Congress Is Quoting American Weeklies

Twenty-one weekly newspapers were quoted in the Congressional Record during the month of July. Why does your representative, your congressman, your senator, subscribe to the weekly newspapers in his district? Because it is your voice, you, the grassroots voter. To you he owes his election. Your opinions and sentiments are his directives. Express yourselves through the columns of your local paper and he will know of it.

Governor Williams has reported to the weekly papers to present his problems and actions. It is printed in this paper. Do you read it? Senator Moody, and Congressman Meader both take your local paper and the congressman writes a weekly account of his work in the nation's capitol? Do you read it? We are glad to print a letter this week that has been sent to Senator Moody. What do you think of it?

Senator John W. Bricker, of Ohio, says, "The maintenance of a free press demands constant effort and everlasting determination. Today, the American Press is the best and freest in the entire world, and it has become so by virtue of the fact that our Constitution prohibits government control of the press. Nowhere is freedom more clearly demonstrated or more ably exercised than in the small independent weekly newspapers of our nation.

"Their freedom from government control, guaranteed by the Constitution, and their freedom from the pressures of great economic organizations insure the maintenance of the same high standards which have characterized their service for so many years. We salute the country weekly newspapers for their outstanding service to the nation, and for their tremendous contribution to the maintenance of one of our greatest assets—the free press."

It is noteworthy that at this time, National Newspaper Week, the freedom of the press in these United States is being threatened. A warning was sounded to editors and publishers in the United States Sunday by the deposed editor of the famed Buenos Aires newspaper La Prensa. Dr. Alberto Gainza Paz addressed a conference of newspapermen in Chicago. He said the fate of La Prensa could befall "newspapers" anywhere unless public interest is aroused.

In his "Editor's Notebook," John S. Knight, editor of the Detroit Free Press, has a long editorial. It affects every American and we are quoting in part:

"The case of Dr. Gainza Paz should bring an increasing awareness of the perils of freedom of expression that exist wherever dictatorships or strongly centralized governments are in power.

"Hitler and Mussolini never underestimated the power of a free press so they silenced the protesting voices that were raised against them.

"Even today, following a world war in which these dictators were overthrown and perished in the rubble which they brought down upon their own heads, there are relatively few countries that make any pretense of permitting the free flow of information as we know it in the United States.

"Political censorship exists nearly everywhere, correspondents have been jailed and newspapers either confiscated or hampered in their operations by punitive government restrictions."

Dr. V. Rowland Wins With Treatise On Thinking Machine

This is the article as it appeared in the Cleveland Plain Dealer (daily newspaper):

A paper on "Cybernetics and Neuropsychiatry" won Dr. Vernon Rowland first prize of $60 in a contest for residents of Crile Veterans Hospital, it was announced by Dr. Leon Ross, chief of professional services and chairman of the resident review board at that hospital.

Cybernetics was explained by Dr. Rowland as a new word coined by Norbert Wiener, professor of mathematics of Massachusetts Institute for an infant science.

Dr. Rowland said cybernetics was defined by Prof. Wiener as the science of communication and control in animals and machines. He said that it was increasingly apparent with the development of calculating machines that many of their complexities corresponded with those in medicine, particularly in neuropsychiatry.

Some of the "calculating machines" develop "nervous breakdowns" and have to be corrected with large electric currents that clear all the circuits, according to Dr. Rowland. He compared this treatment with the electroshock treatment used in neuropsychiatry.

Second prize of $40 was taken by Dr. Richard J. Hiffer, resident in internal medicine for his paper on "Use of Radioactive Iodine in Diffuse Toxic Goiter."

Dr. Rowland married the former Jean Lamming Rogue of Manchester. The couple live at Parma, Ohio, and Dr. Rowland is a resident physician at Crile Veterans Hospital.

MICHIGAN MIRROR

How to keep up with inflation is the perennial headache facing government in Michigan today from the state government itself down to the smallest village.

We have the highest price level in our history. The commerce department at Washington reported a few days ago that Americans had raised their total annual income from $87 billions in 1929 to $239 billions last year, an increase of 175 percent.

President Truman has presented a budget for the fiscal year 1951-1952 asking for over $71 billions in expenditures. The amount as authorized by Congress, spurred by the present emergency, will place a new strain on the nation's economy. Full employment is reported in nearly all Michigan cities. It is estimated that 700,000 workers will be added to the nation's labor force next year.

It is this growing, serious problem of inflation that government officials are wrestling with.

