Six heavily loaded Chevy trucks ran all the way up the rugged Alcan Highway in less than 45 hours! That's cutting more than a full day off the normal running time. They ran right around the clock, stopping only to refuel.

But the important fact about this run was that it proved that Chevy trucks through and through. The Alcan Highway is a supreme test of every truck component. Engines had to prove their power up high-climbing grades and through washouts. Frames and suspensions flexed their muscles over axle-deep ruts and miles of pounding gravel. And not a single truck turned back or dropped out due to mechanical failure.

WHAT PRICE SAFETY?

Hi, Neighbor!

By Ella V. MacQueen

A lot can be said in favor of the old-fashioned method of discussing community affairs around the late-lamented cracker barrel in a general store, where the pros and cons of all controversial questions could be thrashed out loudly and amiably, and all interested parties could freely express themselves, and regardless of the outcome, everyone had the satisfaction of having had his say. The cracker barrel is a thing of the past, but the method or friendly discussion is still the best means of fairly presenting any question of community interest to the public.

We don't have a cracker barrel, but we do have a question that we think should be considered by the residents of this community.

We've been stressing the importance of the necessity of the complete protection of three shots of Salk vaccine for all youngsters and adults up through the age of 40 years. A large percentage of the public, as yet, has not received these shots. A large supply of the vaccine is now waiting to be used immediately, to afford complete safety before the start of the polio season. The Salk vaccine cannot be stored for long lengths of time. It should be used now.

What is causing the so-called "apathy" of the public? Is the cost prohibitive to families where there are four, five or more members who should be protected?

The government last week issued figures showing that the cost of living for the past month reached an all-time high. With the cost of living taking such a large percentage of family income now, is this added cost of "living safely" too much of a strain on the average family budget? Is the cost of the treatment too high for those who have supported the March of Dimes during the many years when scientists, doctors and chemists sought a preventative for the dread disease of polio? Is it necessary for parents to make a choice of the immediate need of food, clothing and shelter and the possible need of Salk vaccine protection?

We don't know the answers to these questions, but we do know that many needing protection haven't received the Salk vaccine treatment. We know that the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis has asked all Marching Mothers to stress the need of this protection, and that Dr. Salk, who perfected the vaccine, has urged immediate action by those not already protected or fully protected before the polio season. These treatments to insure the most perfect protection should begin by March 1, so that all three shots could be given prior to the polio season.

Almost every citizen in this community has aided in this drive, either through giving through their children in schools, placing coins in canisters or attending benefits, or having their contributions ready for the Marching Mothers. Every citizen should be protected so that every cent collected for the March of Dimes could be utilized for patients who were struck by polio before the Salk vaccine was perfected.

However, it is quite possible that the cost of the care, treatment and rehabilitation of one new patient struck by polio because the Salk vaccine treatments were neglected, would use up as much, or more, than the entire amount collected for the March of Dimes through the efforts of so many here.

The National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis has asked all of the marchers to hand this message of warning to all homes in the area.

Have your donations ready for this final collection of the campaign, and give your marchers "one for the road."

Milk Production to Remain High Agriculture Department Predicts

The Agriculture Department says milk production will remain high this winter. It said the relation between prices of milk and feed factors dairy output and supplies of feed concentrates are at record levels. However, the quantity of hay in some northern sections of the country is not as good as last year.

Milk production in the early weeks of 1957 for the country as a whole was above a year earlier with about the same number of cows producing at record rates per cow.

For 1957, according to the Department's "Dairy Situation" report, prospects indicate that total output will rise about two billion pounds above last year's to 147.5 billion pounds. This is an increase of 1.5 percent over the 1956 output of 145 billion pounds.

The pattern of milk use changed from 1955 to 1956—some major items increased, but not all. Total use of milk in the country rose five per cent during the period. Production of both butter and ice cream four per cent. Most of the increase in milk output apparently was used in food products.

Unless there is a significant change in price support levels, the department's pattern of milk use probably will not change much over the year. Total use of individual dairy products in 1956 also showed little change from 1955.

