Manchester Athletes Feted By Exchange Club

Steve Sebo, freshman coach at Michigan State College, was the guest speaker at the Exchange Club dinner at the Emanuel church hall. The club played host to 44 athletes and coaches of Manchester High at the annual dinner which was also ladies' night. Bouquets of daffodils and yellow shaps adorned the tables and a large cake decorated with the school colors, maroon and gold, centered the table at which the athletes sat. This was made by O. M. Way.

Featured on the program were F. M. Reck as toastmaster, the Necky Trio, Hal Bliss, Lynn Webb and Mike Brindle, all students at Ionia High School. Coach Everett Queen, who explained something of the history of the League of the Lakes to which Manchester belongs. The president of the Exchange Club, Roland Grossman, presented special awards to several members of the team, David Hopstead, Robert Eisenhauer and Paul Downing. Leo Lentz, captain of the Manchester team, thanked the club for the annual dinner. Working on the entertainment committee were Franklin M. Reck, Luther Klager, Carl Schaible and Roscoe Lannom, and the dinner was served by the Guild and the Tabea Society.

Among the special guests were Rev. and Mrs. Karl H. A. Rest, Dr. and Mrs. W. P. Purfield, William H. Townley, Superintendent of the Manchester Ford plant, and Mr. and Mrs. Howard Heath of Milan. Following the program Howard Heath made a special tape recording which will be heard over Station WPAG Saturday morning at 9 a. m. in conjunction with the program "This Is Manchester". Of particular interest was the colored film on the Michigan State-Notre Dame game which Mr. Sebo showed as he explained the entire game to the 115 persons at the banquet.

Mrs. Paul Wahr Is Hostess To Sharon Extension

The Sharon Extension met Thursday with eight members present and three guests who joined the club. The new members are Mrs. Donald Blacklock, Mrs. Tony Eusades and Mrs. Leon Raymond. Games were played and refreshments were served by the hostess. The next meeting will be held in February with Mrs. Erwin Paul. The roll call will be the exchange of recipes.

Bridgewater Farm Bureau Meets

The Bridgewater Farm Bureau met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Breitenwischer for the January meeting. The discussion on "Should Township Government be Abolished in Favor of a Stronger County Government?" Thirty-five members and friends attended the meeting after which cards were played and refreshments served by the hostess. The next meeting in February will be held with Mr. and Mrs. Everett Stockwell.

Miss Lillian Adams returned home on Sunday, after spending a few days visiting at the Edward Kavka home at Maple City.

On Main Street

F. H. Higgins and Sons announce the sale of their 120 acre farm including their 7 1/2 acre apple orchard to Mr. and Mrs. Francis Cargo of Jackson. Mr. Cargo is a physics teacher at Jackson High School. The Cargos plan to build in Manchester this summer. The Higgins Farm Market is continuing under the present ownership.

"The ride is a revelation" that's what they say about the new '51 DeSoto now on display at LeRoy Heimerdinger's, your local DeSoto-Plymouth dealer.

Those who worked so generously on the PTA sponsored play "Crazy Daze" should be given credit for their tireless efforts in making the production such a huge success. Miss Vivian Joy did a fine job—but without a doubt it could not have been the success it was without the cooperation of everyone.

Credit should be given to Miss Betty Scovell and her dancing students, in particular to Patty Thayer, Carole Miller and Patty Carr, the tap and ballet dancers from Pockney for their help and to Lorna Hancock and the many, many others. Yes, and I can say many, many others when the total of the people in the production reached 206. Everyone did their part very well considering that about ten days was spent in the actual preparation.

Deslyn Kravich as Lowsy, Ann Sakes and Harold Alexander as Toby Jones kept the audience in stitches with their clever antics. On Saturday night the chairman of the ways and means committee, Mrs. Howard Higgins, presented a costume jewelry necklace to the director, Miss Joy, who we understand is booking a similar performance down Saline way.

Little John William Pratts, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Pratt, and Susan Kay Kirk, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. V. Kirk, were voted King and Queen of the Tiv Tot contest and each received their trophy Saturday night. John is ten months old and Susie is 16 months old and we believe they were the youngest children entered in the contest and were sponsored by Lannom's Variety Store and C. H. Seckinger's Grocery, respectively.

On Monday many persons in this area heard the announcement that Mrs. Russell C. Smith of Manchester won the Grand Slam award broadcast over WJR from New York. Although Mrs. Smith did not hear the broadcast she was soon informed of her good fortune by her friends here. However, Tuesday morning she received confirmation of the award by a telegram from the award includes a one hundred dollar savings bond, four Dan River sheets and pillow cases, five piece set of club aluminum, two pieces of Samsonite luggage, Max Factor cosmetics and a French fryer. However, these articles were not mentioned in the telegram. (Turn to page 8)

Two Nights of "Crazy Daze" Net P. T. A. Over $500

A cast of 206, all local talent, played for two nights in the production "Crazy Daze" sponsored by the Manchester PTA, under the direction of Miss Vivian Joy of Columbus, Ohio. According to the ways and means committee chairman, Mrs. Howard Higgins, the PTA netted $502 on the performances, most of which will be used to start a band uniform fund for the school.

Mrs. Franklin Reck and Mrs. Allan Schaffer were in charge of publicity. Mrs. Howard Higgins and Mrs. Schaffer were featured on the program "This Is Manchester" over WPAG prior to the performance and it that time told about the work and organization of the Manchester PTA as well as about the play and the current project of earning money for new uniforms for the band.

Nelson Short, PTA treasurer, and his wife had charge of the ticket sales. Mrs. George Nichols was chairman of the Tiv Tot popularity contest which totaled $197.40. The winners were John William, ten month old son of Mr. and Mrs. James G. Pratt, and Susan Kay, sixteen month old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. V. Kirk of Manchester. The winners were sponsored by Lannom's Variety Store and the C. H. Seckinger Grocery Store respectively.

The pianists for the two night production were Mrs. Paul Kappler and Miss Linda Reck. To Miss Betty Scovell of Ann Arbor, the PTA sponsored dance instructor at the school, goes credit from the committee for her tireless efforts in directing the dancing portions of the program. The play director, Miss Joy, left DeKalb, Illinois, where she directs the next play.

Mrs. Howard Higgins presented Miss Joy with a costume jewelry necklace in behalf of the PTA in appreciation for the work which Miss Joy did here.

Funeral Services Friday for Mrs. Ella A. Beutler

Funeral services will be held Friday afternoon for Mrs. Ella A. Beutler, 92, who passed away at the Colonial Manor Convalescent Home at Chelsea where she had been a patient for a week. She was born on June 23, 1858 in Freedom township, a daughter of George and Cornelia Kendall Peckens. On April 17, 1890 she married Godfrey Beutler and lived on a farm in Sharon until a year after his death on December 13, 1909, at which time Mrs. Beutler and her daughter Anna went to Chelsea where they lived until 1932 when they came to make their home with a nephew, Homer Lehman.

Besides her daughter she is survived by one sister, Mrs. Nettie Chadwick of Jackson and seven nieces and five nephews including Fred Lehman of Manchester.