What will continued inflation mean to Michigan?

The state treasurer at Lansing is already incurring deficits under the sales tax diversion amendment which siphons 78 percent of the sales tax revenue back to home governments.

The state civil service commission is reported to be considering new wage increases for state employees, obviously needed by the rising cost of living.

The rise of inflation in our generation may be illustrated by some interesting figures. The Federal Reserve banks held $1,998 million of U. S. Government securities on June 30, 1933. By December 31, 1945 they held $24,262 million. All commercial banks held $10.3 billions of U. S. Government securities in 1934. By 1945 this had soared to $90.6 billions!

The rise of consumer income from $7 to 239 billions in a span of little more than 20 years has been due chiefly to the Washington policy of a managed currency, not redeemable by gold. Our purchasing power has dropped to an all-time record since the Federal Reserve System was established in 1914.

This has affected every family, and particularly those persons who have investments in insurance or government bonds. Every person who bought insurance finds that the purchasing power of his dollar today is about one-half what it was in 1940. The same is true with persons who invested in government bonds as an investment. Those who depend on a fixed pension to enable them to take it easy in their old age are already paying the penalty. Inflation is an invisible tax, taking money out of the pocket of all American taxpayers.

Increased wages become an integral part of the cost of all commodities leading to rise of prices. This in turn leads to increase of taxes, another cost of production which must be passed on to the consumer. It is a vicious cycle.

As of February 6, 1951, the purchasing power of our dollar had depreciated to a low level of 42.3 percent of the average index for wholesale prices for 1939. There are indications that the plague of a depreciating currency may grow worse before Congress and the national administration takes courageous steps to end the spree of inflated dollars we have been enjoying.

These personal observations were prompted in part by an interesting booklet, the "National Economy in Time of Crisis" which came into our hands the other day. The booklet consists of a series of lectures sponsored by the New Jersey Bar Association.

Dr. Walter E. Spahr, chairman of the Department of Economics, New York University, forecasts further depreciation of our dollar unless our Federal Reserve System is protected from control by the President.

Dr. Spahr concluded with the following indictment:

"Our government is doing many things that have characterized the beginning of the end of a strong nation. We seem unable to make ourselves realize this fact. We seem still to believe in the European adage that Providence protects fools, children, and the United States. We are showing ourselves to be a gullible, irresponsible and foolish people. We refuse to look at the basic causes of our present situation and, like the French 160 years ago, we play with symptoms by creating, as did they, Laws of Maximum."

"We are rushing into totalitarianism through all the doors that our government officials have thus far been able to open. And when the President encroached upon the independence of the Federal Reserve System on February 1, there was opened another and very dangerous door which it was widely held would ever dare to push through."

This column of the Michigan Mirror is another reminder that the financial problems of Michigan governments, state as well as local, are largely the indirect result of policies fixed at a national level at Washington itself.

As long as our dollar is continually depreciated in value, one of two things must follow. Our citizens must give up some public services they now enjoy. This means the lowering of our standard of living—something we are all loath to forego.

Or the citizens must be prepared to pay the price of inflation by ever higher taxes in a perpetual cycle until the point of diminishing returns is finally reached.

All of this may serve to publicize the need of reorganization of government itself whereby public services, instead of being ever augmented, may be actually curtailed. Reorganization itself will achieve little economy unless the citizen is willing to forego some of the benefits he now receives. The record of certain pressure groups in getting all they can for themselves at Washington and Lansing does not augur that reorganization can be accomplished readily.

What can you do about it? If you have not written a letter recently to your representative and senator at Washington and Lansing, insisting on REDUCED SPENDING for public services from top to bottom, you have contributed indirectly to the inflation trend.

If you have not voted for candidates whose record is clearly one for fiscal sanity, you have also added to the fuels of more inflation.

The situation, serious as it appears, is not hopeless if enough citizens arouse themselves to do something about it.

Ypsi State Hospital Cow Finishes Test

Battleboro, Vt. With 533 pounds of butterfat and 15725 pounds of milk to her credit, Ypsi, Howell Masterpiece Cood, registered Holstein-Friesian cow owned by Ypsilanti State Hospital, Ypsilanti, Michigan, has completed a 302-day production test in official Herd Improvement Registry.

She was milked 3 times daily and was 4 years 3 months when she began her testing period.

Testing was supervised by Michigan State College, in cooperation with the Holstein-Friesian Association of America.

