New Self-Powered Tail Light

We Asked for It!

Hi, Neighbor! By Ella V. MacQueen

in speaking of the chance and change of this fickle old world, we've all heard the old expression, "nothing's for sure but death and taxes." But there's one other thing we can bank on, as the seasons roll around, and that's Spring Fever. If you haven't got it now, you'll get it. If you have it, you'll doubt the sanity of those who aren't infected with it, and if you haven't got it, you'll gently sneer at those who have. One thing only is certain, Spring fever does jog us out of Winter-bound routines as surely as a warm shower routs snow and ice.

The slight touch of Spring in the air during a few days of the past week sent many of us to look at the garden for signs of Spring. What did most of us find? That last forlorn pile of leaves that Junior didn't burn before the first snowfall. That bare patch on the lawn where Sis and her girl friend built a late Autumn fire to roust marshmallows. Two pickets of the fence are hanging askew, and the hedges need trimming. And over in the corner by the back fence, we find it at last -the old snowshovel that was missing after the first snowfall. Junior must have used it to build his igloo. Might as well take it and put it with the new shovel while we look over the tools we'll need for the first Spring "fix-up" of lawn and garden.

Then we notice that many of the field stones around the flower beds have been pushed out of place by sleds and snow and ice, and we drop the shovel and start to move the stones to their proper places. Heavy aren't they? But Spring is on the way and we must make her welcome.

We huff and puff and pull and tug and wedge a few stones where they belong. We begin to feel a "crick" in the back, and notice that we've broken three fingernails. We decide to perk up our fix-up ambition with a bit of melody so we start to whistle "Welcome, Sweet Springtime."

Then it happens! Like a last-minute reprieve for a condemned man it happens. A snowflake makes a threepoint landing on the stone we've just started to lift. Then another—and another. By crackey! Lots of snow, and a mass of dark clouds coming closer! Looks like quite a storm, so we drop the stone and head for the house. Wait a minute-we've forgotten the shovel, but who cares when, if our luck holds, the snow will have it covered safely from sight in a few minutes?

The annual debut of our eternally young debutante. Spring, will be held on Thursday, March 21, and we pray that this year she will reign throughout her season with maidenly modesty and not act the part of a prankish jade who grabs departing Winter's snowy garments and teases him into lingering for awhile. Please, Miss Spring of 1957, act the part of a dutiful, demure, sweet damsel. Let Old Man Winter trudge away to the polar regions in peace! Perhaps he's as tired of us as we are of him, so don't tease the old processors of the county at the state contest to be held duronger. Behave yourself, please.

County Dairy Princess

A highlight of the second annual banquet of the Wash-tary School on Saturday, March 16, will be the choosing of a Dairy Princess who will represent the 1400 dairy farmers and processors of the county at the state contest to be held durong June Dairy Month at the Michigan State University at East. Michigan State University at East Washtenaw's Dairy Princess

Only a few more blustery days and then Sweet Spring will weave her magic spell again. Blue, sunny skies and warm and gentle breeze-(I feel as the' I'm just about to sneeze!)

With dogwood trees erupting into bloom-(I wish they'd turn the heat up in this room.) The daffodils will glow with shining gol (I hope I'm not developing a cold.)

We'll see again the tulip and the rose. (I hab a stuffy feelig id by dose.) Once more I'll grovel in my flower bed (By deck zo stiv I caddod durd by 'ead.)

Sweet violets will deck the woodland path (I dink I'll go and dake a good hog bath.) Spring has meant romance since the world began-(I'll dry a double doze of Zuritan.)

Oh. Gentle Spring, bedecked with flowers bright-(The way by 'ead is aching is a fright.) How can I zig of Sprig wed I'b zo zick? (Gib be adudded Kleedex, subone, guick!)
