Council Restricts parking; Approves New Ordinance

A Monday council meeting a resolution was passed to limit the parking time on the west side of Ann Arbor road from Bass' scales south to Main street and west on the north side of Main street to the bridge to two hours. It was also approved that the alley running from Main street between the Little Shop and Hummel and Shannon be one way from Main street south. Parking on both sides of Torrey street from Vernon street to 200 feet north of Duncan street be limited to two hours, except Sunday and holidays.

The council voted to donate $75 to Carr Park to finish the year's program. The Village at Torrey was authorized to negotiate for Gulf Oil Property adjacent to the Village Parking lot with option to buy. The attorney was also instructed to acquire lease for Lannan property.

A new Ordinance No. 44 and to amend Ordinance No. 33 of the village to regulate and control water mains for the village. Applications for connecting into the village water system has to be filed with the Village Clerk, accompanied by a fee of $75. If the application is denied by the Council the money is to be refunded. If the water connection is approved by the Council, a permit is to be issued to the applicant authorizing the connection to the water main and do all the work to provide all material to extend the water line to the curb box of the applicant. The home owner has the responsibility of providing all material and work to extend the water line into the premises from the curb box. The work and material from the curb box to the meter is subject to the approval of the village before water can be turned on.

The new ordinance calls for all water connection pipe to be at least one inch in diameter from main to meter and must be of material other than iron or lead. The expense of all work and material provided by the village, other than the connection or tap in, is to be paid by the applicant. If this remains unpaid for three months the village will have the right to shut off and disconnect the supply of water. If the bill is unpaid in 6 months the expense will become a lien against the property and will be given to a tax assessor to be assessed against the premises.

Area Men Air Views On New Cars

Manufacture of smaller automobiles, fewer changes in styling, more safety, less engine noise—these are some of the features two local men feel consumers want in cars of today and tomorrow.

The two are Russell E. Brewer of 2325 Edgewood St. and Leonard K. Starks of 451 Ainsworth Circle, Ypsilanti.

Brewer and Starks have been given the use of 1959 Ford cars for 30 days after participating in a two-day conference in Detroit last week during which the Club-Top Organization sought for the Ford Motor Co. answers as to what consumers want in new automobiles. The two are to report on the performance of the new Fords.

In the meantime, both Brewer and Starks aired their conference views on new cars.

"There's a definite place for the small car, especially where there's a family," Brewer declared. "I would like to see American manufacturers produce small cars, without (consumers) having to go overseas to get them."

Brewer feels that auto manufacturers' year-long "radical changes in car styling makes consumers 'dissatisfied,' makes their year-old models "outmoded" and "harmful" purchasing of new cars.

In this connection, Starks believes that restyling of cars should result in added utility, comfort and safety and not be prompted solely by manufacturers' demands for a new look.

He asserts that it's not auto's rear windows are on a horizontal plane too far and should be redesigned to prevent the collection of snow and ice, as an example.

Starks claims the so-called six-passenger car can comfortably hold only four passengers. He calls for redesigned larger car bodies with ample headroom.

Redesign to add safety belts was also advocated by Starks who favors safety belts, padded features and "roll-back" seats on all cars. He sees the location of the rear-view mirror's pivot as a potential danger, and calls for it to be relocated to prevent persons from being impaled on it in auto crashes.

Brewer believes consumers want less horsepower in their new cars and both he and Starks favor more economy in operation of new cars.

Brewer's view is that highways are not built to permit utilization of much of the power in new-car engines.

Leonard Starks is a graduate of Manchester high school and the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Stark of Rogers Corners.

Voters Won't Know Before Election Date

Washtenaw voters won't be informed in advance of the November 4 election whether the county plans to use a special three-quarter mill property tax for two additional floors on the present County Jail or whether the county considers it more feasible to build a separate administration building.

This was pointed out by the Board of Supervisors when a special committee studying the matter failed to bring a recommendation on how the money will be used, other than for an addition to the jail.