Ideal Enlistment

Have you ever wondered why the Army found a 3-year enlistment period ideal for its needs instead of, say, a 2-year or a 4-year period? The Army enlistment period has varied through the years, but three years has been found to be an equitable period both for the man enlisting and for the Army. On a three year enlistment, the Army has found that the first year is spent in making the man a soldier, the second year it begins to break even on it's investment in him, and the third year he is pulling his lead as a Regular Army man.

Safe Cities

Forty-five cities of 10,000 population or more completed 1950 without a traffic death, the National Safety Council reports. The largest was Brookline, Mass., with a population of 57,000.

Wayne U. Students Study Many Uses for State's Great Peppermint Crop

The odds that you're riding in a Michigan product when purring along the road in a motor vehicle are obviously pretty high.

But can you tell what Michigan product is very likely to be involved when you are:

- Brushing your teeth?
- Treating a cold?
- Chewing gum?
- Giving Junior a stick of red and white striped candy?

Cooks at Wayne University, in Detroit, know the answer—for they have used the product extensively in their cooking and candy-making this year—It's peppermint.

One of the dishes which they particularly favor is peppermint ice, made by adding a teaspoon of peppermint extract to a cooled syrup, then adding two-thirds of a cup of lemon juice and freezing. (In the advance preparation of the syrup, three cups of water, three-quarters of a cup of corn syrup and one and a quarter cups of sugar are boiled together).

This easily made ice delicacy is served heaped-up in sherbet glasses as an accompaniment to the meat course, or as a dessert topped with chocolate sauce.

The extract, consisting of peppermint oil in alcohol solution, is only one form in which peppermint may be used in the kitchen. Peppermint leaves also go into the making of tasty dishes. They make excellent garnishes for salads, and in crushed form are used to add a minty tang to iced tea, lemonade, and fruit cup.

Chopped fine, they may be mixed with butter to serve over broiled fish or steak, or with mayonnaise to serve on cold meats.

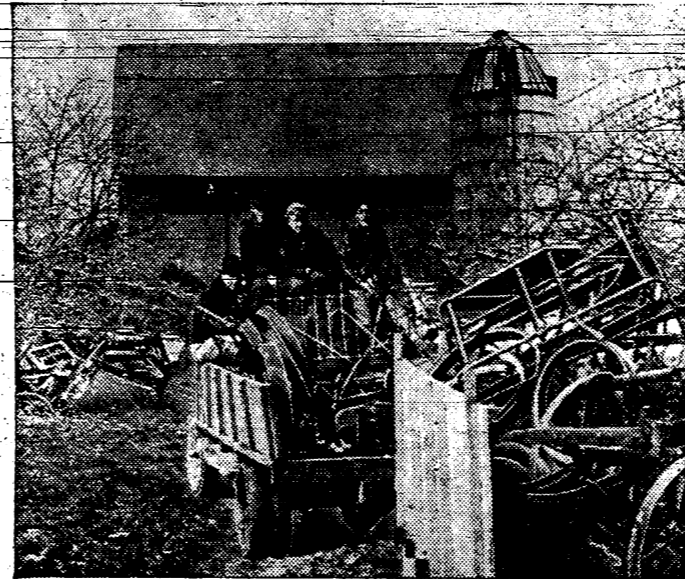

Barbara Crick, of Boyne City, takes time out from cooking efforts in a Wayne home-economics class to test a product of her own skill: peppermint ice.

A third form of peppermint, the undiluted oil, is used in making candy.

So interested have the Wayne students become in Michigan's tasty product that they have also dug up the following facts about peppermint:

1. Michigan was the first state to grow peppermint on a commercial scale, plantings having been made near St. Joseph in 1825.
2. Today the state ranks second only to Indiana in peppermint production.
3. The mint plant thrives in musk-type land, large areas of which are in the vicinity of Niles, Menasha, Kalamazoo, Muskegon, Battle Creek, Lansing, St. Johns and Flint.

Farmers Advised Now Is the Time To Cash In On Your Old Scrap

"Harvest your iron and steel scrap right away. Turn it into cash. It is needed for the making of steel for the defense program."

That's the appeal being made now to farmers by the Committee on Iron and Steel Scrap, American Iron and Steel Institute. Inventories of scrap are critically low at mills and foundries because of their record high production. Bigger stockpiles are needed if steel output is to be maintained and increased.