Prayer services at 1:30 at the Miller Funeral Home at Chelsea and at 2 p. m. at the Chelsea Methodist church. Burial will be held at the Vermont Cemetery on the Manchester-Chelsea road. Rev. John Runney of Manchester will officiate.

Father Rescues Son, 4 From Manchester Pond

Four-year-old Murray Richardson was saved from an icy death Monday by his brother, Dennis, three years old. On their way to meet their father, Erwin Richardson, coming from work at 4:30 Monday, the boys tried the ice on Iron Creek Mill Pond, five miles southwest of town. The ice gave way, sending Murray into 12 feet of icy water. The younger boy ran up the road, met his father and returned to the scene. The victim's body was in an open stretch of water 60 feet downstream. The father was able to walk out onto a log projecting into the pond and rescue his son. While he and William Winder, a bus driver for the Clinton Community Schools, administered artificial respiration, a neighbor, Charles Ball, called state police.

Murray was rushed to the Herrick Memorial Hospital in Tecumseh where he gained consciousness about three hours later. Hospital authorities described the boy's condition today as "excellent".

The elder Richardson today attributed the swift recovery of his son to the fast work of Dennis, Winder, Ball and Trooper George Catton of the Clinton state police post. Catton stayed with the boy giving him artificial respiration from the scene of the incident to the hospital.

Supt. Downing At Administrators' Meeting

Superintendent of Schools V. W. Downing attended the mid-winter meeting of the Michigan Association of school administrators with Otto Haisley, Supt. of Public Schools in Ann Arbor, Supt. Albert Johnson of Chelsea, Supt. Gerald Bradley of Milan and John Page of Howell. At the meeting Mr. Haisley was elected president for the next year.

According to Supt. Downing this was a work session getting things organized for the legislature as far as schools are concerned. Dr. Lee Thurston, Superintendent of Public Instruction was the speaker and summed up his speech in seven points:

1. Our duties in civil defense training.
2. The problems of deferment of school teachers (the schools of Michigan will not ask for blanket deferment of its teachers) in special cases where teachers can best serve the country by continuing at their post as teachers the superintendent of the school may make such a recommendation to a special board to be appointed by the state department of public instruction before the teacher receives orders from the local draft board.

3. Man power—the superintendents are to prepare a list of qualified teachers (who are retired in the area) who might be available to teach in an emergency. This will be done in order to obtain a list of manpower in the teaching field.
4. Dr. Thurston discussed the priorities of critical materials to schools.

5. Need for use of educators in national planning.
6. The problems of educating children living in war impacted districts, on federal land in Michigan and recommended that the state legislature permit the schools doing educating to include these as resident children.

7. School service survey—this was originated through the Michigan State Police Department in connection with civil defense and includes a survey of the number of rooms in schools and their facilities for feeding persons or caring for people in case of national emergency. In summing up his speech Dr. Thurston said, "Let us not forget that the school is the community in our nation."

Other problems discussed at the meeting included the Veterans Institute in Michigan which seems to be causing a real problem to school boards as well as to the instructors working out the program. Another problem for consideration was the freezing of wages and salaries of teachers. According to the report given us by Supt. Downing the sales tax jumped from 183 million to an estimated 240 million for 1951. Of this amount one-sixth is returned to the community, and should be reflected in the adequate salaries of teachers. It was also recommended that the state legislature grant a permit to retired teachers to teach 60 days or earn $600 without the loss of pension.

Former Manchester Resident Killed In Auto Accident

Mrs. Willard Bostedor, 46, of 870 Church street, Grass Lake, was fatally injured Saturday afternoon when she was thrown from the car driven by her husband after it went out of control on old US-12 about two and one-half miles east of Grass Lake and crashed into a bank at the roadside. Mrs. Bostedor is the former Luella Braun of Manchester. She was taken to Foste Hospital in the Stormont ambulance but was pronounced dead on arrival.

Mr. Bostedor, who was uninjured in the crash, told Troopers Stanley Rose and Warren Smith that the steering mechanism of the car apparently failed causing the vehicle to veer across the road and into the ditch.

The car spun completely around, troopers said, and Mrs. Bostedor apparently was thrown from the vehicle as its right side struck the bank.

Another passenger in the car, Jack Butterfield, about 20, of Grass Lake also escaped injury, officers said. The three were enroute home from Mud Lake where they had been ice fishing. The accident occurred at about 4:45 p. m. near the Kalmbach road.

Funeral services were held Tuesday at the Stormont Funeral Home at Grass Lake with Rev. Bertram McNally of the Methodist church officiating and burial was in West Cemetery.

Besides her husband Mrs. Bostedor is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Richard Hicks of Lansing and Mrs. Lawrence DeVerna of Grass Lake.

After eight years they purchased the farm home of her parents, the George Pauls, where they still reside.

The couple were married by the Rev. Paul Irton—at that time pastor of the Bethel Evangelical and Reformed church, of which they are life members. Mrs. Braun has served as treasurer of the Bridgewater school district for the past 37 years and has recently been re-elected for another three year term.

THE WORLD'S MOST WIDELY USED DEVOTIONAL GUIDE

Interviews With Jesus

Thursday, January 25
Jesus saith unto her, I that speak unto thee, am he. (John 4:26) Read John 4:5-14.

Jesus was not in the temple among throngs; He was walking along a dirt road. The neighborhood was unfriendly, for He was in Samaria. He was wearied with His journey, but that could not dim His devotion to His divine mission. The Samaritan woman seemed poor soil for the interview, yet to her the great Teacher, proclaimed the vital truth of the Living Water.

Christ ever saw through the weaving of the present hour to the finished pattern. To this wayside chance acquaintance, stirred and eager, He makes one of His supreme declarations: "I, am messiah. I, who am talking to you." Wide He throws the door for universal human discipleship.

We can make this a pattern for our lives. As followers of His, we are expected to tell the tidings of the Living Water as we mingle with men. As Jesus led the interview to Himself, oftentimes we find opportunity to lead conversation, even with the unpromising or with strangers, to the One who has the water of life.

Prayer

Dear Master and Lord, help us to be filled with Thy Spirit. Teach us to lead the thoughts of those whom we meet each day to the Living Water which alone satisfies the thirst of souls. In the name of Him who loves all persons. Amen.

Thought for the Day

As I meet people today, I will introduce them to Jesus, the Source of the Living Water. H. B. Milward (New York)

Your New Social Security

By Sidney J. Jurens, Mgr. Jackson Social Security Office.

In discussions of old-age and survivors insurance under Federal social security, you hear a lot about "currently" and "fully" insured. These are the two ways in which a worker may be insured. Since they are not the same, and since different kinds of social security payments are called for by each, I'm going to devote this article to them.

Currently Insured

A worker who is only currently insured does not yet have old-age insurance rights. In case of his death, however, his children under 18 may become entitled to monthly insurance payments. These will continue until they reach age 18. If the children are being cared for by his widow (or divorced wife with a child in her care) and she was being supported by the worker, she too gets benefit payments during the minority of the child. In case of more than one child, her benefit payments continue until the youngest child is 18.

