Red Cross Drive Opens Here

Mrs. Floyd Proctor and Mrs. Everett Stockwell are co-chairmen of District No. 5 in the current Red Cross drive which includes school districts in Manchester, Bridgewater, Sharon and Freedom townships. On the first day of March before active solicitation had begun the citizens of Washtenaw county had already contributed $7,361.38 or eleven and four tenths per cent of the total budget of $64,840. This compares to 10.6% raised last year by the corresponding date which shows the county to be slightly ahead of last year.

From preliminary reports from solicitors which has been reaching the county Red Cross office the

The Main Street

The annual subscription program sponsored by the American Legion Auxiliary will begin Monday, March 10. The proceeds will be used for hospital equipment which is available to everyone in Manchester and vicinity free of charge. At the present time five beds and two wheel-chairs are owned by the Auxiliary and more equipment will be added from time to time with the proceeds from this drive.

Let's not forget that Monday, March 10th, is election day for the village. The polls are open from 8 a. m. to 8 p. m. This is our opportunity to vote for the men we want in office.

The Riverside Service Station which is located across from the Manchester Ford Plant, 815 City road is now under new management. Bill Gieske, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Gieske is the new proprietor. He says that the station will be open from 8 a. m. to 8 p. m. including Sundays.

Mrs. R. Crandall, home economics teacher, was telling us that a new sink and garbage disposal have been installed at the high school in the home economics room much to the pleasure of the students.

Business houses along the Main Street still continue to change hands. Clifford Dettling and Irving Gill have leased the Manchester Theater effective last Sunday. They tell us that as soon as possible they intend to show pictures every night of the week. They also are placing free passes in popcorn on Saturday nights.

Mike Gauss has decided that it is time he had a rest from the barbering trade—after spending more than fifty years in the business. He has sold out to Sam Brown.

Ed Steele, jr. is spending this week in Washington, D. C. on business as Legion-Zone Service officer.

Main Street was a busy place last Friday and Saturday, when, according to reports, people were standing in line for license plates at the Wurster Insurance Agency.

The Francis Cargo family moved from the A. E. Wacker apartment at 534 West Main Street to their new home on M-11. The apartment which they have vacated will have Mr. and Mrs. James Cannon, jr. as the new tenants.

Raymond Steinkinger called his wife from Fort Custer saying he was to leave Tuesday for camp at Indian Town Gap, Pennsylvania. Lynn Voegeding is also scheduled to go to the Pennsylvania camp and Glen D. Claiborne, who left Manchester at the same time is being sent to camp in Texas.

The consumer economic class advisor, Mrs. Robert Gramann, was telling us how much the class appreciated having Frank Larson speak to them on his experiences while working with the bureau of weights and measures. She also mentioned that there was no mention made of the big event of the sophomore class Valentine dance at which Jo Miller and Jerry Trutz were crowned king and queen.

Last week a typographical error appeared in the story concerning the Boy Scout air raid observation post. The item states that two Boy Scouts of the Manchester troop would take part in the operation. The correction should have said 24 Boy Scouts of Troop 26 will take part in the operation. Our apology to the Scouts, their leader, Paul Kappler, and Post Commander Harold Alexander.

4-H Club Awards Announced

The 4-H Public Speaking awards program is being continued in Michigan in 1952 for the third consecutive year. The State Club office has announced.

Thousands of 4-H Club boys and girls, realizing that speaking in public goes hand in hand with every type of 4-H project or activity, have taken advantage of the training offered through this program.

As incentive for outstanding records in public speaking in this and 27 other states, gold-filled medals are awarded to the top rating boy and girl in each participating county. The state winning girl receives a beautiful set of silverware, and the outstanding boy gets a 17-jewel wrist watch. Awards are provided by the Pure Oil Co., which this year offers two college scholarships of $300 each, and two educational trips to the 31st National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago next November for national winners. All states are eligible to submit candidates for these two national awards.

Last year's state winners in Michigan were David P. Beatty, Williamston, and Shirley A. Van Boexlaer of St. Charles.