"How much scrap is there on your farm?" asks the Committee. "Whatever the amount, it is badly needed. And there's money in it for you, if you harvest it now. At the first opportunity, get that scrap together. Take it to town and sell it to your scrap dealer. Or call him to your farm. If that cannot be worked out, ask the local farm agent to help make an arrangement so that the scrap can be moved."

A long step in the goal toward increasing the flow of scrap would be assured if each farmer sold only a few pounds of iron and steel scrap for each acre of farm land he operates. Worn-out parts of tractors, cultivators or other implements and discarded tools are among the items needed.

The total consumption of scrap in the first half of this year was about 20 per cent higher than in the same part of last year. In June 1951, supplies at some steel plants declined to only a few days' reserves.

With winter coming on, when scrap is more difficult to find, and with steel capacity scheduled to be sharply increased, the situation is truly critical, according to the committee. More scrap must be obtained from farms in order to make more steel!

THE WORLD'S MOST WIDELY USED DEVOTIONAL GUIDE

A Changed World Through Changed Men

Thursday, September 27

There were certain Greeks among them that came saying, Sir, we would see Jesus." (John 12:20, 21.)—Read Matthew 5:13-16.

In visiting once in a high school laboratory, I saw a number of tin lamps placed on the desks. All were connected with a common source of power overhead. The teacher explained that sometimes the room was darkened in order to show a film or lantern slides. Then the desk lamps were needed.

As I listened to the explanation, the thought occurred to me that at all times, but especially when the world is darkened by the misery and the horror of war, Christians everywhere make use of the power and light found in the person of Jesus Christ. They live by the light of His truth, the comfort of His love, the power of His presence.

But Christians do not bask selfishly in their faith. They seek to share it with others. They witness to Him. They shine as lights. As in Jesus' day, many people are saying today, "We would see Jesus." They, too, long to share in the life-giving knowledge, love and faith to be found in the risen Christ.

Prayer

Our Father, Thy divine love has called us to a newness of life. Grant that Thy power in us may become a beacon light for the souls of men. Use us in the creation of a changed world through changed men. For Jesus' sake. Amen.

Thought for the Day
Christ call us to bear witness to Him.

Michigan's Governor G. Mennen Williams, today officially proclaimed the week of October 21 through October 27 as CROP week, and Sunday October 21, as CROP Sunday in Michigan. Witnessing the signing in the Governor's office today are Russell M. Hartzler, State CROP Director at the left, and C. V. Ballard, State CROP Chairman and Extension Director of Michigan State College at the right.

CROP Campaign Underway

The announcement of the 1951 campaign of the Christian Rural Overseas Program—CROP—was made today from Lansing, when Governor G. Mennen Williams issued a proclamation designating October 21 as CROP Sunday and the ensuing six days as CROP week in Michigan.

In his proclamation, Governor Williams took note of the fact that since it was established in 1947, CROP, through the combined efforts of its member groups; Catholic Rural Life, Lutheran World Relief and the 29 Protestant denominations which make up Church World Service, has sent abroad well over 5,400 carloads of food.

"These donations," said the Governor, "are more than gifts to people who might otherwise be underfed—they are important contributions to the building of an enduring world-wide peace."

Governor Williams urged all Michigan citizens to contribute during CROP week, both food and funds—"to the end that their less fortunate fellowmen may be sustained and nourished."

The State Executive also proclaimed CROP Sunday as an official day of prayer for the return of prosperity and plenty to the impoverished peoples of the world.

On hand to witness the signing ceremonies at the State Capitol were C. V. Ballard, Michigan CROP Chairman and Director of Extension Services at Michigan State College, East Lansing, and Russell M. Hartzler, State CROP Director.

From Your Congressman

A Weekly Report From Congressman George Meader

Washington, D. C.—Indications that the Michigan Democratic Central Committee is conducting a subtle program of exacting contributions to political campaign funds from postmastership candidates has caused me to call upon the House of Representatives to act promptly to drive politics out of the Post Office Department.

I have asked for an investigation broad enough to include an examination of the injection of politics of a low order in what ought to be an example of how the people, through their government, can render a public service with an efficiency and an economy comparable to the operation of a private enterprise.

This is particularly important at a time when the Congress has been called upon to increase postal rates and the pay of postal employees in a department which has had an operating deficit of more than a half billion dollars in several recent years.

If the government is to engage in business, its operations should be conducted in an efficient and businesslike manner. An investigation should explore all of the basic and fundamental problems which involve an efficient operation, and not the least of these is the extent to which politics controls the operations of the department.