Employment Required

Roughly, one and a half years of work covered by social security during the last three years.

Under the amended law, benefits are payable to a dependent husband of a woman worker who died after August 31, 1950, if she was both currently and

Fully Insured

A worker who is fully insured when he becomes 65 has old-age insurance rights. If a worker is fully insured at the time of his death, his widow and children may get monthly insurance, as in the case of a currently insured person. In case the worker is fully insured, however, the widow's monthly insurance payments will not end permanently when the young-

Today's Driving

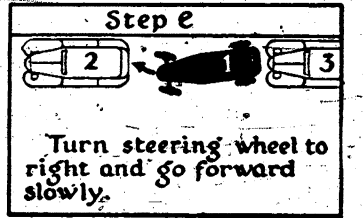

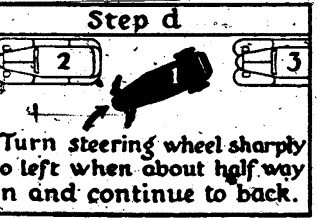

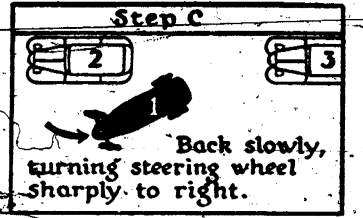

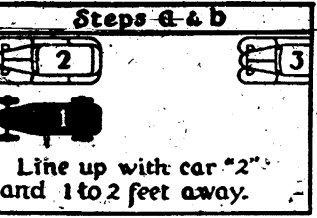

Lesson

Parking parallel, long the "waterloo" of otherwise capable adult drivers, really isn't hard, say teachers in 305 AAA Driver Training courses in as many Michigan high schools. Any motorist who can remember five simple rules can be about one to two feet from car 2. This beginning position is the whole key to parallel parking.

(c) Back slowly—slipping the clutch—while turning the steering wheel sharply to the right until your car is nearly at a 45-degree angle with the curb. Then straighten out the front wheels and continue backing into the parking space.

(d) When the right end of your front bumper is opposite the left end of the rear bumper kiss his parallel parking jitters goodby. Michigan teenagers taking the behind-the-wheel course sponsored by Automobile Club of Michigan are learning to park parallel this way:

(a) Make sure the road is clear and signal intention to stop by extending the left arm from the window.

(b) Drive alongside the car you are going to park behind (car No. 2) and stop when the rear bumper of your car is even with the rear bumper of car 2. Your position should of the car ahead, hesitate an instant, then turn the steering wheel rapidly to the left as far as it will go while continuing your slow backward movement.

(e) Cramping the steering wheel as far as it will go to the right, move front of the car to within six inches of the curb. Leave an equal distance between your car and the cars in front and in back. Executed correctly several times, this maneuver becomes easy.

est child reaches 18. At age 65, such a widow, who has not remarried, may file an application for widow's benefits, and her payments will be resumed. If the deceased worker left no widow or minor children, and if he is survived by parents who were dependent upon him, the parents may qualify for benefits if they have reached age 65. In such cases, the parents must file proof of dependency within two years after the insured worker's death. Employment Required (Roughly) Must have worked at least a year and a half, or half the time since he became 21, or half the time since 1950.

Anyone who has worked in a job covered by social security for ten years is fully insured for the rest of his life.

Children who were not living with their father at the time of their mother's death may have monthly insurance benefits based on their mother's social security account. If the children were living with their father at the time of their mother's death, they may have monthly payments based on her social security account, but only if she were both currently and fully insured under the social security law. A dependent widower, also, is not entitled to benefits unless the deceased woman worker was both currently and fully insured.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Uhr and daughter, Connie, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Puchas and son, Ronald, were in Ann Arbor Saturday.

DEMOCRACY—A Year-round Job

ON JANUARY 7, 1789, GEORGE WASHINGTON WAS CHOSEN PRESIDENT IN THE FIRST NATIONAL ELECTION IN THE U.S. THAT EVENT MARKED THE FORMAL LAUNCHING OF OUR REPUBLIC AND BROUGHT INTO ACTION THE DEMOCRATIC PROCESSES BY WHICH, OVER 161 YEARS, OUR PEOPLE HAVE BUILT FOR THEMSELVES THE MOST SUCCESSFUL ECONOMIC AND POLITICAL SYSTEM THAT MANKIND HAS KNOWN.

SO LONG AS OUR PEOPLE RECOGNIZE THAT THE RESPONSIBILITIES OF CITIZENSHIP ARE CONTINUOUS, EMBRACING PARTICIPATION THAT GOES BEYOND MERE VOTING—

SO LONG AS OUR GOVERNMENT HOLDS ITSELF CONTINUOUSLY RESPONSIVE TO THE NEEDS AND DESIRES OF THE PEOPLE—OUR DEMOCRACY WILL CONTINUE TO GROW IN FREEDOM, IN POWER AND IN OPPORTUNITY.

Here's A Devil's Food Mix That Makes Light And Downy Chocolate Cakes

Photograph by Swans Down

WHEN the last morsel and crumb of your next devil's food cake has been eaten, the family will want another one right away if you've made it with a wonderful devil's food mix that always gives you a light and downy triumph.

But you won't mind, for it's as easy as 1, 2, 3 to turn this mix into a perfect cake. Just add milk, beat and bake, and you will have devil's food with beautiful texture, a delicious flavor assured by a special blending of chocolate, and a fine keeping quality.

The mix is put out by the makers of a famous cake flour and a white cake mix that is already well-known. Like its sister white cake mix, this devil's food is versatile. It can be baked as cookies, cup cakes, layers, a big square, and chocolate snaps. To get best results, follow package directions, timing beating if you use a mixer, counting strokes if you beat by hand.

Mountain cake bakers, too, can get perfect results with this devil's food mix, for there is a package specially prepared for high altitudes which should be used above 3,500 feet.

Seven-Minute Frosting: Combine 2 egg whites, 1 1/4 cups sugar, dash of salt, 1/4 cup water, and 2 teaspoons light corn syrup in double boiler. Beat with rotary egg beater 1 minute, or until thoroughly mixed. Cook over rapidly boiling water, beating constantly, 7 minutes, or until frosting will stand up in stiff peaks. Remove from water, add 1/2 teaspoon vanilla, and beat 1 minute, or until thick enough to spread.

A prayer for our Soldiers

BY MAJOR GENERAL ROY H. PARKER
Chief of Chaplains, United States Army

Almighty God, the Creator and Preserver of all mankind, we commend to Thy special care and keeping those serving in our Army. Though they be in the midst of dangers, do Thou send Thy guardian angels for their protection. Walk beside them as they go through the valley of the shadow of death.

Knowing that all good things come from Thee, grant them courage and loyalty, through a firm faith in freedom's cause in the present conflict. When sacrifices are called for, let them be made in the knowledge that Thou art the rewarder of Thy servants. Enable them to be valiantly and serve nobly in the full realization that no man liveth unto himself. Grant them clear minds, strong bodies, resolute wills, and pure hearts free from hatred and bitterness, renewing them each and every day with strength, like strong men of old, who against enthroned wrong stood with confidence and courage.

