ROAD COMMISSION TO DISCONTINUE FUND MATCHING METHOD

Shortage of funds has forced the Washtenaw County Road Commission to change its past policy of applying calcium chloride for dust laying on a matching basis. Superintendent Maurice Kenneth Hallenbeck has announced.

In recent years, the property owner paid the road commission for the material used in the first application usually during the month of April or May and the county crews applied the material at county expense. The second application together with the material was spread entirely at county expense.

Property owners wishing the road dust their homes treated with the dust have may purchase the chloride at the rate of $200 per hundred linear feet of road, two drill wide, Hallenbeck said.

"We will continue as we have in the past to use our crew and truck to spread the material," Hallenbeck further explained.

"The commission would have preferred to continue its old policy as the admitted nuisance of dust blowing into homes and fields actually represents to the appearance of costly road surfaces."

Better service on chloride jobs will be secured, Hallenbeck said. "Residents in an area of concern will band together to collect the necessary amount from the several neighbors and send or bring this to the road office in Ann Arbor or to Mr. George Knouse at the highway garage in the village, with a detailed list of where the chloride is to be applied."

MANCHESTER HIGH SCHOOL VENTURE

Sixth Grade
The sixth grade has a new pupil, Albert Heller.

Ninth Grade
At the last home room meeting on Wednesday April 17, the Freshmen discussed plans for the All High Banquet. They decided that the classes should not be separated and put at separate tables. It was also decided that the girls might wear either street dresses or formal. These plans, however, are not official. They are just the opinions expressed by the Freshmen class.

Tenth Grade
The Tenth grade held a winter party Tuesday evening. They met at school at 7:30 and then went to a woods near Allen Albert's.

Girls' Glee Club
The Girls' Glee Club is working on the preparation of its spring concert to be given in May.

Kindergarten
Dorothy Kay, Judith and Nancy have shared their books with us lately.

We have a family of deer mice in a cage in our room. They are interesting to watch.

Most of the children have earned two gold stars for putting puzzles together. Now they are working for stars by being good checkers on themselves. Gertrude, Doris, Kay, Judith and Jackie Crech have earned stars so far.

Young Writers' Club
The following story, written by Helen Bowers, was printed in the Detroit News recently:

Candy
Ma Hoe was a little girl whose home was in Montana. Her father and mother were very nice, but the one thing they wouldn't let her do was ride Candy, who was almost a horse. Her parents didn't believe that she could for Candy was so small.

Of course since they didn't want her to ride, she wanted to. Secretly she would see Candy.

One day after she had got Candy, she liked her. Candy was chewing on his tongue. Ma thought it wouldn't do any harm to let him ride, so she did.

Candy went over, picked up her saddle in his teeth and brought it to her. Ma didn't know what he wanted at first, but then she realized that Candy wanted her to ride. After that Ma Hoe always rode Candy.

MIXUP FOLLOWING MAN'S DEATH CAUSES EXCITEMENT

On Tuesday, Art Jenter, local funeral director, was summoned to the Walton farm on each road in Freedom, because of the death of Tony Nagrabak, an employee, who had been in poor health for some time.

Because there had been no doctor in attendance at the time of death nor during his illness, who could sign a death certificate, Mr. Jenter, of course, notified the coroner.

Somewhere along the line, the report was garbled and by the time it reached the sheriff's office it was stated that the body had been found along the road. Whereupon the sheriff's department, the prosecutor and the coroner journeyed to Manchester. An autopsy was performed which showed death due to natural causes.

Funeral services will be held here and burial in Oak Grove cemetery. The deceased has no known relatives.

MISS MARY FRITZ DIES AT HER HOME

Miss Mary Fritz, a lifelong resident of Freedom township, died Tuesday afternoon at 8:50 Weber Road, the home where she was born. She was 70 years old.