County Attempts To Hold Down Damage To Roads Here

A drive against overloading of trucks in Washtenaw county was started last Saturday in an effort to cut road damage during the spring break-up season after a state statute gave the County Road Commission power to impose weight restrictions on all routes at will, effective last Saturday. Road Commission Manager Howard G. Minter at that time announced reinstatement of weight curbs on all roads, explaining that the lids will stay on for the duration of the break-up period unless a prolonged period of freezing weather hits the area.

County Attempts To Hold Down Damage To Roads Here

George P. Smith, county sealer of weights and measures, tested the accuracy of scales as a preliminary to the renewed campaign against excessively heavy truckloads.

Equipped with these scales, four sheriff's deputies in two automobiles will constantly patrol both primary and secondary roads. They will spot-check trucks in the county, concentrating upon blacktop and concrete highway traffic but covering all types of roads. The Road Commission will pay the salaries of the deputies and mileage on one car during the operations it was explained. According to Minter there is no question that the overloaded trucks break up road surfaces. Last Thursday a law signed by Gov. G. Mennen Williams puts the collection made through court fines in these overload cases into a State Library fund. An earlier bill was deemed unconstitutional because the assessments of graduated fines on overloaded trucks were to have gone into the highway fund of the county in which the arrest was made.

The newly legalized penalties range from two cents a pound for excessive weight between 1,000 and 2,000 pounds to 10 cents a pound when the excessive weight is more than 5,000 pounds.

4-H Improvement Program Begins

With Spring soon busting out all over, Michigan has renewed two 4-H programs which are important factors in the development of wholesome family relationships and purposeful, healthful living, the National Committee on Boys and Girls Club Work has announced. They are the Garden and Home Improvement awards programs, designed for both boys and girls.

In 1951, more than 350,000 club members raised 120,000 acres of garden vegetables and small fruits, according to State Club leaders, thereby providing essential and nutritious foods for use throughout the year, and increasing individual and family incomes by reducing the amount of food purchased. About 200,000 members taking part in the 4-H Home Improvement program performed 550,000 tasks, such as making slipcovers and curtains, upholstering and refinishing furniture, and painting or papering rooms to make their homes more comfortable and attractive.

Incentives for outstanding records of achievement in both programs remain the same as last year: Every club member taking part in either program has the opportunity to win one of four county medals of honor. Also a state award of an all-expense trip to the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago next November, and a chance to become a candidate for one of the eight national awards—a $300 college scholarship. Allis-Chalmers provides the Garden program awards, and the Sears-Roebuck Foundation those for Home Improvement.

Fascinating Fashions By Judy Seaton

Spring's fashion headline is color... rosy red, frosty blue, bold colors or pastels... and what more feminine or glamorous way to add a touch of color to your wardrobe than with a festive scarf crunched at your throat, encircling your waist or peeking out of a pocket?

You may choose a permanent pleated nylon, a heavy silk in brilliant Roman stripes on a black background, a delicate silk chiffon shaded from dark to pastel, or the latest cylindrical scarf in raw silk: a yard-wide square, an ascot or long, narrow in shape, and any size.

Strawberry blonde Virginia Kase, star of daytime radio serial, "Rosemary," selected a white silk square flecked with gold and tied it with the four ends coming to points, and fastened with a simple gold pin to add glamour to a plain, black dress. Or, a scarlet nylon pleated triangle tucked into the top of your skirt, fluffed out of a pocket on the hip of your suit jacket, lends a dashing and individual note to your outfit.

Scarves are indispensable for a working gal who wants to be business-like from 9 to 5 but "dressed up" at 5:15. Virginia often wears a black faille suit accessorized with a pearl choker or tiny gold pin to the office and transforms the suit into a smart cocktail outfit by adding a stiff taffeta scarf fastened with a pert rose. A wisp of bright material, a scatter pin or fake flower, plus a little ingenuity give your wardrobe double mileage.

HINTS FOR HOMEMAKERS

PROBLEM OF BLACK SPECKS ENDED BY USE OF SYNTHETIC DETERGENT

by the General Electric Consumers Institute

Those bothersome little black specks which appear in the corners of blouse collars, in the collars and cuffs of men's shirts and in the folds of sheets, pillowcases and towels plague many a homemaker.

They are, technically, lime curd deposits, caused by the reaction of a fatty acid detergent—that's soap—with the calcium or magnesium salts common to water in "hard water" area, added to the soil from clothing.

