The first week of Playground 1952 saw many attendance records broken as many new children enrolled. The junior playground had an attendance of 60 on Wednesday of the first week which was 9 over the previous high mark of 1951. On Friday, just two days later the mark was broken again as 62 children enjoyed a hike to the village park. Both buses were crowded to capacity and playground directors were wondering whether a third would be necessary.

The Bulldogs picked up one in the fourth as the Panthers got three in the third and two in the fifth to lead 13 to 2 as the Bulldogs came to bat in the seventh. They picked up nine runs on eight hits and came very close to tying the game which ended 13 to 11.

Merle McKeever led the winners with three hits in five trips to the plate while Ron Powers led the losers with two for four. # The Past Fifty Years

Severe Windstorm Struck Manchester 50 Years Ago

This village was struck by a severe storm Thurs. June 12, which created great havoc and did much damage. It was a storm of a kind that had never visited the place and amid so much devastation it was a wonder that no lives were lost.

It was nearly five o'clock p. m. when a fierce looking black cloud was seen in the west and in a very few minutes the storm of rain, wind and hail was upon us uprooting and wrenching limbs from our beautiful maple and elm trees which furnished so much abundant shade. It also overturned small houses, took the roofing off buildings and blew down chimneys.

The first real dip the storm made it unroofed Dr. Lynch's and J. Fred Schabile's barns and blew over or broke down trees in that vicinity. The beautiful row of maples in front of Haussler's, Burtless' and Merithew's seemed to be the object of the storm's wrath as five or six of those giants were badly demoralized. Chimneys on the Haussler and Merithew buildings were blown over and Haussler's windmill met the common fate.

The water stood about an inch deep upon the dining room floor of the Freeman home.

Most of the teams had been hurried away to the barns for safety but there were three carriages left.

Mr. Stockinger's horse and carriage were rolled over and over and it is a wonder that the horse was not killed and the vehicle demolished, but when the clouds rolled by Mr. Stockinger was seen gathering up his belongings.

The tall elm tree in front of Mrs. Ayers' place was uprooted and fell against the house crushing it like a pasteurized box. Mrs. Ayers, who was alone in the house, escaped with slight scratches. Mrs. Ayers house is now owned by Basil Schwab.

Back on Furnace street the storm tipped Will Muschke's barn over on his cow, but a crowd of men went to work and with ropes extricated the bovine without serious injury to her.

Scantlings were thrusted through Fred Haussler's house (now owned by Junior Dunny) but no one was hurt.

The private bridge on the Reh-fuss farm, was carried away, and on down into Bridgewater the wind played pranks more or less severe.

The path of the storm was not more than a block wide.

Mrs. D. O. Stringham and daughter were driving home from Bridgewater and were in front of Mr. Hough's on City road when the storm appeared. With difficulty she kept the horse from turning around. She was blinded by the storm and though she rode in the midst of the destruction she really knew nothing of what was happening about her until she reached home. Her carriage and harness were filled with branches and leaves. How she ever escaped injury is a wonder.

Four head of cattle in a pasture belonging to Mr. Reh-fuss were struck by lightning during the storm. They were insured.

William Kirchgessner has had his saloon painted and papered. (The Kirchgessner saloon is now occupied by Charles Eisenhauer.)

J. Fred Schabile has had George Bailey lay a cement floor in the new addition to his store. (This store is occupied by O. M. Way Bakery.)

Henry Kirchofer bought about 7,000 lbs. of wool of L. D. Watkins and Son and he and his son sacked it on Tuesday.

John Jackson and Marshall Fisks built a cement foundation for Charles Merriman's barn. Charles plans an addition to his residence and they are also building a foundation for that.

One of the freaks of last Thursday's storm is told by Harry Calhoun and of course it can be believed. He had a piece of log chain about four feet long laying on a board on top of a barrel. The wind came along and picked up the chain and carried it over to James

AN EDITORIAL:

The Forgotten Man

Who is this forgotten man? Who forgot him? Why was he forgotten?

Perhaps the answers to the above questions could be applied to many phases of life, but we have one specific example in mind as we write this editorial. In answer to the above, the forgotten man is a U. S. citizen, his country forgot him and, he was forgotten because he forgot his country.

It isn't often that the average individual gets a chance to exercise his citizenship rights, but when that chance comes it should be taken. Voting is not only the right of citizenship it is a duty of citizenship and when we stop to think that America is the only country in which the supreme rulers are elected by Mr. and Mrs. Citizen that duty takes on an even greater importance.

