Joan Guenther and George Blacklock were elected king and queen of the student body at the Valentine party at the high school sponsored by the Glee Club and the F. F. A.

Supt. V. W. Downing will arrive this Thursday from Atlantic City where he is attending the American Association of school administrators and school boards meetings with 65 other superintendents from Southeastern Michigan. He went by plane.

Manchester Jurors drawn for March jury from a panel of 51 from Washtenaw county include Edwin English, Roy Lowery and Elmer Paul.

Many from here are at the sheep shearing school at Lansing this week and we'll have more details next week.

Mrs. Albert Haller, Marian Schwab and Mrs. Lepshis and daughter Frances write that they are enjoying their vacation in Florida. They left a week ago Sunday for the South.

Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Lannon have returned home after 15 days in the south during which time they attended the Mardi Gras at New Orleans and got a real glimpse of how the southerners welcome snow. Seems that Mississippi was experiencing the coldest weather they had had since 1886. Other points of interest were at Galveston, Houston, San Antonio, Texas.

Representatives of the Continental Baking Company awarded Mrs. Russell Smith prizes for a Grand Slam entry on the Irene Beasley radio show. The one hundred dollar bond and other gifts were brought to her on St. Valentine's Day.

The last home game of the basketball season will be held here Friday evening when Manchester will play Brighton. The girls team will play Dexter there in the afternoon.

President of the village, L. V. Kirk asks every one here to avail themselves of the opportunity of taking the T. R. test when the unit is in town. The test is from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m. on the afternoon of the high school. There is no charge and will take 15 minutes of your time.

Junior Class at Brighton committee asks that every one remember the date of the St. Patrick's Day dance, Friday, March 18.

Our apology to the Legion committee for neglecting to announce the village tournament here. But there is still time to enter according to chairman George Merriman. Contestant not already entered are asked to contact Mr. Merriman, Toss Knorrp or Frank Reck for details. All we know is that all contestants are asked to bring cards and cribbage board. So if you haven't entered go to the Legion hall Thursday evening.

The basketball tournament will begin Wednesday, February 28 at Michigan Center when Manchester will play Grass Lake at 7:15. On Thursday, March 1 Brooklyn will play Cement City and then on Friday the winners of the two games which were played Wednesday and Thursday will play at Michigan Center again. Lets hope one of the teams in Fridays game will be Manchester Dutcher men. The regionals will be held March 7 through 10.

There will be a Farm Auction at the Claude Gage farm Saturday, March 3, starting at 1 p. m.

Higgins Farm Market is sold. The Market, located just west of town, was sold Tuesday to the owners of the Clinton Country Market, Charles Carlton, Sr., Charles Carlton, Jr. and Joseph Busch.

It was over forty-one years ago that F. H. Higgins and G. H. Weinlander bought the Gilbert Farm just west of town. The first year Mr. Higgins recalls that they planted about seventy acres of the farm to apple trees. The same year they built their barn directly across the road from the cemetery. The same barn that today is the Higgins Farm Market.

For many years Messrs. Higgins and Weinlander worked their orchard and the some odd twenty-five acres of muckland raising celery, onions, cabbage and carrots and many other items.

It was eighteen years ago that they put up two bushels of apples on nail kegs in front of the barn which started the retail selling of fruit and vegetables. The seasonal vegetable and fruit roadside market was a thriving business. Because of ill health Mr. Weinlander was forced to end the partnership which had lasted some thirty-eight years.

Norman and Howard Higgins, sons of Frank Higgins, purchased the Weinlander interest in January 1, 1946, and the business was known as F. H. Higgins and Sons. The barn was remodeled and completed early in 1947 and the new Higgins Farm Market was opened four years ago. The store was complete in every detail—from the frozen food department—right through to a complete line of meats. In July 1948 the store was again remodeled which doubled the available floor space.

Along the last of January of this year F. H. Higgins and Sons announced the sale of their 120-acre farm including the 70-acre apple orchard to Mr. and Mrs. Francis Cargo of Jackson. They plan to build a home here this summer.

Many from here know the new owners of the market which we understand will be known as the Manchester Country Market. The new owners will continue to operate their Clinton Country Market.

As to the future the Higgins families have no immediate plans. Frank Higgins has seen many changes in the farm since he first became an owner. From the building of the barn, the conversion to a store and the second remodeling when a full basement was put under the new addition.