Why Lime Curd Appears

Women have always been aware of the existence of soap curd, but the deposits were not really considered a problem before the advent of automatic washers, according to the General Electric Consumers Institute.

That's because when a fatty acid detergent is used in hand-washing or in a wringer washer, suds hold the hard water salts in suspension and you remove the clothes from the water and can rinse the soap curds out effectively. But with an automatic washer, the water is removed from the clothes and as the suds disappear, lime curds are deposited on the clothing.

Three Solutions to a Problem

If you live in a "soft water" area, of course, you never have to worry about soap curds. But dwellers in "hard water" sections of the country can solve the problem in one of three ways:

(1) By the installation of a water-softening system in the home—the ideal solution, but one which many people consider too expensive.

(2) By the addition of a water softener to the rinse water—but that means stopping the automatic washer before the rinse cycle begins, destroying the advantage of washing clothes automatically.

(3) By the substitution of a synthetic detergent for soap in the washer.

Synthetic Detergent Has Advantages

Most manufacturers advocate the use of a synthetic detergent in an automatic washer in any area where the "hardness" of the water exceeds approximately six grains (your water company can give you the figures for your own locality).

Synthetic detergents soften the water. Also, because they contain no fatty acids, they do not react with hard water salts; consequently, there is no danger of a lime curd build-up.

How to Remove Lime Curd Deposits

Before you change over to the use of a synthetic detergent, however, you'll want to know how to get the black specks out of clothing already affected. It's a simple matter of soaking them in a solution of packaged water softener (i.e. Calgon or Tex) and water—one teaspoon to a quart of water—until the water is softened and the soil separated from the lime deposits; then you can rinse the curds out of collars and creases easily.

Condition Washer First

An automatic washer in which you've been using soap must be "conditioned"—thoroughly cleaned—before you begin using a synthetic detergent. Add a cupful of a strong detergent (i.e. Calgonite or Electrocol) to a washbasket of hot water and run the washer through a complete cycle; then wipe the washbasket out to remove any accumulated lime curd build-up.

Clothes should be conditioned, too, by adding enough strong detergent to soften a washbasket of water and running the load of clothes through a pre-soak or rinse cycle before the clothes are washed.

Gelatine Makes Hearty Lenten Loaf

Unflavored gelatine, so popular in salads and desserts, offers main course nutrition during the Lenten season. This gelatine is a protein food, and adds its value to that of cheese and macaroni to provide an interesting and filling dinner loaf.

Spiced with grated onion, chopped parsley, pimiento and celery, this macaroni loaf not only gives plenty of food value but excellent flavor and appetite appeal. Unflavored gelatine does the blending as well as the molding trick. And did you know that men in particular are gelatine fans and like foods concocted with it?

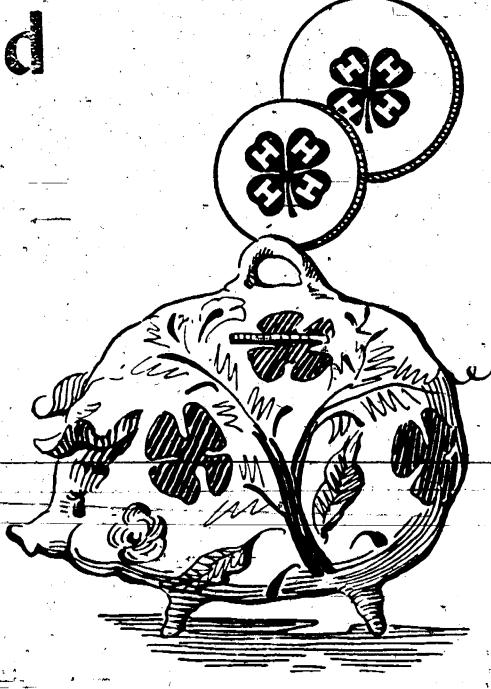

Molded Macaroni Cheese Loaf

1 envelope unflavored gelatine	2 teaspoons grated onion
1/2 cup cold water	2 tablespoons chopped parsley
3/4 cup hot water	1 tablespoon chopped pimiento
1 cup grated American cheese	1/2 cup diced celery
1 tablespoon lemon juice	1 1/2 cups cooked elbow macaroni
1 teaspoon salt	1/2 cup mayonnaise or salad dressing

Soften gelatine in cold water. Add hot water; stir constantly until gelatin is dissolved. Add grated cheese. Stir until cheese has softened. Stir in lemon juice, salt and grated onion. Chill until mixture is consistency of unbeaten egg white. Stir in parsley, pimiento, celery, macaroni, and mayonnaise. Turn into large or individual molds and chill until firm. Unmold and garnish with salad greens, ripe olives, wedges of avocado and tomato, if desired. YIELD: 6 servings.

