From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

He "Auto" Know Better

Should have seen the crowd come running when Cap Edwards breezed up to the Post Office in his brand-new buggy. It's one of those pint-size foreign cars with the motor in back and the trunk up front. While folks opened doors, poked curiously and peered under the hood, Cap went in to pick up his mail. A minute later a fellow came up to him, all out of breath.

"Say, mister," he said to Cap, "better get back to your car. Somebody's opened the hood and stripped your whole darn engine!"

From where I sit, most of us are people of habit—new things take some getting used to. And, too, most of us have "favorites" for which there'll never be a substitute. For instance, my summer Saturday nights are spent on the porch with a refreshing glass of beer and close friends. Now maybe you have a "newer, better" way to spend Saturday. Fine! You do it your way. I'll do it mine. That's American—isn't it?

Michigan's Factories, Farms and Stores Depend on Trucks

Manufacturing, farming, the retail business—all have one thing in common: each needs transportation facilities.

And, since the motor truck provides fast, flexible, direct service unequalled by any other form of transportation, more tonnage is shipped by truck in Michigan each year. (Normally trucks haul more than 3 times as much tonnage as all other systems combined.)

Every truck you see on the road is working—working to help keep Michigan's economy humming, to help keep employment and sales high. There isn't a corner of the State that isn't served daily by trucks. And factories and shopping centers can be located anywhere and be supplied at almost truck service so long as they're on a road.

You see how vital trucks are to Michigan.

PLAN VENTURE BOLDNESS

SUPERVISORS TO MEET IN CHELSEA:

Washtenaw County Supervisors will pretend on May 3 that the County Building in Ann Arbor has been bombed out of existence. They will assemble in Chelsea, the emergency seat of county government.

This will be the county's participation in Operation Alert 1960, a nation-wide Civil Defense exercise to test the capabilities of local government to carry on during an emergency.

The Board of Supervisors voted to take its first active participation in one of the nation-wide operations held every year.

It was so enthused after the speech by Civil Defense Director Gerald G. Miller explained why civilian government will be the main force in rehabilitation of communities after an enemy attack that the board decided not to take per diem pay for the exercise.

"I think this is something that we should be gracious enough about to give our time and be glad to do it," Supr. Donald Silkworth of Ypsilanti Township said.

Saying that the supervisors when they go to Chelsea will be a "government in exile," Miller explained that after an enemy bombing that it will take the state and federal government about 90 days to get extensively reorganized and able to function.

"Civil Defense is Government," Miller said. "If we should lose our ability to govern, all will be chaos." Ypsilanti City Council will be asked by the County Office of Civil Defense to evacuate to Ann Arbor. Ypsilanti is in the area most likely to be hit by an enemy bomb.

The supervisors will not be told in advance at what time of day they should meet in Chelsea, but they are to take their cue from a Conelrad Alert in which all radio and television stations go off the air and all broadcasting is done on the frequencies of 640 and 1240 which will be held for half an hour during the afternoon of May 3rd.

Miller said, "We want to find out how long it takes each supervisor to get there and how many will make it at all." The Chelsea Village Council has offered to let the supervisors use the Chelsea Village meeting building for the exercise.

Miller is beginning at once to hold meetings for all county employees so they can be instructed in phases of the exercise. Department heads at the County Building were to be briefed first.

County Administrator Car. G. Johnson was asked by the board's Civil Defense committee to go to Chelsea in advance of the exercise to find what accommodations would be available for the supervisors if the May 3rd exercise were a real emergency.

The Civil Defense Director also asked a number of the supervisors to be monitors to evaluate how the county carries off the exercise.

A Manchester author's book has been chosen as book of the month in the Mechanical Engineers' Book Club for April. The book, FLUID-POWER CONTROLS was written by John J. Pippinger and Richard M. Koff. The announcement was made by H.W. Buhrow of the McGraw-Hill Book Company Inc. of New York.