The new owners will close the market Saturday night at 10 p. m. and expect to make some alterations before opening again, which will be very soon. Mr. Carlton, Sr. has been in the meat business for some time, having been a whole butcher and retailer in Detroit for over thirty years before opening the Clinton Market.

Two Manchester Men Elected To Important Positions

Allen Faulhaber of Manchester has been elected to serve on the board of directors of the Michigan Cooperative Wool Marketing Association for a three year period. He has been named to the post from District 1 which includes Washtenaw, Lenawee, Jackson, Monroe and Hillsdale counties from the southeastern section of the state. The object of the association is to handle and pool wool, which is sold for the farmer to the mill manufacturers.

Walter Schaible has recently been elected for a two year term to the board of directors of the Michigan Retail Clothiers Association.

On Monday evening Rev. and Mrs. Alvin Braze were in Tecumseh for the meeting of the Wit and Wisdom Club at which they were co-hosts with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Brannigan.

Mobile X-Ray Unit Will Come Here March 5

Anyone desiring a miniature chest X-ray may secure one when the X-ray unit of the Michigan Department of Health visits the Manchester Public school on the afternoon of March 5 to X-ray junior and senior students.

Each person receiving such an X-ray should report to the school on the afternoon scheduled. He or she will fill out two cards. One is a self-addressed post card which will be returned to the person, if the chest is negative, within four or five weeks. The other card contains information regarding family physician, age, sex, race, place of employment, and other data required to properly interpret the X-ray film. Both cards are provided by the Michigan Department of Health. Secretarial help in completing the cards will be provided at the school at the time the X-ray is taken.

Family physician and County Health Department will be notified in cases where lung disease or chest disease is suspected. Notification will then be relayed by the County Health Department to the person, who will receive further instructions.

The services of the mobile X-ray unit are tax supported. No charge is made for the miniature film. The expenses of any further check-up required will have to be borne by the individual patient, unless other arrangements are made.

Legion Supports Efforts In Behalf Of Blood Bank

Emil Jacob Post of the American Legion lends its support to the American Red Cross, Ann Arbor office, in an effort to bring the Mobile Blood Bank from Detroit to Manchester in the very near future. Stanton Roesch, local attorney, has been named Manchester chairman of this project.

Before a definite date can be set for the mobile unit to arrive here, the Red Cross must have the assurance that at least 300 people have volunteered to donate blood. Mr. Roesch says that his office is open every day except Sundays from one to five and donors are asked to call his office, phone 5781, just as soon as possible, giving their name, address and telephone number.

Having served in the last war Mr. Roesch has first hand information concerning the urgency of the request for blood. All types of blood are needed, but A, B and O are the most in demand. However, there are some requirements which must be conformed with. In an effort to save everyone time and explanations he has listed these qualifications:

1. Age limit 18 to 60 years (18 to 21 year olds must have parents' consent).

2. No meninges ory or child under 17 years of age.

3. No acute symptoms of alcoholism.

4. No venereal disease of any type.

5. No one can donate who has already donated within two months of this time.

Blood is needed and needed urgently, according to Mr. Roesch. All types are needed and he particularly stressed the "O" type from the universal donor, which he explained is flown directly to Korea within 72 hours from the air force base at Fairfield-Suisan, California. In summing up the effort on the part of the Legion to bring the unit to Manchester, Mr. Roesch says that "I cannot stress strongly enough the importance of this work, or how necessary it is that we have our quota of blood donors—in order to help the boys in service."

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Blood entertained at a farewell party Friday evening in honor of Mr. and Mrs. William Zimmerman, who expect to move to Brooklyne. The Zimmermans have sold their farm on Worthing Road to Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Lamb of Clinton. The couple was presented with an electric clock by the friends and neighbors at the party.

Congressman Reports To The People

By George Meader, Rep. Second District of Michigan Washington, D. C., February 14—Last week, the House of Representatives adopted a bill to extend the authority of the President to enter into trade agreements for three more years after next June. The bill was adopted on a voice vote.

The Trade Agreements Bill was the second controversial measure which has been presented to the House for a vote, and, in its passage, the Administration suffered another defeat. The first defeat for the Administration was on the elimination of the 21-day rule, which restored to the House Committee its traditional authority to supervise and control, to a degree, the subject matter of legislation to come before the House. The elimination of this 21-day rule was adopted by a vote of 244 to 179.