In America the State still serves the people and it is still the majority that elects the state. How can an official be elected by a majority when less than 50% of the population votes. Only can the true ideals of majority be exercised when EVERY QUALIFIED ELECTOR chooses to exercise this citizenship right.

And this applies not only to your National government but to your state and local governments as well. Sometimes more emphasis is put on national elections than on the local level, not that the nation isn't important but just remember that it is your local government that most directly affects YOU, THE CITIZEN. Never, never discount the power of one vote, YOUR VOTE. Michiganers should remember well the power of one vote, and did you know that the great Abraham Lincoln was chosen by a plurality of one. Who knows but what those votes weren't YOUR VOTES or those of your ancestors, as the case may be.

Yes, if YOU forget YOUR country, how can YOU expect YOUR country to remember YOU, especially if the officials weren't chosen by YOU.

REGISTER no later than July 7th, get in on the primaries, exercise YOUR citizenship rights, VOTE THIS FALL.

Charley Wurster with an ox team plowed up the virgin soil of the commons near the frog pond. It is said he turned up almost ev-

Last Monday as Will Jacob, who works for H. R. Palmer was taking a team off the barn floor beside a load of hay when one of the horses stepped over the girt into the mow which was empty and only floored with light boards. It gave way and the horse went through into the basement. Strange as it may seem the animal came through without a scratch.

Taken from the Alumni Banquet News: Lawrence Wurster as president of the class of 1902 was called upon to respond to "The Class of 1902—The Baby of the Family." As the smallest member of the class he was perhaps the best fitted to answer this, and said though they are still young they are capable of great things and will prove themselves worthy members of the association. His remarks were brief but to the point and from the applause which followed we are sure the class of 1902 feels that they have a hearty welcome into the association.

From where I sit by Joe Marsh

Whitey Sure "Rang the Bell"

Telephone woke me out of a sound sleep last Friday about eleven-thirty. "This is Whitey Fisher out on River Road," says a voice. "I just wanted to tell you how much I like this week's Clarion."

"Thanks, Whitey," I told him. "But why in blazes call to tell me at this time of night?" "Simple," he says, "your paper boy just delivered it a short while ago. Been waiting for it all evening."

Next day, Buzzy Wilson tells me he delivered Whitey's paper late because he stayed for the school race and thought it would be OK to drop it off on his way home.

From where I sit, I can't blame Whitey for his joke. He was just reminding me we owe other people the same respect we expect from them. Since I'm always talking about respecting the other fellow's rights—including his right to enjoy a glass of beer if he chooses, it was only fair that Whitey should "wake me up" to his right to get his copy of the Clarion on time. Thanks again, Whitey!

THE WORLD'S MOST WIDELY USED DEVOTIONAL GUIDE

Christ—Our Daily Partner

Thursday, June 26

God hath not given us the spirit of fear; but of power, and of love, and of a sound mind. (I Timothy 3:13.) Read I Thessalonians 5:5-13.

During Commodore Perry's negotiations with the Japanese, a group of Japanese officials and American naval officers met for consultation. As the naval officers entered the building, it is said they threw off their capes. The Japanese thought they were drawing their swords. So they prepared to defend themselves. Later when it became known in the room, the Japanese reached into their sashes and pulled out their fans. The Americans thought they were drawing their pistols. So they prepared to defend themselves.

To often we mistrust one another and draw quick but false conclusions without sufficient evidence.

Faith and confidence in the company which bears my name have been the largest single factors contributing to its success. My friends are often surprised when I say that not a man among our more than 50,000 employees is, or has ever been, under bond. Partnership with Christ day after day and confidence in our fellow man can and will bring the confidence we need to overcome our great fears. Our faith demands such stewardship.

Prayer
O God, forgive our feverish ways which so often lead us to be suspicious of others. Help us to know that as we show faith in Thee and confidence in our fellow man, we become men of spiritual power. In Jesus' name. Amen.

Thought For The Day
Daily partnership with Christ destroys fears.

Michigan State Fair Premium Books Ready

Now is the time to get ready for the 103rd Michigan Agricultural State Fair and Exposition to be held in Detroit August 29 through September 7. James M. Hare, general manager, announced today that premium books listing $110,000 in premiums will be mailed beginning July 7. The closing date for farm entries will be August 15. The premium total amounts to $3,000 more than was paid out last year. All 1951 exhibitors have been added to the mailing list and anyone not on the mailing list during the past few years may write to the State Fair, Detroit 3, for a copy.

