John Deere Day Draws Large Crowd

There were over 220 at the John Deere Day sponsored by R. C. Davidter last week Tuesday with about 170 at the noon time luncheon.

Mr. Davidter said it was probably the largest attendance ever to attend the school. The school is staged to show the latest in farm machinery and to acquaint farmers with the progress in farming facilities. This gives farmers an opportunity to meet and talk over their mutual farm problems with their neighbors.

Rev. Daniel Fuller, a former employe of R. C. Davidter, now a minister living near addition was among those present at the event held at the Emmanuel church hall.

CARD OF THANKS

I wish to thank all my friends, neighbors, and relatives and the Double A Union for their kind gifts, visits, flowers, gifts. Rev. Foltz for calls at the hospital and since I returned home. Erwin Roller

Rev. Donald H. Voss Installed As New Pastor At St. John's

The Rev. Donald H. Voss, formerly of Danville, Ill., was installed Sunday as pastor of St. John's Evangelical and Reformed church at Rogers Corners and Francisco.

The Rev. Henry Kroehler, a former pastor of the Francisco church and now president of the Michigan Indiana Synod, officiated at the installation services. Also present for the services at both churches were the Rev. Amos Bogart of Jackson, who has assisted as supply pastor since the Rev. D. G. Davis' resignation became effective Jan. 1 of this year.

The Rev. Voss is a native of Michigan and has said that returning to the state will be in the nature of a homecoming. He was born in Grand Rapids in 1927 and has lived at Fulton and Three Oaks.

He entered the U.S. Navy from Michigan, serving during World War II, and graduated from Calvin College in 1949. Following his graduation, he worked for a time for a seasonal manufacturing firm in Indiana and then attended Eden Seminary in St. Louis for two years. He received his bachelor of divinity degree from Evangelical Seminary at Naperville, Ill., in 1955. While serving his first pastorate in Illinois he earned a master of science degree (1957) at Northern Illinois University, DeKalb, Ill.

The Rev. Voss plans to do graduate work at the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, in addition to serving as pastor of the two churches.

The Rev. Donald Voss is serving his third pastorate since his ordination when he assumed his duties at the two St. John's churches in addition to his pastoral work at the two-year experience as a public school teacher.

The Rev. Voss is married and the father of two children, Erica Lee, two years old, and Douglas, six months old. Mrs. Voss is a registered nurse. She and the children will arrive this week. The Rev. Voss will return to Iowa after his installation to accompany them on the trip here. He is to be in charge of the services at the two churches here on March 8.

The installation at St. John's church at Rogers Corners took place during the regular worship service at 9:30 a.m. Sunday. At the Francisco church the service took place at 11 a.m. and was followed by a potluck dinner in the church hall.

Win Awards For Top 4-H Projects

Letture-time becomes gay-time when Karen Girbach, 17, of Ann Arbor, has charge of recreation. Winner of the state 4-H Recreation program title, she received a fountain pen and pencil set from the National Committee on Boys and Girls Club Work.

Miss Girbach became a recreation leader two years ago, after attending junior leadership training school. She has since helped organize the county recreation school and the 1958 Share-the-Fun Festival.

She is a member of recreation committees in the Junior Leaders Club, the Dairy and Dairy-Feed Club, and service club, as well as at church and school. At the 1957 county council convention she supervised games and led songs. As a cheerleader, she has been in charge of three 15-minute pep assemblies.

Now secretary of the county council she has also won county awards in public speaking, clothing, dairy foods, home economics, and dress design. She is State winner in the 4-H Community Relations program. Two years ago, Miss Madri organized a new 4-H Club, the Schram Pioneers.

She became the assistant to a director of mentally retarded and delinquent children and, in this office, reclaimed two boys from a home for delinquents and started them in 4-H projects of their choice. She has also worked with retarded children.

While attending Yale High School, Miss Madri received a dramatic award, and was elected state chairman of American English. She is now a trainee at Michigan State University. These 4-H programs are conducted by the Cooperative Extension Service.

World 'Diplomat' Hailed As Youngest

The world's youngest diplomat will arrive in New York on Friday. While not really a full-fledged diplomat, 14-year-old Arthur J. Collingsworth of Tecumseh, Michigan, is a top-notch cable relations man employed by the Brazilian Government.

Called in attention through a series of letters to Brazil's president and to the Brazilian Government's Trade Bureau in New York, Arthur ended up with authorization to set up a junior branch of the Trade Bureau with Michigan's northern Ohio as his territory and an allowance to cover expenses.

Proving that his interest was more than a young man's passing fancy, this unusual boy set out on a campaign of lectures, film presentations and distribution of promotional literature to schools, civic organizations and clubs. The Trade Bureau suddenly required that its mail from business and industrial firms in Michigan and Ohio be sent to the boy's home.

Plans are being made to have Arthur travel to New York on his way to Brazil to investigate setting up a subsidiary there. He had nothing but praise for the part Arthur had played in supplying them with information and encouragement.

Equally astonishing has been the coverage given by the Michigan press as well. The one who contacted the newspapers and gained interest in this was a good way served was Arthur himself, who got in a plug for Brazil, the one country of the world next to his own that he is interested in the most. The DETROIT TRIBUNE's attention was attracted by Brazil's not only taking him seriously, but his own earnest hopes for his future. Plans are

Windy Gets "Collared"

A strange, red-tinted scene unfolded in the other day wearing one of those "Chersterfield" coats. When the boys saw the fancy velvet collar, they broke out laughing.

The stranger seemed to ignore them and went on about his business. He even pretended he didn't hear Windy's remark about the "big city" coat. Then, on leaving, he walked over to Windy.

"I rather you find my coat peculiar," he said. "Well, where I come from we're so peculiar we even extend a hand to strangers." With that, he shook Windy's hand.

Agricultural Study Offers Many Careers

College training in agriculture leads to some of today's best careers, according to Dr. Richard M. Swenson, assistant dean of College of Agriculture at Michigan State University.

"Agriculture is a broad field full of fascinating new opportunities," points out the educator. "Incomes in agricultural fields are good for those with the right kind of training. Many professional and technical jobs are available."

Dr. Swenson estimates that about 40 per cent of all jobs in agriculture. Nearly 8 million people work on farms, 7 million produce for and service farmers and 11 million process and distribute farm production. "You can actually count more than 600 distinct occupations in agricultural research, industry, business, education, communications, conservation, services and farming and ranching," according to Dr. Swenson.

The agricultural dean urges farm youth to consider some kind of advanced education after they finish high school. Additional education is one of the most important helps toward reaching your goal in life.

A special brochure outlining career opportunities in agriculture has just been published by the American Association of Land Grant Colleges and Universities. A copy is available by writing to:

Balanced Feed For Milk Cows Boosts Profit

Feeding a dairy herd "right" can mean a gain or loss of about $14 a day, state dairy scientists at the Michigan Agricultural Experiment Station.

The secret is to serve cows the kind of feed that will give them the necessary nutrients to produce as much milk as they possibly can.

That, according to these scientists, calls for a balance between the amount of hay and silage offered to the cows.

Michigan beef feeders can expect prices on slaughter cattle to peak moderately lower into early spring, according to farm economists at Michigan State University.

Scientists are trying to find out why silage depresses the appetite. Studies to date indicate that moisture content and the amount of acid in thisilage are not the big reason for cows wanting to eat less.

Recent developments in mechanical harvesting and feeding of forage have interested dairymen in the possibility of feeding silage as the only roughage.