The country was shocked by the disclosures of Post Office job sales in Mississippi by a Democratic committee. The Investigations Committee of the Senate condemned these practices in no uncertain terms.

Now a similar situation, but less obvious, in the State of Michigan is indicated in a letter which I have received, written on the stationery of the Democratic State Central Committee of Michigan and addressed to an applicant for a position as postmaster. Deleting names, dates and places which might serve as a foundation for reprisal, this letter reads:

"Our State Chairman has just recommended your appointment as postmaster of _____, Mich., to Senator Blair Moody. As you know, there are still several steps to be taken before your appointment is finally confirmed, but judging from past experience you can now be reasonably sure of the final appointment.

"In checking our contributor files, I do find your name listed in our Democratic Green Book as a 1951 contributor.

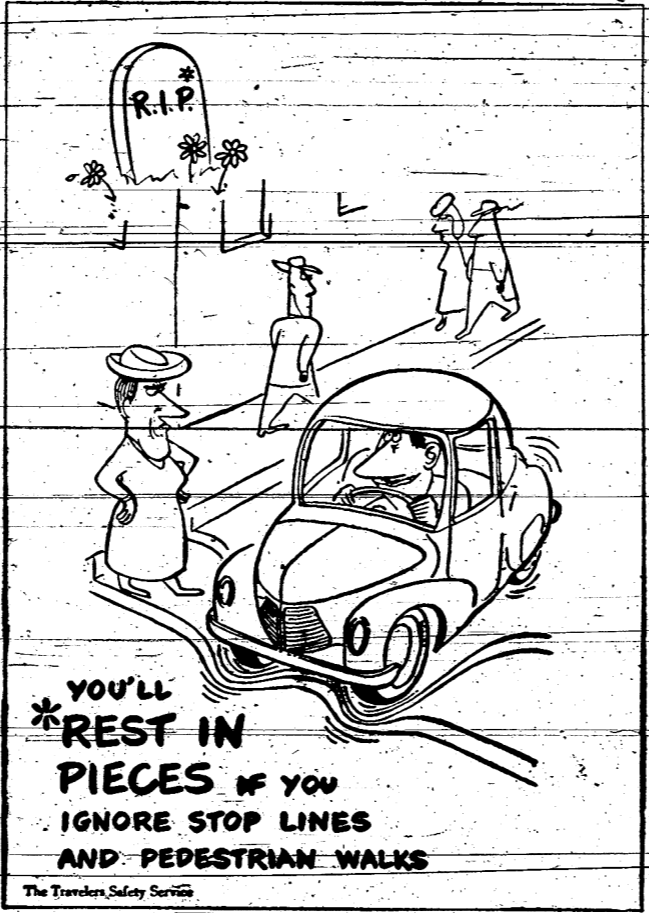

"Contributions to the Democratic Party are strictly voluntary and certainly your appointment is not contingent on a contribution. Yet strong party organization is essential to our American form of democratic government and we can't have such organization without a broad financial support from all members of our party.

"I am sure that no lengthy argument is needed to convince you of the importance of contributing to the party of your choice. For your convenience, I enclose a pledge card and business reply envelope and hope that you will soon join the several thousand other Democrats who now pay their party dues by this method.

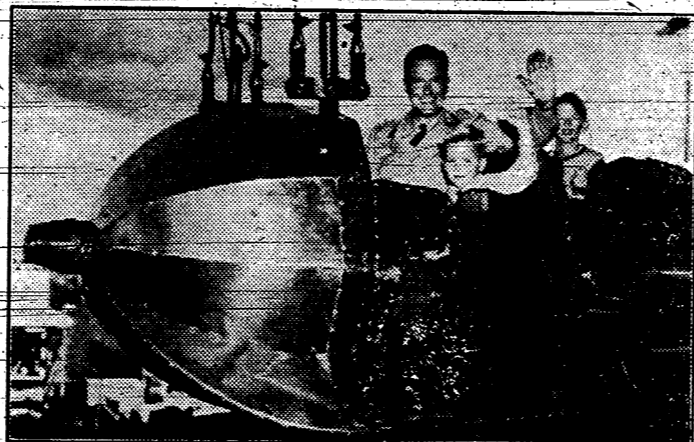

"Receipts for all contributions

And the Pilot Was Capt. Video!