Have also announced that for the first time in history the coliseum will be cleared for three complete days and evenings, September 2, 3 and 4, so that livestock judging and events will be uninterrupted.

The livestock auction will be held in the evening for the first time, at 8:30 Wednesday, September 3, so that more buyers will have an opportunity to attend. There will be a nightly parade, featuring thousands of dollars worth of livestock, in the coliseum. Also for the first time the six horse-hitches will be shown inside the coliseum this year as well as the mounted police drills. Junior livestock will be judged Monday morning, September 1, in the coliseum.

The $1,000 agricultural display this year will feature Michigan certified seeds with all of the classes open to growers throughout the State.

The State Fair will honor Michigan's new Wheat King. He is Harold Metcalf, 31 year old Fairgrove, Michigan farmer who was acclaimed the 1951 North American Wheat King at the International Hay and Grain Show in Chicago. He is the first American farmer to gain this distinction since 1928 and is the first Michigan farmer ever to take the title.

One of the new classes opened this year will be devoted to raisers of Palominos and will feature breeding classes open to fillies and four year olds, and champions.

Two breeds of sheep will be shown for the first time, Columbia and Montadale. The Columbia Sheep Breeders Association will pay special premiums to exhibitors in their class and The Montadale Sheep Breeders Association will pay 25% of the total premiums offered in this class. The Association portion of the premiums will be paid direct from their office.

Another first, as described in the premium book, will be Mounted Police drills open to any unit in the State of Michigan.

Firemen's 13th Annual Field Meet June 29th At Whitehouse, Ohio

That lifetime dream coming true, a front row seat at a real fire with all the thrills—red fire trucks, ladders, hose and sirens—but without the usual property damage and other casualties. A full day of unusual entertainment for the residents of Northwestern Ohio and Southern Michigan starting at 10:00 AM, Sunday, June 29th.

The Ohio-Michigan Firemen's Association comprising over fifty volunteer fire departments in this area will hold its 13th annual field meet at Whitehouse, Ohio on that date. The Whitehouse Volunteer Firemen under Bob Green, chief, will be host to the occasion and have announced seating capacity and splendid picnic lunch facilities will be made available to the hundreds of spectators expected to witness this free public display of fire fighting technique to be conducted in the beautiful municipal park located in the village.

Safety, efficiency and speed will be the basis of judging the crews of each department participating in a series of three evolutions involving real and simulated fires. Actual fire fighting will be demonstrated when an open pit covered with oil and gasoline is set ablaze also when automobile bodies are ignited to demonstrate methods of fighting highway fires. Use of ladders will be shown when firemen combat a simulated blaze through heavy smoke in a second floor bedroom. This will be done at a tower being erected at the scene and with the use of spoke bombs.

The judges of the competitive events will be Charles R. Scott, Chief of Fire Prevention Bureau State of Ohio; Chief Homer Johnson, Findlay, Ohio; Chief Russell Emerson, Monroe, Mich.; Chief William Cheesman, Asst. State Fire Marshal, Dayton, Ohio.

A short parade through the village at 11:00 AM will be followed by a luncheon period at the park until 1:00 PM at which time the events will start. In charge of the program are A. L. Barren, Erie, Mich., President; Richard Lehman, Whitehouse, General Chairman; Ross W. Barnes, Morin Point, Mich., Secretary; Barney Null, Holland, Ohio; Don Miller, Trilby, Ohio; Willard Sanderson, Syl-

Giant Speedometer Cuts Accidents

To make motorists conscious of speed limits, the Seattle, Wash. police department has put into operation a Powerglide Chevrolet with a precise speed clock mounted at the rear. Flashing red and amber lights on the giant exterior dial reflect the speed recorded by the car's speedometer. Police drive the car around the city an average of 90 miles a day and report it has reduced accidents appreciably. Two-way radio and a loudspeaker system to caution drivers are included.

Colored lights speed culling of cherries

Colored lights help sorters of fruits and vegetables to detect small but important defects before processing. In a new technique developed in the agricultural engineering department of Michigan State College, plain white, blue and red fluorescent lights were tested. Under blue fluorescent light, sorters spotted defects 10 to 30% more efficiently than under white fluorescent. Under red fluorescent, sorter efficiency increased an average of 64% over white. Red light proved especially effective in culling cherries. For more information, call your County Agricultural Agent.