Awaken in them a lively faith that will keep them close to Thee. Enable them to rest their cause upon Thy Word that, though the foe be strong, yet knowing the cause as they battle for the right, they can never fail. Fill their hearts with the assurance that with Thee nothing is impossible and that all things work together for good to them that love Thee.

If it be Thy will that injuries be sustained, let them experience the touch of Thy healing hand and do Thou bless the means and the ministries employed for the restoration of their health.

In these difficult times, when the forces of evil are running rampant and many hopes seem about to be crushed, fill their hearts with an abiding sense of Thy reality and the certainty of Thy continual presence. Enable them to look to Thee when loneliness and longing overtake them; fulfill their yearnings by granting them Thine own companionship and fellowship. Enable them to realize the full meaning of Thy promise, "Lo, I am with you always."

Thou who art the Protector and Helper as well as the Giver of victory, grant unto them every good gift of body and soul and unite us with them in faith and love unceasing. Amen.

HEALTH
It is often said that a person does not really appreciate good health until he gets sick. If that be true, the world today should be genuinely health-minded.

This is a sick world in which we live. Society as such, the human family as a group, is sick.

War is one of many undeniable indications of an unhealthy condition of society.

Poverty, unemployment, malnutrition, housing shortages, inflation, insecurity, and so on, are other symptoms of a sick society.

People as individuals are sick. Insane asylums, hospitals, jails, and graveyards are filling up faster than new ones can be made ready.

Insane asylums, hospitals, jails, and graveyards—four of the great hallmarks of our "civilization"—are crowded to capacity and the demand upon these institutions daily is becoming more intense and insistent.

Insane asylums, hospitals, jails and graveyards—hallmarks of our "civilization"—are dramatic evidence of the fact that our people, as individuals, are sick. And there is a reason for all this sickness, as we shall mention again later.

People in insane asylums are mentally sick. Mental hospitals are the euphemistic, sugar coated expression for an insane asylum, but no amount of sugar coating can gloss over the fact that our people are going crazy faster than we can build asylums to house them.

People in ordinary hospitals, of course, are physically sick. The stretcher line forms on the right. Have your checkbooks ready!

There are people in jail who don't belong there, but those who do belong there are morally and ethically sick. And jails don't cure them, either.

The people in the graveyards are no longer sick in this world. Whether they are still sick in another world is another problem, but the fact remains that much of the population of our graveyards moved in there prematurely as a result of some sort of sickness.

Is this a gloomy picture? Possibly. But a fact is a fact, and if a person or a society is to survive, facts must be faced.

We live sickly in a sick world. As we contemplate all this sickness, we realize that what is needed is health. We need health. We need physical health, but physical health alone is not enough.

There must be mental health, spiritual health, moral health, economic health, social health, and so on.

All too often health is thought of as a physical condition only.

Actually, however, physical health is tied up with mental health and economic health and so on.

Mental health is tied up with physical health and spiritual health and so on.

Economic health is dependent upon physical and mental and social and political health.

True health involves a physically healthy body housing a well-adjusted mind and spirit.

How many radiantly healthy, well-adjusted persons do you know? Is not the fully healthy person the rare exception?

There is a reason for all of this sickness of body and mind and spirit, and it does not grow entirely out of ignorance. To some extent it is because knowledge is not translated into action. Behavior lags behind knowledge. We know better than we do.

Yes, we know better than we do. We do not act in the light of the knowledge we possess. The cause and the cure for most of these sicknesses is known to some. Many of the most urgent and pressing problems of mankind have been solved here and there, individually or on a limited scale, at different times and places. For some of the more vexing problems, not merely one, but often several solutions have been proposed. These solutions are available for us to use when we are ready to use them.

Of course, not all of the solutions that have been worked out are perfect solutions. They are faulty solutions that could be improved upon through experience. They are a bit rough and ready, some of these proposed solutions.

But these solutions, rough as they might be, would offer some relief. They would offer respite during which the rough edges could be smoothed off a bit. And better solutions could be developed as time went on.

We could list some of the solutions that have been proposed, by Henry George and Silvio Gesell and Warren Brokaw and Josiah Warren and Gandhi and Christ and Buddha and so on. We could list some of those answers, and some day we will list some of them.

There is no use piling fresh, new knowledge upon old, unused knowledge. An unused truth is a barrier which blocks further progress until it is put to use. We all do things which we know full well that we should not do. All of us.

We all fail to do things which we know full well that we should do. All of us.

If we would but make use of the knowledge that it now available, we could change this world within a relatively short time from a hungry, sick world into a well nourished, healthy world.

Not perfect health. Not perfect nourishment. But healthy enough and well fed enough to be able to sit down and work out our differences around the bargaining table, where some degree of common sense prevails, rather than upon the battlefield, where reason prevails not but ruthlessness reigns supreme.

These solutions, we repeat, while available, are not too widely known at present. But each solution has its small group of well informed followers who will be able to teach the rest of us when we are ready.

But we don't need this knowledge quite yet, because we are blocked. We aren't using the knowledge we already possess. We aren't doing as well as we know how to do.

Before pushing on to new knowledge, or newly discovered knowledge, we need to learn how to make use of the knowledge we now possess.

We need to know how to get things done. We need to master the psychology of achievement.

Sharing your interest in photography makes it more fun.

Photography: An Interest for the Whole Family

INTEREST in photography is something that can be shared by all the members of the family. Many husbands and wives find it an ideal mutual hobby. This was brought out by the entries in the most recent Newspaper National Snapshot Awards in which there were several cases of husbands and wives both having pictures reach the final judging.

One couple, who together had three pictures in the national competition, first became interested in photography about three years ago. Neither one knew much about their new interest, so they read everything they could find on the subject in the public library and in magazines. Beginning with a box camera they did their developing and printing in the kitchen at night. Three years later, they're using a press-type camera and have a special darkroom in their home.

The picture taking has now become more or less a family hobby, with the couple's three children taking a part in it too. The 10 year-old daughter handles her own simple camera very proficiently and is now trying her luck with her parents' press camera. The baby and the 5-year-old get into the act as models.

This couple finds that sharing the hobby adds greatly to their pleasure in it. "We keep each other going," they explain. Both are interested in all phases of photography and take turns with the camera and in the darkroom.

An older couple, who both had pictures in the finals of the Awards, had a slightly different story. The husband has a long history of enthusiastic picture taking, while the wife is a beginner, comparatively speaking. She started two years ago, when her husband, who found her a rather severe critic of his work, challenged her "to do better." I don't know whether she has done "better" or not, but she matched his efforts in the contest.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

Fire-side snapshots are pleasing to the eye, easy to make.

Firelight Snapshooting

SITTING around the fireplace is a popular and pleasant activity at this time of year—and it brings an opportunity for making snapshots of your favorite people that are so effective it seems hard to believe that they are really quite easy to do.