Born June 8, 1875, Miss Fritz was the daughter of William and Rose Paulhaber Fritz. She was a member of St. Mary's Church and Altar society of Manchester. Surviving are two sisters, Mrs. Margaret Schron of Ann Arbor and Mrs. Julia Schron of Lodi township, and one brother, William Fritz of Freedom township.

Funeral services will be held Friday at 10 a. m. at St. Mary's church. Burial will take place in St. Thomas cemetery, Ann Arbor, with Rev. Father Henon officiating.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE HAS FARMERS NIGHT

The Chamber of Commerce had a Farmers Night at their April meeting Tuesday evening at the Emanuel church hall.

After the excellent dinner chairman R. C. Merrieth introduced several of the leading farmers of this vicinity, those who are specializing in purebred stock of various types including Fred Kenyon who told about his Michigan Shorthorn cattle, Myron Strong who is raising Hybrid hogs; Sam Cushman and his purebred cattle, hogs and sheep, and Sam Shore who is developing an extensive broiler producing plant just west of town.

Sam Cushman then gave a short talk describing his experience as a South American representative for the Gillette company, in which capacity he traveled throughout Brazil and Argentina. His seven years of residence there enabled him to present a very interesting picture of life in those countries and the differences in their customs and ours.

Several guests from Ann Arbor were present and were introduced among them former state Senator George McCallum, who made a few remarks.

Mrs. Roscoe Latham gave a short talk in behalf of the Manchester Youth Guidance committee which she and the Chamber of Commerce was asked to cooperate with and which they agreed to do.

CAROLYN CUSHMAN WEDS JOHN H. STOFER SATURDAY

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel W. Cushman director, was summoned to the Walton farm on each road in Freedom, because of the death of Tony Nagrabak, an employee, who had been in poor health for some time.

Because there had been no doctor in attendance at the time of death nor during his illness, who could sign a death certificate, Mr. Jenter, of course, notified the coroner.

Funeral services will be held here and burial in Oak Grove cemetery. The deceased has no known relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel W. Cushman are announcing the marriage of their daughter Carolyn to John H. Stofer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Stofer of Chelsea. The marriage took place at the home of the bride's parents on April 20 at 8:00 p. m. with Rev. John Burney of the Manchester Methodist church officiating. The room was decorated with large baskets of flowers and candelabra. Before the ceremony Miss Jacqueline Knouse sang, "Because" with Mrs. Stofer, of Brooklyn, guest of honor of the bride at the piano. She also played the wedding march.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a mist green suit with black accessories and had a corsage of white roses. Mrs. John Stofer of Jackson acted as Miss Stofer's bridesmaid and wore a white gown with a black sash. The bridegroom wore a tuxedo with a white shirt and a black bow tie. The bride's mother was seated in a black dress with a white corsage and a black hat. The bride's father was seated in a black suit with a white shirt and a black bow tie.

After a short motor trip the couple will be at home in Chelsea. For her going away costume Mrs. Stofer wore a white wedding suit with a white short-sleeved coat. The bride's mother was seated in a black dress with a white corsage and a black hat. The bride's father was seated in a black suit with a white shirt and a black bow tie.

REPORT ON THE RUSSIANS.....

W. L. White

INSTALLMENT ELEVEN

In the Soviet Union about 180,000,000 people have been on an even lower living standard for twenty-two years, and only a few privileged millions know anything better. During this quarter-century the Soviet has controlled one-seventh of the world's land surface, rich in natural resources.

They explain this low living standard by pointing out that the Russian people lack technical experience and that Russia's resources are largely undeveloped. But in contrast to these things they had almost a quarter of a century of peace—which is a long time.

Temporarily, money has little value. Everyone has far more than he needs to buy his ration book. The unofficial currency in Russia is vodka. The average citizen may buy a pint a month for about $5, but he does not care to drink. It has a very high trading value.

There are several categories of rationing corresponding to different strata of the Soviet caste system. The Red Army is extremely well fed. And Soviet officers enjoy a 50 per cent discount at the commercial stores.

