AS WE WATCHED IT

Quite a bit of baseball has gone over the dam since the last edition. On Thursday, Double A took a shellacking from the Ford Local. Ford scored three runs in the opening inning and the game on it. From then on it was an even ball game until the last inning before the game was called. Ford added six big runs to take the game 9-0.

The night big cap, Farmers and Clinton put on an endurance contest when they played eleven innings before the game was called. The contest ended with Clinton having four runs to their rivals three.

The Friday contest was moved to Tecumseh as the local play ground had the diamond for their game. The Manchester boys played a game with Brooklyn, but unfortunately, Brooklyn neglected to show up for the game and the Merchants won by forfeit.

The second game was to be played between Pleasant Lake and Tecumseh. Both are graduates of Manchester High school and are playing in the first three frames while Tecumseh was going the other way. The game had to be postponed to Monday night.

On Monday these two teams met on the local diamond and as things turned out, it was better if they had played the game in the dark. There was a much question concerning the legality of the pitching of the Pleasant Lake pitcher, that it became a second-class contest. Pleasant Lake did all their scoring in the first three frames while Tecumseh was going the other way. The game had to be postponed to Monday night.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS
Moscow Talks Provide Peace Hope;
Congress Eyes Inflation, Housing;
Red Spy Scare Startles Country

By Bill Schoones, WNU Staff Writer

MOSCOW: Practically all that anyone knew during the initial stages of the Moscow conference between Josef Stalin and the ambassadors of three western nations was that there was a conference.

The quality of a thick atmosphere has overlaid any details of what was happening.

Nevertheless, the impression was that the talks, followed by the despatch of the Soviet note to the Berlin crisis, might be the first step in easing of the strain between Russia and the western powers.

Some information that slipped through the secrecy wall indicated that both sides might be willing to make some concessions in order to further negotiations between Russia and the U. S., Great Britain and France.

The talks with Stalin and Molotov were reported to have produced at least one new suggestion: that prior to another Big Four conference there should be a meeting of the U. S., Russian, British and French deputy foreign ministers.

Such a conference would, theoretically, be accompanied by a gradual relaxation of the restrictions which the Soviets have changed on the western press of Berlin and which brought the East-West relations to their present boiling point.

Although it might be the height of optimism, Communist Russia being what it is, there was some faint hope that such a placement of the Berlin blockade might bring about a provisional meeting of minds on the subject of German currency and other irritating issues.

At the worst, such a discussion at least would tend to act as a brake against a drift to war and provide a breathing space for talks with Moscow on more basic controversies.

There was, however, still another interpretation of the discussions between Stalin and the three western ambassadors. Russia had carried the Berlin blockade virtually to the ultimate point short of war, might be thinking that it had brought the western powers to a position where they would have to concede to Soviet demands if they wished to avoid conflict.

CONGRESS: Unwilling
Probably the only accomplishment of the special session of Congress called by President Truman was to provide both parties with a bigger and better supply of political ammunition for the election campaign.

Democrats would be able to say that the GOP congress simply sat back on its haunches and did nothing about the pressing problems of inflation, housing and other national issues.

Republicans could counter with the assertion that within the bounds of their political beliefs and judgment of what is best for the nation, they did all they could under the circumstances. To that they probably would add the fact that the whole thing is the fault of the 18-year Democratic regime and that the ultimate decision must lie in the election of a Republican administration this November.

One result of the special session that might be classed as favorable was that it served to sharpen the rough edges of the wide cleavage between the two parties over domestic problems and give the voters a more clear-cut, definitive idea of what they will be deciding on November 2.

Despite President Truman's laudacious diatribes against congress and its repeated warnings that controls alone will curb the now dangerous inflation, in the final analysis it remained foolish to believe that the GOP congress ever would take the action he recommended. Republicans simply do not approve of that method of handling the nation's economy.

Republican congressmen agreed only to string along with legislation serving to postpone consumer credit controls, with some limitation on bank credits, and to speed action on a watered-down housing program which does little except create credit terms for home builders.

The anti-poll tax measure, blocked for a week by a dramatic filibuster by southern Democrats, finally withered and blew away in dust.