Although actual data on consumption of dairy products is not readily available from the department, preliminary figures indicate little change for individual items. It does appear that per person consumption last year of all dairy products as a group increased about one per cent. The change is likely in 1957, says officials.

The price support received by farmers for milk increased four per cent in 1956 over 1955. This was a result of higher prices for both field manufacturing milk components and somewhat larger utilization of milk in fluid milk products, officials explained.

Increased prices for manufacturing milk and butterfat, they said, resulted primarily from increased support levels. Generally, prices of manufactured dairy products did not rise above the equivalent of commodity credits corporation purchase prices for butter which rose slightly toward the end of the year.

Higher prices and record large sales pushed farmers' receipts from sale of dairy products in 1956 to the second highest on record, only slightly exceeded by the 1955 figure.

Christmas Tree Market Studied at Farm Session

Christmas tree growing and marketing problems were the chief topics discussed at the Christmas Tree Growers meetings at Kellough Center, East Lansing, January 29 and 30 during Farmer's Week with 300 growers and guests present.

The educational meetings were arranged by T. D. Stevens, head, Forestry Department, Michigan State University, in cooperation with the Michigan Christmas Tree Growers Association.

C. A. Boyer, chief of the division of plant industry of the Michigan Department of Agriculture, reported on the Christmas tree industry for 1956. Later Boyer looked on "A Blueprint for Progress for Michigan Christmas Tree Growers," Wednesday's meeting was devoted to organization and future marketing problems.

According to Gale H. Gibson, president, Michigan Christmas Tree Growers' Association, new markets must be found for approximately 50,000 Michigan Christmas trees annually during the next five years.

The fourth annual meeting and banquet of the Michigan Christmas Tree Growers Association was held at Kellough Center, East Lansing, Michigan, January 29 and 30 during Farmer's Week.

Herbert predicted increased markets for quality trees based on population estimates, but these increased markets will lag far behind increased production. New markets must be found, he said.

Russell, executive secretary, State Soil Conservation committee, presented proposed revisions of the Christmas tree section of the State Tax Commission Assessors Manual. State Treasurer Sanford A. Brown also addressed the group.

Soldon to do a man's actions tally with his good intentions.

U-P Moves to Eradicate Cattle Ills

After February 1, Menominee county will require immediate slaughter of diseased carcasses as part of a new eradication program to rid the state of brucellosis by 1960. This places the state's Upper Peninsula in the Plan A classification, and is another step toward the eradication program operated jointly by the Michigan and U.S. departments of agriculture.

Brucellosis is a contagious disease of cattle, which is transmitted by milk under certain conditions in the form of undulant fever. Also known as Bang's disease, brucellosis has cost cattle owners millions of dollars over the years. It causes abortion in cows with resultant loss of calves and milk.

Designation of a county as a plan A or B or C and slaughter areas entails testing of cattle, quarantines and a slaughter program on a group of animals are paid up to $50 for a year and $10 for a year for a purchased with the owner also receiving the value of the carcass.

The Michigan commission of agriculture designates a county as a plan A or B or C at the request of the board of supervisors in the county requesting it.

Corn Farmers Are Advised On Plantings

Continued corn planting can be successful on some fields, reports R. L. Cook, Michigan State University soil scientist, during a Farmer's Week session at M.S.U.

He adds there are several limitations but most important is the need for liberal fertilization.

Greatest need, he said, is for nitrogen.

And, with continuous planting of corn, growers will have to apply about one pound nitrogen for each expected bushel yield.

Other two main fertilizer elements—phosphate and potassium—need applications of from 40 to 100 pounds per acre, year depending on soil and soil tests.

Corn points out rotation-grown corn on livestock farms may take advantage of fertility left by other crops. And, this left-over fertility may run to a high nitrogen level. This is especially true when corn is planted to field just out of alfalfa and recently manured.