The Kremlin is humorously fed through its own commissary. To foreign embassies, the Kremlin always provides delicacies otherwise unobtainable in the Soviet Union at any price.

Foreigners are about as well fed as the top Bolsheviks (except, of course, for the very top in the Kremlin).

The Kremlin is humorously fed through its own commissary. To foreign embassies, the Kremlin always provides delicacies otherwise unobtainable in the Soviet Union at any price.

Foreigners are about as well fed as the top Bolsheviks (except, of course, for the very top in the Kremlin).

he knows, and is at ease in the French language.

His political line in relation to the Germans is indistinguishable from that of the late Georges Clemenceau. This has not always been the line of his government. Until the Tehran conference, where it became clear that the Anglo-American powers would raise no serious claims to their annexation of the Baltic States, the Soviets maintained, in Moscow, a Free German Committee of captured generals. Stalin had emphatically said that the war was not against the German people but only against Hitler's clique. A separate Soviet peace treaty with Germany, however, with Stalin, in exchange for various assurances, accepted the Anglo-American "unconditional surrender" formula. The Free German Committee has been soft peddled, and Ehrenburg has had a free rein. His articles calling for vengeance on all Germans are prominent.

His postwar administration for France contributes to the poor view he takes of Anglo-American participation in the Anglo-American effort of which, like most Russians, he has seen nothing. His articles led the Soviet journalistic clamor for a premature second front. When the Anglo-American finally opened their Normandy offensive, he explained the tardiness of their advance from the Normandy beachhead as being largely due to the ineffectiveness of the French army.

What might be called the American side column has never bettered to get behind, even during the war. Large sections of our people openly favored the axis before the war began, and since we got in, powerful newspapers have continued caustic criticism of our British and American allies. By contrast with this, Russia seems a miracle of national unity, with not a dissenting voice.

But if Russians are contemptuous of us because of all our newscasters do not support Roosevelt and with that degree of dogmatic devotion with which Russian newspapers support Stalin, we can rest assured so far none of our generals has deserted to join either the Germans or the Japanese.

Moscow has not widely publicized that General Vlasov, charged in the early days of the war with the defense of the Staraya Russa sector, went over to the enemy with his first army corps, mostly Christians. The German soon discovered it was not safe to arm these men for combat on the Eastern front—for many of them would desert again to join the partisans.

We generously praise the high morale of the Red Army and sometimes complain that our boys do not seem to know what they are fighting for. But for the record, we should remember that one of the many Anglo-American prisoners of the German hold, they have failed to organize a single battle unit to fight in Nazi uniform.

We have read many stories of the heroism of ordinary men in the army who left their homes to die during the battle in the suburbs, saving the city from the embarrassment of our American agents who had produced a great deal of it would fall. Such stories are true and are typical of the great majority. So, should we give a few color stories which, although typical, are a minority, are equally well substantiated.

The Moscow plane described by the began October, 1941, as the Germans approached the town. The foreigners and the government had gone. As the fighting got closer, more traps.

People began destroying all evidence which would prove they were ever sympathetic with the Nazis. They burned up these pictures of Stalin, Lenin and Molotov which are in many Russian homes, and their Communist books—burning them with a torch. It is not difficult to buy this type of literature in many Russian homes, and the government has not got around to prosecuting it.

The Germans were dropping not only reports of Winston Churchill's early speeches attacking the British, but also attacks on Jews. But German propaganda was not likely responsible for the rising anti-Semitism in Moscow. Russian propaganda also mentioned it.

In an effort to arouse patriotism in the Russian people, the Bolsheviks turned to history, representing the discredited, despised czarist times, generals and czars who in the past had fought the invaders in the name of Holy Mother Russia.

"The czar," reassured a prominent newspaper, "reassured a prominent newspaper, 'that the people are not fighting for Communism; they are fighting for Russia.' " It is true, and the Bolsheviks capitalized on it. But pride of race cuts both ways. If you condemn a people that are using, amount of nationalism goes along with their possession of Slavic blood, they take the further logical step of concluding that something is wrong with anyone not similarly blessed. This population of the old medieval Slavic skull-busters resulted naturally in a rising contempt for Jews.

