tests prove satisfactory and a deal is made for the property, we understand it is proposed to procure a siding from the Ypsilanti branch of the N. Y. Central which runs near the land, and there erect washing and loading machinery for carrying on the extensive work. It is said the company proposes to use considerable electricity throughout the year, except perhaps in the very coldest part of winter. washing and loading machinery for

UTO LICENSE PLATES AGAIN.

Papers throughout the state are publishing a communication from Charles DeLand, secretary of state, stating that all owners of automobiles must have license plates purchased and on their cars by mid-night, Dec. 31, etc. We are willing to say that we don't believe they to say that we don't believe they will.— In past years they took their time in which to buy licenses and a large number used their cars more or less before they bought a license. Some traded plates from one car to another, some used tags "License applied for," while others never bought one.

WILL CAMP ON TRIP

Mr. and Mrs. Philip Kern of This Village To Be Part of Company Driving Through.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip Kern of this village, together with Mr. and Mrs. James Reed of Bridgewater Station and A. J. Lewis and family of Detroit plan on leaving next Wednesday for a trip by auto to California, driving in two cars, Mr. Lewis taking his family and Mr. and Mrs. Kern accompanying Mr. and Mrs. Reed. The trip will be made as a camping proposition all planning ondriving south until they get into a warmer zone, then taking a westerly course that has not yet been decided upon, but far enough south to be upon, but far enough south to be free from snow it is hoped. No place has been announced as their destination, but it's "California or buat," as in the days of '49. They are confident the will find a place to their liking in the land of "milk and honey." They have set no time for their return and there is a possi bility that their soujourn will extend beyond the coming winter. in Arctics.

Old people are held in great respect among the Eskimos and their counsel is always considered. They help ar fast as they are able in the household work, the old men repairing weapons harness, etc., and the old women in sewing and tending the lamps. In times of scarcity, as in winter, meat and oil is always shared around.

Directly a seal or deer is brought in it is cut up and sent to each needs family. In times of plenty each family is supposed to provide for itself, but old people, widows and orphans have always the first claim upon those who have the means.

Among these people mutual kindness is a general obligation. A widow or orphan child is never left alone, but taken into the house and family circle of the nearest relative. The widow gives her services in return for food and lodging and clothing and the child is cared for exactly as the man's own ring.-Detroit News raised in this section of Washtenaw county it appears strange that our merchants shuld buy apples raised in Washington or Oregon, wouldn't it? Yet such is the case. Our farmers say that it doesn't pay to ship them. Then how can the Washington fruit grower afford to ship his apples from 2.000 to 3.000 mites? There is something wrong somewhere and our farmers, having the soil and climate adapted to the growth of the best flavored apples grown anywhere ought to be able to detect the error and correct it. If it pays the Washington farmer, who has to pay two or three times as much for fruit land as our farmers do. can raise fruit and get rich by it—there is no question about that—then it ought to pay Washtenaw county farmers.

Eustace, her famous writer on theosophy, author of "The Spreading Light," etc., ctc., arrives in New York on a lecturing tour. Eustace, her son, is with her. Windles, ancestral home of the Hignetts, is his, so her life is largely devoted to keeping him unmarried. Enter her nephew. Sam, son of Sir Malleby Marlowe, the eminent London lawyer. It is arranged that Sam and Eustace shall sail together on the Atlantic the next day. Enter Bream Mortimer. American, son of a friend of an insufferable American named Bennett, who has been pestering Mrs. Hignett to lease Windles Bream informs her that Wilhelmina Bennett is waiting for Eustace at the Little Church Round the Corner. Bream himself is in-leve with Wilhelmina Mrs. Hignett marches off to Eustace's room. The scene shifts to the Atlantic at her pier. Sam, heading for the gangplank, meets a glorious, red-headed girl, with whom he instantly falls in love, though her dog bites him. Eustace appears. The art-broken. Internal cleanliness protects against disease

T is but a step from those immediate results of constipation—headache, heaviness, loss of appetite—to serious disease. Such minor ailments are a warning that poisons from food waste are flooding your body. Keep clean internally.

In constipation, say intestinal specialists, lies the primary cause of more than three-quarters of all illness including the gravest diseases of life.