Forty Years of Girl Scouting

GIRL SCOUTS LOOK BACK 40 YEARS. More than a million and a half Girl Scouts in every state are celebrating their organization's 40th anniversary during 1952. Founded in Savannah, Ga., March 12, 1912, by Juliette Gordon Low, Girl Scouting has grown continuously in size and popularity through four decades. Although Girl Scouts today wear trim green uniforms instead of the bulky khaki outfits of yesteryear, they haven't changed much in their interests; home-making, camping, international friendship, nature study, and community service have always been favorite activities.

WHAT DO YOU KNOW ABOUT CHOOSING THE PROPER SIZE WATER HEATER?

General Electric Consumer Institute

It's amazing how many American homemakers, who demand up-to-the-minute efficiency of their kitchen and laundry appliances, have no really dependable supply of hot water.

The same woman who would complain bitterly if her electric dishwasher stopped working with the dinner dishes half done or if the automatic washer quit in the middle of its job will often put up with an old-fashioned water heating system. That means she will run out of hot water many times when she needs it most—and she will waste precious minutes every day waiting for hot water to travel through 40 or 50 feet of pipe from a distantly located water heater to the kitchen hot water faucet.

Just to give you an idea of how much water you really do need, the General Electric Consumer Institute says that the average family of four persons uses slightly over 1,300 gallons of hot water per month. That's between 11 and 15 gallons for each member of the family each day.

You need 15-32 gallons of hot water and 10-25 gallons of cold water each time you use an automatic washer; a dishwasher uses 4½ gallons of hot water, and a non-automatic washer will need 15 gallons of hot water and 10 gallons of cold water each time it is used.

If your home has a flame-type water heater, long pipe lines are often a necessity because the heater must be located in a basement, or in a chimney, or in a closet, or in a room where a connection—regardless of where the hot water faucets happen to be.

Long pipe runs mean that every time you turn on the hot water faucet when the pipes are cool, you wait for the water to travel through perhaps 40 or 50 feet of pipe. The long pipe run is emptied of cold water, and then the hot water loses its heat in heating up the pipe before water of the desired temperature flows from the tap.

And when you turn the faucet off, you leave that same length of pipe filled with hot water which will cool off without performing any useful function. Forty feet of ½-inch iron pipe, for instance, will waste as much as 476 gallons of water a month—water which you have already paid to have heated.

On the other hand, an electric water heater requires no flues or vents, so it can be installed anywhere, as close to the point-of-most frequent hot water use as you want it. It can be in a closet, in the basement directly under the kitchen sink, or right in the kitchen itself, because it produces no soot to stain walls and ceilings. That means no wasteful lengths of piping.

Seasoning Whets Lenten Appetites

There'll be no question of the family balking at restricted menus if you use some ingenuity and introduce them to the famous in-the-Creole sections of the country, where seasoning has been relied on for years to give plentiful, economical and seasonal foods extra flavor and flair. A perfect dinner dish is this shrimp jambalaya, made from a recipe famous way down south where Cajun and Creole, and Southern cooks alike have learned to depend on liberal dashes of Tabasco to pick up appetites. It's easy enough, too, for an amateur.

Avery Island Jambalaya

4 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 medium onion, chopped
1 green pepper, chopped (optional)
½ teaspoon minced garlic (optional)
2½-ounce cans shrimp

Water
1 No. 2 can tomatoes
1½ teaspoon Tabasco
1 teaspoon salt
1 cup uncooked rice

Melt butter in heavy skillet. Add onion, green pepper and garlic; cook slowly until onion is yellow, but not brown. Drain shrimp and add water to shrimp liquid to make 1½ cups. Add liquid, tomatoes, Tabasco, and salt; bring to a boil. Sprinkle rice over surface of liquid; cover tightly and cook until almost done, about 20 minutes. Add the shrimp and cook covered 10 minutes longer. YIELD: 6 servings.