The anti-Semitism did not directly embrace the Kremlin for, since the purges of 1937, very few Jews remained in high government positions. They have recently taken steps to correct the trend by soft-pedaling publicity about the Slavic skull-busters of antiquity. The czar often encouraged anti-Semitism, and one of the admirable things about the Soviet regime is its uncompromising attitude toward any form of race prejudice which it holds down with a firm hand, no small feat in dealing with the Russian people, in whom anti-Semitism has been a tradition for centuries.

But the government has done a good job of keeping it down with the result that anti-Semitism is no stronger than it is in America.

The people of the Moscow police were also sort of the army. For twenty-five years they had sacrificed to maintain the G.I. line, one in Europe, and had been told it was the best equipped. But since June it had been kicked out of its defense line after another, and now being back to the outskirts of the capital.

The whole thing seemed hopeless to many, and since they were also frightened by the central bureau, they felt the sooner it was over the better. My informant, friend with one blue eye and one brown, had the habit of wearing in his button-hole a small replica of the well-known flag of his country in red, white and blue enamel. It also opened his eyes to the fact that the world would soon see the flag of the Axis.

But my friend had to take out his little enamel flag because it fit him into too many arguments.

In fact, some pessimists are predicting that by the end of July it will cost you 10 cents to hear "The Stein Song" from a juke box.

It's all because of the grain that has been sent to the regime. The hungry in Europe, nobody can complain when a thirst is sacrificed to such a noble cause.

But it is going to ruin the Elks Club, the City of War has anything so far. A beer drinker is a beer drinker, and he has never thought he was asking too much from life.

And we predict that it will move to arouse the general public to a hatred of war that anything so far. A beer drinker is a beer drinker, and he has never thought he was asking too much from life.

Bedsprad Can Be Cut Without Waste

YOU will need 1 1/2 yards of 36-inch material. Cut the center parts of the spread and pillow cover first, then the 18-inch side pieces for the pillow cover; then all the 18-inch strips. This leaves a long strip for the ruffles.

These directions are from SEWING BOOK 2, which contains 25 easy projects with useful information of the sort that shows how to make dresses, frocks, the well-known aprons, and many other things. It also contains a complete list of cutting, slip covers and many other things. It is available for $1.00. It may be obtained by writing name and address to 15 cents to cover cost and mailing.

GOVERNMENT MUST PROVIDE JOBS FOR EVERYONE IN NEED. THE PURPOSE of the government is to provide a job for everyone who needs one. But, does everyone who needs a job want one? Back in 1927-28 when we were going strong—when there was a job for every man who needed one—there were listed as better than three million unemployed.

Strange as it seems, Russia's only year-round, ice-free ocean port has been Murmansk on the Arctic coast. The opening of the Dardanelles, and acquiring of Koenigsberg on the Baltic and Port Arthur on the Pacific, will provide new outlets for Russian products, of which there will be an ever-increasing quantity.

IT IS A SAFE VENTURE that the men from the farms, as they have been or will be mustered out of the armed forces, will more quickly and satisfactorily adjust themselves to civilian activities, than will those in urban centers. There is some thing in following a plow, in harvesting the food crops, in doing the routine jobs of the farm, that is conducive to tranquility.

TECHNOLOGY, says Webster, "is systematic knowledge of the industrial arts." It is contributed to industry by management, but the benefits derived are largely divided between the buying public, in the form of lower prices, and labor, in the form of higher wages.

AN INDIVIDUAL INVESTMENT PROGRAM DESIGNED FOR YOU!

Higher living costs, heavier taxes and record low interest rates now present a serious problem to many who depend upon income from invested capital. Our plan provides careful selection and broad diversification. Multiple sources provide reliability of income and a better-than-average rate. Send the attached coupon for full information without obligation.