Laxatives Aggravate Constipation

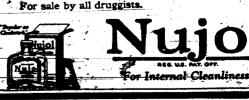

Laxatives and cathartics do not overcome constipation, says a noted authority, but by their continued use tend only to aggravate the condition and often lead to permanent injury. Medical science, through knowledge of the intestinal tract gained by X-ray observation, has found at last in lubrication a means of overcoming constipation. The gentle lubricant, Nujol, penetrates and should be preferably white. Red ceddr shingles or prepared shingles or rooting, in any of the popular stains and colors, would make a combined exterior effèct very pleasing.

Observe how the design white lessening the cubic footage of the house, still lends itself to ample spacing for the second floor rooms. We get a dormer arrangement of windows for the second story, but the rooms which these serve are practically as large as though the walls had been carried straight up.

Downstairs the entrance lets us into the reception hall, with the staircase ending itself to decorative handling. One can secure authentic Colonial staircases, fitted for the carpenter's putting together, that permit a good choice of patterns, and one of these would make the reception hall a place of real distinction, with no unreasonable outlay.

To the right of the reception hall is the living room, with fireplace, and good blank wall spacing for the placing of larger articles of furniture effectively, and for the proper hanging of pictures. I. The Missionary Motive (Matt. 9:33-38.)*

"As Jesus saw the multitude His ompassion was aroused. Their pitiful condition moved Him to take steps to provide missionaries. The result of this was the sending forth of the Twelve. Jesus saw the multitude as:

1. Shepherdless Sheep (v. 36). The people were in need of a protector. provider and guide, just as sheep are of a shepherd. They were faint and scattered-distressed, cast down and hopeless. What a picture of the needy world today! The world he hungry but knows not how to have this hun ger satisfied. They know not which way to turn in their confusion and perplexity. They are in need of that which alone the Good Shepherd can supply.

2. Grain Ready for Harvest (v. 37) He told the disciples that the grain was ripe, ready for the harvest, and that unless laborers were secured the harvest would be lost. This is still a picture of the world. The laborers are still few. It is the Lord's harvest that is teady to be gathered. No wonder He was moved with compassion Those who have eyes to see and hearts to feel are still moved with compassion as they see the world ready to be gathered into Christ's fold but no one to perform the labor. The means for ecuring laborers for the harvest is orayer. He urged the disciples to oray that the Lord would send forth il. Classes of Missionaries (Luke s:1-3).

Three classes are here enumerated: 1. Jesus Himself (v. 1). He is the grand and supreme missionary. All receive their example and power from Him. He left all and gave all in this great enterprise.

2. The Twelve (v. 1). Christ called them and sent them forth. They were His representatives and were clothed with His power. Missionaries should be chosen and commissioned by the Lord himself. In the evangelization of the world there will always be need of the group of men and women devoted exclusively to that work.

3. Certain Women (vv. 2, 3). Christian women can most effectively do their part in preaching the gospel by ministering to the workers. All who have experienced the saving grace of God desire to have a part in sending the gospel to others that they too might be saved. The church is greatly

The figure portraying the method of the Cross and salvation is that of the brazen serpent. The outstanding teaching as suggested by Dr. Charles R. Erdman is as follows:

"1. That men are, like the Israelites of old, serpent-bitten; but the deadly poison is the sting of sin.

"2. God has provided a remedy in he person of His Son; in His crucifixion we see sin vanquished, as the aplifted serpent pictured the death of he destroyer; yet as the unlifted set pent was not real but one of brass, so Christ was not really a partaker of sin but only made in the likeness of sinful-flesh. •

"3. "As it was necessary for the dyng Israelites to accept God's provision, and with submission and faith o look upon the brazen serpent, so it is necessary for us to look in repentance and faith to the crucified Savier and to commit ourselves to God as He is graciously revealed in Jesus opened into the lavatory from the den. SOME NATIONS BAR KISSING in Japan It is Looked Upon as the Depth of Human Degradation-Cut Them Out of Films.

Remarkable penalties are exacted in some countries from those found iniulging in kissing. In Milan guilty parties are liable to a heavy fine; in certain tewns in Russia before the war it was also a punishable offense; while elsewhere men cannot kiss the womenfolk on Sunday without risk of prose

Recently, in Belgium, a man and his were fined 78 francs each for having kissed in public. This case is all the more surprising, as in Belgium and France a public kiss between spouses on meeting or separation is recognized as a traditional salute.

In Japan kissing is looked upon as the depth of human degradation. Every kiss in film has to be cut out, and there are film censors who do almost nothing else but look out for kisses.

