Potter Asks "Tax Break" for Teachers

A tax break for America's school teachers is the aim of a bill introduced today by Senator Charles E. Potter, Republican of Michigan.

Why, then, are we discriminating against our splendid teachers when they attempt to develop themselves professionally? Under present law a teacher may deduct summer school or other higher education costs only if she proves that such study is necessary to hold her job. It takes advanced training in order to qualify for a better position, her expenses are non-deductible.

WHICH WAY DOES YOUR MEAT GO?

The Round-About Costlier Way From Farm To Stockyards To Packing House To Branch Plant To Retailer To Your Table

The Short-Cut Economical Way From Farm To Slaughter To Processing To Retailer To Your Table

Our most memorable recollection of an April Fool trick of which we were victims was really self-inflicted. It happened on the day of the All-Fools Day Foolery.

Even that didn't subdue Lady. She'd lash and pound her tormentor with her tail from the time the first milk-stream hit the last stripping was completed.

We had to confess our deed to Dad before he clobbered and he echoed Lady's "April Fool" and barnstormed us for the next 24 hours.

As we watched Yul stride up the aisle with lights reflected grandly on his hair, he and I were laughing at our contemporaries whose hair is in the going-gone category would have a new birth of jaunty youthfulness.

And who ever said that "Beggars Can't Be Choosers"? Just look at Egypt's Nasser. He came begging aid—didn't get it—grabbed the Canal—was sent scamping by the Jewish forces—lost all the battles—but won everything he asked for.

He was nobody's April Fool. Who was?
