of delegates to the 29th quadrennial Democratic convention already here including many of the revolting southerners headed by their champion. Gov. Fielding L. Wright of Missus,ppi, with the platform com-mittee headed by Sen. Francis D. Myers of Fennsylvania already in session over the troublesome civil rights and other issues, with convention managing director Nesle Roach of Washington on the job here for several months finally heaving a sigh of relief as housing, seating, credentials and other details finally were settled, this reporter predicts that President Truman will be the convention nominee for his first. The latter and on the first. session over the troublesome civil

It will be on the pintferm plants and the nominee for the vice presidency.

Aside from the southern Demo-eratic caucus, scheduled this week prior to the convention, in which the doubtful claim is made that 15 states will be represented, one point of pre-convention interest is the or pre-convenion interest is use plains being made for celebration of the 100th anniversary of the Demo-eratic national committee which was created just a sentury ago by the Democratic convention at Balti-stran in 1542 Magre in 1848.

It may be interesting to note that the first Democratic convention was held at Baltimore in 1832, and the only Democratic convention ever held in Philadelphia was in 1936. Delegates from a few of the south-my states are determined to start a orn states are determined to start a revolt against President Truman if possible. At this writing they had determined upon no candidate, al-though a few had been pledged to General Eisenhower.

However best informed observ ers here declare the Eisenhower boom has fallen flat. The former chief of staff doesn't want it, has mid so unmistakably and for all mid se immisiatably and for all anyone knows at this convention he is a Republican. Ameriate Justice William O. Douglas has personally told Frigiddent Truman he will not be a candidate.

There will be several names placed in nomination, no doubt— favorite sons who will get a complimentary vote. For instance, the Ohio delegation is pledged to W. A. Julian of Ohio, treasurer of the United States. But after these complimentary votes are given and before the result of the first ballot is announced, the prediction is that the president will have more than the necessary 618 votes out of the 1.234 delegates and the nomination likely will be made unanimous.

Democrats Optimistic

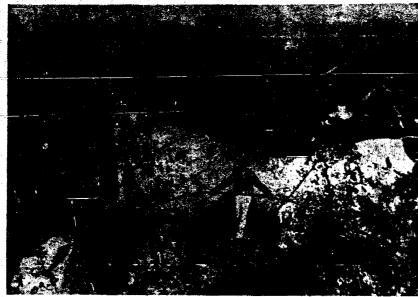

here are jubilant over the increased chances of their party as a result of the president's cross-country swing. There is no doubt but that he not only did himself good insofar as the voters are concerned, but also that he brought some rejuvenation and fight into the ranks of party leaders. He demonstrated that he is a scrapper himself, not afraid to swap punches and even before his trip was over he had some of the GOP congressional leaders whim-

It is evident that the President intends to make the record of the 80th congress on domestic affairs one of the major issues of his campaign. For more than two years the GOP controlled congress worked its will with the President worked its will with the President kicking his program, his messages and his suggestions on domestic problems from pillar to post. And the first time he fought back he drew screams and screeches of anger from his GOP opponents, who also must go to the people on the record of accomplishment of the 80th congress.

Veterans at Heim Some party veterans will be at the helm when the Democratic con-vention gets under way. Sen. Alben Barkiey, minority leader, is key-noter and temporary chairman. Congressman Sam Rayburn of Texas, who was speaker of the house longer than any other man, is permanent chairman, Mrs. Mary Norton of New Jersey, member of congress since 1924 and veteran national conven-tion delegate, is chairman of the credentials committee.

CHINESE WATER FETE REVIVED IN FULL COLOR... Chances are that if you haven't lived in China you never have heard of the annual water carrival held at Shanghai. The event is staged by the Waterman's guild of Shanghai on the Whangpoo river (which has an appropriate name for a celebration like this). Discontinued during the war, it was revived again this year in all the splendor of pre-war days and as colorial and missy as pains, unset, heterrackers and Chinese missic could make it. Ten dragon boats, manned by the husklest boatmen on the river, escort an even more ornate "phoenix" boat paddled by pretty young women. After the water parade the dragons raced for the honor of the river, while thousands of spectators lined for each six days totaling an average of 353.80 for each six days totaling an average of 353 hours. The guards, and intended to serve as a United Nations armed force, are being employed in the Holy Land primarily to supervise application of truce previsions pertaining to the vital supply route from Tel Aviv to Jernadic the story, as it appeared in Coling pripared by a New Deal friend plane. The nates were drawn from the regular voster of U. N. guards and were replaced at Lake Successible to the proposed by a New Deal friend by temperary substitutes.