DIAPHRAGM

A plastic makes listening easier

Inside your telephone receiver a sensitive diaphragm produces the sounds you hear. Bell Telephone Laboratories have developed a new kind of diaphragm made of stiff, light plastic, driven by a magnetic-metal ring. This new diaphragm reproduces the human voice more naturally than before, lets you hear higher tones that make a voice more personal. Also, telephone lines need deliver only a third as much power to work this new receiver, so fewer wires can be used. Once again telephone research increases the quality of service, keeps costs down.

A Luncheon Treat

Summer luncheons need to be planned with an eye on the weather. Hot days affect our appetites and make meal planning and eating a chore. The smart woman plans cool, refreshing summer luncheons that are easy to prepare and light eating. She'll also take advantage of the fresh fruits that are so plentiful and so much enjoyed during this season.

The perfect main dish for the summer luncheon is fruit salad made with a generous quantity of fresh fruit. Make it extra special by topping with several scoops of orange sherbet. That sherbet can be made at home in jig time with a sherbet mix. Preparation is so easy that it's actually fun. On top of that fresh fruit salad, it's even more fun to eat.

Orange Sherbet

- 1 cup milk
- 1 cup water
- 1 package orange sherbet mix

Measure milk and water into bowl. Add contents of package of orange sherbet mix. Beat with rotary beater until dissolved about 2 minutes. Pour mixture into refrigerator tray and place in freezing compartment. When mixture is firmly frozen, remove from tray to bowl. Break up into small lumps with fork or potato masher. Beat with electric or hand beater until free from lumps but still a thick mush. Return to refrigerator tray and place in freezing compartment until fairly firm. If frozen too hard, place in refrigerator just below freezing compartment to soften. 4-5 servings.

Fruit Salad: Combine apple slices, grapefruit sections, pineapple chunks, strawberries or other fruits in season. Serve on a large lettuce leaf. Top with a large scoop of orange sherbet just before serving.

Star Recipes

Like most wives, Mrs. CORNEL WILDE likes to serve her husband's favorite dishes. Chicken Pilaf plays a star role in Mrs. Wilde's menus—it's delicious, easy to do, and doesn't call for too much time in the kitchen. With an eye on the budget—chicken teams with rice, cleverly seasoned, to make a substantial main dish. Follow with tossed green salad—maybe fruit for dessert and a good cup of coffee—and you've got a complete meal.

CHICKEN PILAF

- 1/2 cup Blue Bonnet Margarine
- 1/2 cup finely chopped onion
- 2 cups rice
- 4 cups chicken stock or bouillon
- 2 teaspoons salt
- 1/4 teaspoon cayenne pepper
- 1 bay leaf
- 2 cups diced cooked chicken
- 1/2 cup blanched, toasted almonds

Melt margarine in heavy pan. Add onion. Cook gently until onion is brown. Stir in rice. Add chicken stock or bouillon (may be made from bouillon cubes), salt, pepper and bay leaf. Bring to a boil. Turn into well-greased 2-quart casserole. Cover and bake in moderate oven (350° F.) about 25 minutes until rice is tender and liquid absorbed. It may be necessary to add more stock before rice is cooked. Remove bay leaf. Add diced cooked chicken and almonds which have been sauteed in a tablespoon of hot margarine. Return to oven and bake for an additional 15 minutes. Makes 6 servings. This is a complete meal when served with a green salad.

Gas Dryers Lighten Wash Day Chores

Like farm meals, farm washes are usually twice as big as city family laundries. Overalls, jackets, underwear, socks and even the farmer's hat are all washable, making rural wash days frequent and large.

Not only a work-saver, L.P. Gas clothes dryers also afford rural homemakers a time-saving shortcut. Overalls and jackets come out ready-to-wear, require no ironing. Delicate lingerie and thick bath-towels can all be dried automatically and safely in minutes, instead of hours.

Most important to modern homemakers, the back-straining chore of hanging up the heavy, wet wash is eliminated. Clothes also wear and look better because they are protected from whipping winds and the elements. Clothing fibres last longer.

Connected to L.P. Gas cylinders or a bulk storage tank, the dryer delivers year-round service regardless of weather. This fuel, also known as butane and propane, is stored in liquefied form. When used, it changes into its gaseous state.

An automatic clothes dryer is a real space-saver, too. The farmyard is left free for parking agricultural implements and the basement for storing preserved foods.

