They were on Main street and every, other street in townin fact as far as we have been able to find out they covered Manchester and Washtenaw county. What are we talking about? They are called oatflies. The large-scale invasion of a small-scale enemy has infected this vicinity for more than a week. These "elongated moving apacks" which like to ensume on huganas as well as all their possessions for ten, days. They are harmless, except as a nustance and no one seems to know very much about them except that they appear at harvest time and disappear just as suddenly. They do not dam age anything, except a person's disposition. County Agricultural Agent Harville patients which in certain instances of a mage chrysasthecoums and on ions. Enough for the oatflies.

deer, and beaver populated these mountains and valleys.

Many wild animals still haund the western Wyoming region. Visitors report that antelope race their cars along open-range roads; beavers eften annoy farmers by damming irrigation ditches, and Jackson Hole ranchers have built high fences to protect their haystacks against marauding eft.

The first white man to see the majestic Teton Range rising west of the lush green valley now known as Jackson Hole is believed to have been John Colier. In 1607-5, this woodsman and trapper, previously on the Lewis and Clark expedition, crossed and recrossed the mountains. Traveling alone, with a 30-pound pack and gun, Colter also penetrated the northern wilderness on this trip; discovering Yellowstone.

If I were President I would have casy sailing, even in peace titines. In times of great trouble, like the present, time sailing would be rough, and I would naturally look for a good safe harbor. The seas being rough, I would cast off all unnecessary weight, batten the hatches down tightly and set may course in the straightest possible. Ilsa, When a huge wave threatened to engulf me. I would hit it directly in the center, head on, knowing that if I did not, I might be swamped.

Having learned through pasf experience the utter futility of steering my course straight among the rocks. . as had been done on two occasions within a generation when the blackest of storms engulfed the world. . I would tows overboard without the slightest compunction the pilots who had steered before. I would discover as quickly as possible the source of danger:

I have been busy minding my business as a lawyer.

But, when I look around, as plain John Citizen, and find—

Our sational debt reaching 256 thousand million dollars, or enough to provide a brand new $6,000.00 home for every family in the Country:

Noarly 6 million people (or 1 oft af every 25 of the benelation) on the public payroll:

The average citizen now working about 1 week in every month to pay his taxes:

Congress stalling on the Hoover reorganization plan to cut government waste:

Codding communism in Washington while waving war against it in Korea.

I think if I were in Congress, I would try to do something a bout these things.

And so I am a candidate for Congress, and if you feel as I do and hope to see some zetion. Gas Heating Inc. hope to see some action.

your support will be appreciated.

Sincerely.