More than 25,000 youngsters came to see Capt. Video the other day when he made a personal appearance at New Jersey's Palisades Amusement Park — and it was a never-to-be-forgotten moment for the two junior Video Rangers above when they got to be the captain's crew, on a journey into space aboard one of the Park's model-size space ships. Al Hodge, star of Dumont's video view of the future, "Captain Video," had as much fun as the kids and promised to make a return visit.

are issued by the National Committee as well as the State Central Committee.

Sincerely, "Howard P. Hunt" "Finance Director"

That this letter is no isolated instance is suggested by another letter which I have received. It reads: "I am writing to ask your as-istance in regards to being appointed postmaster. I received my rate from the Civil Service Commission and was number one on the list for appointment, having a 10-point preference for my service disability. The law states that veteran with a service disability should receive the appointment, unless he has a bad record and not eligible for the appointment for the position, which is not my case.

"I have been informed that the now acting postmaster has contributed about $200 to the Democratic Committee at _____ for his appointment. If this is the way the Civil Service Commission makes its appointments, what is sense of conducting any examinations, or allowing any service-connected veterans' preference? The acting postmaster, I understand, was rated third on the examination.

A further indication of the moral consequences into what ought to be an efficient service is contained in a news story which appeared in the Monroe, Michigan, Evening News last June 25.

That story revealed that an acting postmaster, who was awaiting his appointment had been detected opening mail directed by a Senator to another candidate for the position.

Perhaps one of the worst effects however, is the deterioration of morale throughout the employees in the service. I have received numerous communications from postal employees who are sincere, devoted, hardworking people who love their work and wish to be proud of the institution of which they are a part. I doubt that there has been any time when the morale of the Postal Service has been as low as it is today.

The order of the Postmaster General, curtailing delivery service, directory service, window service, and imposing increasing hardships upon postal employees, issued as everyone knows for the purpose of clubbing Congress into an increased appropriation for the Post Office Department, has had its inevitable reaction on the clerks and mail carriers who actually do the burdensome work.

The answer to this problem is not in political exhortations such as those made in addresses to the National Association of Postmasters by Vice President Barkley and Assistant Postmasters General Joseph Lawler and John Redding. Such remarks merely tend to cast a reflection such as is contained in the Mississippi and Michigan instances over the entire Postal Service.

Next to Mecca's Kaaba and Medina's Mosque, Jerusalem's Dome of the Rock, commonly called the Mosque of Omar and standing on the site of Solomon's Temple, is the edifice most revered by Moslems, says the National Geographic Society.

Urges Strong America

"Security is for the strong"—strong in defense and strong economically is the observation of Congressional Medal of Honor winner Capt. Raymond Harvey of Altadena, Cal., shown above. The Captain knows, from the bitter experience of actual warfare, the necessity for unity in action on all fronts, between the defense forces and those at home. "The boys have been doing their job, and a big one," he declares, "but they need your united support."

"One of the most effective means of proving that support is in heavier purchases of U. S. Defense Bonds. The old War Bond slogan 'are 'til it hurts' still holds good. We know that when Americans are buying Defense Bonds they are really behind us. I urge that every American get behind 'America's Defense Bond Drive.'"

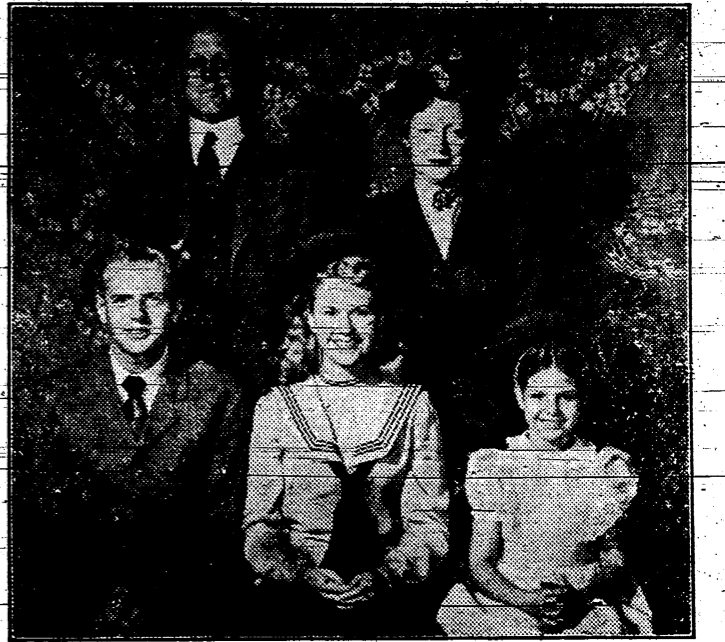

Despite painful wounds, Capt. Harvey singlehandedly knocked out four enemy positions which were pinning down his outfit.