Ann Arbor Printer Candidate For State Senator 12th District

Leonard D. Bennett

Leonard D. Bennett, 33, of South Lyon, Tuesday announced his candidacy on the Democratic ticket as state senator for the 12th senatorial district. He filed petitions with the office of Secretary of State on Tuesday. The district embraces both Washtenaw and Oakland counties.

Mr. Bennett, employed as a proof reader at the Ann Arbor News and president of the Typographical Union Local 154 (AFL) of Ann Arbor, has been chairman of the South Lyon Democratic committee for the past 10 years. He was born in Arkansas on Feb. 15, 1919, where he received his education in the Walnut Ridge high school, and has been active in politics since he settled in South Lyon in 1941.

Bennett was employed as a printer for the South Lyon Herald from 1941 to 1943 when he resigned to enter the Army. During his twenty-eight months' military career in the Corps of Engineers, Bennett spent 18 months in an overseas combat unit fighting in New Guinea. He was wounded during the battle of Hollandia in April, 1945.

After his discharge, Bennett returned to South Lyon where he accepted the job as postmaster, a position he held until joining the Ann Arbor News as a proof-reader in June, 1948.

In May, 1951, he was elected vice-president of the Ann Arbor Typographical Union. In September of the same year he took over the president's post when the former president moved out of the area. Members of the Typographical Union again elected Bennett to the presidency last month.

He is present commander of the Tri-County American Legion post 560 of South Lyon and a member of the city's Veterans of Foreign Wars post 2502.

The state senatorial aspirant is married and the father of two sons. He lives at 435 W. Lake St. in South Lyon.

Donald Leonard Urges Unity In Party

Detroit, Mich., June 23—The important issue within the Republican party of Michigan in the forthcoming primary is unity leading to undivided ranks for the fight in the November election, Donald S. Leonard, candidate for the Republican nomination for Governor, declared here on his return from speaking engagements in both Upper and Lower Peninsula districts.

"I have found that growing numbers of Republicans are much disturbed over fractional antagonisms which are intensified by the other gubernatorial candidates attacking their opponents on personal rather than party matters," Commissioner Leonard said. "The sad effects of party splits in the last two state elections should point the necessity for unity."

"At the very outset I placed emphasis on the danger and said that I believed I could offer a leadership under which the factions in the party could unite for the strong fight that must be made if we Republicans are to win back the control of the Governor's office. The attempts subsequently made to draw me into an intra-party free-for-all only strengthen my determination to have no part of this kind of campaigning."

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of Donald Clark, our son and brother who passed away eight years ago June 28.

Sweet memories will linger forever. Time cannot change them, it's true that years to come will not sever our loving remembrances of you. Sadly missed by Mother, Father, Sister and Grandparents.

"At every meeting where I have spoken I have talked about this and literally scores of men and women from all walks of life—have personally commended me for my stand. They tell me they agree that Michigan needs new leadership and that the Republican party needs a vigorous candidate who can bring the factions together for the task that lies ahead.

"These people know that I cannot be used as a political pawn, that I entered this primary race to win and not to checkmate one or the other of the candidates.

"A Republican candidate who attempts to promote his own candidacy by attacking another within the party is rendering a disservice to the Republican party."

Inside the Capitol

By John B. Martin
Auditor General

The question of reapportionment of the Michigan legislature has become a major issue in the coming election. Three different groups are now circulating petitions to place on the ballot proposed amendments to the constitution each of which would insure reapportionment every ten years.

While I was in the State Senate, I joined with others in introducing a proposal for reapportionment of the legislature which is essentially the same as that now being presented by the Michigan Committee for a Balanced Legislature. The essence of this plan is that the legislature would be set up in the same way in which the federal congress is created with population representation in the House and geographical representation in the Senate. It is the feeling of those supporting this proposal that it would give fair representation to all parts of the State without permitting one area to wholly dominate the legislature. Most people, I believe, are of the opinion that no one section of the State ought to be in a position to control both Houses, since the problems of a great metropolitan community like Detroit are different in character from those in other parts of the State.

It is my belief that good government in Michigan requires that all parts of the State have effective representation in the legislature and this would be accomplished by the present balanced legislative proposal. The House would have a maximum of 110 members and would be based principally upon population. The Senate would have 34 members instead of 32 as at present. If no action was taken by the legislature when such action was required, the board of canvassers could be forced to reapportion the legislature.

The composition of Congress has never been considered unfair to the people and I believe that a State legislature constructed on the same basis would also fairly represent the people of Michigan.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

When daddy helps baby into her high chair, that's a good time for mother to be at hand with a camera.