The contest on the Trade Agreements Bill was not upon the extension of the authority itself, but upon two amendments: one known as the Peril Point Amendment, and the other the Escape Clause. The Administration sought to prevent the inclusion of these provisions which tend to restrict and limit the authority of the President and the State Department over the reduction of duties on imports.

The roll call in the House on the Peril Point Amendment was the real test of the Administration's strength in the House. The vote was 225 to 162.

Accordingly, the record of the House of Representatives for the first weeks of the 82nd session is as follows: Many non-controversial bills and resolutions have been passed. There have been five roll calls. Three were unanimous. There were two roll calls on controversial measures. The Administration was defeated on both of these.

Briefly stated the Peril Point Amendment requires the Tariff Commission to make a study of American industries and the point in duties on the products of such industries below which, in the opinion of the Tariff Commission, a reduction would seriously affect that industry in the United States and promptly to recommend the reduction of such duties. The importation of competitive goods produced at substantially lower labor costs in foreign lands, might drive the American producer of these products into bankruptcy.

The Peril Point Amendment does not prohibit the President from following duties on imports below the point set by the Tariff Commission on the basis of its fact-finding and expert opinion. It only requires that the President, in any instance in which he discards the Peril Point, must state in writing to the Congress his reason for making reductions below the Peril Point.

The Administration's supporters argued strenuously that the Peril Point Provision would impede the Trade Agreements program. However, it was not at all convinced that merely giving publicity to import duty rates, regarded by the Tariff Commission as injurious to American industry, would be harmful to the Trade Agreements Act.

From the debate on the floor of the House, I believe the Representatives who voted against the Administration's program were influenced generally by three considerations.

First, there was a feeling that Congress already had gone too far in turning over its import-tariff authority, first, to the Tariff Commission (which was created in 1916); and second, to the executive branch of the Government (primarily, the State Department), when the trade agreements authority was created in (Turn to page 2)

Mr. and Mrs. Erwin Haeussler and daughter, Wanda, Ray Tirk and Mr. and Mrs. Everett Stockwell went to Detroit to see the Sonja Henis Ice Revue at the Olympia.

Results of the village caucus held Monday evening are as follows:

Large Number Hear Judge Payne on "Founder's Day"

About 150 were present at the FTA Founders' Day potluck dinner held Monday evening at the school at which time Judge Jay H. Payne was the guest speaker. He told of the work of the juvenile court and how a trained social service worker has been added to the staff to handle juvenile cases in the court department this coming spring and in this way will prevent minor cases from coming to the juvenile court. Judge Payne said that a survey of cases in Ann Arbor showed that most cases in that court come from the better section of the town which is contrary to public opinion. He says that parents are many times too involved in their own problems to pay attention to the children. According to Mr. Payne the children also lack religious training. These were some of the highlights of the speech which proved very interesting to those assembled.

Mrs. Birdella Flood had charge of group singing and Kenneth Kopper played a clarinet solo, accompanied by Mrs. Paul Kappeler. Mrs. Robert Hamilton presented her cub scout den who put on a puppet show to a very appreciative audience. The children had previously made the puppets, the stage and wrote their own script. Most of the group were about five years of age. Daniel Nichols took charge of the will tots during the program. Mrs. William Mann and committee was in charge of the program and Mrs. Everett Green and a committee had charge of the kitchen.

Report from Congress

1934.

Second, there was indication of a general lack of confidence in the State Department and a doubt that Secretary Acheson and his subordinates are aggressively, intelligently and effectively advancing the interest of the United States with respect to other countries. This uncertainty seemed to have been fortified, in many specific instances, by complaints that the State Department has been arbitrary in lowering import duties and in denying to the industries adversely affected adequate public hearings on the consequences to them of these reductions.

Third, there were vehement protests from industries located in the districts of various Congressmen. These charged that foreign importations either had caused the American concerns to go out of business, or had drastically curtailed the volume of their operations, causing reduced employment of American labor and impairment of the investment of American citizens.

One other amendment to the bill was accepted by the members of the Ways and Means Committee, who were handling the debate. This was a prohibition against extending the "most-favored nation" provisions of future trade agreements to the countries in the Russian-Communist orbit.