Your fire can be real—or the bright glow can come from a photoflood lamp well-hidden in a cold fireplace. Some people definitely prefer to fake the fire because they can judge more correctly the proper exposure when the quantity of light is a known factor. The exposure for such shots, as in all artificial light photography, is based on the far up-to-subject distance. Exposure guides included in your film package will help in determining the exposure—or you can make use of one of those handy, pocket-size guides I mention so often. You can buy one for 25 cents from almost any photographic dealer.

For those who are willing to risk the exposure uncertainties for the realism of actual firelight, it is simply a matter of making a time exposure.

Group your subjects as close to the fire as you can without making anyone uncomfortably warm. A low fire will help. As is the case in all time exposures, you must place your camera on a tripod or other solid support and your subjects had better sit still. When you have your camera in place, focus it on your subjects if it is an adjustable type, and then turn off the room lights before opening the shutter. You may want to place a 75-watt bulb 6 to 8 feet from the side of your subject that is away from the fire to lighten the shadows.

If the fire is burning brightly, a one-to-three second exposure at f/11 should be sufficient. The f/11 is the lens opening most commonly found on the non-adjustable cameras, so you can make pictures such as these with simple, inexpensive equipment.

Can you imagine how delighted grandparents who had sent their little granddaughter a new toy would be with a charming shot like this?

Pictures Say "Thank You"

HERE'S an idea that can have many applications, but one that is likely to be most popular with the parents of young children. I'm talking about the use of snapshots with which to say "thank you" to the donors of gifts to you or to some members of the family. I know a young mother who says she practices the proverbial killing of two birds with one stone by snapping pictures of her youngsters each time they receive a special gift, particularly from friends or relatives who do not see the children very often. This means she can make fairly regular additions of appealing snapshots to the family picture collection.

A second very thoughtful use for prints of the picture is as an enclosure to a letter the mother or children write to the donor of the gift. The picture which reveals the child's obvious pleasure with the gift will do a better job of conveying your appreciation than the longest letter you could write. This mother makes some of these pictures indoors with photoflash bulbs; others, outdoors—it's all according to the nature of the gift and the state of the weather. She follows this practice the year around. At Christmas and on birthdays, it is a "must," but it's an idea you can follow through most any time and one that is bound to be successful.

"Sunshine Special," Presidential Car to Be Exhibited

The first of a new series of displays entitled, "The Exhibit of the Month," began Saturday, Jan. 20, at the Edison Institute Museum in Dearborn. H. S. Ablewhite, director of interpretation of the Edison Institute, has announced.

The inaugural exhibit in this new series features the famous Presidential car, "The Sunshine Special." Recently retired from the White House fleet, this famous custom-built 1929 Lincoln is one of the heaviest luxury cars ever built.

Used innumerable times by both Presidents Roosevelt and Truman, the "Sunshine" has logged over 5,000 miles in Yalta, Casablanca, Teheran, Malta and the United States.

Thick bullet-proof armor plating accounts for most of the extra weight in this 9300 pound car. In addition both the windows and windshield have inch-thick bullet-proof glass. Other equipment includes a two-way radio, an intercommunication system, steps and handrails for Secret Service escorts, flagstaff sockets, a compartment for submachine guns and other firearms, siren and red warning sign that briefly states, "Police—Do Not Pass."

The "Sunshine Special" occupies a prominent place in the Transportation Section of the Museum. It has been placed on a specially constructed platform and around it grouped a display of photographs picturing both Presidents Truman and Roosevelt and other dignitaries at various official functions.

The "Exhibit of the Month" for February will follow a musical vein. A group of rare musical instruments, including two famous Stradivarius violins, will be displayed.

The Edison Institute Museum is currently open every day of the year with the exception of Christmas and New Year's Day.

Right Under Our Nose!
Sometime back, we got word from the Governor, asking if we wanted to use the State Fire Inspection Team—a group of experts they send around to communities to inspect public buildings.
We sent a letter saying: "Okay!
Give us the once-over!" They came down, all right—last week.
After the inspection, we got their report. Came out pretty well, all told. Town Hall and the School were O.K. Post Office just needed more sandbuckets. In fact, everything got a clean bill of health, except—the Fire Station!
From where I sit, we volunteer firemen had just been too blamed busy keeping everyone else on the ball—and not realizing our own firehouse was net up to snuff.
Like the man who worries so much about his neighbors—about whether they work hard enough, about whether they can really afford their new car, about their enjoying a temperate glass of beer—that he forgets to take a good critical look at himself now and then.

Shrine Circus Opens
---------------------	--

Monday, Feb. 19

Detroit's most renowned circus impresario, Eddie Stinson, has just announced that the 1951 Shrine Circus will be held in the State Fair Coliseum two weeks beginning Monday afternoon, February 19. There will be two shows daily at 2 and 8 P.M. through Sunday, March 4.

A large segment of the vast population in Detroit's great Metropolitan district have come to look upon the annual Shrine Circus, and only the very highest type of entertainment is presented for the public amusement. Our circus is recognized by veteran "big top" men as a combination of the best acts presented under canvas in the summer, and it has been acclaimed as the largest and most successful indoor circus in the world.

Stinson announced that reserve seat tickets will go on sale at the Shrine Coliseum in the Masonic Temple, beginning Monday, January 29, at 9 A.M. Thereafter the box office will be opened daily from 9 A.M. to 9 P.M. Telephone reservations will be accepted at Temple 1-0131.

OUR DEMOCRACY

JAN. 31, 1734 - ROBERT MORRIS - MAY 8, 1806

"EACH TO HIS ABILITY... THE SOLDIER CAN FIGHT, THE STATESMAN CAN INSPIRE - IT'S MY TASK TO RAISE MONEY."

ROBERT MORRIS BACKED THE CONTINENTAL ARMY TO THE EXTENT OF $600,000 - A VAST SUM FOR THOSE TIMES - PART REPRESENTING THE LOAN OF HIS OWN FORTUNE, PART RAISED BY PLEDGING HIS PERSONAL CREDIT, AS HE WENT ALL-OUT FOR THE CAUSE.

TODAY, THE FINANCING OF OUR MILITARY PREPAREDNESS CALLS FOR THE SAVINGS OF MILLIONS OF PEOPLE - EACH TO HIS ABILITY - AND ALL OF US BACKING THE CAUSE OF FREEDOM WITH THE SAME FAITH THAT LED ROBERT MORRIS TO PLEDGE HIS DOLLARS FOR DEMOCRACY.

Fire Hazards Reduced

LANSING, Jan. 24.—Strict enforcement in southern Michigan of the state open fire law in 1950 sliced expensive and needless fire runs by rural and conservation department fire crews.

While tabulations by the conservation department are not complete as yet, a check on Eaton County alone shows firemen were called to put out 32 fires as against 146 the previous year. When the fire report is finished, the department expects it will show much better records for Jackson, Kent, Genesee, Lapeer and other counties.

The state fire law requires a person to get a burning permit as soon as the snow leaves the ground, creating a general hazardous condition. In addition to regular violation penalties, the revised law specifies that a person who willfully or negligently causes a damaging fire is liable

Teenager Gets Appetite Back; Thanks Hadacol

HADACOL Supplies Vitamins B<sub>1</sub>, B<sub>2</sub>, Niacin and Iron Which Her System Lacked.