Get Daddy in the Picture, Too

THIS column has frequently mentioned how nice it is that mothers take pictures. We usually write this in connection with snapshots of the children which mothers have such wonderful opportunities to take. But today I want to bring it up in telling you about a wonderful type of snapshot that doesn't appear often enough in family albums—pictures of daddy with the baby.

I was reminded of this the other day when a free lance photographer told me about a conversation she'd had with the editor of a family magazine. When asked what type of pictures the publication found hardest to obtain the editor had said those featuring babies with their fathers. She said that they had an abundance of opportunities to buy photographs of mothers and babies, but that apparently people just don't think about snapping pictures of babies and their fathers. So, the purpose of today's column is to remind you to take pictures of baby with various members of the family. Such snapshots will add to the interest of your family picture record—and will greatly please the person privileged to pose with baby. As an added award for your camera efforts, you're likely to get better than usual pictures of the adults involved. This is because their attention will be so intently focused on the baby that they'll forget that they, too, are in front of the camera.

Seeing that you have such pictures is a snapshots assignment for mother. These days most fathers take a very active part in caring for the baby. Think of what he does regularly for your young one and that will cue you in your selection of a picture taking situation. —John van Gulder

Prominent biceps, of course, to the illustrious Mr. Skelton, whose NBC-TV "Red Skelton Show" can be counted on to be the scene of considerable hilarity. . . . Lovely Lucille Knoch plays the glamorous foil for Red's pranks, and is especially prized by Skelton and crew because, besides being an ornamental addition to the cast—she is a fast girl with an ad lib, and has never been known to be at a loss for words, no matter how fast the quips may fly.

The litter is expected to weigh more than 2 tons at 6 months. Before the synthetic milk was discovered last year, a 6-month weight of 1 ton was regarded as near perfection.

FOR OUTDOOR FILM FANS

Let's get on with our lesson in outdoor photography—or how to increase your batting average in those snapshots. Just to refresh your memory we mentioned the importance of natural action rather than posed shots in last week's column. And we pointed out the essentials of good lighting when using color film.

Now let's tackle a big word—"composition." How does it apply in outdoor photography? It concerns the light and shadow balance in your picture, and the artistic symmetry, or framing. For instance you may be taking a picture of a fisherman casting from a rowboat. How can you "compose" your setting to make it most effective?

Watch the Background
The background or horizon is very important. Unless it's a silhouette shot an all-sky background is too monotonous. Find a bit of the shoreline with pretty trees growing in an irregular pattern. "Frame" your fisherman in the viewfinder so that his head and shoulders may be outlined against the sky while the rest of the body contrasts against the trees or distant shore. Then release the shutter at a moment that captures the feeling you get from the scene. If it's action you want you must get the angler in the process of casting or battling a fish. If it's the peaceful serenity of a lovely lake that impresses you, snap your fisherman while he's lazily reclining on a boat seat.

Foreground Atmosphere
To give depth to your picture it's often a good idea to frame part of it through a leafy bower, or over the "shoulder of someone" close to the camera. Don't let this foreground material dominate. It should merely give atmosphere and depth contrast. Professional photographers who go for those "salon" shots often use archways in the foreground to point up some distant scene. You can do the same thing in effect, shooting over the stern of a speeding boat to get the pattern of a swirling wake, climbing a hill and using the corner of a jagged rock in the foreground to shoot your campsite far below, standing on a straight wooded trail, catching your companion in the distance waving, while the trees meet overhead to form a natural arch in the foreground.

Shots like this are memorable keepsakes of wonderful trips, and while they often take a little more time in planning and preparation they're more than worth it in recapturing fun of another vacation in Michigan Outdoors.

Mort Neff's "Michigan Outdoors" television show may be seen every Thursday at 10:15 p.m. on stations WWJ-TV, Detroit and WJIM-TV, Lansing.

4,000 Acre Au Sable Ranch Sold

In the largest real estate transaction in northern Michigan during recent years the famous Au Sable Ranch has just been purchased by Pat DeSantis and Associates, of Grosse Pointe, Michigan.

This vast property, including 11 lakes and the headwaters of the north branch of the Au Sable River, had long been operated as a private club, for Michigan business and industrial executives. It was not operated during 1951 due to the death of the owner of the property. A proposal by the State Federation of Women's Clubs to buy 1145 acres for a "Girls-Town" project was finally abandoned and the property remains intact.