Around the County With the 4-H

It is difficult to describe the 4-H Club program of Washtenaw county briefly, says Frank Gendron, county 4-H club agent, but he came up with a good try.

4-H Clubs of the county are organized groups of our young people who are learning to use the findings of science and research for better farming and homemaking. Members take active parts in community activities. These young people are aided and guided in their efforts by cooperative extension workers and local volunteer leaders trained by them.

Gendron says that any boy or girl between the ages of 10 and 21 who agrees to learn by doing may enroll. The groups elect their own officers, plan and conduct programs based on the needs and interests of members, hold regular meetings and take part in community activities.

This county's 4-H Club work is a part of the national system of cooperative extension work in agriculture and homemaking in which the United States Department of Agriculture, Michigan State College and Washtenaw county contribute cooperatively, Gendron explains.

Club work has helped to develop 15,000,000 young citizens

since its beginning. More than a million of these come from Michigan. The program is designed to increase farm incomes, improve standards of living, increase the satisfactions from community life and prepare young people for living in a changing world.

4-H leaders active in this area include Mrs. Alfred Kuhl, who has been active in the work for the past six years, Gregory Seckinger who has three years, and John Watz and Forest Watz both have one year to their credit as 4-H leaders.

Children Today Can Expect Longer Life

Children born today have a far better chance than your parents had of surviving the disease hazards of childhood and living to a ripe old age, according to evidence gathered by scientists at Lederle Laboratories, Pearl River, New York.

Many factors have contributed to the longevity of today's population and the increase in life expectancy for the adult of tomorrow. The majority of women today consult the family physician or obstetrician within the first two months of pregnancy, and return to his office at regular intervals for check-ups. Earlier and more regular prenatal care permits detection of conditions which might endanger the life of the mother or the unborn infant, and measures are taken to overcome such conditions long before they have opportunity to wreak irreparable damage.

Other important factors are the use of sulfonamides, streptomycin and other antibiotic therapy for control of infections.

widespread use of whole blood plasma in the wake of hemorrhage and shock; better economic conditions; better cooperation with the doctor; more attention to nutritional, vitamin and mineral needs of the mother.

The dramatic achievements of the past few decades in controlling diseases among children and reducing the death rate constitute one of the brightest chapters in the history of medicine. The death rate from the principal communicable diseases—scarlet fever, measles, whooping cough and diphtheria—declined well over 90 percent among white children in the five-year average 1946-1950, as compared with 1911-1915.

Scarlet fever, which has been decreasing in severity for a number of years, has become one of the mildest of the acute communicable diseases of childhood. Complications previously dreaded from this disease are largely controlled by the antibiotic drugs.

Pneumonia and influenza, which together still cause more deaths at ages 1 to 14 than any other disease, have declined in mortality to only one-sixth of the rate prevailing 35 years ago. Autocystin has proved highly effective against all types of pneumonia, and especially against "virus" pneumonia, a common variety.

Perhaps the best single index that can satisfactorily measure medical progress over the past hundred years is the increase in the expectation of life at birth. In 1850, conditions were such that the expectation of life at birth in the United States was only about 40 years. By 1947, according to the National Office of Vital Statistics, this figure had risen to 68.8 years. In other words, in four generations the expectation of life had risen about 27 years.

These figures gain significance when stacked against statistics on births. The nation's baby crop hit an all-time high in the six years since World War II, while the death rate reached an all-time low in 1950 and the 1951 rate may be even lower. A report showed that 22,400,000 babies were born during the period 1946-1951. At the same time, the infant mortality rate, in relation to population, showed a sharp drop from 67 percent from all causes in 1940 to about 29 percent in 1951.

Burial inscriptions of ancient Rome indicate that the average life expectancy of that time was from 20 to 30 years. Today it is more than twice that. Every branch of medicine has made contributions toward making life longer and happier for today's babies.

Artificial Respiration Technique Changed

Washtenaw-Livingston Boy Scouts, to which the Manchester Scouts belong, are being told to forget what they have learned about artificial respiration and learn a new method. Portage Trails Council officials now say that the "prone pressure" technique, which has been recognized since 1927, has been discarded in favor of the newly adopted "back pressure, arm-lift" method.

