5000 ALCOHOLICS IN COUNTY

There are approximately 5,000 persons in Washtenaw county who are alcoholics, based on the number of persons who die yearly from cirrhosis of the liver, the Washtenaw County Committee on Alcoholism was told yesterday.

This compares with 226,000 persons who can be classified as alcoholics in the entire state, Dr. Robert A. Moore, an authority on the causes and effects of alcoholism, said.

Dr. Moore said, however, that figures might not be reliable because the county reports each year an extremely small number of deaths caused by the disease. Cirrhosis of the liver often is caused by alcoholism.

The committee decided to ask several agencies concerned with the alcoholic to determine whether there isn't a more exact method for determining the number of alcoholics in the county.

Members of the committee met at Eastern Michigan University to discuss further steps towards the establishment of an Alcohol Information Center for this area.

It also agreed to permit other community agencies interested in alcoholism and individuals who have an interest in the subject to become members of the organization.

POSTAL INFORMATION
"Don't be afraid to accept damaged parcel post." So says Postmaster George Merriman.

Reluctance to accept insured or c.o.d. parcels which arrive in bad condition is based upon a misunderstanding that the right to file claim for indemnity will thereby be jeopardized.

"The reverse of this is actually the case," states Postmaster Merriman.

According to the postmaster acceptance of a damaged parcel speeds adjustment of the claim and avoids unnecessary postage-due charges which must be paid by the sender if the parcel is refused and returned. The following action is recommended when a damaged insured or c.o.d. parcel is offered for delivery:

1. Accept the parcel and sign the delivery receipt.
2. Open the parcel and determine the extent of damage. (Damaged parcel post packages do not have to be opened in the presence of a postal employee.)
3. Present the damaged items together with the wrapper or carton showing the insured or c.o.d. number at the post office.

Inasmuch as the sender and the addressee must both sign the claim, the addressee's portion may be completed at the address post office immediately upon receipt of the parcel. However, if the addressee prefers that the sender institute the claim, the parcel should be accepted and the sender notified of the damage. In this event, the damaged article should be retained by the addressee until he is notified to bring it to the post office. The preferred method is for the addressee to file the claim.

"Although indemnity is not paid on damage to ordinary parcels, they too should be accepted by the addressee and the sender should be notified," says Postmaster Merriman. "This enables the sender to make replacement or adjustment through commercial insurance or otherwise."

For additional information about postal service claims and adjustments, call at the Post office.

"OUTSTANDING FARMER": Leonard Burmeister, 36, of 5575 Steinbach Rd., Freedom township, was named "outstanding young farmer of the year" at a local Junior Chamber of Commerce dinner last night. He is shown here on his 189-acre farm.

A 36-year-old Holstein and quarter-horse breeder, Leonard Burmeister of 5575 Steinbach Rd., Freedom township, was named the Ann Arbor area's "outstanding young farmer of the year last night."

The award was conferred on Burmeister by the Ann Arbor Junior Chamber of Commerce at a JCC banquet at the Zal Gaz Grotto lodge here.

Burmeister is now a nominee in the State JCC Michigan Farmer of the Year contest, which is to be held March 5 in Tecumseh.

David DeJanovich of Willis, chairman of last night's event, presented the award.

Burmeister operates a 180-acre farm, producing pasture, hay, while maintaining a herd of 80 registered Holsteins, a commercial flock of 120 ewes and breeding and selling quarter horses sired by Tensor Tony, a horse that has placed second the past two years at the Michigan State Fair.

The Holstein herd Burmeister maintains is on the Herd Improvement Registry Test program supervised by the Michigan State University.

Besides maintaining the herd for business operations, he breeds Holsteins for herd improvement throughout the state.

Burmeister raises quarter horses, a fast rodeo and ranch animal for short runs, as a hobby that has been turned into a profitable business.

Burmeister has built at his farm a bale elevator, bale loader land roller, lime spreader, power take-off post hole digger, improved plows and modified commercial equipment to make it more adaptable.

In addition, he has built a 3x58-foot horse barn using his own timber and a design he created.

Burmeister is a member of the Saline Area Schools' Advisory Board, has been a 4-H Club leader for the past 13 years, is a member of the Washtenaw Farm Bureau, past president of the County Holstein Breeders Association and member and past president of the Washtenaw Farm Council.

Judges who selected Burmeister from a field of 30 nominees are Charles Almond, Roy Underwood and Richard Sorenson, all members of the JCC farm committee; Robert Hall, manager of the Federal Land Bank; and H. E. Lang, agricultural instructor at Lincoln High School.
