By KATHLEEN NORRIS "INE is a particularly difficult situation,"

One of the reasons urged by the administration for the consolidation of the armed services was the administrative economies it would make possible. Congress passed the needed legislation. Within the first the consolidation needed legislation. Within the first month first month following the consolidation the army and the air force added more than 10,000 names to the civilian employees payroll of those two departments. Renator Byrd of Virginia insists on knowing the reason for such an increase. Possibly he is tneware of the fact that a national election is approaching. WHICH WAY TO TURN?
