... SKIP OR SKIMP BREAKFAST

The answer to this question is based on six years of research conducted by the College of Medicine at the State University of Iowa. Seventy subjects, 12 to 83 years of age participated in the research. The research demonstrated that: A good breakfast is essential for maximum efficiency, both physical and mental, during the late morning hours, and that a basic cereal and milk breakfast is a sound one.

A basic breakfast defined as providing one-fourth of the caloric requirement and one-fourth of the daily protein allowance is superior in maintaining efficiency in the late merning hours, when compared either with a larger or smaller morning meal.

The films pointed out the suicide man is bringing upon himself by exploiting Mother Earth and how he is reaping the whirlwind of dust storms which blow away the topsoil and froods which wash it away. The script points out that 500 to 1000 million tons of topsoil are washed into the sea every year by the rivers carying soil from the denuded hills and prairies. The department previously reported a 70 per cent increase in irrigated areas in 28 eastern states between 1949 and 1954, while irrigation in the West was boosted by only 10 per cent.

The department said 81 per cent of the $40,500,000 was used to develop irrigation facilities on 600,000 acres.

The remainder of the money according to the Federal Farm Agency, was used to provide household and livestock water supplies and for such soil conservation measures as terracing, pasture improvement, drainage, brush removal and tree planting.

An Agriculture Department report that farmers have borrowed $40.500,000 for soil and water conservation projects in the past three years attests to the rapid growth of irrigation on eastern and midwestern farms.

The Farmers Home Administration said the money has been lent to 11,430 farmers since the department in 1554 began making or assuring loans for development of rural irrigation systems and water supplies and conservation on a nationwide basis.
