TB Declining

n Michioan Tuberculosis in Michigan continues to lose ground in one of the major public health advan-ces in the state's history, Dr. John A. Cowan, Director of the Division of Tuberculosis and Venereal Disease Control, said lives of 104 persons in every 100,000 of the state's population in 1900, took the lives of only 25 per 100,000 population in 1948. The disease has been pushed from second to ninth cause of death in the state in the past half century.

Credit for victories in the battle, most of which have occurr in the past three decades, should probably be given to improved methods of treatment which made huge onslaughts on the disease in the 1920 and 1930's and to new "wonder" drugs recently but in use to 1930's and to new "wonder" drugs recently put in use; to better casefinding including the mobile chest x-ray units of the Michigan Department of Health federally purchased units for x-ray of persons entering general hospitals and x-ray services of industries and other organizations; as well as to prompt hospitalization made possible by better casefinding Other considerable factors are the state and to prompt hospitalization are were among men and more than two-thirds of the deaths were of people over 40 years of age. Further advances against the disease will be made through in-creased casefinding a mong Michigan people who are in the last half of their "three score and ten", Dr Cowan said.
