Art Golas pulled the "iron man" stunt for Manchester by pitching both games and getting credit for the two wins. Manchesier salted the game away when they jumped on Bob Bauer, who started the game for Dexter for 12 runs in the first two innings. Steptoe, who relieved Bauer gave up the other 4 runs. Golas kept Dexter's 13 hits very well scattered and the games outcome was never in doub after the first two innings. A muddy diamond made fielding very difficult during the first game but the sun came out and dried it out to make playing con- ditions ideal for the second game. In the second game VanDe Marks pitched for Dexter while Golas again went to the mound for Manchester in a very close and well played ball game. Manches- ter opened the game's scoring when Bob Clark led off with a sirgle and came home on "Red" Maurer's long triple down the right field line. Manchester ade two more runs in the 4th inning when Fielder reached first on an error, Kappler singled to right and both coming home on Jenter's long double in to left centerfield. Dexter came back in the fifth inning and scored 2 runs but Manchester sewed the game up in the 6th when Kappler's doubled to left center and came home on Jenter's third straight hit of the game. Dexter threat- ened in the last of the seventh when they got men on second and three singles in the two games. Jameson had five hits the seven times at bat for Dexter. Let us make this trip a happy day for the boys to remember. STATE TO MARK V-J DAY Evidence that Michigan's ob- servance of V-J Day on August 14 will be a statewide event con- tinues to mount. Many cities have already announced their pro- grams for the day. In some localities several towns have joined to stage a joint celebration, while in some other districts the obser- vance is planned on a county basis. Michigan's 512 American Leg- ion posts took the lead in urging the state to set the day aside to welcome home all World War II veterans. The legislature voted August 12 a legislature voted	attorney and government—and to keep it good. But before we get into the Michigan problem of law enforcement, let's have a look or two at the reason why the Michigan Commissioner was selected by MacArthur to travel to Japan. The story begins in 1917. The Michigan National Guard had been mustered into war-time service. Michigan was left witbout police protection. The legislature, sensing the emergency, created the Michigan State Troops which became in 1919 the present-day Michigan State Police. In 1931 the legislature added the function of highway patrol. Today the department has 418 police officers and 161 civilian employees; it operates 45 radio stations; its post homes are the most modern in the Nation. China,
Originally, President Truman planned to appoint Lt, Gen. Al Wedemeyer as ambassador to China. As a matter of fact. Wedemeyer's nomination already had been typed and was on the President's desk. However, last week General Marshall sent Truman an urgent cable advising that he finally had found one man who could act as ambassador and who was on good terms with both the Communists and the Chiang Kai-shek group.

not worship their ancestors but revere the memory of notable ones, and some of their genealogies go back scores of years, reports the New York Times.
Milton Rubicam, president of the National Genealogical society, writes in China Monthly of a study of 100 Chinese genealogies in the library of congress. The oldest is that of the Pi family of Hsin-an. Published in 17 volumes in 1509, it covers 31 generations dating from A. D. 685.

A. D. 665.
"In the genealogical portion of the work," Mr. Rubicam writes, "was given the name of each person, his pen-name, degree received from an examination, official titles, dates of birth and death, name of his wife, lates of the property of the property of sons and birth and death, name of his wife, place of burial, number of sons and names of the sons. Unlike western genealogies, the Pi record did not name the dramatic of the family, although especial honor was paid to the women who married into the family and who, by their deportment, showed loyalty to their husbands and to the house of Pi.

Family Regulations. "The numerous family regula-tions, which were described in de-tail, provided that if the wives of the members of the Pi family were tail, provided that if the wives of the members of the Pi family were of noble extraction their last names and dates of birth should be stated. If the wives fathers held official positions the fathers' names and offices should be mentioned. But if the wives were not fortunate enough to be descended from noble families they should be mentioned but no further data about them should be supplied.

The insistence upon moral virtue was carried to an extraordinary degree, according to our western netions.

"The second oldest Chinese genealogy in the library of congress collection was published in 1535. It relates the story of the Wang family for 81 generations, extending back to the Chun-chiu period (about 1091 B. C.)

Among the more modern genealogies consulted at the library by Mr. Rubicom, one concerns the Chang family and was published in eight volumes in 1870. It goes back 25 generations.

"Not the least important features of the Chang genealogy." Dr. Rubicom says. "are the discussions of the chan and family doctrines, so important for the welfare and the hoppiness of the individual and his immediate circle of friends and relatives. owner of the Boston Red

He also stick to his manager Joe Creain, where the Red Sox, under average baseball ownership, would have known four or five different managers in the last few years.

While it was known early this spring that the Red Sox would be good, the Yankees and the Tigers were also in the penmant-race picture. The Yankees with Joe Di-Maggio, Charlie Keller, Tommy Henrich, Joe Gordon, Phil Ruzzuto, Snuffy Stirnweiss, Bill Dickey, Nick Etten, Johnny Lindell and Spud Chandler shaped up as a formidable leoking outift on both attack and defense. The Tigers, too, looked dangerous.

Many Uncertainties

The Red Sox at the time had several gambles to face; at first, at whird, and their pitching staff. They had Tex Hughson and Boo Ferris, but the others were uncertainties, just as Yankee pitchers were outside of Chandler. You can understand, during those March days at Sarasota, on the west coast of Florida, why Tom Yawkey should have been a trife on the jittery side. Tom was—but Joe Cronin wasn't, although Joe knew this had to be his year. Cronin refused to make .The Red Sox at the time had sevhis year. Cronin refused to make nis year. In baseball's greatest year, so far as attendance and public interest goes, with something close to an allstar team in one corral, every one

All of Boston, outside of the Yawkey office, are humming these cheerful tunes. After all Boston, or of the cradles of haseful has one of the cradles of baseball, has one of the cradies of baseball, has gone 28 years without a pennant. Boston kept looking back these 28 years to the days of Leng, Lewe and Tenney, Kid Nichols, Kugh Duffy, Big Bill Dinsen, Smoky Joe Wood, Carrigan, Sp.aker, George ("Duffy") Lewis, Ecoper, including George Stallings' miracle Braves of 1914.