"Mama's" At Home Again

That popular video family, the Norwegian-American Hansens, of San Francisco, are back on the television channels again for their third season of lively comedy-drama. Peggy Wood stars as "Mama."

Skip Makes a Slip

Miss Gilbert, the teacher, was telling me how Skip Lawson almost went to sleep in her physics class. She noticed him nodding and—since they were discussing electricity—said in a loud voice: "Now maybe MR. LAWSON will explain what electricity is." Skip started up, looked around wildly, and blurted out, "Geel! I used to know, but I forgot."

From where I sit, I hope this taught Skip that you're better off if you admit you don't know all answers. Some grownups haven't learned that yet—like the ones who are always telling other people what's best and what's right and what's wrong. I like a temperate glass of beer, myself, but if you prefer bottombunk I won't argue. I've seen too many "know-it-alls" turn out to be wrong!

TAKE STEPS TO BUSINESS SUCCESS

Congress Is Quoting Weekly Newspapers

"A proposed United Nations Convention dealing with freedom of information would, if enacted, place more rigid curbs on foreign correspondents and restrict United States editorial criticism of foreign governments."

"Fortunately, this action has been blocked largely through the efforts of Carroll Binder, one-time foreign editor of the Chicago Daily News and a member of the 15-nation committee named to draft the convention dealing with the free flow of news."

"Foreign Shackles For A Free Press Here in the United States, freedom of speech and freedom of print are precious rights guaranteed by the first amendment to the Constitution."

"Until recently, these freedoms have seldom been in jeopardy. A vigilant press has challenged every attempt to prescribe our limits of expression; the highest court of the land has consistently held that the Constitution means what it says and most legislative attempts to fetter the press have been unsuccessful."

"Nevertheless, the foes of free speech are constantly striving to devise new methods of shackling the press and preventing the truth from being told."

"National, state and local governments bitterly resent a critical and investigative press. Courts of justice are using less restraint in citing editors for contempt."

"The tendency to bottle up news at the source was never better illustrated than in the President's recent censorship order directing governmental departments to classify departmental papers as 'secret and top-secret' whenever the department thinks secrecy is required in the national interest."

"This order gives every bureaucrat at the head of a government executive department the right to say what news shall be printed and what information shall be barred from public view."

"Only last Thursday, Richard F. Cook, chief security officer for the Office of Price Stabilization, instructed 10,000 employees that 'no embarrassing information' be given out concerning that agency."

"This blackout of news was revoked by President Truman when it brought down an avalanche of protests. But the incident revealed the eagerness of bureaucracy to use gag rule in covering up its own mistakes."

"The censorship order is not a temporary or emergency measure. According to Joseph H. Short, the President's press secretary, it is intended to last as long as the world is in an 'unsettled condition'."

"When a reporter asked Short what could be done about classified information which the reporter thought should be available to the public, he was told that he could protest to the head of the department or 'see Short.'"

"No such directive was used during World War II when all newspapers, magazines and radio stations joined in a voluntary code to prevent security leaks. The voluntary method was highly successful."

"Censorship is repugnant on any basis. But when the President of the United States can by executive order, give his bureaucrats the power to decide what news is 'in the national interest' we are moving rapidly in the direction of a Government-regulated press."

"As the Miami Herald says, 'let's keep the Kremlin in Moscow.'"

HINTS FOR HOMEMAKERS

YOU'RE PACKING BOX LUNCHES AGAIN AS YOUNGSTERS RETURN TO SCHOOL

General Electric Consumers Institute

"School days, school days..." They mean different things to different people—but to a homemaker, the September season means back to the business of preparing lunchboxes for the youngsters in the family. And making up lunchbox menus day after day—keeping them nutritionally balanced, tasty and attractive—isn't as easy as it may appear to the uninitiated.

It's all too easy to get into the habit of choosing one of three or four standard sandwich fillings, enclosing it in two pieces of bread, adding an apple and placing the so-called complete lunch into a brown paper bag.

That kind of a lunch will undoubtedly keep your child alive—but probably not happy.

Here are some suggestions from the General Electric Consumers Institute, guaranteed to make lunchboxes interesting and the job of putting them together fun for you.