Mr. Pippinger is vice-president of Double A Products Co., Manchester and Chief Engineer of the Hydraulics Division of Brown and Sharpe Manufacturing Company. Mr. Koff is Associate Editor of Product Engineering, an industrial magazine.

This is Mr. Pippinger's first book, although he is the author of several articles on industrial hydraulics in Applied Hydraulics and has presented articles and papers before different engineering and professional groups. He is the author of Double A Products Company's training programs in industrial hydraulics.

He is a member of committees presenting papers on special hydraulic fluids and problems with fluid media as well as a member of committees exploring the possibility of standardization of fluid power components. June of this year will mark the completion of twenty-five years in the fluid power industry. He is a senior member of Waterloo Chapter No. 79 American Society of Tool Engineers and First vice-president of National Fluid Power Association.

Born in Huron, Ohio, July 26, 1917, he graduated from Dearborn (Michigan) high school. He's a graduate of the Ford Motor Company Apprentice School and had two years of Accounting and Factory Management in the Walsh Institute in Detroit. He taught industrial hydraulics in War Training Courses for Wayne University for two and a half years. Then for seven and a half years he was with Ford Motor Company, fluid power maintenance and four years with Hydraulic Hi-Speed as Chief Engineer in Detroit. For the past 13 years Mr. Pippinger has been Chief Engineer and vice-president in charge of Hydraulic Division of the Double A Products Company of Manchester.

Mr. and Mrs. Pippinger and their two children live here. Their 14 year old daughter Louise attends Manchester High School and 18 year old Curtis is a student at the Leelanaw School in Glen Arbor.

Mr. Pippinger is very active in civic and church affairs and is member of the village council and has been since 1956. He served for several years a lay-leader at the local Methodist Church of which he is a member.

The local author first came to the limelight locally when Double A Started to publish "delayed Answers" by Johnny Pip. Everyone, from shop workers to engineers read and study the four page bulletin which comes out the 15th of every month. The mailing list includes thousands of interested readers. It may be from this that Johnny first got the idea of compiling into a book much of the information contained in the now famous publication, DELAYED ANSWERS.

At any rate, the book FLUID POWER CONTROL is a practical guidebook on the valves used for fluid-power control. It tells about their construction and operation, their purpose in the hydraulic circuit and how to maintain them for best service.

The full range of valves is covered from simple to complex, including those used in automated machines. The authors also discuss pumps, reservoirs, piping, development of hydraulic circuits and machine repair. The book gives you everything you need to know to put together a workable reliable system that will give first-rate performance with a minimum of maintenance.

The language of the book is plain, simple and down to earth. From it, people are able to develop practical and usable systems for the most effective use of fluid power. Sufficient technical information is given for a sound understanding, without going into abstract theory.

The publishing of Fluid-Power Controls, writing of Delayed Answers, the teaching of classes for the better understanding of the working of hydraulic pumps and valves, engineered by Johnny Pippinger, fits into the pattern of Double A Products Company. For this company, a subsidiary of the Brown and Sharpe Manufacturing Co. of Rhode Island, is a leading manufacturer of valves, pumps, and hydraulic power units. The plants, manufactured products are sold from coast to coast and abroad in several countries. The Manchester Double A merged with the Brown and Sharop Company in December 1957, when it's president, Herbert H. Upton, Sr. foresaw the need for expansion and joined forces with the well known eastern company.

At the moment Johnny is co-authoring and Hydraulic Text Book with Tyler Hicks for college hydraulic courses. Despite his many important business engagements, his writing and civic responsibilities, this quiet, unassuming company vice-president finds time to talk over problems with both workers and engineers alike. Probably this quality has much to do with the success of the book, FLUID POWER CONTROL.

Boaters Lose Sites

JACKSON — Boat and raft owners who swarm Pleasant and Clark Lakes but don't own lake frontage came up against new restrictions Sunday.

Columbia Township posted signs at Clark Lake prohibiting parking of boats on township property along the west side of the lake.

All Pleasant Lake, Harold C. Ripley fenced off access to the lake from his property.

For years these two spots have been launching sites for the public.
