WAMPLERS LAKE COUPLE WED

The First Congregational church of Clinton was the setting for the candlelight ceremony Saturday evening at which Ruth Marie Chamberlain, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl D. Chamberlain of Wampiers Lake, became the bride of Eddie F. Faulconer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Wood also of Wampiers Lake.

The Rev. Harry G. Kellogg, assisted by the Rev. Otto E. Priest, officiated at the single ring ceremony at 8 o'clock before a background of white delphiniums, lilacs, greens, and tall standards which held lighted cathedral candles.

Mrs. Burton Stadler played the organ, while Mrs. C. A. Handy of Tipton, sang "The Lord's Prayer" and Miss Vivian Moats sang "Ave Maria".

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a white gown with fitted tulle bodice and long pointed sleeves. The ruffe at the off-the-shoulder neckline, the peplum, the full skirt, and the fingertip veil of her wedding dress were of point d'esprit. She carried a bouquet of white roses, carnations and statice.

Mrs. Henry Chavez of Detroit, was the matron of honor. Her dress was of white net. She carried a colonial bouquet of tall-man roses and white sweet peas.

Miss Sally Faulconer, sister of the bridegroom, a bridesmaid was gowned in rose net and carried a colonial bouquet of blue carnations, white sweet peas and delphiniums. The other bridesmaid, Miss Jerre Bruce Halladay was gowned in French blue net and carried a similar bouquet of pink carnations.

Mr. William Parker of Herrington, Ky., cousin of the bridegroom, was best man. The ushers were Charles Chamberlain, brother of the bride, Robert Wood and James Wood of Detroit and Louis Fancher of Cincinnati, Ohio.

Mrs. Chamberlain chose for her daughter's wedding a gown of light blue with dark blue accessories. Her corsage was of baby carnations, rosebuds and blue delphinium. Mrs. Wood wore an Her corsage was of baby carnations, rosebuds and blue delphinium.

A reception for one hundred guests was held at the Bauer Manor, Evans Lake following the ceremony. Later Mr. and Mrs. Wood held open house at their home at Wampiers Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. Faulconer left for a short honeymoon. In the South, Mrs. Faulconer chose a black and white check dress, accented at her going-away outfit.

Guests were from Detroit, Lansing, Manchester, Grass Lake, Adrian, Tecumseh, Clinton, Wampiers Lake, Salsville and Herrington, Ky.

Mr. and Mrs. Faulconer will make their home at Wampiers Lake. Mr. Faulconer formerly spent three years in the Marine Corps in Hawaii.

DONKEY BASEBALL GAME HERE TUESDAY

Tuesday evening, July 16th, will see all citizens of Manchester and vicinity at the park if they want to see the funniest sight of the year, a donkey baseball game. Tired players will mount these diminutive animals and pursue the national pastime thru the exhibition.

The exhibition is being sponsored by the Manchester American Legion and not one of their friends will want to miss this hilarious exhibition. Those who can recall the antics of certain citizens a few years back still chuckle as they remember the donkey game played from the backs of these docile animals.

The game will be called at 6:30 p. m. and every space should be filled as this will be one of the funniest games Manchester has ever had the pleasure of witnessing. Be sure to be there early. In the meantime watch the local players. They are training and how!

ABOUT TOWN

Announcement has just been made by Howard F. Simmons, Secretary-Manager of the Michigan Milk Producers' Association, of an increase of 35 cents per hundred weight in the price paid to producers in the Detroit market for Class 1 milk. The increase became effective June 18, coincidental with a nation wide advance in the retail ceiling prices on fluid milk of one cent per quart, as provided under an order of the Office of Price Administration.

Last April, Mr. Simmons petitioned O.P.A. for an increase of 15 per cent or 35 cents a hundred pounds in the ceiling price allowed producers to cover the greatly increased costs of feed, labor and farm equipment.

An adjustment was made at that time in the government subsidy payment which was increased 20 cents a hundred pounds. The present 35 cent increase brings the total price up to the requested 15 per cent.

"Ceiling prices on other dairy products also have been raised with butter advancing 11 cents a pound but it is doubtful if this increase in consumer price will be reflected in any more butter being available in the near future. It is hoped that more cream will be routed to the butter manufacturers as a result of the new price which will eventually mean an increased supply on the market. At these new consumer levels, milk and dairy products still are the most economical items of food available in today's market."

Electricity works for peanuts!

And if you aren't up on today's expressive slang, peanuts means a very small amount of money.

Like your electric bill. It really is peanuts, isn't it—compared to most other items in your family budget?