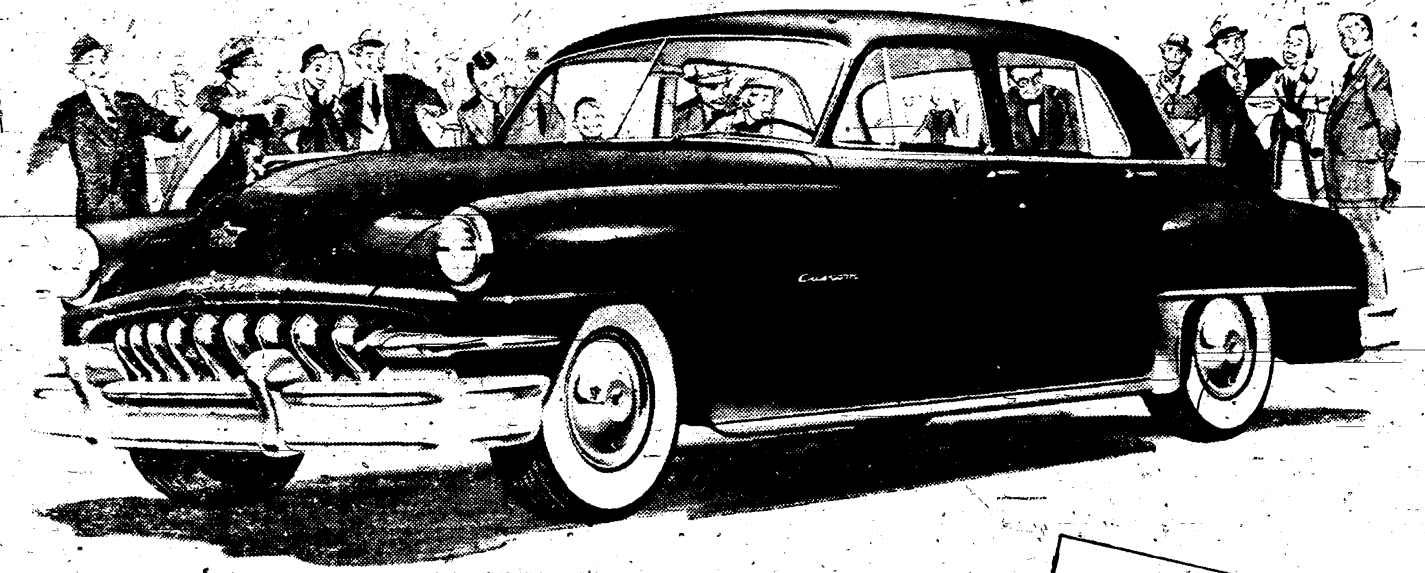

According to Sara Loraine Beck, Box 293, Coker, Alabama, when a person is only 15 years old and feels terrible, can't eat or sleep the way they should, it's mighty bad. That is the way Loraine says she used to feel.

But that was, of course, before she started taking HADACOL. Loraine found that taking HADACOL helped her system overcome deficiencies in Vitamins B<sub>1</sub>, B<sub>2</sub>, Niacin and Iron, which HADACOL contains.

Here is Loraine Beck's own statement: "I was run-down, sick and skinny, and weighed only 90 pounds before I used HADACOL. I would not eat because I had no appetite. Now I weigh 123 pounds and have an appetite. I feel a lot better. I have been taking HADACOL 10 months and am still taking it. I am 15 years old. HADACOL has done me lots of good."

ENGLISH 12 TRIES SOMETHING NEW WITH LITERATURE

(By Jo Ann Fink)
In proving that literature is fun and interesting, Mr. Rioux, our English teacher, tried an experiment to prove that literature is both worth something and it has a great deal of meaning in it. There were two objectives to overcome. The first one, a language barrier and the second, subject matter. In regard to the first one we found that modern poetry is written in a language that we can read and understand. As for the subject matter, we found that the poems were very closely related to our own track of thinking and our way of life.
Here are some of the essays and poems handed in by the English 12 class:
Modern Poetry
(By Ruth Wahn)
The study of Modern Poetry has increased my interest in the whole study of English. Before we studied Modern Poetry, I had begun to think that all poetry was composed of big, long words which were arranged in an awkward manner just so poor high school students couldn't figure them out. This study of Modern Poetry has shown me that poetry can be very interesting. This poetry really has worthwhile thoughts in it and is worth reading more than once. I have found that a single poem can be packed full of good ideas and thoughts. I have also discovered that I enjoy modern poetry much more than I could ever possibly enjoy poetry which was written hundreds of years ago. I enjoy modern poetry more because it is easier to read, but I also think that I enjoy it more because most of the subjects of the poems are things that I know about—things that have happened during my life time. The construction of Modern Poetry is simple. The thoughts and ideas can be sought out much more easily. I have discovered that there are many types of poetry and that they are all arranged to give different meanings. Some poems have touches of humor which still have deep hidden meanings; others are very serious and thoughtful; and still others are very funny. All in all, Modern Poetry has convinced me that the study of poetry is very worthwhile.

Winter In The Country

By Joyce Wright
Country roads are drifted
But the children never mind,
For their hearts are lifted
When all the snow they find.
Think of all the fun they'll have
One way or another
Throwing snow at Mom and Dad
Or teasing little brother.
Supper time is coming
But gee, we hate to go
They will all start humming
So spirits won't be low
Hear the sleigh bells ringing!
It is a jolly sound
And everyone is singing
As they all dance around
The pond has frozen over
Now everyone should go
To pick their favorite partner
As around and round we go
But why should there be sorrow
Because the day must end?
You see there's still tomorrow
And we can play again.

School days

By Eileen Kulenkamp
As the end draws near We're both eager and glad
There is nothing to fear
Our thoughts they are far from sad.
We are filled with anticipation
When we near graduation
The time; it flies fast
The days they are full
My the parties and such
Who ever dreamed we could do so much?
Soon these will be memories of the past
When we are graduated at last.

ships and school districts, from various revenues collected by the state. For the current year $132,800,000 was appropriated for that purpose. These sums are in addition to even larger amounts which go back to local units of government from state collected revenues, directly under constitutional and statutory provisions, without being appropriated in the state budget.
The proposed budget does not include civilian defense appropriations, nor the cost of new hospitals to be paid for from the bond issue voted by the people last November.