TAXATION: 125 Billion
By the end of this year individual taxpayers in the U. S. will have paid nearly 125 billion dollars in direct personal taxes, according to a survey entitled "Domestic Consumer Market" published by the National Industrial Conference Board.

Last year, the report says, Americans paid more in personal taxes than they spent for new homes, cars, furniture and medical care.

RELIGION
World Council

"To justify the cry of God to man" was John Milton's expressed purpose for writing his monumental epic poem of the Reformation, "Paradise Lost."

Accidentally, Milton succeeded in providing that justification for his own and an unknowable number of future generations of Christians.

But since the 16th century days of Milton human society has become an increasingly odd blend to the spiritual values preached by every great Christian since Paul.

Therefore since the outbreak of the 20th century man's situation has been claimed more and more by the scientific power of materialism which has been brought into full play as a result of the technological economy with its assembly lines, power politics and repetitive wars.

Thus, the problem now is not so much how to justify God's way to man as it is how to justify man's way to God.

It is that problem which the World Council of Churches, composed of 48 Protestant and Orthodox churches from 40 nations, will endeavor to meet quarterly at its first world assembly in Edinburgh August 22 to September 4.

Four hundred and fifty church leaders laymen and clergymen alike are determined, among other things, "to assess the needs of the modern world and to propose a new day of Christian service."

Under the conference theme, "Unity, Endeavor and Fellowship," the delegates will discuss such questions as: How to influence more effectively into our modernized society without advocating the destruction of all non-Christian religions?

What action can be taken to assist its members to aid in establishment of world order?

What is the answer to the eternal power politics of the present day?

What are the tough questions, the World Council of Churches is likely to pose for its members?

What world assembly has been held since its members to aid in establishment of world order?

Washington Digest
Czech Refugee Confirms Crack in Iron Curtain

By BAUKHAGE

WASHINGTON—The Union of Soviet Socialist Republics is an idea which is being toyed with by cynical crackpots.

It is one of the most dangerous playthings that ever got into the hands of unwary diplomats.

Encouraged by some members of the little group of highly intelligent but also highly prejudiced people who form a constant growing segment of Washington's diplomatic political refugees from the countries on the Soviet border, one can, however, trust this group for certain basic facts.

Recently, I learned one of these facts which may surprise you. Of course, you may not recall that Soviet diplomats always have a special way of speaking.

It is that they speak in a way which is calculated to call your attention to the fact that the words are former members of the staff of the Red government.

Before the Russians moved in, it was not the air corps, it has even been confirmed in the Czech armored force.

The greatest friction caused by partial communization is felt in the nation's capital, Prague.

Ever since, at least indirectly, because of this, but since we have been led to believe that at least the government and the controlling agencies are friendly.

However, most of the Czechs who have fled to the West have been able to produce a degree of mutual confidence with the Krenin. After this's action was witnessed.

What about the frontiers between the two countries, and Russia? The answer came from an anti-Communist, recently arrived from Czechoslovakia.

He is a small industrialist of the many persons who are seeking out of that and other satellite countries every day.

He has asked me to present if the frontier between his country and Russia was open, in the sense that travel was permitted under the same conditions that obtain between friendly nations.

The Czech leader, he said: "The border between my country and Russia is no lighter than a demilitarized zone. It would have to be to keep a drop of water from getting through."

I have which were described. My informant also outlined other significant conditions in Czechoslovakia, first reminding us of three important facts:

1. Czechoslovakia is the most industrialized of all the satellite states.

2. It is also the most democratic in the realistic sense we give it as a result of the words the country is thoroughly indoctrinated with the kind of propaganda methods we know.

3. The Czechs have a very high standard of living compared to the other satellite states.

These factors, taken together, make the Czechs particularly desirable to the United States. The latter, in other words, the Czechs had more to lose than the other countries within the Red orbit.

Greater Problems Are in Prospect
Czechoslovakia is not yet, technically communitized. There is still a certain amount of open criticism.

There have been no wholesale purges. Undoubtedly, these will come, but when they do—and hereon the Russian crack doctrine is weakening—are encouraged—the prospect is that the Russian crack doctrine is weakening.

The greater problem Czechoslovakia will present to her Kremlin overlords is the fact that the Czechs are not yet, technically communitized.