While the cost of most things climbed through the years—the price of electric energy kept right on going down. Even in wartime, when practically all prices popped up, electricity actually became a few peanuts cheaper.

As a matter of fact, the average American family gets twice as much electricity for its money today as it did 20 years ago!

All of this goes to prove an important point. Sound business management—and experienced employees—together have given the American people dependable, low-priced electric service—the best and the most in the world! You'll enjoy that service even more in the electric years ahead.

and be my Love

By PEGGY DEHN

THE STORY THIS FAR: Meg means from home, a high school girl, that she should spend some time with her father. She is a very good diamond rings that she wore.

Megan took her head. "She has children," she explained. "She is a widow. She came here to live in the spring, because, as the family stated, her income has shrunk so much that she can't afford to live anywhere else. And she cannot afford to pay for her children's education."

"The sounds like a thoroughly unpleasant person," said Tom grudgingly. "And a dangerous one. Where does she live?"

"Across the road," answered Megan, indicating the once drab little house that was almost a ruin.

"Please don't," she said urgently. "After all, nothing can be gained by talking to her. We've all tried it—she only uses our protests and arguments to add more fuel to her fire. We've found that the best way is to avoid her, and give her as little material as we can."

"Tom nodded gravely. "That's the same. I think I'll have a little talk with her," he said, and before Megan could stop him he had turned and strode away in the direction of the little shabby house with the green roof.

It was almost half an hour before Tom came back and rapped at the back door to get the woman of milk and eggs that she had been waiting for.

Her face was grim and set. There was a little white line about her mouth and her eyes were heavy. He managed a slight smile that tried hard to be comforting and said, "How are you doing today?"

"She's a little better today," she said, and then she looked at Tom and said, "What do you mean by that?"

"The way she looks," he said. "She's a little better today," she said, and then she looked at Tom and said, "What do you mean by that?"

"I know it's terrible to ask you to help, Mr. Macintosh," she apologized. "But it's simply impossible to get anything to do anything in this crazy little place—no one to hire anyone. It makes me terribly dependent on one's friends. I'm afraid it's a terrible imposition—but— She fluttered her hands and the light shimmered on two very good diamond rings that she wore.

"I'm expressing myself as delighted to be of service, as he rose from the table and went to get his coat. A moment later she and Jim were going down the steps and along the walk.

"Comin' over beh, an' takin' Marse Jim away—your s'pose she makin' up to him? Rollin' beh eyes like dat—?" Annie's anger was mounting and Megan rose swiftly.

"Across the road," answered Megan, indicating the once drab little house that was almost a ruin.

"Please don't," she said urgently. "After all, nothing can be gained by talking to her. We've all tried it—she only uses our protests and arguments to add more fuel to her fire. We've found that the best way is to avoid her, and give her as little material as we can."

"Well, then, what's all the fuss about?" snapped Jim. "The fuss is because Alicia gave the impression to Mrs. Stuart that I was meeting Tom there almost daily—and in secret," Megan returned.

"Then you should have explained it," said Jim. "But the harm had already been done. 'Harm'—the possible harm could come from such a thing?"

"None at all, except that Alicia dropped her little information in the exact way to make it sound untrue—and of course the women around the quilting frame were most of them mothers with children in the wonder—"

"You see how well Alicia does her work," said Jim. "You wonder why the women at the quilting party yesterday afternoon could think for a moment that she was a man in what she was knitting—and yet you yourself, Jim, own father, are wondering whether it maybe I haven't been just a little—well, indiscreet?"

Jim rose from the table and flung his crumpled napkin down and snorted.

"I'm not wondering anything of the kind! I'm just puzzled to understand why some of the women at the quilting party should so cruelly misjudge a woman like Alicia Stevenson."

NEEDLEWORK PATTERNS Embroidered Designs for Towels Easy-to-Make Blouse Is Cool

There was a pleasant period of existence during which one could turn to the sporting page with the prospect of reading about sports.

William Lyon Phelps once told me, "You read about competitive achievement—a round of golf in 67, a home run with two on, a three-hit game, a long run, a exciting horse race, a story to lift you above the humdrum of daily life."

Those features will exist—but are becoming less and less. They have Grandstand Rice been plagued with strikes, unions at work, and the baseball players being held before the courts for contract troubles.

There isn't any questioning the fact that many things have been out of the window. The six-inch kittens are to be embroidered in bright colors in outline and darning stitch.

As a professional football we read more of the clubs in the two leagues than we do from the players' point of view.

It is a tough problem, since baseball and football are strictly contact sports. Because of their size, the players are kept away from the field.

What the Future Holds All this happens during the last season of the game. The players are kept away from the field.