Another amendment, adopted by voice vote, prohibited the fixing of duties at a level which would permit special agricultural products to be imported and sold at prices lower than those for domestic agricultural products maintained by the domestic agriculture price-support plan.

The episode, so widely publicized several months ago, when our Government was destroying potatoes while huge quantities of potatoes were being imported from Canada, was the type of irrational and costly mismanagement which this amendment is designed to prevent.

Essentially, the Trade Agreements program, as contemplated in the bill adopted by the House, is similar to that passed by the Republican-controlled 80th Congress, which was reframed by the Democratic-controlled 81st Congress.

Mrs. Kenneth Hyne of Brighton came Saturday to see her father Ora Logan and stayed until Sunday, when she took him with her to spend a few days at her home in Brighton.

Every soldier knows the sign that points to home abroad

Home is farther away than miles can measure . . . when you're defending it on the other side of the world

Where, then, can you turn for urgent personal news of home—no matter where you are? Where can you find help with problems big and small . . . encouragement . . . friendly advice? And where's the only place to look for those big little comforts of home—a toothbrush, a razor, a pack of cigarettes—when yours have been scattered in combat?

Every soldier knows, even without a signpost. All these warm little touches of home are as near as the nearest Red Cross Field Director—and that means wherever soldiers are.

So give now. Give generously to your Red Cross. As we mobilize for defense we must mobilize for mercy . . . so that some of the "home" we are fighting for is right there with the Armed Forces—where it is needed!

Early Break-Up Of Roads Brings Restrictions.

More than 1,400 miles of Washenaw County roads went under weight restrictions Tuesday noon simultaneously with state-imposed restrictions on Southern Michigan trunklines.

County highway officials' announcement followed a Lansing statement by State Highway Commissioner Charles M. Ziegler, who said truck loadings would be reduced, beginning Tuesday noon, on all Southern Michigan state routes north to the Muskegon-Bay City line.

Although weights curbs are usually imposed on the first of March, this year's early crack-down sets no record. Last spring's exceptionally early break-up brought on similar restrictions on Feb. 10, a record in the county.

Follow State Lead

County officials said it was customary locally to follow the lead of the State Highway Department in cutting down legal loads with the coming of thawing weather.

Ziegler said the restrictions are necessary at this time to protect pavements from excessive breaking while the underlying soil is soft from the early thaw and rains. He explained they would be removed if the ground freezes again.

County engineers said that the normal load of 18,000 pounds per axle would be cut to 13,000 pounds per axle for concrete base roads and 11,700 pounds per axle for all other roads.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

Sometimes Good Intentions Aren't Enough

That life at the Griffin place didn't do much damage last week, but Volunteer-Chief Murphy was pretty angry about it. Spoke to some of us over dinner and a bottle of beer.

"Griffin's farm is a good mile from town," he said. "And by the time we'd dogged all the people on the highway who were going to watch, we hadn't a minute to waste.

"Then blamed if those sight-seers hadn't parked cars right in Griffin's driveway and there was a mob of people milling around the house just gawking. Joe, tell folks a fire's no sideshow. Ask 'em to think of the other fellow!"

From where I sit, some of us need to be reminded occasionally that even though our intentions are good we may be unfairly interfering. Whether it's blocking the right-of-way of fire equipment or criticizing a person's right to enjoy a temperate glass of beer now and then—the American Way is to give way, and give the other fellow his fair "share of the road!"

Out-County Cribbage Finals On March 22

The Out-County Annual Cribbage Tournament will be held this year under the sponsorship of Dexter American Legion Post No. 557. The semi-finals of this year's tournament will be held on Thursday, March 15, and the finals on Thursday March 22. Both night's play will start at 8:00 p.m.

The following prizes will be awarded: first prize, a wrist watch with the winner's name inscribed; second prize, a portable radio; third and fourth prizes will be pen and pencil sets and the next two prizes will consist of cribbage boards and decks of cards.

Each town is to decide its own champion by any means of elimination it cares to use. The names of all entrants in the local tournament and the champion and two runners-up must be sent to the Cribbage Committee, Dexter American Legion Post 557, Dexter, Michigan on or before March 12 so that invitations to the March 15th semifinals may be sent out.