The Armed Forces, U. S. Public Health Service, Red Cross and Girl Scouts have recognized the superior effectiveness of the technique used in basic form by northern Europeans as far back as 1932. After months of study by a national research council group, it was decided that the method should be employed in preference to the Schafer (prone-pressure) plan. However, the latter way is still advocated where the victim has severely injured arms which cannot be raised.

County officials plan to conduct adult training on the new method as soon as possible and then teach it to the Boy Scouts.

After placing the victim in the face down position with a checkbone resting on the back of his hands, the aid man kneels at the head of the victim and puts one knee close to the victim's head, the other knee or foot at the victim's elbow on the other side. The aid man places his hands upon the flat of the victim's back so that the balls of his hands lie just below a line running between the armpits. The tips of the thumbs should touch and the fingers should be extended.

Boy Scout instruction describes the compression phase as follows: "Rock forward until your arm are approximately vertical and allow the weight of the upper part of your body to exert slow steady, even pressure downward upon your hands. This forces air out of his lungs. Your elbows should be kept straight and the pressure exerted almost directly downward on the back. Release the pressure by removing the hands from the back without giving any extra push with the release and rock slowly backward, grasp the subject's arms just above his elbows and draw his arms upward and toward you. Apply just enough lift to feel resistance and tension at the subject's shoulders. Do not bend your elbows. Next drop his arms to the ground. The full cycle is repeated 12 times a minute. The compression and expansion phase should take about equal time with short release periods. The arm-lift part of the technique expands the victim's chest by pulling on the chest muscles, arching the back and relieving the weight on his chest.

Table Your Valentine Plans
 Valentine's Day might be just the time when you feel a very small celebration to be in order, rather than a large scale party. Why not just a "table reserved for two," right in your own home, with gala decorations and your loveliest dining accessories—to show your husband that he is still your most special "guest." Lenox has created a pattern in fine china which might be your choice for this very pretty table—Ming-Temple, featuring a ming tree motif in pink, green, and yellow tones on a fluted plate. All Ming-Temple pieces, from dinner plates to coffee cups, are rimmed in 24-k. gold.
 Add beautiful glassware and silver, and a final delightful touch of decoration in a tiny centerpiece of clustered tea roses surrounding a red paper heart. It is almost as though you had made a Valentine out of the table itself!

Duane Ernst Back From Atlantic Fleet-Exercise
 Dispatch from the Fleet Home Town News Center at Great Lakes, Illinois: Somewhere in the cold, grey North-western Atlantic between the southern tip of Greenland and the Davis Strait area a Navy look-out searched the wind swept sky.
 As the foggy sleet lifted for a second the enemy "Black Force," was spotted and the two-week "battle" began again.
 Thus, Duane P. Ernst, seaman, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Ernst, 220 Beauford St., Manchester, serving with the "Blue Force" aboard the heavy cruiser, USS Albany, concluded the extensive cold weather exercise with "the Atlantic Fleet."
 Pierce Arctic weather, 50-knot gales, mountainous seas and icy sprays that froze into sheets of ice over men, gun and equipment put both "forces" through the most valid of tests in the cold weather experiment.

They Do "Give A Hoot" For Easy
 Easy Roberts finally got rid of the noisy pigeons that used to whoop it up under his eaves.
 He must have tried a dozen ways to scare them off. But no matter what he did, they would be right back cooing by his window the next morning.
 Then Easy thought of an old stuffed owl he had in his attic. He propped it on the roof so's all the pigeons could see it. They left ... and three hoot owls have taken their place. Easy swears the hooting is even worse than the cooing of the pigeons.

NEW FRONT-MOUNTED MOWER for the Model CA Tractor
 The new CA mower mounts in front of the tractor drive wheels. You can watch it constantly without tiresome turning around. Turn corners easily. Mow right up to fences and ditches. Hydraulic control lifts, lowers and controls cutter bar height. Twin V-belts transfer smooth, shock-resistant power flow from the tractor to the mower drive shaft.
 Quick hitch plus, solid anchoring to tractor gives fast, clean mowing. And the tractor drawbar is always free for raking, baling or other work without removing the mower.
 Here is the latest in mower engineering to match Allis-Chalmers CA power and speed. Write or stop in for full details.
