THE STAGGS BALLOT

Manchester village had 2 party tickets voting in the Village Elections, when I became a voter in 1894. The Citizens and Peoples Party. The Citizens party has continued to operate to the present day, but the Peoples party fell by the wayside in 1909. A dozen of us young men organized the young mens party, the reason was the Citizens party was dominated by the Saloon Element of which Manchester had 8 and called the wet party. The Peoples party consisted of the Church going people and called the Dry party. I can recall at some of the Elections in my teen age, the voter was handed a marked ballot on the street and escorted to the polls to see the vote was registered. In those days the Australian system was not known. By the domination of the Wet Element the Peoples party was helpless and seldom elected their candidates. The Young Mens Party was short lived. In 1919 women were given the right to vote. I conceived the idea to have women on our ticket did not make it a young mens party and came to the next caucus to change the name. There was a nice crowd at the caucus and when I suggested to change the name to the Progressive Party I found opposition in my friend Fred Blosser son of the Editor of the Manchester Enterprise. The topic was discussed pro and con. When it was put to a vote the opposition was defeated by 11 votes. At one of the spring elections 2 of my close friends were put on the tickets for 1st councilmen, opposite each other. I had promised each one I would vote for them before the caucus but when they appeared opposite each other on the ballot I was confused and only had one choice. As time went on and still confused I was inspired with a plan which looked plausible. One day I wrote to the secretary of the State at Lansing for an audition which was granted, after some discussion I was told, it was out of his jurisdiction and referred me to the Prosecuting Attorney of Washtenaw County at Ann Arbor.

My hopes began to rise as it gave the approval from Lansing. I then contacted Albert Rapp Prosecutor at Ann Arbor and told him my experience at Lansing. After going over my plan I was told it was out of his jurisdiction and referred me to my council at Manchester. There was no question in my mind when I felt Prosecutor Rapp and was elated to the utmost. At the first village election the plan was put in operation. At first it caused some confusion and a number of ballots were thrown out. You now have a choice from 6 candidates for councilmen and not 3 in the old system. In my 55 years as a commercial salesman and selling in many of the villages from Detroit to Calumet I have the first village to know to use my plan in electing councilmen.

In the past I have known people to speak about the Stagger Ballot at election time and take this opportunity to enlighten the citizen of its origin.

VOLUNTEER FIREMEN ANSWER TWO CALLS: THIRD ONE TOO MANY

Manchester firemen answered two calls Friday just a few minutes apart, but when the third call came their fire fighting equipment was all in use. This was the first time that they can recall of three needing help to fight fires at the same time.

The first was a marsh fire at the farm of Elmer Below on Hashley road, northwest of Manchester. Mr. Below had a permit to burn the marsh but the flames got away from him.

Ten minutes later came a call from the Alton Gehring farm on Bethel church road, northeast of Manchester. A trash fire got away from Mrs. Gehring and straw around an unoccupied house trailer caught fire and the trailer was completely destroyed.

While Manchester rigs were out on those calls, there came the third. A rubbish fire at the Henry Frey farm on West Austin Road six miles west of Manchester also got out of control and threatened a garage and other buildings. Passers-by helped put the spreading fire out before any damage resulted.

TEENAGERS TAKE CAR FROM LOCAL RESIDENT

Three teen-age boys, accused of appropriating two cars—both of which had a low gas supply on a trip to Toledo, were lodged in the Jackson County Juvenile Home Sunday.

The first car, belonging to Cameron Iron Works, 428 Wildwood Ave., was reported stolen from N. Wisner St. and Wildwood Ave. Saturday night or Sunday morning. Clinton State Police found it Sunday morning at Manchester.

Meantime Toledo Police reported a 14 year old boy from Jackson had been picked up. The boy was returned to Jackson where police said he told them he, a 15 year old and another 14 year old took the car Saturday night.

Police said the boys reported running low on gasoline in Manchester and parked the car and found another. The car belonged to Russell Braun of 112 Torrey Street.

They drove this car to a point near Sylvania, Ohio where again gasoline ran low. They abandoned the car in a woods off the highway where horseback riders found the car in the morning. The boys walked to Toledo where they spent the day walking around and looking for jobs in a service station.

HOMEMAKERS' NEWS

The "right" color in a dress can add to a woman's attractiveness. Even though gamut is flattering in the over-all effect can be a total failure if the color is wrong.

A mediocre dress when made up in a becoming color. Eleanor Mullikin, instructor in clothing at Michigan State University, says the color of a costume should compliment a woman's personal coloring.