Thirty-two players will start in the semi-finals and the number to be invited from each area will be determined by the number of entrants in the local tournaments. George Merriman is in charge of the local tournament and he says there is still time to enter.

Outlying Areas Important To Civil Defense

For potential target areas, like Detroit and other industrial centers, it is more important to have an efficient civilian defense organization outside than for the city itself to be organized.

This is the opinion of State
Police Commissioner Donald S.
Leonard who addressed the final meeting of the annual city management clinic at the University of Michigan.

"More than 67 per cent of the state's population lives in critical target areas," he said. "It is essential that the remaining 33 per cent be organized for emergency action in caring for refugees from bombed out areas in the event of an atomic attack."

"The terrific effect of the atom bomb demands that every city, hamlet and rural area be orgnized for civil defense."

As another defense development, it was announced that nurses from Southern Michigan communities will take a special course in care of atomic bombing victims at the university March training program in her home 28 to 31. Each will then set up a community.

The pupils at the McMahon school entertained their mothers at a party in their honor. The mothers arrived in time to hear a special program over station WUOM on the new school radio. A program was planned by the pupils after which Valentines were exchanged and games were played.

Carel Angelo of Detroit and Berle Sasser of Dearborn have enrolled as pupils at the McMahon school. Gary Smith has been busy using the new jig saw which the school has purchased. Among the things he made was a feeding station for the birds, farm animals and a wagon for the younger children. All the children at the school are busy practicing with the new baton and are busy practicing for the play which they will present on Monday, March 5 at 10:45 over the radio station WPAG on the school room of the air. The teacher at the school is Mrs. Ray Trolz.

At one o'clock we visited the Observatory, here our guide told us about the telescopes.

Carole Steinaway brought a screech owl to school. He was very interesting to study about. We wrote some good poems about him before he had to be taken back to the barn.

The seventh grade is studying Conservation. We plan to take some field trips when the weather is warmer.

Our school is going to the play at the Matteson school as soon as the weather is suitable.

We are also getting ready for the grade champion spelling contest, which will be Feb. 23.

Our school sang over W. P. A. G. from Ann Arbor on the fifth of February. When we were through singing we visited the MacDonald Ice Cream plant. They showed us how ice cream was made. They treated each one of us to a Dixie cup.

Robot Stops Cars in Test

Improvement in Chevrolet brakes is illustrated by this picture showing the difference in stopping distances between a 1950 and a 1951 car using exactly the same brake pressure. To eliminate the human element, engineers used a mechanical pedal pressure applicator (inset) on both cars. When the foot lever (1) is tripped the piston exerts a constant pressure on the brake (2).

Flash pasteurization spurs Michigan apple juice industry

In 1950, half a million bushels of Michigan apples, which otherwise would have been a loss to their owners, were converted to top-quality apple juice, thanks to efforts of the Michigan State College Agricultural Experiment Station. Flash pasteurization at packing time was found to preserve both color and flavor of the juice, making it available for year-round use. The research workers have also found a way to fortify apple juice with Vitamin C. Improvements in packing have helped reduce costs and speed up operations. As a result, a million bushels of Michigan apples should be profitably converted into juice in 1951. For further information about these new developments, call, write or visit your County Agricultural Agent.

Michigan Bell is now testing specially treated telephone poles that are expected to last longer... cut replacement costs. Poles are treated their full length with green-colored chemical salts that make them more weatherproof... prolong their lives. Efficiencies like this in every department of the telephone business help Michigan Bell to keep up the quality of its rural telephone service and keep the price charged for that service as low as possible.

Along The Main Drag

George Stark in his "Town Talk" in The Detroit News, writes a column on Railroad Jack, a fabulous hobo character of whom the present generation is probably ignorant, but a strange fellow with whom the school kids of an earlier day were quite familiar. In his column Stark quotes the following in the handwriting of Railroad Jack himself. It's the prized possession of Mrs. Charles H. Mooney, 2900 Philadelphia Ave., Detroit, who used to be Miss Nellie Turner. "Yes, I remember Railroad Jack," she says, "and here is my proof. As a result of the varied experiences through which I passed during my life on the road, I have come to believe that, when rightly considered, the possession of a cultivated mind alone is able to furnish the individual happiness of a high and lasting nature. This being my belief,