William I. Scheel, chairman of the board, indicated that the voters will have to trust the board to determine what sort of addition to the jail is in the best interests of the taxpayers.

Whether the county should be allowed to levy the three-quarter mill (75 cents on each $100 of equalized valuation) tax and registered voters should be aware that the county needs more space to house prisoners and that the best new additional facilities to take care of them will be determined after the election. Mr. Scheel said the joint committee studying the problem will poll several times on whether to build a stand alone building or to add to the jail.

Donald M. Silworth, chairman of the board's sheriff committee, said that voters should be aware that the county needs more space to house prisoners and that the best new additional facilities to take care of them will be determined after the election. Mr. Silworth said the joint committee studying the problem will poll several times on whether to build a stand alone building or to add to the jail.

Other supervisors said that if voters don't approve the addition to the jail, the county will have to transport prisoners to counties with more facilities and pay for their upkeep and cost of transportation. One supervisor said it would be better if the public would have to be informed that the county will have to pay one way or another.

Shelley Bragg, Ann Arbor architect, presented sketches for a separate building to the committee that if all administrative officers were moved out of the jail the building could be made to house 125 prisoners. He said that if two more floors were put on the present jail that it could be made to hold 150 prisoners. Beach said the special committee discussed various ways of increasing space in the jail for two hours and concluded that it would need longer to decide which plan was more feasible.

Auxiliary Votes Money To Chest Drive

The American Legion Auxiliary met for the October meeting with their new president, Mrs. Russell Van Smith, conducting the meeting. The Veterans' Hospital party was discussed. Tecumseh Youth Brazil 'Diplomat'

A 17-year old Tecumseh high school freshman, who dreams of some day becoming a full fledged diplomat, already has his foot inside the door.

Arthur J. Collingsworth, son of Mr. and Mrs. Neri Collingsworth of Tecumseh, formerly of Manchester, has been named as correspondent for the Brazilian Government Trade Bureau from Michigan and Ohio.

As a correspondent young Arthur will visit various cities in Michigan and Ohio and will confer with officials and appear at club meetings to promote Brazilian tourism and trade.

For several years he has been interested in foreign lands and has taken particular interest in the large South American nation. Several months ago he wrote a letter to the president of Brazil expressing a desire to help promote friendship between our country and the United States.

The letter was referred to the Brazilian Government Trade Bureau in New York and a few weeks ago Dr. Francis Medaglio, director of the bureau, appointed his correspondent.

Arthur never has been to Brazil, but he hopes to correct that in 1960 by visiting there during the formal dedication of the new city of Brasilia as the new capital.

Community Chest First Reports In; Businessmen Lag

The goal is still $7,000. The deadline is November 3rd. Seventy per cent is still due after the first week report.

About 30 per cent of the $7,000 for the Manchester Area United Community Fund and Red Cross drive was turned in the first week, $2,266.20 in cash and pledges.

House-to-house solicitors are leading the way again this year with over half of the estimated collections made. The estimates were based on last year's collections since the regular collection was held on the end of the second week, except for the unavoidable "call-backs."

Mrs. Jesse Walker and Mrs. James Baker, the rural and village chairman, both expressed their appreciation of the way their teams are functioning.

The Business Men's Division is behind schedule in spite of a two weeks advantage with their materials and lists. Only 20 per cent of their estimated quota has been received by the chairman Rolfe Grossman. Only $470.00 for the first week. It is necessary for this division to raise their sights above last years collections in order to meet the goal according to campaign chairman, Norman Wallace. Pledge forms are included with every kit to business men and their wives. Solicitors the amount they are contributing for their own health, welfare and human needs even though they do not want to give their cash donation at this time.

EVERY SOLICITOR IN THE BUSINESS MEN'S DIVISION IS EXPECTED TO MAKE A REPORT TO ROLFE GROSSMAN BY SATURDAY, OCTOBER 25th.

A recap of the industrial division will be available next week. GIVE YOUR SHARE—NOW!