Need for potassium and phosphate might also be due to a shortage of 200 pounds of 50-0-10 or 30-0-10 per acre.

Soil types and soil tests again determine the need, Cook said.

Farm Exports Jump During Fall Period

Farm exports in the five-month July-November period jumped 38 per cent in value and 42 per cent in quantity above the corresponding period last year.

The agriculture department said that during the first five months of 1957, total value of agricultural exports were valued at $1,800,000,000 compared with the actual shipment value of $1,328,000,000 in the same period of 1956.

Barnyard Topics Expert Says Reds' Farm Output Lags

The year 1954 wasn't particularly a good one for the agricultural sector of the country. Many would prefer not to be reminded of it.

Yet the commerce department's bureau of the census estimates that output of conditions on the farm at the bygone days of 54.

This week, for instance, the bureau came up with final figures based on the agricultural census of 1954 which showed:

That about three-fourths of the 4.5 million farmers then in the U.S. owned all or part of the land they farmed. The number of farms operated by tenants, part-tenants and sharecroppers, however, had decreased by 20 per cent between 1950 and 1954 and those operated by full owners decreased by 11 per cent.

The average value of land and buildings per farm among commercial farms in 1954 was $28,429. For other farms, including part-farms, residential, farms and farms of less than $10,000, the value of land and buildings averaged $6,757.

The average value of land and buildings per farm for all farms was $19,751.

Among commercial farms, fruit-and-vegetable farms averaged highest in value of land and buildings. The final 1954 census figure is $40,401. Cash-grain farms, however, were next in value with $40,000.

Let's see the decisive factors in the '57 Inner Ford

They show you why the new kind of Ford is worth more when you buy it, worth more when you sell it!

The secret of Ford's nationwide success is this: it's a new kind of Ford... new from the wheels up... more than a last year's model with a few "face lift" changes. In a Ford the classic engine and body are individually engineered into one spacious rock-solid unit.

If you're a careful car-buyer with whom features count, count the new features of the '57 Ford. They're there! There's only one conclusion: the liveliest car in the low-price field is the completely new Ford. For the decisive facts see your Ford Dealer.

We made popcorn much for Mom and Dad at Christmas. Our Community project—the polo drive was loads of fun and people were most generous. Our Troop 5 sold 200 bags of peanuts and 100 balloons. Thank you Manchester people for your support and say, weren't those peanuts the best you ever tasted? We thought so too!

Hi, Neighbor!
By Ella V. MacQueen

Those who lamented and bewailed the passing of the annual tour of the Ringling Brothers, Barnum and Bailey and other large circuses, should avail themselves of the opportunity, use the kids as an excuse, and journey down to the Shrine Circus which is presenting its 50th annual performance at the State Fair Coliseum now through February 17. All the thrills are there, and kids will get as big a thrill as they ever experienced under the Big Top.

The King of Wild Animal trainers, Clyde Beatty, is there with his "mixed cat" troupe of performing animals: the clowns are funnier than ever, and just as colorful as under the Big Tops. The kids will recognize Blinky, Ricky the Clown and Chester and Joe from their favorite TV shows. There are high-wire acts, acrobats, performing animal and dogs, bicycle acts, high pole performers and the famous Liberty Horse troupe. Don't lament the old circus. Take the kids and the young-at-heart and have a real circus party. It's good old-fashioned fun, and for a good cause.

Needs of Manchester Area Schools Reported By Advisory Committee

The swelling of enrollment in the Manchester system demands that two new rooms be added by next fall. A special report by Herb Jacob of the Housing Committee suggested that the two rooms be added to the Pleasant Lake unit. These rooms, plus a combined space in the seven classrooms now in operation will take care of the basic needs of the school system in 1957-58.

That the present school plant will also require certain renovations and improvements was brought out by Carl Smith, principal of the Survey Committee.

Among these needs are better heating and ventilation in the Junior High, better lighting in the same building, and repairs to the sliding doors in the elementary building.

Glorians will be placed upon his brow and suitable prizes given out.