I shall ever strive to awaken in the minds of the young a realization of the necessity of attending school while the grand opportunities of so-doing are given, that on arrival at maturity they find themselves prepared to intelligently interpret the lessons of life as time rolls on. RAILROAD JACK, Saline, Mich., April 27, 1899. I have written this sentiment to commemorate my pleasant visit to the room of Miss Nellie M. Turner of the Saline Public School." At the turn of the century there were very few Michigan towns that had not been visited by Railroad Jack, except those which were off the railroads. He made it a point to visit the schools and answer questions and lecture a little. He had a remarkable memory, was an odd genius, but was rarely stumped to answer any question put to him. He carried a canvas and rope hammock with hooks at the four corners which he attached to the truss rods underneath freight trains which he rode about the country. Yes, boys and girls, ask your dad; the most of them met Railroad Jack at least once during their school days. Hoboes, like Railroad Jack, have about passed from the American scene. Like the straw peddlers who used to drive their wagon loads of straw through town and village, crying, "Oat straw! Wheat straw! Bright, clean straw which the housewives used to fill their bed ticks. Gone, too, is the scissors grinder with his grindstone strapped to his back. You would hear him coming down the street long before you saw him by the tinkling of the bell which swung from his hand. It was all one with the days of the medicine shows that pitched their tents at the edge of town for a week's stay, sold soap or Sioux Indian Tawana, and gave a hundred votes with each dollar purchase for the most popular girl in town. And did they sell soap and Indian dope! It paralleled the day of the wandering bands of Gypsies, their scraggly horses and mangy dogs. They stole brazenly and with clever hands as they crowded into country stores, and were driven out with much difficulty, insisting on telling fortunes. Those were the days of Tom Sawyer and Huckleberry Finn, of hitching posts and migs, knuckle down tight and no squabbling. The days of the Ole Opry House, Ten Nights in a Barroom and farm house dances. They were the days of the Gay Nineties and bicycles and bloomers. They were the days of a more peaceful, homier living; an era ground under the wheels of the horseless carriage and left far behind in the mad onward rush of a civilization that has no destination, only a nervous, intense determination to get some place, and get there quickly.

Mozart Manuscript at Edison Museum

Mr. H. S. Ablewhite, Edison Institute Director of Interpretation, and W. H. Distin, Curator of Documents, are shown studying an original Mozart manuscript which is to be displayed at The Edison Museum (Greenfield Village) for a two-month period beginning on February 25th. Also included in this special musical exhibit will be an original Beethoven manuscript, two Stradivari violins, dated 1703 and 1709, a 1647 Amati, and a violin made by Joseph Guarnerius del Gesu in 1741. Other rare instruments to be displayed will be a virginal, spinet, harp, harpsichord, and the first Chickering square piano constructed in 1823.

showing by the widely-known authority on social hygiene, Alexander Leeds. Mr. Leeds majored in psychology and has devoted his career to work on sex education. His excellent speaking voice brought him the offer of a post as a radio announcer when, undecided whether to become a teacher or a minister, Mr. Leeds re-by-passed both careers. Tiring of radio, he seized an opportunity to conduct a survey of urban living conditions for a celebrated foundation.

Mr. Leeds' investigation took him into the darkest corners of life on New York's notorious lower East Side. The depression had reached its height. The wretchedness of the unemployed, "on relief," scarcely keeping body and soul together, left a profound impression on his mind. During this period Mr. Leeds spent his evenings studying sociology and public health, the sciences which have been his ruling passions ever since. He estimates that during the past year he has addressed more than 300 civic and church club groups. Outspoken in his admiration for the Women's Research Guild, Alexander Leeds declares that the officers of the Guild took a courageous step in voting to sponsor "Because of Eve" nationally. "Because of Eve" will be shown to women and girls only at 2 and 7 p.m., while special showings for men and boys will be given at 9 Thursday, March 1st.

A Tribute to the Alfred Brauns

The following message from the Manchester community is being displayed in the window of the Manchester Village Hall:

"It is with a heavy heart that we bid adieu to a man whose life was a shining example to all of us. His death is a great loss to our community. We wish our gut to you, might be more in proportion to the esteem with which you are held in this community. But we can only add to this humble remembrance, our best wishes to you for God's sustaining grace and help that you may still walk side by side for the rest of the way, hand in hand, moving steadily onward and looking ever upward.