Bread in Two Colors

Try various kinds of bread. Remember that rye bread and pumpernickel are delicious and that hard rolls will be a welcome change occasionally. And if you go in for triple-decker sandwiches, alternate dark and white slices. Cut sandwiches into sizes that are easy to handle—and surprise the youngsters occasionally with sandwiches cut into special shapes (don't use a cookie cutter).

What Goes Inside?

You'll have more time to think up novel sandwich fillings if you prepare the fillings the night before and place them in the refrigerator until the morning "rush" hour. Be generous with fillings (but not so much so that they ooze out and make eating a messy business), and remember that since the filling is going between two slices of bread, you can afford a little bit more seasoning than usual.

Wrap Greens Separately

Lettuce and other greens—and tomatoes—add zest to a sandwich but lose their crispness if left in a sandwich too long. Keep them in the refrigerator until just before it's time for Junior to leave; then wrap them in wax paper and let him add the "trimmings" to the sandwich at lunchtime.

Containers Come of Age

Although sandwiches are usually the "main course" of a lunchbox meal, it's fun to have an appetizer and a dessert, too. You can add unusual touches to the lunchbox, if you make use of the many kinds of containers now available.

If your small fry doesn't like to bring re-usable containers home with him, use waxed paper cups or tubs with lids for raw vegetables (like carrot curls or cole slaw), liquids or fruit. There are all kinds of re-usable containers, ranging from plastic containers for salad, pie and cake to custard cups for puddings and other desserts. You can even get plastic or paper forks and spoons to make eating extra lunchbox treats easier.

Notes on Sandwich Fillings

Here are just a few Consumers Institute suggestions for sandwich fillings. Some of them sound very unusual but they all have guaranteed taste appeal—and they'll start you thinking up combinations of your own.

Chopped frankfurter, pickle relish, mustard and chili sauce. Chopped chicken, walnuts, green organic chives, mayonnaise.

Chopped roast pork, chopped apple, ginger, mayonnaise. Tuna fish, minced nuts, green pepper, mayonnaise. Cream cheese, orange marmalade, chopped walnuts.

Cream cheese, dried beef, horseradish, onion. Cottage cheese, chopped peanuts, apricot jam. Chopped egg, chopped olive, mustard, salad dressing.

Egg, canned corned beef, onion (all chopped), mustard, pickle, mayonnaise. Chopped egg, crisp bacon, chives, mayonnaise. Chopped cabbage, radishes, cucumbers, nuts, chili sauce, salad dressing.

Here's proof that a box lunch can be good to look at as well as good to eat. Colored wax paper, a bright paper napkin, fresh fruit, a special container for raw vegetable "surprises" and sandwiches in novelty shapes all combine to make lunchtime at school fun—and nourishing, too.

Three Korean Heroes Receive Medal of Honor, The Highest Fighting Award

Washington, D. C., Sept. ()—Three Army heroes, pictured after receiving the nation's highest award, the Medal of Honor, from President Truman. They are, l. to r., Sgt. John A. Pittman, Tullala, Miss.; 1st Lt. Carl H. Dodd, Kenvir, Ky.; and M/Sgt. Ernest R. Kouma, Dwight, Neb. Sgt. Pittman, although wounded, threw himself upon an enemy grenade thus saving the lives of his men. Lt. Dodd spearheaded an attack against a well entrenched enemy position. He single-handedly cleared out a machine-gun nest and led his platoon in wiping out every hostile position. Sgt. Kouma discovered his tank was the only obstacle in the path of an enemy onslaught. He spent nine hours of violent action, running an eight-mile gauntlet through enemy lines, leaving 250 enemy dead behind. Twice wounded he attempted to return to the fighting. These heroes are giving everything in defense of their country, and they expect those at home to do their share. The best way, they say, is "to buy U. S. Defense Bonds." They add: "Defense is your job too. Back the Fall Defense Bond Drive."

Inspired Defense Bond Theme of Fall Campaign. While hospitalized as a result of wounds received in Korea, Lieut. Robert A. Fallon, 23, West Pointer, wrote to his home-town newspaper editor, urging readers to think of defense as something close to their very homes. "Imagine an American soldier dug in a foxhole in your very front yard and you will have the true picture of the American who is in uniform today in defense of American liberties," he said. The "foxhole on your front lawn" theme now highlights a cartoon booklet, prepared for the Treasury Department as a part of the National Patriotic Service by the National Cartoonists Society. It will be distributed to millions of workers during the fall Defense Bond drive to help step up participation in the Payroll Savings Plan. Photo shows Lieut. Fallon getting his point across in an unmistakable way.