State Budget and Recommended Reorganization

Governor Williams has recommended a budget of $294,900,000 for the state's next fiscal year, July 1, 1951, to June 30, 1952. This compares with budget recommendations of $20,300,000 for 1949-50, and $321,900,000 for the current fiscal year. The budget provides $141,236,214 for state operating expenses, compared with $128,652,508 spent in 1949-50, the last completed operating year. Appropriations for the current year are $127,114,725, but $9,000,000 in deficiency appropriations already is being considered for the year.
The increases over the budget for the current year are primarily in two divisions of the state government. An additional $4,300,000 is recommended for the Department of Mental Health for operation of new hospitals, and the same additional amount for the state's major educational institutions. The additional funds for higher education are necessary because of large reductions in tuition, the operation of Ferris Institute as a state school, the starting of new buildings, and regular salary increases for personnel.
With these and other specific increases in costs taken into consideration, the proposed 1951-52 state budget represents a decrease of many millions of dollars in state expenses, when compared with probable total expenditures for the current year, and general increases in costs all along the line during this budget year.
Governor Williams pointed out that his proposed budget recognizes the national defense situation and provides for only a minimum level of state operations, with state agencies expected to absorb a recent civil service pay increase. He added:
"Higher levels of activity are proposed only where the national defense is involved, where new facilities are being put into operation, or where more efficient state action is required. Overall the budget anticipates a continuing decline in the number of state employees."
The Governor opened the way for adoption of governmental reforms that may be suggested by the Citizens' Committee for Reorganization of State Government by stating that "If the reorganization plans now in preparation are adopted, corresponding reductions in appropriations without loss of essential services should be possible."
The 1951-52 budget as recommended by the Governor will include $146,900,000 required to be paid to local units of government, counties, cities, villages, town-

What's Wrong With the System?

There are those who declare that our educational system is weak, and that our moral standards have deteriorated because of it. One can start an argument of the subject on most any street corner. Like the weather, people gripe about it but no one does anything about it.
To come down to brass tacks, what do you as an individual find wrong with our school system? On what spot can you directly put your finger and say, this is wrong; and then, constructively, say, this is the way it should be.
The importance of America's public schools was emphasized recently by nationally known figures at a gathering of citizens from 28 states in Cleveland, Ohio.
The occasion was the second annual dinner of the National Citizens' Commission for the Public Schools, a non-profit organization to encourage further citizen participation in behalf of public school improvement. The Commission is financed by the Carnegie Corporation and the Rockefeller Foundation.
Speakers were Alan Valentine, Economic Stabilization administrator; Frank W. Abrams, chairman of the Board, Standard Oil of New Jersey; and Roy E. Larsen, chairman of NCCPS and president of Time, Inc. "What chance has education in a world littered on the abyss of atomic war?" Valentine asked his audience.
"Democracy's basic weaknesses are not the result of Communism or the atomic bomb," Valentine continued. "The cause of deterioration are not attack from without but softness from within. They are older, more complicated, and more deeply imbedded in our thinking than is Soviet propaganda, or than any rays which can be heard through a Geiger counter, our national weakness."
"I suggest that the causes of our national weakness derive from partial failure of home and school, and can be remedied only by them—if there is time!"
"If, as I suggest, we American people have lost some of our moral flying speed and our national sense of direction, the present crisis obviously demands that we regain and develop these qualities to the maximum. In its immediate aspects this is a problem of our security, our freedom, our very survival."
"One of the responsibilities of U. S. business should be to take an active part in public school improvement," Mr. Adams told his audience.
"Our children are the principal natural resource of the nation. A high standard of living—essential to the existence of a free society and the enterprise system—cannot be retained unless our educational system is processing its most important resource in an effective manner."
Mr. Abrams disclosed that his company encouraged its employees "as good American citizens" to take an active role in school improvements in their communities.

Warren Bowers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Bowers has enlisted in the Army and left today, Thursday, for Fort Sheridan, Illinois.

Come Saturday morning the program "This is Manchester" will feature a recording direct from the Exchange Club dinner held Monday evening for the 44 Manchester athletes and coaches. The program will be broadcast from 9 to 9:30 and will feature June Lannom as vocalist along with Arthur Cathey as master of ceremonies, Howard Heath and your news reporter. Last week a number of calls were received stating that everyone enjoyed hearing Mrs. Herman Weidman and Mrs. Roy Lowery talking on behalf of the MOMS Club.

At the Exchange Club dinner special awards were given by President Roland Grossman to David Hopstead who likes helmets of his own design. He received an especially designed one with U. of M. and fitted with a pair of glasses so he could better see the blockers next season.

C. H. Eisenhower received for his son, Bobby, who was absent, a "new" tire for his crest liner automobile, and Paul Downing was given a copy of The Manchester Enterprise so that he could see what happened in the last three innings after he was knocked out in the Chelsea game.

J. W. Rioux Attends Civil Defense Conference

By Jo Ann Fink

J. W. Rioux, English teacher in our high school, attended a conference on "Community Action in Citizenship, Education and Civil Defense" held Tuesday, January 16, in Welch hall on the Michigan State Normal campus, Ypsilanti.

Seven different group meetings were held after the general session. The conference group which he attended had as its discussion topic "National Security and Foreign Policy" with W. L. Berkhof, superintendent of schools in Mt. Clemens, as chairman and the consultants were Marshall Kanpen, professor of political science of the University of Michigan, and Nathan Grundstein, professor of government, Wayne University.

The meeting was opened by Mr. Berkhof, who in turn introduced Professor Kanpen. Speaking very briefly (since those attending were expected to take active participation) Professor Kanpen said very emphatically that the main purpose or goal of our foreign policy (in fact all our foreign policy) was the protection of what he termed "Home base". At the very base of this policy contended Professor Kanpen was the ability of our nation to be able to defend itself, hence the necessity at present of our shifting to a state of national emergency and near all-out mobilization. The best defense in a long run is an offensive. As a result of this he contended that we must stir ourselves considerably to protect ourselves at home (those centers which are vital to the production of all types of materials) but we must at the same time supply ourselves with radar and defense positions in Alaska as well as in positions which we occupy in Europe. In both of these phases we are alarmingly weak and what is worse quite smug about correcting the deficiencies.

At this point Professor Grundstein entered the discussion by putting forth his view on the apparent lack of unanimity which exists in our foreign policy. This was of great interest to all present. First of all Professor Grundstein began by stating the positive points of our foreign policy by bringing forth points upon which all agree. These points are (1) that the supremacy of the U. S. in the Western Hemisphere is accepted and (2) all agree that there should be a balance of power in Europe. Now, with the basic agreements to build on Professor Grundstein went forth to explain what foreign policy or policies we are now operating upon and why it is that we cannot, at present at least, agree on the correct course. It would seem at present we, the United States, are trying to operate on four separate foreign policies. Again the point was made before the discussion of the policies was begun that these policies are assumed as a basis for success the all out mobilization of the country.

Policy No. 1, International Cooperation World Government in the form of the United Nations. Policy No. 2, Three Power World Balance: (a) Russia; (b) United States; (c) Western Europe, including Great Britain. The two great fallacies in this policy are that it leaves out Germany which will over a period of years, if left to its own resources, recover sufficiently to threaten this balance. As a result Germany would have to be restrained in many ways. The second fallacy is that it leaves out Asia which is now very definitely the trouble spot of the world.

Policy No. 3, Two World System: (a) Russia; (b) United States. It is readily seen that this is a treacherously dangerous policy since it would leave both sides in tenuousness for a great number of years and then most likely end in a violent war. This policy would necessitate getting and keeping Germany and Japan in our following. In addition at present we are vying for the favor of India which is highly reluctant to join the U. S. in her policies against Russia and through her own admission would rather accept political infiltration than war.