She suggests a color analysis to discover a woman's "best" colors. For this, makeup is removed, especially all traces of lipstick, so it will not affect the test.

Sitting in front of a mirror in strong daylight, large pieces of material are draped at the throat. It is more fun and more help to work with a friend. She can add to her collection of colored scarves and fabrics, as well as her subjective judgement.

Extend the test to colors not usually worn. Women often exclaim "I can't wear that color" when it is more a personal opinion than a fact.

When making a color analysis, one should note how each color affects the skin, hair and eyes. It is not nearly so important to key color to the eyes as it is to consider its effect on skin and hair, since these are the larger areas. Repeating the eye color in the entire costume is apt to drain them of natural brilliance, and it may prove unpleasant against the skin tones.

Mrs. Mullikin says eye coloring may be accented in small areas of the costume. Skin tones generally are divided into two types—warm and cool. Note the shade of red in the cheeks. If it is an orange-red, the skin color is warm. If it is a blue-red, the skin color is cool.

Women with warm skin and hair coloring look best in warm colors which contain orange. These include brown, rust, beige, apricot and peach. Women with cool skin and hair coloring look best in colors containing blue.

Many women are "intermediate." They may have a blue-type skin and brown hair which is considered warm. These intermediates can usually wear some warm and some cool colors. Not all these colors will look equally well, but these women have a greater variety of good colors from which to choose.

The woman with much yellow in her skin should wear soft colors, avoiding yellow and those colors containing yellow, such as yellow-greens and yellow-oranges.

The person with a florid skin does well to avoid red which emphasizes the red in her face. She should avoid green, the complement of red, because it intensifies the florid look. Neutrals, grayed or softened colors and dark colors are her best choices.

It is a fortunate woman who has a clear, light skin because she can wear a wide variety of colors in clear tones. Only the woman with vivid hair and eye coloring can successfully wear vivid, pure colors in large areas. Vivid colors tend to overpower women with less intense personal coloring.

Light, neutral hair of blonde or gray may look drab against beiges, tans and grays. Some contrast is needed to avoid an "all the same" look. As a general rule, it is best to select a color in a darker value than the skin, or in the case of very light hair, darker than the hair.

Mrs. Mullikin adds that color analysis is not definite for all times. Aging usually changes the hair and skin colors. Sun tanning can influence "best" color choices, with cool pastels and white often rating higher than before.

TO OUR READERS

We are determined to do our best to make the ENTERPRISE THE BEST WEEKLY IN THE COUNTY. And we can do it if we can have a little assistance. We shall double the circulation of our paper if we take our pay in old iron. We want every merchant to lend a helping hand, we want every business man to put forth his energies for us, we want every mechanic, farmer, professional and laboring man to assist us. All can do something. We want every cent that is due us, and we want everybody to carry an ENTERPRISE in their pocket. It is for the INTEREST of the TOWN, and for the INTEREST of the County. We shall go in with our sleeves rolled up, and if we fail it will not be from lack of energy or enterprise. SUBSCRIBE NOW-Now you have a little money to spare, why don't you subscribe for your home paper. Don't think of taking one printed out of town until you have subscribed and paid for your home paper. Assist your home industry by taking the local paper. You can't expect to get as much reading matter from a country paper as you can from a city paper, when they have the columns of daily to select their matter from, but you can get you news at home. You would not think of going to the city for accommodations, if you were in trouble, but to your friends at home. Therefore support and encourage home industry. Will you help us? Now is the time to do your duty. Will you be among the first to subscribe?

HELP US-We wish that the Pastors of the several churches in and about our village would furnish us with marriage and death notices, as they occur. We have so much to do that we often neglect them, and we can scarcely ever ascertain the particulars as well. We should also be obliged to them, and other persons who will furnish us with items of interest as they may see or hear of them.

THE BEST WAY TO ADVERTISE - The best and cheapest way of advertising in the world is that in the newspapers. Every successful advertiser will say this. Seed strewn there if this seed is good for anything always brings up a crop of some value, most general a hundred fold. Placarding the dead walls, and showering hand-bills among the people, are auxiliaries in advertising, but it is doubtful whether, as a rule they more than pay the expense, while there is no doubt that they are a nuisance. The blanket of dead walls is only disfigured by posters, provoking in the well-regulated mind a sense of aversion to the man who so advertises, and the articles upon whose excellences be expatiates; while as to hand-bills, nothing so prejudices a citizen against going to see any show, or buying any goods, as the ugly slips of paper thrust at him from all quarters, eloquently recommending him to do those things.