Perhaps the worst sufferers from the kissing habit are railway authorities, and in a number of instances kissing on the station premises is forbidden in view of the delay thus caused. Special notices to this effect were issued by

The penny platform tickets were introduced on railways in England during the war to prevent kissing on the plat form and consequent delay.

How did kissing originate? The Bible is full of kissing of the widest range, from the treacherous kiss of Judas to Jacob's tender salute of Rachel at the well. The early Romans scaled all their nuptials with kisses, and kisses early Christians until, in 397, such salutes between the sexes were forbid-

If we are to credit the Scandinavian tradition, kissing was a pleasurable habit introduced into England by

Two Thousand Tons Shipped From Europe in Year-Helps Keep Vermin From Houses.

The Chinese, it is thought, are the greatest of all consumers of old newspapers. The official returns of the customhouse at Newchang show that that port alone, during the year for which figures are available, received approximately 2,000 tons of old European newspapers valued at $75,000.

It is not at first easy to imagine to what use so much obsolete news can be put. It is, however, ascertained that the middle class Chinese prefer newspaper to native wall paper as a covering for their walls. It has a greater power of resistance and affords a more effective barrier to the invasions of the vermin that infest Chinese houses, often driving out the in-

Moreover, the Chinese are experts at cutting out of newspapers waistcoats which they wear next to the skin. These paper waistcoats are said to be the best possible protection against a sudden "cold snap." In view of these admirable uses to which European newspapers may be put, it is not surprising to learn that the imports constantly show, increase in weight. should be added, however, that the value of the import has declined. This fact is explained by the rapid development of the native newspaper press that less occurred during the last few years.

NARROW ESCAPE FROM TIGER

Hunter in India Shot Animal Through the Heart While Being Carried Into Jungle.

The most terrible experience I ever came across in India, reports W. A. Fraser, was that of a sahib whose name. I have forgotten, though I re-member the name of his associate, Mr. Foundes.

This sahib was lying flat on a gravelly bar beside a salt lick; waiting for (deer), when suddenly some terrific force hit him between the shoulders, driving his face into the

It was in the cold weather, so he was wearing an ulster, and now he was lifted by the something that gripped the coat across his shoulders and dragged along the bar. He could hear a purring, like the whir of an electric fan. A ghastly smell of carrion was in his nostrils, and on either side of his head showed the yellow forearm of a tiger.

He realized that as soon as they reached the jungle, 50 yards away, the tiger would make a meal of him. And how helpless he was! Suddenly it flashed through his mind that he had a heavy revolver in his coat pocket. His arms were quite free, so he managed to get the pistol, cocked it and fired upward, trying for the tiger's heart. At the pistol's report he was lifted bodily, whirled around and thrown several feet. They had reached the jungle, and six feet away the tiger was roaring, clawing up the earth and roll-

Freaks of Climate Shown-

Through underground observation stations, scientists have recently completed a series of experiments that indicate Mt. Desert island, a few miles off the coast of Maine, has a higher average temperature and greater evaporation than Long Island, more than 200 miles to the south. The recording instruments consist of thermometers that register maximum and minimum temperatures and specially designed bottles, filled with distilled water and fitted with porous stoppers that protrude above the ground. When the sun strikes them, the liquid is drawn from the glass containers in the same manner that moisture is extracted from the earth. Measurements of the water are taken at intervals and the differences noted give the amount of evaporation. On this island, trees, flowers, and plants that are characteristic of the lands of ice and the more southern climes thrive, while birds of the Arctic and the south-land make it their common Alome during the spring and summer months .-Popular Mechanics.

The Tomb of Cyrus. In a remarkable ruin, in a tolerable state of preservation, at Pasargadae ancient Babylonia, is the tomb of Cyrus. It has been called "a house upon a pedestal," and consists of a pyramidal base constructed of huge blocks of white marble, surmounted by a house of the same material, covered with a sloping stone roof. The interior consists of a small chamber, ten feet long, seven feet wide and eight feet high, entered by a low and narrow door; there was deposited, in a golden coffin, the body of the great conqueror. It is supposed that a row of 24 columns (some of whose broken shafts still remain) enclosed the sacred spot.
On these mutilated columns is repeatedly found the inscription (written in Persian and in the so-called Median): "I am Cyrus the King, the Achee-