Policy No. 4, Armed Isolation (ex-President Hoover is the chief proponent of this policy). This policy would necessitate a great stockpiling of Atomic bombs and an overwhelming superiority in air power. In addition it would require a large land army in our bases overseas and at home. This policy of course assumes the complete abandonment of Asia.

The great lack of unanimity in our present foreign policy can be attributed to the fact that the United States is now attempting or following a part of all four foreign policies. Our policy in Asia is weak and still very fundamental simply because it did not take into its scope two very important happenings which upset the balance of power which existed within Asia. First, it failed to take into comprehension the rumblings in China which have now resulted in a bloodless revolution from within to relegate Chiang Kai Shek to the back ground as a leader (never to again regain his position according to authorities). In addition it failed to take into consideration the new role which India might play in Asia because of the tremendous migration into the country which is now in process. India also as a new country is making experiments in government and does not wish to have its strength drained off by outside commitments.

The meeting now became all encompassing in that more members of the audience participated. The discussion shifted in the emphasis several times but finally became intensified on the problem of the American "attitude" in foreign policy (rather than its material fulfillment). Here was one of the most important points made in the entire meeting. The point was made that Americans are making a tragic mistake in believing that dollars alone will "sell" them and their way of living to the rest of the world and actually make others believe that they have humanitarian principles. Madam Panit, delegate to the United Nations from India, had stated recently in a television interview that she had been in this country long enough to learn to understand and believe in America but she said, "You do not realize that your approach is strictly from the standpoint of dollars and you know that frightens outsiders who do not understand what you are trying to do.

At present we have only the Voice of America to explain our feelings to the rest of the world. We should go further by informing and training people and having them mingle with us and attempt to teach us Communist doctrine.

The meeting at this point was forced to adjourn simply because no more time could be allotted and not because enthusiasm or participation was lacking for that was extremely lively at all times.

The meeting and ensuing discussion was most interesting and worthwhile since it dealt with problems which are sorely in need of discussion and understanding by Americans at a time when we are threatened with a Third World War.

FOOT HEALTH

By Dr. Benjamin Kauth, Director, American Foot Care Institute, Cold Weather Precautions

Statistics show that our feet are the worst sufferers from the assorted ailments and discomforts that are associated with winter. With the coldest months of winter still ahead, it is wise to take the proper precautions now in order to greet Spring on sound and healthy feet.

The key to foot health, oddly enough, is the same in winter as in summer: Give your feet proper ventilation, plenty of room to breathe and keep them free from excessive perspiration. It is important to remove rubbers and overshoes indoors and to wear leather-soled shoes which allow your feet to "breathe."

Many persons make the mistake of wrapping their feet in heavy stockings, tight, closed shoes and rubber or canvas overshoes and figure that they are well protected. Actually, the opposite may be true. If, in protecting your feet from snow and slush, you also seal off all air, you are heading for trouble.

The experience of our troops in Korea has emphasized this fact. Frontline reports from war correspondents recently told of the many cases of severe frostbite and other crippling ailments resulting from the use by the troops of a cold-weather combat boot with rubber or composition sole. Perspiration, retained on the bottom of the foot by the impermeable sole, froze in the frigid temperatures of the Korean battlefield and caused thousands of casualties.

Chilblains, a condition resulting from exposure to cold, frequently occurs in winter. The symptoms are sometimes confused with other local irritations such as blisters, frostbite and athlete's foot. It is advisable, therefore, to consult your family physician or podiatrist if the irritation or inflammation persists.

A few simple rules that will help you avoid trouble this winter are: Keep your feet warm and dry; wear shoes with sturdy leather soles; remove rubbers and overshoes when you go indoors or are in a warm bus, automobile or train for any length of time; and give your feet plenty of exercise, such as toe wiggling, to maintain proper circulation.

This Week in WASHINGTON

By George Meader, Representative, Second Michigan Congressional District.

Washington, D. C., January 24, 1951—One of the most significant events in the House of Representatives the past week was the adoption of the bill to authorize the construction and conversion of naval vessels estimated to cost two billion dollars. This bill was approved by the House by a vote of 365 to 0. It was the second measure on which I participated in a roll call vote.

There are two features about the adoption of this bill and the accompanying discussion on the floor of the House which I think will be of interest to those of you who would like to get a little more detailed and accurate picture of the manner in which the House of Representatives goes about its work of passing on national policies.

The first is that the bill authorizes the construction of a new aircraft carrier of approximately 60,000 tons. This proposal was endorsed unanimously by the Army, Navy and Air Forces, the Defense Department, the Joint Chiefs of Staff and the President.

The second feature is that the bill shows a costly mistake in details of the specifications and capabilities of this carrier were not disclosed to the House for security reasons. It seems quite evident, however, that the new carrier will be substantially the same as the 65,000 ton carrier U. S. S. United States, authorized in 1943 by the 80th Congress, but cancelled by the then Secretary of Defense Louis Johnson on April 23, 1949.

You will recall the controversy at that time which resulted in the resignation of Secretary of the Navy Sullivan on April 26, 1949. Secretary Sullivan charged that Secretary Johnson directed him to cancel the construction contract for the U. S. S. United States arbitrarily and without consultation or adequate inquiry as to the desirability of such action.

Now that a substitute carrier has been approved by the House, the decision by Secretary Johnson would seem to have been recognized by the administration as a serious mistake.

The cancellation settlement with the contractor cost the government $2,718,672. Estimates by some members of the House Armed Services Committee, however, are that the taxpayers actually lost nearly $20,000,000 in material and labor. Furthermore, the U. S. S. United States was expected to have cost $189,000,000, while the new carrier is not expected to cost $235,000,000, an increase of $45,000,000 for what is thought to be substantially the same ship.

This increase is assigned to inflation during the interval. Perhaps more serious than the financial loss is the fact that the new carrier is not expected to be completed before three and one half years. It is claimed the country has lost from one to two and one half years of use of this carrier by cancellation of the earlier contract.

The second interesting feature of the House action on this new Naval bill was the revelation that the Congress had authorized, without knowing it was doing so, the giving away to other countries of ships in the active United States Navy, and is now faced with replacing those ships.

This was revealed by Chairman Vinson of the House Armed Services Committee, who declared, on the House floor that two cruisers each had been given to Argentina, Brazil and Chile.

"None of us knew" And, in making his announcement, Mr. Vinson told the House: "None of us knew what we were doing."

The new Naval bill specifically prohibits the transfer of naval vessels without the consent of Congress.

It was a shock to me to learn that the Congress could adopt legislation of such grave consequence as the giving away of Navy ships in these critical times, and not know what it was doing.

It is apparent, however, that so tremendous is the volume of problems before the Congress that it must rely heavily upon committees to provide accurate, dependable information and recommendations. No single Congressman could possibly satisfy all of his own obligations as to the facts of all matters he must pass on.

This instance of failure to prepare properly an important piece of legislation, emphatically demonstrates that if Congress is to do its job well its committees must be adequately staffed to obtain and consider all of the facts.
