EARL UHR WEDS MISS OLGA HARTL IN NEBRASKA

The Rectory of St. Cyril Methodist Catholic church in Clarkston, Nebraska, was the scene of a very pretty wedding Tuesday August 27, uniting Miss Olga Hartl and Earl Uhr in marriage. Rev. Fr. Tunna performed the double ring ceremony.

The bride was attired in white embroidered satin. She wore a fringed veil and carried a bouquet of pink roses. She wore a string of pearls which were a gift of the bridegroom.

The matron of honor, Mrs. William Best, sister of the bride wore an aqua net dress. The bridesmaid, Mrs. Robert Panches, sister of the groom wore a black and white dress. The bridegroom's attendants were Robert Panches, brother-in-law of the groom and LeRoy Harth brother of the bride.

The reception was held at the home of the bride's parents for about 50 relatives and friends.

WE STRIKE, BUT AT WHOM?

Financial reports make interesting reading to people who know even a little bit about what they mean. To some, they look drab because they are printed mainly in figures; many students never have learned to enjoy studying figures.

On the same "full and complete" tell the truth in a romantic way to those who love odd facts of strange and adventure.

Late in May it was my good fortune to have with me an annual report of one of America's largest corporations when I had to spend three hours on a day train. In the back of my mind I rode along was a lurking fear that I might reach home a day (maybe a week) late because of their troubles, just then colling to strike. My dread threw a bright light on figures in hand.

Division of Wealth

The company about which I was reading plays an important part in the lives of more than a quarter of a million people; 100,000 employees and 10,000 stockholders. To do out of every five of these people draw wages while three out of five receive dividends. The average share owner got less than $300 a year. The average employee took home more than $2,500 a year.

Daily newspapers for days had reported that strikes at the plants of the firm I was studying, also on the lines of the railroad I was riding. We all appreciate their duties. Question: If all the employees of all the companies strike, what will we get? Who will pay the difference? How will they pay it? These questions have answers and they're not secret.

Enter Auto Conductor

The train stopped for a few minutes under the shade of a big map station and a railway newsboy came through with fresh afternoon papers. On page one, under Washington headline, a wire story told that OPA would grant higher prices on automobiles. Nearby was another item about a 10% boost in shoe prices. Then I remembered that bread and milk and meat all had gone up recently.

"Whether you ride or walk or only eat, the price gains catch you. Wages are fixed at the sort of every manufactured thing, and the consumer pays. It is too obvious to deserve proof. No long ago officialdom was spouting off freely about how wages in Detroit could be lowered without changing higher prices for automobiles but it didn't work out that way, why?"

Shades Are Waning

It is because strikes are not toxic. The official theory was right: wages can go up without being prices but production has to be increased. If it happens, and strikes don't increase production, business wages increase of 10% to 20% have in some cases from something that was never a stockholder drawing $500 a year can't offer much of a boon to a $2,000 wage earner.

Strikes can't take something from the owners of a company that the owners don't get. That leaves nobody to pay the higher wages but Mr. Conductor whose family drives the car, wears the shoes and eats the food. A large majority of consumers are farmers who work. In the absence of increased production, a strike is a loss-making. It is the consumer who is the weaker element.

It's good thing we don't have to hold elections on the kind of weather we want.

One is never more on trial than in the moment of excessive good fortune—Lew Wallace.

SALES TAX RETURN IS 'HOT ISSUE'

(By Gene Alleman)

Hottest issue in the forthcoming election campaign is proposal No. 2, the sales tax diversion amendment to the state constitution.

If this amendment is adopted by voters on Nov. 5, Michigan public schools will receive approximately $100,000,000 a year in state money. They now get $60,000,000.

The Michigan Education Association has done a neat flip-flop on the question. Originally officials condemned roundly the tax diversion amendment; last week the association's governing board went on record as favoring it. A vigorous campaign will be waged to woo the voters.

This proposal is the outcome of legislative demands made by the mayors of Michigan's leading cities for a split of the Michigan sales tax.

When upstate legislators united in resisting the big city municipalities, strategists decided that other interests must be incorporated into the plan. A coalition would break the upstate ranks.

Hence initiatory petitions were circulated in leading cities calling for the submission to the voters November 5 of the following amendment to article ten of the Constitution:

This proposal is the outcome of legislative demands made by the mayors of Michigan's leading cities for a split of the Michigan sales tax.

When upstate legislators united in resisting the big city municipalities, strategists decided that other interests must be incorporated into the plan. A coalition would break the upstate ranks.

Hence initiatory petitions were circulated in leading cities calling for the submission to the voters November 5 of the following amendment to article ten of the Constitution:

"Should one cent of a levy on each dollar of sales under a state sales tax on the present basis be returned to cities, villages, townships and school districts; half apportioned to school districts on the basis of the primary and secondary school enrollment; and in addition, one cent to cities, villages, townships and school districts for each year not less than that borne between such grants in each year ending 1916, and the preceding year's revenue?"

This amendment would divert one-third of the present tax, or one cent, to the following local governments:

Counties at one cent, or 1/3 of 1 percent of the present tax; cities, villages and townships at ten cents, or 1/10 of 1 percent of the present tax; and school districts at one cent, or 1/100 of 1 percent of the present tax.

The remaining one-half of one cent, or 1/200 of 1 percent of the present tax would be distributed to public school districts on the basis of the primary school census, whereby every child, 5 to 19 years old, is counted.

As an added inducement for cities,
